ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS.

- Page 3, l. 22,—[śākhaṅgaḷam is a scribe's error for śākaṅgaḷam, leaves, vegetation In l. 23 — dhareyaḷ should be corrected to -bereyaḷ or -iereyaḷ "to associate with" mukṭivyaḷ=bereyaḷ=emḍ=irppam means "waiting to be united to (the bride) Salvation" The verse means that he subjected his body to such hardship as to make people say that it was indeed beyond the power of other ascetics practising austerities to undergo such mortification, etc —Rao Bahadur R. Narasimhāchārya, M A.]
- " 6, verse 6,—'water of aspersions'—Gadduge, or gadduge, is the seat or throne of a Śaiva mendicant, a Jangama, and nīr (nīru?) means 'ashes' Hence dēva-snāna must have the significance of a particular kind of ablution, like bhāṣma-snāna, in which ashes are smeared profusely over the body —H. K. S.
- " 6, " 11,—In the translation "who on seeing him" is to be interpreted as "look ye or behold!", nōdīre being here used as an interjection Māli and Sumāli. If these words have to give rise to the Sanskrit name Suvarṇamahākṣhī, they must perhaps be treated as Kanarese words composed of mā + āli and su + mā + āli. The first means 'the big eye', which in Sanskrit could be rendered into Mahākṣhī. In the second su may stand for suvarṇa, and we thus have the name Suvarṇamahākṣhī. This may seem to be a forced interpretation, but there is no other way of connecting the latter name with Suvarṇamahākṣhī.—H. K. S.
- " " " 18—The marvel indicated in this verse is not clear.—H. K. S.
- " 36, " 34—[for "twelve times" read "ten times"—R. B. R. N.]
- " 41, (ll. 17-24)—In the translation—"horse-sacrifices Śiva and . . Vishṇu" is apparently wrong, since horse-sacrifices are not performed particularly to propitiate the Gods, Śiva and Vishṇu. The division of words in the text ought, in my opinion, to be left just as it stands and requires no correction—adhishṭhita being combined with the following word and Chaturbhujam being separated without change to Chaturbhujā. The meaning then would be: "who owns 84 towns presided over by Śiva and Vishṇu, who is consecrated horse-sacrifices"—H. K. S.
- " 50, trans, verse 15—'So as to be served by the own race' If Lakshmi was already in the lotus of his own race, there is no force in saying that she served him. In the text paṁkha-ruha must be separated from the next following word, and the translation should be "so that the lotus of his own race became an abode of the goddess of Fortune". If sēvyam qualified Āditya-Bhatta, we should have expected the masculine form sēvyaṁ —H. K. S.
- " 51, " ll. 49 to 55,—The translation of ll. 52 and 53, commencing "on which he deducted . . . kanda-ground", is capable of improvement Aladu kanda bhūmi—'land whose extent was found out by measurement' or 'measured land'. The word prabhugaḷge has to be construed with ilki and not with aladu, as Dr Barnett has taken it. So the altered translation would be "and, having (also) given to these gentlemen (the right of) dasavanda at ten in hundred for the extent of land (measured) by the rod according to the gadimba of Huligere, he obtained", etc —H. K. S.

- Page 60, text, l 14,—[read ai=asuranim, aiu refers to the earth, the ocean, and the mountain; and the Asura is Hiranyāksha. The meaning is, 'the ordinary earth, etc., cannot be compared to Erega in weightiness, etc., owing to their defects, but, if there should be another earth etc (without such imperfections), these might be compared to him' —H K S]
- , „ l 17 —[*ai*vide ārpp=Ina-sūru, ārppu= liberality, Ina-sūnu= Karna. His bounty was such that men said Karna was born again —R B R N.]
- , „ ll 21-22 —[The sense of v 12 is "if enemy kings bow down at the feet of Erega, I do not know, but, if they do not bow, Dōna will make them fall so that vultures and the like will pounce upon them.—R B R N.]
- , „ 62, l 38,—[read Manu-muni-mārggan = endū, "that he is one who walks in the way of the saint Manu" —R B R N.]

- , „ 71, l 22,—[correct to mānd-ondudam kolt = aluki. bhṛityatvamanī pāṇdar = endam = elētē. The sense is "when it is said that powerful hostile kings begged for protection, surrendered their strength of arm, offered whatever was asked, and in fear and terror became his servants, will they be able to cross him . . and contend with him in battle?" —R B R N.]
- , „ 71, l 26 —[correct to koliud-ami = irkhe. "let alone his slaying the foes that oppose him, is he not, when enraged, able to terrify?" —R B R N.]
- , „ 71, l 28 —[read ninnōl bidud = edaruvavam = umte, "is he who opposes you possessor of the trident, etc"? ie, is he Śiva? The meaning is that none but Śiva can confront him in battle —R. B R N.]
- , „ 84, l 19 —[read suputīah luḷa dīpala yemsi —R B R N.]
- [Rao Bahadur R Narasimhachārya, who has kindly contributed the above notes which are acknowledged under his initials, further points out that the Kanarese poet Nayasēna of Mulgund, who wrote in 1112 the Dharmāmṛta, was a disciple of Narēndrasēna II of the Lakṣmēśvar inscription of 1081 (above, p 58). Nayasēna mentions among Jain teachers a previous Narēndrasēna, and immediately after him a Nayasēna —L D B.]

- , „ 225, ll 33 4 and p 229, v 2 —[Rao Bahadur R Narasimhachar writes, "the expression hadinēmtu mettina gale, which means 'a pole of eighteen feet' used for measuring, has been misunderstood both by the publisher (sc author) and the editor (p 229)" —L D B.] But, with the following word laṭṭale, which means 'service (in a temple)', the explanation of the Rao Bahadur cannot hold good —H K S]
- , „ 232, text, l 3 —for āiāptim = e (?) tad-dharmma read āiāpti-hētōr=dharmma —F W. T
- , „ 289, 5th line from bottom —for Śāstūāya in column 3 read Śāstrirāya
- , „ 325, line 403 (correctly 404) of the Text,—for Jamnam(ta)-Bhatta read Ananta-Bhatta
- , „ 354, text, l 10 —Markhāla generally occurs as mārkhole or mārkhōvara and means "if opposed" or "opposing" (see line 35 of inscription B). Bhairava was not specially famous as an archer. Hence bhairava is to be taken here in the sense of 'terrible' ie, terrible to the opposing (enemy) —H K S.
- , „ „ l 13 —aras-anha-Rudram must be translated "a Rudra in fighting with kings" —H K S.
- , „ 355 trans., ll 3-16.—"sprung from the race which presides over eighty-four towns and is consecrated in eighteen world-famed horse-sacrifices to (the god of) the Frontal Eye (Śiva)" This translation admits of another interpretation. The text, in that case, is to be transcribed "chatur-usīti-nagar-ādhiṣṭhita-lalāta-lōchanam jagad-vidit-āshvāda-Āśvamedha-dīkṣatu-kula-prasū'ani", and the translation, would then be "who had settled (i.e., consecrated) Śiva (Lalāta-lōchana) in eighty-four towns and was sprung from a race which had performed the eighteen world-famed Āśvamedha sacrifices." Sacrifices performed to please the god Śiva exclusively are rare. He, like other deities, receives only a share in a sacrifice. See above, page 11 and Addenda and Corrigenda thereto —H K S

Page 356, para 2, l 3 —Kīrttiṇa in verse 1 of the Text refers very likely to the hadarala Kīrtti, who is distinctly so called in ll 40, 42, 43 —H K S

" 356, l. 14 from top —Muttalbi means 'great-grandmother' and therefore it is not impossible that the pillar in question was a gift for the merit of Kīrttiyappa's great-grandmother —H K S

" 357 (text), l 14, —el-turug-ādod(d)-ādud The meaning is not what is given in the translation. The passage should be divided el' turu-gādod=ādud "Nay! was it acquired by protecting cows?" Nripa-Mēru, occurring twice in ll 13 and 16 may have been a surname of Chattuga —H K S

" 358, trans, v 2 —"the god giving blessing of glory". —Evidently the translation of Kīrtti-Samhara-dētam should be "the god (Śiva) named Kīrtti-Śamhara." This must have been the name of a shrine in the Madhukēśvara temple or somewhere in its neighbourhood. It is evident that Kīrtti-Śamhara was the name of the Śiva temple built by Kīrttiṇa —H K S

" 360 trans v 17 —The translation ought in my opinion to be — "The fame of the sole over-king of the world increases as each (poet) eulogises him, just as the lotus rises according as the water rises high (in the tank)" —H K. S.

ADDENDUM AND CORRIGENDUM TO VOL. XV.

Page 3, text line 2—For Nṛigatāpha-nāma the facsimile reads nugatāṭṭha-nāma, 'whose name corresponded to its meaning'. Accordingly, cancel in the Index the entry 'Nṛigatāpha, s. a. Kṣhēmanāra' (p. 394). For two similar cases in which misreadings have been taken for proper names see *Ind. " 351, l. 19: verse 22 refers to the ox of Dharma standing upright on its four feet

" 352, ll. 30—31. read Sāmāśvara-bhatta nunn=orege Vēsha-dhāṇigaḷ=hypocrites.

" 353, l. 32 read allu kallāre ballar, i.e., only those who are trained under him know it

" 355, l. 60 correct to dhānya-varggada

" " l. 63 read pamcha-ratnada dibyābhasanada pataradin, pasara=collection, store, shop.

No 1—SOGAL INSCRIPTION OF THE REIGN OF TAILA II SAKA 902

By LIONEL D BARNETT

Sogal is a village in the Parasgad tāluka of Belgaum District, Bombay Presidency. Its ancient name is given in our inscription variously as Soval, Sōlu and Sōl, to this we shall revert anon. It is marked on the Bombay Survey sheet No 305 as in about long $75^{\circ} \frac{1}{2}'$ and lat $15^{\circ} 5'$. The following record is now edited for the first time from ink-impressions prepared for the late Dr Fleet, and now in the British Museum, but I have been unable to discover in what part of the village the original stone was found. The latter bears on its topmost compartment, which is rounded, some sculptures, viz in the centre a shrine surmounted by a spire of the Dravidian order, and in it a linga on its stand, with a priest sitting at the proper right of it, directly below it, a squatting bull, to the proper left of the shrine, a squatting figure of a votary, with clasped hands, facing full front, to the right of it, a cow with suckling calf looking towards it, over it, the sun (on proper right) and moon (on left), flanking both sides of the shrine and meeting over its summit, floral festoons twined so as to form four circles, in which are small figures. Below this is the inscribed area, consisting of three compartments: the first (lines 1-3) is 1 ft $8\frac{1}{2}$ in wide and $2\frac{1}{2}$ in high, the second (lines 4-64) is 2 ft wide and 3 ft $10\frac{1}{2}$ in high, and the third (lines 65-69) is 1 ft 9 in wide and 4 in high. The inscription is on the whole well preserved.—The character is Kanarese, of a rather crabbed type of the period, the letters vary from about $\frac{1}{8}$ in to $\frac{3}{8}$ in in height. The cursive o (above, Vol XII, p 335) occurs in Vri (l 5).—The language is Old Kanarese, except for the formal Sanskrit verses Nos 1, 34, and 35. The l is preserved in l̥du (l 2), negal̥da (l 32 a tribrach), it is changed to r in pogarddam (l 9) and porttum (l 13), and in all other cases it is changed to l. The archaic participle in -om occurs in pratipāl̥s̥idomge (l 58), in what seems to be a quotation from an earlier poem; in the same verse we find ghāt̥s̥idamge Parinat̥ikeye (l 30) and bhūm̥ye (l 52) are instrumentals, see above, Vol XIV, p 277 n. In the words Kamchale-kānteya bitta dharmmamam (l 55) we have what looks like an instance of the use of genitive for nominative (Kittel, Gram, § 352 l, p 393 see my note in Journ R Asiat Soc, 1918, p 105). In Rāghava-dvishana nachchuva (l 18) it is possible to take dvishana similarly as genitive for nominative, but I prefer to regard it as accusative, on which see Dr Fleet's remarks above, Vol XI, p 3. A few words are of lexical interest, viz gadduge (l 12 cf Kashmiri god?), sel̥gu (l 15 apparently a derivative from śalākā), vik̥stu (l 35), rāna (l 41), and vibhōga (l 46).

The record, after prefatory verses (ll 1-5), describes the beauties of the surrounding woods (ll 5-7) and the sanctuary of Suvarnākshī, on which see below (ll 7-16). In this establishment the chief was Tribhuvanasimha Pandita, an eminent ascetic and divine (ll. 16-17). The foundation-legend of the place is told in outline (ll. 17-21). It was established by the kings Mālī and Sumālī at the end of the Trētā Age. The latter gave his name to the place; for the names by which it is designated—Sōlu (ll. 20, 44), Sōl (l. 50), and Soval (l. 54)—are derived from Sumālī (or Saumālā)¹. The poet then introduces us to another distinguished Śaiva doctor, Gangarāśi (ll. 21-24), and to one of his lay disciples, named Kañchikabbe (Kañchiyabbe or Kañchale), of the Dhanaga family, the wife of Kariya Kētimayya and mother of Chatta, a generous benefactress of her church (ll. 24-33). He next devotes a verse (ll. 33-36) to the praises of king Taila, whom he describes as having conquered the Chōla and Lāla (Lāta), and cut off the heads of Ranakambha and Kakkala². The next passage (ll. 36-39) refers the record to Taila's reign, styling him Nūrmadi-Tailapa-dēva, with various titles, on which see Dyn Kanar Distr, p. 428, and then there appears on the scene a Ratta prince named Katta, son of Kantheyabhārada Nannapayya, who at the time was ruling as Taila's viceroy over Kūndī (ll. 39-43). This Katta is identical with Kartavīrya I, on whom see Dyn Kanar Distr, p. 553. The next section (ll. 43-57) is occupied with the dating and specification of the endowment made by Kañchiyabbe for the benefit of the temple of Suvarṇākṣhī and the sāthā or almshouse connected with it, its trustee was Tribhuvanasimha, and it was to be under the protection of the Thirty (heads of households) of Soval. Several hortatory verses (ll. 57-65) clinch the deed of gift: the first is evidently a quotation, as it addresses an otherwise unknown Dēvana Pandita, and the third and fourth narrate the legend of Indra and the Chāṇḍālī. A further verse (ll. 66-67) informs us that the poet who composed our inscription was Kamalāditya [more likely Kavīkamalāditya—Ed], and a final clause stipulates that the cooking at the almshouse must be done by a Brāhmaṇ woman (ll. 67-68).

Mālī and Sumālī, the protagonists of the foundation-legend mentioned above, are the Rākshasas whose history is narrated in the Rāmāyana, VII v ff, and Bhāgavata-purāṇa, VI x 21 and VIII x 56. A clue to the mystery of their appearance in the present legend seems to be afforded by the Brahma-vavarta-purāṇa, III (Ganēśa-lhanda), xviii-xix, which relates that they were devotees of Śiva, and on being smitten by the Sun-god with disease propitiated him by worship. It would therefore seem that the god Suvarṇākṣhī mentioned in our inscription was the Sun-god, worshipped as a phase of Śiva, and this will partly explain the rather obscure verse 18, which refers to his temple.

The date³ is given on ll. 43-44 as Śaka 902, the cyclic year Vikrama; the new-moon day of Āshādha, Sunday, in eclipse of the sun. This is irregular, according to the usual calculation. The tithi mentioned corresponded to Wednesday, 14 July, A D 980, on which it ended at 21 h 7 m after mean sunrise (for Ujjain), and there was no eclipse of the sun. But Mr A. Venkatasubbiah, who has discussed the data in his Some Śaka Dates in Inscriptions, p. 133, remarks: "According to the Ārya and Brahma Siddhāntas the mean-sign Jovian year Vikrama was current at the beginning of Āshādha in Ś 900. On the amāvāsya at the beginning of this Āshādha, 8th June, A D 978, there took place a solar eclipse which was visible in India. The week-day however was Saturday and not Sunday. This Saturday—8th June, A D 978—seems to be the equivalent of the given date."

The places mentioned are Sogal itself, which appears in the form of Sōlu (ll. 20, 44), Sōl (l. 50), and Soval (l. 54), Kūndī (ll. 19, 42), Mārājana (?) Belavādī (l. 28), and

¹ This equation is phonetically unimpeachable, but on other grounds it is not convincing. However that may be, it is clear that the oldest form of the name was Soval. The modern name Sogal is an instance of the change of intervocalic v to g, which, as far as I know, is rare, whereas the reverse change, g to v, is very common.

² See Dyn Kan Distr, p. 426; Ep Ind, Vol XII, p. 144, etc. The names appear also in the forms Kanastambha and Karkara.

³ I have to thank Mr R. Sewell for his kindness in verifying my calculations.

Tēgūr (l 49) On the name and site of Sogal see above For the Kūṇḍi Three-thousand see I A, Vol XXIX, p 278 Belavādi may be "Belwadi" ("Belowuddes" of the old Indian Atlas), which lies in Sāmpgāon tāluḥa, some 9½ miles SSW from Sogal Tēgūr may conceivably be one of two places of that name there is a Tēgūr in Sāmpgāon tāluḥa, some 22 miles SW. from Sogal, and another in Dhārwar tāluḥa, about the same distance SSW from Sogal, but both of them are too far to suit the requirements of our text. The other places cannot be identified

TRANSLATION

(Verse 1) Homage to Śambhu beauteous with the yak-tail fan that is the moon kissing his lofty head, the foundation-column for the beginning of the city of the triple world

(Lines 2-3) Being in the sanctuary of the blessed god Suvarnākshi

(Verse 2) May the god Suvarnākshi, lord of the three worlds, whose wondrous pair of blest lotus-feet is ceaselessly touched by the edges of jewelled diadems of demons, mortals, and celestials, grant us welfare¹

(Verse 3) In this region of the land there is a forest of sal-trees³ resplendent with masses of lotuses, with flowering lakes of water-lilies, with budding mangoes, with blossom-bearing kinds of trees named kosagu,⁴ trumpet-flower,⁵ nēril,⁶ aśōka,⁷ and plantain, with an embellishment (consisting) of cuckoos crying in sweet strains *pugal*⁸

(Verse 4) The sanctuary there, bright with cascades of water, shall procure without delay salvation for votaries worshipping the brilliant lotuses of the feet of the god Śankara-Svayambhu-Suvarnamahākshi, who bears all distinction in this world thus has one who is a shatterer of the conceit of kings of poets praised it

(Verse 5) Tigers listen to the preaching of religion without the stirring of a leaf⁹, rose-ringed parakeets, knowing the chants recited by the stainless holy men because of their constant utterance,¹⁰ sing them by night and by day

(Verse 6) A flock of apes fetches with due honour water of aspersions (^p) for those who are bathing the god hence I know not how to praise (worthily) the severity of their mortification of the flesh

(Verse 7) All the day the cuckoos cry in the woods "sinner, enter not, *pugal*¹¹, man of fierce wrath, enter not, pugal, thou who breakest all duties, enter not, pugal"

(Verse 8) At the four sides of the mount there is a clamour, shaking the hills, of chattering rose-ringed parakeets, of shrilling singing-swans, of murmuring female bees, of maddening parrots¹²

(Verse 9) Look, all the sapful herbs, like a wand giving magical powers on touching the body, bestow the state of a King of Gods, heavenly nymphs feed this family of holy men

(Verse 10) The chief man at the sanctuary within the adepts' domain which is thus described, a celestial tree to dependents, is the great saint Tribhuvanasiṃha, a lion to those elephants the families of foes of the tribes of ascetics

⁴ The Pterospermum acerifolium

⁶ The Eugenia jambolana or Calyptanthus caryophyllata

⁸ One of the notes of the cuckoo's song

(Verse 11) There was a goodly consecration when the Dānavas Māli and Sumāli, who on seeing him became attached to Rāghava's foe, made it, thence arose the adored name of the god Suvarṇamahākṣhi Sumāli's name came to be currently attached to the town On this account how do they praise it within the bounds of the surrounding land of Kūṇḍi !

(Verse 12) The two kings Māli and Sumāli, giving to the god the Thirty of Sōlu in noble freedom, came in the last period of the Trētā Age, a happy era of welfare¹

(Verse 13) Is there not power in ascetics who observe austerities! bravo! Bearing the body without being subject to the inconvenience of physical pain, feeding on the branches of the wilderness, worshipping Umā's Lord, abiding in salvation while nominally on earth, like a bee at the lotus-feet of the god Suvarṇākṣhi is that ascetic the blessed Gangarāśi

(Verse 14) The doctrine of his teaching having entered her ear, with the good thought that the noblest course is to give general largesse to devotees, ascetics, and Brāhmins,—

(Verse 15) A bee to Hara's lotus-feet, free from the influences of deceit, faultless of body, most brilliant in form, stainless in fame, gracious, inspired by religious charity, devoted to gods and preceptors, purifying her good gōtra in these terms the earth abundantly praises at all times Kañchikabbe

(Verse 16) She is (the wife) of the amiable Kēṭimayya, Kari's son, of Mārājana-Belavadi; an ocean of abounding virtues, a Mēru of godliness, who are there that do not praise this Kañchikabbe ?

(Verse 17) Kañchikabbe of the Dhanagas' gōtra, who practises the virtue of beneficence, a gem of matrons, by the perfection of her eminent religious charities is verily one of the highest order of Māhāśvaras on earth

(Verse 18) A double door of Fortune, a column for the Sun's beams, where his rays are freely diffused, it shall indeed abide within the lady Earth for the length of the æon therefore what a marvel it is !

(Verse 19) Of Kañchikabbe, who is thus illustrious, the son is Chatta, a bee to Śiva's two lotus-feet, devoted to saintly men, a treasure to cultured and agreeable men, a grindstone to dire sin

(Line 33) The description of the benefactor

(Verse 20) An axe to that great mountain² the potent Chōla, a lion to those elephants the Lālas, having forsooth the form of a submarine fire to all the oceans (consisting of) ways of fastnesses in the waters, mountains, and forests, he who cut off the head of Ranakambha and Kakkala, a malign meteor portending destruction to foemen's grim lands, an ornament of emperors, is the blest lord of monarchs Taila

(Lines 36-39) When the victorious reign of—hail!—the asylum of the whole world, favorite of Fortune and Earth, great Emperor, supreme Lord, supreme Master, ornament of Satyāśraya's race, embellishment of the Chālukyas, the Emperor strong of arm Nūrmadi Tailapa-dēva, was advancing in a course of successively increasing prosperity, (to endure) as long as moon, sun, and stars —

(Line 39) One who finds sustenance at his lotus feet—

(Verse 21) A son of prince Kantheyabhārada Nannapayya, a sword for arms skilled in defence of that lord of men the Emperor, destroying devices of foes, ornament of the Raṭṭa race, crushing the pride of other monarchs, a lord pure of fame, a treasure of discretion, is the elder son named king Katta.

² A play on words maḥidhara means both "mountain" and "king"

(Verse 22) He is the exalted ruler of the circle of land of Kūṇḍī, a thunderbolt-stroke to the whole crowd of those mountains his adversaries, king Katta, wearing the form of the Love-god on earth

(Lines 43-46) Hail ! On Sunday, the new-moon day of Āshāḍha in the cyclic year Vikrama, the 902nd (year) of the Śaka era, on the occasion of an eclipse of the sun, Dhana-gara Kañchīyabbe, giving to the seigniors and the Thirty of Sōlu land for an establishment, laved the feet of Tribhuvanasinga Pandita and granted 500 hamma for the supply of food to the ascetics observing austerities in the sanctuary of the god Suvarṇākṣhi

(Verse 23) Out of this, one hundred hamma shall be effectively applied in due manner for the personal enjoyment of the Moon-bearer [Śiva] for as long as the moon, ocean, stars, and heavens endure

(Verse 24) Verily a fruit leading to the salvation of most excellent holy men are these five-hundred hamma hence they, together with one dwelling-house, are immune from all conflicting claims

(Verse 25) The estate of the almshouse situate to the south of the (Quarter of the) Barbers, east of the special estate of Ākar Gāvundar, north of the field of Tāgūr on the west of (is as follows)

(Verse 26) Those excellent men the chiefs of the Thirty of Sōlī, having measured out by the span forty-six as a special (estate) and caused it to be prepared, shall give six-hundred hamma

(Verse 27) To the north of the road by which one walks within the land¹ between the (Quarters of the) Barbers and the Washermen, to the south of the god's tank, is the building of the almshouse for the ascetics of the god

(Line 53) Of this house the length is to be twelve cubits and the width eight

(Verse 28) . in the multitude of their virtues the leading Thirty of Soval, they who are pure of body, valiant, supremely generous, free of desire to dependents, shall preserve the pious foundation granted by the lady Kañchale, that treasure of bounty, as if it were of their own estate, so long as this earth and sun exist

(Verse 29) The priors of the establishment and the town jointly shall protect (the foundation), if princes do harm, if the town harm it, the prior of the establishment shall protect it, if the head of the establishment do harm, the Thirty shall protect it

(Verse 30) For him who injures the pious foundation serving for the salvation of holy men which purifies the earth² (there shall be) a state of misery, for him who preserves it, a most exalted condition caused by the effect of his merit, a state of happiness, a condition of felicity, increase, and success, states of great reputation these, these are inevitable, O thou eminent scholar Dēvana

(Verse 31) The great guilt of slaying a thousand kine, two thousand Brāhmins, (and) a crore of holy men will accrue to the deadly sinner who injures a pious foundation (established) by edict

(Verse 32) On seeing how the Chāṇḍāla woman, having mixed dog's flesh in a human skull and poured (over it) toddy, was covering it with a leather shoe at the time while cooking it, Indra questioned her (as to the reason for covering it)³

² Apparently an inverted baḥu vrīhi, see Pāṇini II. 4. 37

³ On this legend see Ep. Carn., Vol. 1, introd., p. 31, and ib. TN. 63.

(Verse 33) (She answered that her food was) unfit to eat, if touched by dust from the feet of the sinner who should have appropriated the estates of gods and Brāhmaṇas hence are any more degraded than he who infringes a god's estate ?

(Verses 34-35 two common Sanskrit formulæ)

(Verse 36) So long as the earth, the ocean, the celestial mountain, the abode of the sky, the sun and moon exist, may this pious foundation, whereof the versified regulations have been composed by Kamalāditya, poet of edicts, continue in effect

(Lines 67-68) For the alms-house, in which jointly the town and the prior of the establishment shall religiously maintain in operation this pious foundation, a Brāhmaṇ woman shall be the cook Happiness ! great fortune !

NO 2—MAHOBA PLATES OF PARAMARDI-DEVA (VIKRAMA-)SAMVAT 1230

BY RAI BAHADUR HIRALAL, B A, JUBBULPORE

These copper-plates were found in the well-known Mahobā town of the Hamirpur District in the United Provinces of Agra and Ondh, while digging for earth to build a house. They were deposited in a stone chest about 30' below the surface. The two plates were strung together with a ring having a seal, which the finder took for a lock and broke. From the figure of Gaja-Lakshmi (Goddess of Wealth) in the middle of the first four top lines it was inferred that the record dealt with some hidden treasure, for which a search was strenuously made, of course to no effect. A few Sanskritists were then taken into confidence to find out the contents of the record, with a view to locating the exact spot of the treasure trove, but, as none could decipher it, it was decided, with great reluctance, hesitation and misgivings, to seek the aid of an epigraphist, and the choice fell on me. The record was therefore sent to me in charge of a Pandit confidant, who on my telling the contents declared that he had at the time of starting made astrological calculations and had already come to the conclusion that his efforts were to end in disappointment. These plates have thus had a very narrow escape from a perpetuation of the internment which they have undergone for the past three years after their actual discovery.

The plates measure 13" x 10" and weigh 272 toḷas, or a little less than 7 lbs. The rims are bordered with separate copper strips about a quarter of an inch in breadth, secured with nails. Only one strip of the second plate has disappeared. Having been deposited underground for centuries, the plates were naturally covered with green verdigris, but on cleaning them the record was found in a good state of preservation. The language of the text is Sanskrit. Altogether 33 lines are engraved with letters belonging to the northern class of Nāgarī alphabets, their average size being half an inch. The record is clearly written, but the engraving is not altogether faultless, as some strokes or limbs of letters have been omitted, for instance, in line 16 कृ is engraved as कृ, where sh is turned into p by the omission of the inside stroke which distinguishes the two letters. Similarly in line 26 we find विहङ्ग for विहङ्ग, the distinguishing hind stroke of ha being left out. There are several such slips. The last portion of line 30 was so carelessly written that it had to be re-engraved. There is very little difference in the formation of va, dha, ra and cha, so that one can be mistaken for the other. Ba is not at all distinguished from va. There are also some spelling mistakes, which will be found corrected in foot-notes. The writing is, however, bold and well executed by one Pālhana, who carved the Semrā plates¹ some seven years previous to this record.

He then called himself a pīṭalāhāra, or brass-worker, corresponding to the present-day tamerā (tāmraḥāra). Five years later he called himself śilpīn (artist), and two years' further experience of this sort of work developed him into a viṣṇāntin (skilful artist), a title which he has prefixed to his name in our record, though a comparison with the Semrā plates does not indicate any marked improvement either in the formation of letters or in accuracy of spelling. The composer of the record was one Prithvidhara, a Vāstavya Kūyastha, the same¹ who wrote the Semrā and Ichchhawār plates, with which the phraseology of our record in formal portions exactly corresponds. The scribe appears to have belonged to the same family which furnished a Counsellor and Chamberlain to the king referred to in our record and of which a later representative governed the fort of Ajaiagarh, while another became the Superintendent of king Bhojavarman's Treasury.²

Our tāmrapaṭṭa, as it is named at the end, records the grant of some land in Dhanaura village, included in the Ērachha District, to one Ratanaśarman Brāhman, son of Vihlō Drivēdin, grandson of Chhīngala and great-grandson of Yaśah of the Śāṅkṛitya gōtra, who had come from what reads as Phandiya-Bhatta-āgiabhāra, by the Chandīātrōya or Chandella king Paramardi-dēva, Lord of Kālāñjar. The grant was made on Tuesday the 4th day of the dark fortnight of Māgha in the Vikrama-Samvat 1230, which regularly corresponds to Tuesday the 25th December 1173 A D,³ when the donor was encamped at a village named Gahilū. The day was a holy one, the sun having entered the zodiacal sign Makara on that date. The king, having bathed with water brought from holy places, worshipped the Sun and the lord of Bhavāni (i.e. Śiva) and duly made the gift.

The record gives no information concerning the Chandella dynasty which is not already known. It mentions four ancestors of the donor, viz — Madanavarman-dēva, Prithvivarmadēva, and the two heroes Jayaśakti and Vijayaśakti, who are regarded as the real founders of the Chandella dynasty and who gave their names to the Chandella kingdom, as Jōjūka-bhuktī, latterly corrupted into Jajhauri. The first king of this dynasty is said to have been Nannuka, grandfather of Jaya and Vijaya. To him is ascribed a date about 830 A D, and from numerous epigraphs it is clear that his descendants continued to rule with extended kingdom down to 1286 A D, when Bhōjavarman, the 21st king in the line, was on the throne. The successor of Bhōjavarman is not known, but from a Satī record⁴ which I found in a village named Bamhni of the Damoh District it appears that the last king of this dynasty was Hammiravarman-dēva, who apparently held sway until 1309 A D. The Bamhni record is dated in Samvat 1365,

² Ep. Ind., Vol. I, pp. 331 et seq.

³ Dewan Bahadur Swamikannu Pillay, M.A., LL.B., I.S.O., has since kindly verified the date and found it correct.

⁴ This record was found just three weeks after the Mahabū plates were brought to me, it reads as follows —

परमेश्वरकेषाधिराजवलीचयोपेत काली-

संवत् १२६५ समवे महाराजपुत्र श्री वा-

माने () ब्रह्मणीयामे भूमिपुत्र

पालङ्गण मर्जा मल्लै सतम ह्युसीधि

पुत्र नामे पटुमणकचा प जैपाल लिखितोक्ति

The writer Pandit Jayapāl, who composed the record, was apparently a village Pandit with a smattering of Sanskrit, so that he could neither compose nor spell correctly, but he has succeeded in expressing what he intended to record.

or A D 1308 At that time portions of the Damoh and Jubbulpore Districts were governed by a Mahārāja-putra Vāghadēva with head-quarters at Singorgarh in the Damoh District He appears to have been a Parihār¹ Chief who had accepted the supremacy of Chandella kings In a village named Salayā, 3 miles from Bamhni, there are two Sati records,² one dated in A D 1304 and the other in A D 1309, the former erected during the reign of Vāghadēva and the latter in that of Alā ud-dīn, indicating that the Parihār Chandella rule had come to an end in A D 1310, through the Muhammadan invasion We know from other sources that it was about this time that Alā-ud-dīn sent to the Deccan his army, which established a footing in Bundelkhand, ousting the previous dynasties

With regard to the geographical names, Ērachha is the well-known Erach on the Betwa river, which gave its name to the surrounding district It is about 60 miles from Mahobā The village Dhanaurā, from which grants were made, is represented by a village of the same name, with its final vowel lengthened The present village Dhanaurā is 11 miles from Ērachha. Gahilū, where the king was encamped, is apparently Gahuli, about 10 miles north of Dhanaurā I cannot trace the village from which the family of the donee had originally come As the grant refers to pieces of land and not to the whole village, the boundaries are described by local nālās, ponds and fields, which it is now fruitless to trace

जमाने ततकाल कायस्थ प अत्पार (२) (घा) वृद्ध यथा न-
मंटा तीर्थे प्रसति तीर्थिन (२) ग्रामे समाह्वने
जगन्मय उग्रत माघ वदि १३ सुक्र

Mark the word प्रतिहार in the first line and compare the tradition that Parihār kings ruled in Singorgarh, as recorded by General Cunningham in his Archeological Report, Vol IX, p 49 Also see Hiralal's Damoh Dipaka (Damoh District Gazetteer in Hindi), pp 108 and 109 It may be noted here that Pātan, where the present record exists, is only 20 miles from Singorgarh The date of the record regularly corresponds to Friday, the 15th February, 1303 A D, as calculated by Dewan Bahadur S K Pillay

सवत १३६२ समये चैत्र

म कीति पालये प० कैपाल
लिखितोति भडमानो
श्री लउटनान्वे गदीलि

The date of the record regularly corresponds to Monday, the 9th March, 1304 A D

सवत १३६६ समये अलयदीन सुताना राज्य वलिअखिट ग्रामे

Both the stones are put on the borders of a deserted village, urnaiya kheda, which is identical with Baliakheta of the above-quoted inscriptions

That Vāgha dēva's rule subsisted till Samvat 1366 is apparent from a Sati record of that year, found at Singorgarh itself (See Damoh Dipaka, p 109)

⁷ Apparently a vādhā of land had a seed capacity of one prastha only.

³ This phrase also occurs in the Semrā plates (Ep Ind, Vol IV, facing p 167) and was read by Dr. Cartellieri as सर्वाशनेष्टुकर्पासकुशमधूकादि (Ibid, p 169) and corrected as सर्वासनेष्टुकर्पासकुशमधूकादि He translated it as "asanas, shoots of sugar-cane, hemp, mangoes, madhukas and so forth" (Ibid, p 168) The correct interpretation is "sāl (Shorea robusta), sugar-cane, cotton tree, hemp and mahua (Bassia latifolia)," to which our inscription adds kusuma (Schleichera trijuga), which produces most valuable lac It would appear that the trees or plants mentioned are those which produced most valuable articles, sāl giving the best timber for buildings, sugar-cane materials for manufacture of sugar, cotton tree for cotton, sāna or hemp for ropes, and mahua for food, oil and liquor What seem to be omitted are poppy and gañja plants, which might have been associated with mahua, though the latter's importance is so great that none others can claim a mention on anything approaching an equality to it The Indian Forester (June 1917) remarks "Truly the mahua among the forest trees stands equally for idealism and utilitarianism In the mahua flowers exists acetic acid, and acetone is one of the primary ingredients of cordite, the chief explosive used in the guns which are thundering on different battle fronts in Europe"

⁴ In the Semrā plates (Ep Ind, Vol, IV, facing p 167) the phrase reads as सवनमृगविनिमनान्, which Dr Cartellieri read as सवनमृगविनिमनान् (Ibid, p 169), but it seems clear that what was intended to be written was सवनखनिनिमनान् (together with forests, mines and hollows)

ABSTRACT.

(Ll 1-2) Victory to the moon, the progenitor of the Chandrātrēya family of kings

(Ll 2-6) Victorious is the king Paramardī-dēva, Lord of Kālāñjara, who meditates on the feet of Madanavarma-dēva, who meditates on the feet of Prithvivarma-dēva, born in the family of the heroes Jayaśakti and Vijayaśakti

(Ll 7-8) His valour harasses his enemies He protects the earth as if she were a noble lady, and his wisdom is purified with discrimination

(Ll 8-23) Having called the Brahmans, headmen and other officers of the village Dhanaura in the District of Ērachha, he states that in that village land measuring 10 × 6 or 60 square vādhas cultivable by five ploughs, and bounded on the east by the nālā belonging to the barber, on the south by a nālā, on the west by the embankment of the Bhatahada tank, on the north by a Brahman's land and tank embankment, and also a square of 52 cubits of land for a dwelling-place, has been given by him at Camp Gahilū to Pandit Ratanaśarman (whose forefathers had come from Phodiva-Bhatta-āgrahāra) on a Tuesday the 4th of the dark fortnight of Māgha in Vikrama Samvat 1230, when the sun had entered the zodiacal sign Makara

(Ll 23-28) Therefore the donee should be obeyed, and cattle, gold and taxes, etc., should be paid to him and no molestation caused by anybody in the enjoyment of land given along with the temple and mansion, with the rights of easement, with trees, such as sāl, sugar-cane, cotton tree, husum, hemp, mango, madhūka, etc., with forests, mines, hollows and quarries of iron, etc., with animals, deer and birds, aquatic or otherwise, and other objects within the boundaries.

Shorkot Inscription of the year 83.

(Ll 28-30) Moreover the rights of the king, state officers, forest tribes, soldiers, etc., shall cease and the future kings shall protect this gift as inalienable

(Ll 30-31) Here follows a common admonitory verse

(Ll 31-33) Given under his own hand by the illustrious Paramardi-dēva. Composed by Prithvidhara of a family resident in the village and carved by Pālhana

No 3—SHORKOT INSCRIPTION OF THE YEAR 83¹

By J PH VOGEL, PH D.

This inscription is engraved round the shoulder of a copper cauldron, found together with about a dozen other utensils at Shōrkōt in the Panjāb on the 8th September 1906

The size of the letters may be defined as follows —Simple aksharas measure from $\frac{1}{4}$ in, to $\frac{3}{8}$ in in height, and ligatures (including vowel marks) average about 1 in

TRANSLATION

"In the year 83, in [the month] Māgha, the bright fortnight, the fifth day, dedicated by the vaiyābrityakara Buddhadāsa to the universal congregation of friars of the Sarvāstivādin sect at the Rādhika Convent in the park of Śibipura "

Notwithstanding its brevity, this epigraph presents several points of interest. As regards its date—the first point to be discussed—there prevails some uncertainty owing to the circumstance of the era to which it refers not being specified. We have, therefore, to choose between the following three possibilities: first, the date refers to the reign of some ruler, second, it refers to the Lōkakāla or Saptarshi era, third, it refers to the Gupta era.

The first assumption may be safely discarded, because, firstly, no king's name is mentioned, and, secondly, the year 83 would point to a reign of almost incredible length.

That in the Shōrkōt inscription the Lōkakāla should have been employed seems also very unlikely, as long as there is no proof forthcoming of this era having been used as extensively in the Plains of the Panjāb as we know was the case in the Hills. We are consequently led to assume that the era used in this inscription is the Gupta era—an assumption which fits best with the palaeographical evidence. As the initial year of this era must have corresponded to the period from the 9th March A D 319, to the 25th February A D 320,² the date of our inscription, if referred thereto, must have fallen about the beginning of the Christian year 403. Now it will be seen that the character used agrees most closely with that found in Gupta inscriptions of the 5th century of our era. Special attention may be drawn to the peculiar shape of the aksharas ma and sa. On account of the script it is out of the question that any other known era can have been used here.

The chronological question having thus been satisfactorily settled, we must turn our attention to the word following the date, which I read vaiyābrityakara. It will be noticed that the four aksharas brityakara are perfectly plain. The akshara preceding br has the appearance of a ligature of which the second component is ya, it may perhaps be read ya. Between this character and the figure indicating the day there is an open space; apparently one or two aksharas have been effaced. Now as the word under discussion is immediately followed by the donor's name Buddhadāsa, there can be little doubt that the syllable ti has been lost and that we are justified in reading vaiyābrityakara. This ti occurs in Sanskrit writings of the Buddhists in the two forms vaiyābrityakara and vaiyāprityakara, the latter being the correct one¹. The word corresponds to the Pali veyyāvachchakara, meaning "one who does business or executes a commission for another, an agent"². I suspect, however, that in the Shōrkōt inscription it has a more restricted meaning and may denote some functionary—either bhikkhu or upāsaka—in connection with a Buddhist monastery. I am led to this assumption not only by the position of the word in the inscription, but also by the connection in which it occurs in the Mahāvīyutpatti, where it immediately follows *nāṭṭam*³. As I am unable to define its meaning more precisely, I have chosen in my version of the inscription to leave it untranslated.

A point of special interest for the topography of the Panjāb is the mention of Śibi-pura, from which we may infer that the mound of Shōrkōt marks the site of the capital of the Śibi, a well-known tribe of ancient India. The Śibi rājā who bestowed his eyes upon a blind Brahman and gave away his own flesh to ransom a dove from a hawk is celebrated as the paragon of charity and self-sacrifice in both Brahmanical and Buddhist legend. The Śibi tribe is repeatedly mentioned in the Mahābhārata; but these references do not enable us to decide on the geographical position which they occupied beyond that they lived somewhere in the western region. In the course of the conquest of the world (dig-vijaya) ascribed to the Pāṇḍavas it is related that Nakula, the fourth of the five brothers, while engaged in subduing the western region, overcame the Śibi, Trigarta, Ambashtha, Mālavya and Pañchakertapa⁴. It should be remembered that the Trigarta country corresponds to the Kangrā Valley.

A famous episode⁵ of the great epic relates how Jayadratha, the king of Sindhu, attempts to carry off Draupadī, the common spouse of the five Pāṇḍavas. Here the Śibis are mentioned as a tribe dependent on Sindhu.

Among the tribes of the Panjāb subdued by Alexander, the Greek authors mention the Siboi, in whom Lassen has recognized the Śibi of Indian literature⁶. Owing to the circumstance that they were armed with maces and wore skins of animals for clothing, the Greeks took them to be descendants of Herakles and his companions. Arrian somewhat vaguely locates them in the country between the Indus and Akeshes (i.e. the Chandiabhāgā or Chināb), but according to Curtius they were situated not very far from the confluence of the Hydaspes (i.e. the Vitastā, modern Jehlam) and the Akesines. This agrees very nearly with the position of Shōrkōt.

Sir Alexander Cunningham¹ in his account of Shōrkōt notes that according to the local Brāhmins "the original name of the place was Shivanagar or Sheopur, which was gradually contracted to Shor". Thus we see that some reminiscence of the ancient name has been preserved down to the present day. In its correct form, Śībipura, we find it in the inscription here under discussion. The ancient name Śībipura has become contracted to the modern form Shēr, to which the word kōt (=a fort) has been added in the same way as has happened with the names of other towns of the Panjāb. Well-known instances are Sīāl-kōt (in which Sīāl is probably derived from Sāgala), Pathān-kōt (Pathān probably from Pratishthāna) and Nagar-kōt (in which Nagar means "the Town").

It further appears from the inscription that the spot where the metal vessels were found more definitely marks the site of the Rādhika Convent, which must have been situated in a park (upavana). Most probably this convent stood outside the walled city, as was usual in the case of Buddhist monasteries in India.

Finally it should be noticed that the Shōrkōt inscription confirms the prevalence of the Sarvāstivāda sect in the north-west of India. Several other epigraphical records bear testimony to the importance of the sect: one of them is the inscription on the famous relic casket of Kanishka discovered at Shāh-jī-ki-Dheri near Peshāwar in March 1909². From the accounts of the Chinese pilgrims it is, moreover, evident that the influence of the Sarvāstivādins was by no means restricted to this part of India. While discussing the data supplied by the Chinese pilgrim I-tsing regarding the geographical extension of this school, Professor Takakusu remarks³: "It flourished in Central and North India, and had some followers in East and West India, but it seems to have had very few adherents in South India, and was entirely absent in Ceylon. In Sumatra, Java, and the neighbouring islands almost all belonged to this school, and in China all the four sub-divisions of it were flourishing. Even in Champa a trace of it was found. No other school, so far as we can ascertain, ever flourished so widely as the Sarvāstivāda, either before or after the seventh century, though its adherents in India alone, in Hsuen Tsiang's time, were not so numerous as those of the other schools."

No 4—BHAMODRA MOHOTA PLATE OF DRONASIMHA THE YEAR 183.

By LIONEL D. BARNETT

The following inscription was originally published by Mr A. M. T. Jackson in the Journal of the Bombay Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society, Vol. XX, No. LIV, pp. 1 ff, but without any facsimile. At the instance of the late Dr Fleet Mr D. R. Bhandarkar kindly sent me an excellent ink-impression, from which I now publish the text anew, together with a plate.

Mr Jackson reports that the plate containing the present inscription, together with another charter, was found "buried in a field in the village of Bhamodra Mohota near Bhaunagar⁴ in the year 1895," and was acquired by Mr L. Procter Sims, engineer of Bhaunagar State. It is slightly irregular in shape: the maximum height is $6\frac{1}{2}$ in, the maximum breadth

³ I-tsing, A record of the Buddhist religion, transl. by J. Takakusu, Oxford, 1896, p. XXII.

⁴ The only village with the name of Bhamodra that I can trace is some distance from Bhaunagar. It lies 16 miles nearly east from Kundla, in lat $21^{\circ} 23'$ and long $71^{\circ} 37'$.

1 ft 2 in It is in perfect preservation —The character is similar to that of other plates of the same locality and period, but is more angular, as will be seen by comparison with eg the five grants published in Vol XI of this journal, pp 104 ff, and notably with No IV, pp 114 ff¹ The jīhvāmūliya sign is found in Drōnasimha (l 1) and pradīśatah (ll 6 7), the upadh-māniya in bhagavatyaḥ (l 3) and mātā-pitrōh (l 3). Twice, in anumōdōyur (sic¹), l 7, and mōdati, l 9, we find an archaic type of ō attached to m, while elsewhere the ordinary form of the vowel is used The numerals for 100, 80, 3, 10, and 5 occur on l 11 —The language is Sanskrit, it is prose, except for the three formal verses in ll 9-10 The spelling -sthitīyā (l 6) may be noticed cf Pāṇini VIII iv 47, Siddhānta-kaumudī 48. On the spelling of the word Pāndurājyāyāḥ in l 3, where yy apparently stands for y, compare Dr Konow's remarks above, Vol XI, p 105 The short i of Shashthidatta (l 11) may be justified by Pāṇini, VI iii 63 The grammar of ll 5-7 is very irregular, and the blame for this should probably rest with the official who drafted the document

The purpose of the grant is to record an endowment by the Mahārāja Drōnasimha of Valabhī (l 1), who made over for the cult of the goddess Pāndurājā (?) in the Hastavaprāharanī (l 3) the village of Trisangamaka (l 5) It bears the signature of Bhīruvaka, the dēvī-karmāntika or intendant of the estate of the goddess (l 11) and was drafted in fair copy by Kumārila-patīka (?), son of Shashthidatta (l 11) Drōnasimha was the second son of Bhatārka, the founder of the Maṭraka dynasty of Valabhī, on this subject it suffices to refer to the remarks of Messrs Jackson (in loco) and Smith (Early History of India, 2nd edn, p 314)

The date is given on l 11 as Samvat 183, the 15th day of the bright fortnight of Śrāvana. If we take this as denoting the current year of the Valabhī era, the tithi mentioned must correspond to Monday, 18 July, A D 501, on which day it ended about 8 h 26 m after mean sunrise But, as Mr Sewell has pointed out to me, it may possibly denote an expired year, corresponding to A D 502 in that year there was an intercalated Śrāvana, and hence, if the tithi mentioned refers to this intercalated Śrāvana, it must have been current at sunrise on Saturday, 6 July, A D 502, while, if we refer it to the nīya Śrāvana of the same year, it must be connected with Sunday, 4 August, A D 502

The only places mentioned are Valabhī (l 1), the Hastavaprāharanī (l 3), and Trisangamaka (l 5) Valabhī is the modern Walā, in Kathiāwār Hastavapra is now Hāthab, 6 miles south of Gōghā, in Bhannagar State, on this I may refer to Dr Konow's remarks above, Vol XI, p 106 Trisangamaka has been identified by Mr Jackson with Tarsamā, near Hāthab

No 5 —THE ANDHAU INSCRIPTIONS OF THE TIME OF RUDRADAMAN

BY R D BANERJI, M A

In January 1906 Mr D R Bhandarkar, M A, Carmichael Professor of Ancient Indian History and Culture in the University of Calcutta, then Assistant Superintendent, Archaeological Survey, Western Circle, discovered six stone inscriptions "at Bhuj in the stores of the Engineering Department, near the palace."⁹ These inscriptions were originally found "at Andhau in Khāvdā, also called Pachchham They were standing there as monuments on a hillock, but were removed to Bhuj by the late Dewān Ranchhodhbhai Udairām, who was very keen on antiquarian matters"¹⁰ In 1906 Mr Bhandarkar found that "these stone inscriptions are much weather-worn and would not yield any satisfactory estampages" In December 1914 Mr Bhandarkar visited Bhuj with Mr K N Dikshit, M A, then Archaeological Assistant to the Prince of Wales Museum of Western India, Bombay, and re-examined the inscriptions In his annual report for the Western Circle for the year ending 31st March 1915 Mr Bhandarkar states that "the stones were no doubt seen by me nine years ago, when I first visited Cutch But then I had no time to decipher the inscriptions The letters were so curiously weather-worn that they do not yield even passable estampages, but it is possible to prepare satisfactory transcripts from originals. Last time I had not sufficient time to make these transcripts, and had to content myself with very brief account, indeed, of them"¹ In another part of the same report Mr D R Bhandarkar published short summaries of the contents of these inscriptions. I visited Cutch in April 1919 and had the good fortune to transcribe all the records from the originals. Though they are in varying stages of imperfect preservation, I found that, with the exception of one, they yielded tolerably good impressions, which are reproduced with this article.

In all there are six stone inscriptions in the Fergusson Museum at Bhuj, of which five are records of the second dynasty of the Satraps of Saurashtra, i.e. of the family of Chāshtana, and the remaining one a fragment of an inscription of the fifth and sixth century A.D. Four of the inscriptions belong to the reign of Rudradāman and were incised in the year 52 of the era used in the inscriptions and coins of the Satraps of Saurashtra, while the fifth belongs to the reign of the Mahā-Kshatrpa Rudrasimha I, and was incised in the year 114 of the same era. The fifth inscription of the time of Rudradāman, mentioned by Mr Bhandarkar in the last lines of paragraph 15, Part II (b), of his Annual Report for the year 1914-15, appears to be still in situ.

The inscriptions of the time of Rudradāman of the year 52 which are here edited are those which were brought to Bhuj from Andhan by the late Ranchhodhbhai Udairam, formerly Dewār of Cutch. These inscriptions repose on a number of wooden platforms and have been placed under the grand staircase of the Fergusson Museum at Bhuj. Mr. Bhandarkar has recently referred to them in a note on his article on "Deccan of the Sātavāhana period."

Andhan, or Andhou, is a very small village close to Kheveda, or Pachham, in the Cutch State. It is situated in Lat 23° 46' 10", Long 69° 53' 55". The site where the records were discovered is described by Mr Bhandarkar as a hillock. Mr K N Dikshit of the Archaeological Survey is the only trained archaeologist who seems to have visited the site, but no notes or description have been published by him as yet.

The records are incised on long narrow slabs of stone, and in the majority of cases the inscriptions are incised lengthwise. The material is hard stone, which has suffered very much from corrosion with a singular effect. In certain cases the bottoms of incisions made by the mason while chiselling the record remain intact on the stone, whereas the sides of the incision and the surrounding uninscribed portions of the stone have disappeared. The effect produced by this action is to make one believe at first sight that some letters of one record were cut in relief, while the rest were incised. The inscribed surfaces of the stones are uneven, and it is apparent that the mason did not take the trouble to make them smooth before incising the letters.

All four inscriptions refer themselves to the reign of the king (Rājan) Rudradāman, son of Jayadāman. His name is immediately preceded by that of his grandfather Chāshtana, son of Ysāmōtika, but no term indicating the relationship between Rudradāman and Chāshtana is employed in any of the four records. All the records were incised on the same date, i.e. the year 52, the second day of the dark half of Phāguna (Phālguna). In three out of the four inscriptions the year of the date is expressed both in words and in figures, while in the fourth it is given in figures only. The day of the month is in all four expressed both in words and in figures consisting of two symbols. The first symbol² has been read by Prof. Luders as 15, so far the symbol for 15 has not been met with in published inscriptions or MSS of this period, but Dr Luders may have found it in one of the Khotan MSS. The symbol consists of the akṣhara ra, from the upper part of which a horizontal straight line is produced towards the right for a short distance. From the right extremity of this another straight line, vertical and longer than ra is produced downwards. This symbol looks very much like the proto-Nāgarī consonant ga.

² Prof. D. R. Bhandarkar of the University of Calcutta has accepted Dr Luders' reading of this symbol in a foot note to his article on the 'Sātavāhana period', J. A., Vol. XLVII, p. 154, n. 26

It is difficult to understand why the symbol for 15 should be used in this inscription, because it mentions the lunar tithi. I am inclined to think that the syllable represents Bahula and not 15. Immediately after this we have two short horizontal strokes denoting 2. The year should be referred to the Śaka era of 78 A.D., and the dates are, therefore, equal to 130 A.D.

The language of the inscriptions is Prākṛit, and the letters belong to the northern variety of the Indian alphabet of the first or second century A.D. The palaeography calls for some remarks, as the alphabet shows archaisms when compared with that of the Junāgadh inscription of Rudradāman. With the exception of u, ri and o, no vowel occurs in its initial form. U in uthāpita occurs in all the records in the last line. Ri occurs twice, once in inscription B in the word Rishabhadevasa (l. 5) and once again in inscription D in the same word (l. 3). The initial form of o is to be found in A, B and D in the word Opaśati. The medial forms of vowels do not call for remarks with the exception of u in ga in Phaguna which is certainly earlier than the forms in the Junāgadh inscription of Rudradāman, cf. Bühler's Indische Palaeographie, Table II 9 VI. The rare medial i occurs in Sihamita (C, l. 2), Siḥila (A, l. 3, B, l. 6; and C, l. 3) and in īrāye (A, l. 2). Among consonants ka does not show any curvature in its lowest extremity, except once in Ysāmōtika (B, l. 1), ja shows two different forms, (1) with a curved back and (2) with a straight back. Na occurs in conjunction with ja in rājño. Ta also is found only once, in kutubiniye (C, l. 3). It occurs conjointly with sha in Chāshṭana (ABCD, l. 1), laśti (A, l. 3, B, l. 8, C, l. 3, D, l. 4), Jeshtaiṇāye (A, l. 2) and Treshṭa (C, ll. 3-4). The lingual na shows the archaic form where no curvature is noticeable in either the top or bottom horizontal lines, cf. Phaguna (A, l. 2, B, l. 4, C, l. 2), sāmaneriye (C, l. 2), śāmanerena (D, l. 4). In the majority of cases the base line of na is curved, the exceptions being na in Madanena (C, l. 3) and the cases in inscription D. In the majority of cases ba is a perfect square with straight sides, the only exception being the form in kutubiniye (C, l. 3). Ya presents a number of varieties — (1) the archaic type, in which the right and left vertical lines show no signs of curvature, but have acute angles on one side of their bases, cf. Ysā (A, l. 1), (2) the transition type, which shows slight signs of curvature, as in Jayadāma (A, l. 1), and (3) the early Kushan type, where the base line is curved, as in Jayadāma (C, l. 1). Both la and ha show angles on their line at the point of its junction with the horizontal parts. The right vertical limb of la is higher in comparison with the left limb of ha. Three different forms of the palatal ś are to be found in the records — (1) the broad-backed type, which is usually to be found in the records of Ushabhadata, in which the central pendant drops from the left half and slants to the right, cf. Opaśati (A, l. 3), pañchāse (B, ll. 3-4), (2) the more archaic form is to be found in inscription D, where it is used in all cases, in this form also the letter is broad-backed, but the pendant drops vertically from the middle of the curve, cf. Opaśati (l. 3), srāmanerena (l. 4), (3) the northern form, in which the back consists of two different curves which meet in an acute angle, cf. Senika and sāmaneriye (C, l. 2). This is exactly the form in the Mathura inscription of the year 72 of the reign of Śodāsa.¹

The object of all four inscriptions is to record the erection of funeral monuments by the relatives of the deceased. In the inscriptions themselves these monuments are termed *laśti*s (Pkt. latthi, lit. 'a stick'). Inscription A records the erection of such a monument (laśti) by Madana, son of Siḥila (Simhila), to the memory of his sister Jeshtavirā (Jyēshthavirā), the daughter of Siḥila of the Opaśati (Aupaśatika) gōtra, in the year 52, on the second day of the dark half of Phaguna (Phūlgun), during the reign of the king (Rājan) Rudradāman, son of Jayadāman (who was the grandson) of Chāshṭana, son of Ysāmōtika. Inscription B records the erection of a funeral monument to the memory of Rishabhadeva, son of Simhila of the Opaśati (Aupaśatika) gōtra, by his brother Madana, son of Simhila, on the same year, month and day. Inscription

C records the erection of a funeral monument by Madana, son of Sindhala, to the memory of his wife Yaśōdatā (Yaśōdattā), a novice (śrāmanīrī), the daughter of Siharata (Sihahamitra), of the Śenika (Śrēnika) gōtra, on the same day. Thus inscriptions A, B and C record the erection of monuments by one Madana, son of Sindhala, to the memory of his brother Rishabhadeva, his sister Jeshṭhadeva and his wife Yaśōdattā. The fourth inscription records the erection of a funeral monument to the memory of Rishabhadeva, son of Treshṭadata (Treshṭadatta), by his father Treshṭadata, a male novice (śrāmanīra), of the Opasati (Opasatika) gōtra, on the same date as that mentioned in inscriptions A, B, and C. Prof. D. R. Bhandarkar is certainly wrong in stating that this inscription "is a memorial stone of Rishabhadeva, of the Opasati gōtra and son of Treshṭadata, erected by Madana his brother." It is a memorial stone of one Rishabhadeva, son of Treshṭadata, of the Opasati gōtra, but there is no mention of a brother named Madana. It is evident that the learned Professor failed to read the last line of inscription D. He appears to have read Śrī-Madana instead of Śrī-Sindhala which is very clear on the stone itself and distinct in impression. It is not very easy to read and hence Prof. Bhandarkar reconciles the words pitṛ[ā] Treshṭadattena which occur at the beginning of the sentence, with the word immediately following them, if he read Śrī-Madana. Prof. D. R. Bhandarkar's inability to decipher this word has led him to make some unnecessary conjectures regarding the personages mentioned in inscription D. He writes "this is rather puzzling, because the gōtra Opasati and the name Madana point to this Rishabhadeva being the same as that of the first inscription, Treshṭadata being in that case presumed to be the other name of their father Sindhala, but it is inconceivable that two steles were put up or can be put up in memory of one and the same individual"². His remarks induced me to examine inscriptions B and D very carefully, but I am now sure that his difficulties were caused by his own inability to read the last line of the record. The fourth inscription does not mention Madana or the brother of Rishabhadeva; therefore this Rishabhadeva cannot be the same person as that mentioned in inscription B. In fact, inscription D records the erection of a funeral monument to another Rishabhadeva, son of Treshṭadata, who was a different person from Sindhala, the father of Rishabhadeva mentioned in inscription B. The stele was raised by Treshṭadata, the father of the deceased, who was a Buddhist monk (śrāmanīra).

The mention of Chāshṭana son of Yśāmotika, immediately before the name of his grandson Rudradāman, son of Javadāman, in these four records, without any connecting link, has led scholars to make a number of conjectures. Prof. D. R. Bhandarkar states that originally he thought that the word pauṭrasya had been omitted in each and every inscription, but now he is inclined to agree with his assistant Dr. Ramesh Chandra Majumdar in thinking that the omission of the word pauṭrasya or potasa indicates that in the year 52 Chāshṭana and Rudradāman were reigning jointly. Prof. D. R. Bhandarkar states³ in a popular account of the history of Deccan named "Deccan of the Sātavāhana period" that "Mr. R. C. Majumdar of the Calcutta University has kindly offered the suggestion that the date had better be ascribed to the conjoint reign of Chāshṭana and Rudradāman"⁴. Apart from the possibility of such an event in India, nobody having ever thought or tried to prove conjoint reigns of two monarchs except Messrs. Bhandarkar, there is sufficient evidence in the Andhra inscriptions themselves to prove that the author of the record was quite ignorant as to the exact relationship between Chāshṭana and Rudradāman. It is very well known that, though Rudradāman was an independent monarch, he never used the title Rājān alone. This is true of all princes of this dynasty and of that of Sāmūn Jivadāman. There is not a single coin or inscription of this dynasty in which the title Rājān is used by itself and not in combination with the titles Mahā-Kshatrapa or Kshatrapa. In fact the Andhau inscriptions are the only records known which mention Chāshtana or Rudradāman as Rājās and not as Mahā-Kshatrapas. The only possible explanation of this is that in a remote place like Andhau on the Rann of Cutch the people were not aware of the new titles of the new dynasty of rulers,—titles on which Rudradāman set great store, as is proved by the phrase *svayam-adhigata-mahā-kshatrapa-nāmnā*¹. The cause of the absence of any word or phrase indicating the relationship between Chāshtana and Rudradāman now becomes clearer. It was due to the ignorance of the people of Andhau and does not indicate the joint reign of the grandfather and the grandson. It has been argued by some of my friends that the absence of any word or phrase indicating their relationship may have been due to the carelessness of the scribe in one record, but the absence of such a word or phrase in four different records is significant. After deciphering the Andhau records I find that all of them were inscribed on the same day, three of them at the instance of one person, Madana, son of Sihula, who dedicated stelæ to his elder brother, his sister and his wife, while the fourth was raised by another person of the same clan to the memory of his son. Besides this, there is a family resemblance between the letters of all four records, which proves that they must have been written by one and the same person. No wonder, the same mistake was committed in all four records. When the ruler of the dynasty of Chāshtana had become more secure in Cutch, people were better informed than Madana, son of Sihula, and his clansman Treshtadata, the śiāmanēra, as in another inscription found at the same place we find the titles correctly given. This inscription records the erection of a lashti in the year 114, during the reign of the king, the Mahā-Kshatrapa, Śiāmin Rudrasimha, son of the king, the Mahā-Kshatrapa, Śiāmin Rudradāman, grandson of the Kshatrapa, Śiāmin Jayadāman and great-grandson of the king, the Mahā-Kshatrapa, Śiāmin Chāshtana.

I edit the inscriptions from the original stones and from impressions taken by myself —

The record consists of three lines of writing on a single slab of stone. The inscribed surface measures 4' 9" x 1' 1", and the average height of the letters is 1". The object of the inscription is to record the erection of a funeral monument (lashti) by Madana, son of Sihula, to the memory of his sister Jeshtavirā (Jyēshtavirā), the daughter of Sihula of the Opaśati (Aupaśatika) gōtra.

² The first six syllables of the first two lines have suffered considerably from corrosion. It is not easy to explain why this part only has been damaged, while the rest has escaped. The remaining portion of the record is quite legible. As has been stated above, the bottoms of the incisions of six letters in the first and second lines are extant, the sides and the surrounding uninscribed surface having disappeared, leaving a smooth polished surface. The lower parts of rā, chā, shī in l 1 and the upper parts of rshe, dvi, and se in l 2 have also disappeared. This portion of the stone appears to have been used for sharpening tools while the rest was buried underground.

⁴ In l 3, śi and la of Śihīla and dhī of dhīta have partly disappeared from the same cause.

The record consists of eight lines. The inscribed surface measures 1' 8" × 1' 10", and the average length of the letters is 1¼". The inscription records the erection of a funeral monument to the memory of Rishabhadēva, son of Sīhila, of the Opaśatī (Aupaśatika) gōtra, by his brother, Madana, son of Sīhila.

No 6—THE GHOSUNDI STONE INSCRIPTION.

By K P JAYASWAL, M A (OXON), BANKIPORE

This inscription is known as the Ghosūndi stone inscription. Ghosūndi is a village near Nagari in the Chitorgadh District of Rājputānā. The classical name of Nagari is Madhyamikā. It was the seat of the republican community of the Śibis, known from their coins found in the locality.

An excellent estampage of the inscription on which the present edition is based was prepared under the direction of Mr D R Bhandarkar, then Superintendent of the Archaeological Survey of India, Western Circle.

³ The ā mark is horizontal in śrā

⁴ The presence of a base line in the 10th syllable in l. 4 proves conclusively that syllables 8 12 of this line represent śrāmanērēna and not Śrī-Madanēna, as read by Prof D R Bhandarkar

⁵ A similar ā mark is to be found in thā

This inscription was first brought to the notice of scholars by Kavirājā Shyāmala Dāsa in the Journal of the Bengal Asiatic Society, Vol LVI, Part I, pp 77 ff, No 1 and Pl V. It is on a stone slab then fixed in a Bauli, or well with steps, but now deposited in the Victoria Hall, Udaipur. The original place of the inscription, as indicated by the material and the shape of this slab, was the Hāthi-vādā at Nagari. Hāthi-vādā acquired its name from the fact that Akbar's army used it as an elephant-stable. The wall is massive, built of dressed stone-pieces without cement. Mr Bhandarkar is of opinion that the beautiful column described by Kavirājā Shyāmala Dāsa, which also belongs to the same architectural type as the Hāthi-vādā, was removed bodily from its original site somewhere in the neighbourhood of the Hāthi-vādā.

Unfortunately the inscription is fragmentary, a single slab of the inscribed portion gives the three lines reproduced here. The lines continued both right and left, as is evident from the context. The inscribed surface measures $3' 3'' \times 8\frac{1}{2}''$, and the average height of each letter is $1\frac{3}{4}''$. The letters are in a good state of preservation. The lines are regular, and the letters well executed. The inscription is in the Northern Brāhmī of the later Maurya, or Early Śunga, period.

It is of great importance from the point of view of religious history. It is the earliest monumental proof of the fact that temples were erected to Vāsudēva and to his brother, and that the followers of the cult included even Brahmins. Further, this is the earliest inscription in Sanskrit yet discovered in the country. It refers to the building of pūjā-śilā-prākāra in the Nārāyana-vāta, or Nārāyana compound (Hindi, Bāḍā). The pūjā-śilā-prākāra was probably a railing round the temple or the statues. As its name signifies, it may have been a railing of slabs, like those discovered at Sāñchi. It was dedicated to the gods Samkarshana and Vāsudēva. Samkarshana and Vāsudēva as gods appear also in the Nānāghāt¹ Inscription, which in view of the Hāthigumpha Inscription of Kharavela (165 B C)² is to be assigned to circa 200 B C. There the two gods are described as belonging to the Lunar Family¹. They were thus the deified heroes whom the Jātakas, Pāṇini and the Purāṇas treat as historical personages and as belonging to the Vṛishṇi family of the Lunar Kshatriyas.

The worship of Kṛishna is not found in the Jātakas, nor is it found in Pāṇini. The view that Pāṇini notes the deified Vāsudēva cannot be maintained. My reasons for this opinion are given in my Hindu Polity, so I need not repeat them here. But the worship of Kṛishna with almost all his signification, e.g. of the child Kṛishna (Dāmōdara) and Trivikrama, was known as early as Baudhāyana's Dharma-sūtra, the date of which has been assigned by Bühler as circa 400 B C. I demur to this dating, and my reasons are given in my Tagore Lectures. Baudhāyana's Dharma-sūtra cannot be earlier than about 200 B C. Kṛishna as a god is in the Arthashastra not prominent (see Bk. 13, ch 3). The two inscriptions (Nānāghāt and Ghosūndī) and Baudhāyana's Dharma-sūtra, therefore, are the earliest records establishing the deification of Kṛishna. It should be noted that in the inscription the first place is given to the elder brother Samkarshana, and Vāsudēva is not yet more prominent than his brother, who later on is completely outraced and superseded by his junior. The process had probably already begun, as the "Nārāyana-vāta" indicates the prominence of one only of the two, and the later history would suggest that it was Vāsudēva who had begun to be identified with Nārāyana. On these data we can say that Kṛishna's worship began before 200 B C, and that at that time probably it was not very ancient. In arriving at this conclusion our inscription is of the greatest value. While the Nānāghāt record still remembers the family of the two brothers, the Ghosūndī inscription detaches them completely from their human associations and treats them as dēvas pure and simple. The Garuda-dhvaja dedication of Heliodorus³ similarly treats Vāsudēva as a god, and it is noteworthy that it does not mention the elder brother Samkarshana at all. In the

³ J. R. A. S., 1909, pp 1053 ff.

Nānāghāt inscription the two brothers are invoked together, Samkarshana being first. The Ghosūndi record shows that the two brothers were still equally worshipped, and the dedication of the railing was to both. This history of the worship of Vāsudēva would place the Nānāghāt evidence as the first piece chronologically, the Ghosūndi as the next and the Besnagar as the last.

As to the date of our present inscription, the only thing that can be said with certainty is that the script is later than Aśoka's time. The ka, sa and sha in our inscription are clear instances of this. In comparison with the inscriptions of Nānāghāt, Hāthigumphā and Besnagar (Heliodorus) it is difficult to decide the chronological position of this record. Taking into consideration the locality, it has on the whole a close affinity to the letter-types of the column inscription of Besnagar. The age of the inscription can be assigned between circa 200 B C and 150 B C. As the forms of the letters are definitely older than in the Pabhosā inscription,¹ the lower limit cannot be placed below 150 B C. In the inscription of Khāravēla the transitional forms are very common, but they are absent from this Ghosūndi inscription. The two documents are, however, widely separated locally, and the standard of comparison cannot be the same. The record of Heliodorus, who was an ambassador to Antialkidas, shows that in Central India a transition set in later. The date 250 B C, assigned by Dr. Buhler to the Ghosūndi inscription, is much too high. The post-Aśokan types in the inscription are of a definitely fixed character, denoting a fairly long interval.

The inscription is also important from the point of view of the language employed. Former writers, including Dr. Luders, have described it as a mixture of Prākṛit and Sanskrit.² I am afraid I cannot subscribe to that view. It was based on defective readings (putēna instead of putrēna, etc.). In my opinion it is a pure Sanskrit record. The only room for controversy is as regards the word inscribed as bhagavabhyām. But this seems to be a case of mistake on the part of the engraver. In inscribing a conjunct of three letters he omitted the smallest member. The rest of the inscription is perfect Sanskrit.

No 7 —ALUR INSCRIPTION OF THE REIGN OF VIKRAMADITYA V SAKA 933

BY LIONEL D. BARNETT.

Ālūr, from which the following record comes, is a village in the Gadag tālukā of Dhārwar District, Lombay Presidency. In our record it is styled Mālad=Ālūr, "Ālūr of the Plain,"

³ The letter is broken. It was probably a ta. The following na indicates an instrumental.

⁶ Read kā(ṛitaḥ).

⁸ Probably for pradakṣhīnā, as in other known religious places of the time.

which serves to distinguish it from the many other towns and villages of the same name. It is situate in lat $15^{\circ} 19\frac{1}{2}'$ and long $75^{\circ} 51'$, three miles NE from Dambal. Our inscription, of which a transcript is given in Vol I, fol 20a of the Elliot Collection (R. As Soc copy), was found on a slab at the temple of Īśvara, I edit it from an ink-impression prepared for the late Dr Fleet, which is now in the British Museum. The stone is rectangular, and in its upper compartment has some sculptures, viz in the centre a linga on a stand, to the proper right a squatting figure facing full front, and to the left a cow with suckling calf facing the linga. Underneath this is the inscribed area, about 4 ft 4 in in height and 1 ft $8\frac{1}{2}$ in in width. The character is Kanarese, a good bold well-rounded type, rather archaic in style. The th on l 34, as sometimes in other records, is indistinguishable from r. The height of the letters in ll 1-4 is about $\frac{1}{2}$ in, and elsewhere from $\frac{1}{2}$ in to $\frac{3}{4}$ in. — The language, except in the three formal Sanskrit verses at the end (ll 42-46), is Old Kanarese. The l is preserved Nolambādhīrājana (l 3, but Nolambādhīrājam and Nolambavādi, l 11), Kemgaḷi (l 12), aḷip=illad=ātam (l 20), īlḍ= (l 30), aḷidam= and aḷida (l 41). The words marmmal (l 1), ghatiga (l 19), and kambī-vadda (ll 28, 29) are of lexical interest.

The record opens with a verse (ll 1-4) in praise of Irīva-Nolambādhīrāja, announcing that he was married to a lady who was a granddaughter of Taila (Āhavamalla Nūrmadi-Taila II), a daughter of Satyāśraya (Akalanakacharita Irīvabedanga Satyāśraya), and tamge (literally, "younger sister," but really "paternal cousin") to Vikramāditya [V Tribhuvana-malla]. On these and other facts connected with the inscription see Dyn Kanar Distr, pp 332, 434, and 558¹. It then refers itself to the reign of Tribhuvanamalla (Vikramāditya V), and introduces as his feudatory the above-mentioned Irīva-Nolambādhīrāja, a scion of the Pallava family, bearing among other titles that of "lord of Kāṁchī best of cities," who at the time was ruling over the Nolambavādi Thirty-two Thousand, the Kemgaḷi Five hundred, the Ballakunde Three-hundred, the Kukkanūr Thirty, and five towns in the Māsiyavādi nādu (ll 5-14). The next section (ll 14-24) introduces with all his titles a high officer of the latter, the Brāhmṇ general Venneya-Bhatta, son of Dīṇḍa-Pandita, and then, after the date (ll 24-26), we learn that this person, having received certain lands from the representatives of Ālūr, presented them as an endowment to Amarāchārya, of the Guhēya Matha in Sīrīvura, for the benefit of his monastery (ll 26-38). The writer of the edict was Marulōja (l 46).

The date² is given on ll 24-26 as Śaka 933 lapsed, the cyclic year Sādhārana, the full-moon day of Vaiśākha, a Sunday. This is slightly irregular. Sādhārana was Śaka 933 current, and the given tithi corresponded to Monday, 1 May, A D 1010, when it ended 2 h. 3 m after mean sunrise (for Ujjain).

The places mentioned are Kāṁchī, i.e. Conjeevaram (l 10), the Nolambavādi Thirty-two Thousand, in the region of Bellary (l 11), the Kemgaḷi Five-hundred (l 12), the Ballakunde Three-hundred (l 12), the Kukkanūr Thirty (l 12), the Māsiyavādi nādu (l 13), the Male or Highlands of the Western Ghats (l 20), the Sapta-grāma, or "seven towns" (l 21), Mālad=Ālūr (ll 26, 30 vide supra), Sīrīvura (ll 27, 34), and Ittage (l 27). On Ballakunde see above, Vol XIV, p 267, on Ittage, above, Vol XIII p 36, on Kukkanūr, ibid, p 40, on Māsiyavādi, Dyn Kanar Distr, p 465, and above, Vol XV, p 78. Sīrīvura is now Sīrūr, in lat $15^{\circ} 21'$ and long $75^{\circ} 49\frac{1}{4}'$, about 3 miles NNE from Ālūr.

(Verse 1) Inasmuch as his queen was a granddaughter of Taila, the ornament of emperors eminent in Manu's courses, a daughter of the illustrious emperor Satyāśraya, (and) a younger sister of the blest emperor king Vikramāditya, how can a panegyrist (worthily) describe this Nolambādhirāja's greatness and (noble) race and high eminence?

(Lines 5-8) When the reign of—hail!—the asylum of the whole world, favourite of Fortune and Earth, great Emperor, supreme Lord, supreme Master, embellishment of the Chālukyas, ornament of Satyāśraya's race, king Tribhuvanamalla, was advancing in a course of successively increasing prosperity, (to endure) as long as moon, sun, and stars —

(Lines 8-14) While one who finds sustenance at his lotus-feet,—hail!—he who has obtained the five great musical sounds, scion of the Pallava lineage, favourite of Fortune and Earth, ornament of the Pallava race, uniform of speech, lord of Kāñchi best of cities, a Trinētra [Śiva] of feudatory princes, a warrior of the host [elephant troupe —Ed], Iriva-Nolambādhirāja, was happily ruling the Nolambavāḍi Thirty-two Thousand, the Kengali Five-hundred, the Ballakunde Three-hundred, the Kukkanūr Thirty, and five towns within the Māsiyavāḍi province, so as to repress the wicked and protect the cultured,—

(Lines 14-24) To one who finds sustenance at his lotus-feet,—hail!—the High General appointed to the whole management of the realm, doing service to his lord, grim on the stage of battle, harsh to the wicked, a Kauṭilya in craft [to the crafty —Ed], one who drives away the base, a Bṛhaspati of the Kali Age, an adamant chamber to dependents, a Garuḍa to the serpents his enemies, a great poet in both (languages),² a favourite with kings of poets, a lion to the elephants disputants, a darling of Sarasvatī, unattainable by other men's wives, a furious elephant to warriors of the host (?), a home of polity, a master of enterprise, one who fails not (in vow and promise), a friend to friends, a Brahma of the skilful, delighting in the fray, crushing the Highlands, a sun to the lotuses the Brāhman race, a warrior among Brāhmaṇas, a leader in the Seven Towns, a scion of the Kamma³ race, of the gōtra, son of Dinda-Pandita, friend of students, ornament of scholars, the great august General Venneya Bhattāra, a warrior of the host [elephant troupe], an emperor of the Brāhmaṇ order,—

(Lines 24-26) On Sunday, the full-moon day of Vaiśākha of the cyclic year Sādhārana, the 933rd (year) in the centuries elapsed from the time of the Śaka king,—

(Lines 26-31) The mayor Chattavārāyya in concert with the Two-hundred of Ālūr of the Plain, washing Venneya-Bhatta's feet, gave as a namasya holding, immune from all conflicting

NO 8—THREE INSCRIPTIONS OF LAKSHMESHVAR

By LIONEL D. BARNETT.

The site of Lakshmēshwar town and its ancient names of Pongere, Fuligere, Purgere, Purikara, and Fulikara have already been discussed in this journal (above, Vol. XIII, p. 178, XIV, p. 188). As befits its former importance, it contains a considerable number of inscriptions, among them the following three, which were found on stones in the local temple of Sōmēśvara by Elliot's pandit and copied by him. They all bear upon the history of the cult of Mahā-svayambhu-Sōmēśvara. The first of them (No. A.) appears in the Royal Asiatic Society's copy of the Elliot Collection on fol. 262a of Vol. I, the second (No. B.) on fol. 302b ibidem,⁴ and the third (No. C.) on fol. 504a ibidem. All three were subsequently removed to the local kachēri, where ink-impressions of them were prepared for the late Dr. Fleet, which are now in the British Museum. From these I have edited the text. A facsimile and summary of C is given in PSOCI, No. 97.

A—OF THE REIGN OF VIKRAMADITYA VI: YEAR 27.

⁴ With the note that it was on a stone in a row of slabs standing along the outer wall of the temple, beside the doorway.

compartments - the first, containing l. 1, is about 2 ft. wide and $2\frac{1}{2}$ in high, and the second (ll. 2-53) is about 2 ft wide and 4 ft. 7 in high —The character is good Kanarese of the period, with letters varying in l l from $\frac{3}{8}$ in to $\frac{1}{2}$ in in height, and in ll 2-53 from $\frac{1}{8}$ in. to $\frac{1}{4}$ in The subscript ch (see ll. 14, 30, etc) is almost exactly like subscript dh —The language is Old Kanarese, except in the formal Sanskrit verses Nos 1, 7-9 The l has been changed to ḷ throughout, but p is preserved The spelling bhāvinas-p° (l 49), for the more regular bhāvinah-p°, is noteworthy. The word aḍḍagara-ṭāḍi (l 37) seems new

The record first refers itself to the reign of Tribhuvanamalla, i.e. Vikramāditya VI (ll 2-5), and then introduces in verse and prose the High Minister and General Bhivanayya, or Bhima, a native of Kashmir, who held the title of mahā-sāmantādhipati and filled several important offices, being at the time the administrator of the Palasige Twelve-thousand and the controller of the achchu-pannāya, one of the departments of taxation (ll 5-15)¹ Next come four verses and a prose description of Bhivanayya's subordinate the General Mādhava-Bhatta, a soldier, statesman, and man of taste, who was a High Minister and "president" (adhishṭhāyaka, probably head of the local department) of the achchu-pannāya (ll 15-31) The following paragraph (ll 31-43) gives the date and details of an endowment granted by Mādhava to the temple of Svayambhu-Sōmēśvara² at Purigeṛe and to the associated cult of Muddēśvara out of the fiscal revenues controlled by him, the trustee being Mahēndrasōma, the prior of the local monastery

The date is specified on ll 32-33 as the 27th year of the Chālukya-Vikrama era, Chitru-bhānu, Āshādha śu 5, Sunday, a vyatipāta This is regular, so far as it goes the given ṭithi corresponded to Sunday, 22 June, A D 1102, on which day it ended 17 h 30 m after mean sunrise (for Ujjain)³

The only geographical names mentioned are Kāśmīra (l 10), the Palasige Twelve-thousand and the Seven and a half Lakh Country (l 14), Purigeṛe (ll 35, 36, 38), and the tīrthas (ll 43 f) Palasige is the modern Halsi, situate in lat 15° 32' and long 74° 36' Purigeṛe, also called Puligeṛe and later Huligeṛe, with the Sanskritised bye-form Purikara, is the modern Lakshmēshwar

the Palasige Twelve-thousand and the achchu-pannāya of the Seven-and-a-half Lakh Country¹—one who finds sustenance at his lotus-feet—

(Verse 3) A Mēru in pride, distinguished by bounty, a Dharmarāja's son [Yudhisṭhira], in righteousness, a unique King of Celestials [Indra] in magnificence, endowed with the excellences of the powers of lord, counsel, and enterprise—

(Verse 4) With affection of spirit the congregations of sages name the General Mādhava, on the occasion of his trampling down and slaying those who confront him in battle, a Spirit of Doom of the time of dissolution, on the occasion of his making gifts to impoverished eunuchs, a walking Tree of Desire, on the occasion of his giving protection when men come and pray for refuge, a solid adamantine house

(Verse 5) By generating Mādhava, who is the best of sages, who follows the course of Mana, the Creator made atonement for having created other inferior men of reprobate character

(Verse 6) In mercy, righteousness, power, magnificence, profundity, firmness, policy, pleasing conduct, courtesy, skill, valour, regular practice of duty, excellence, (and) knowledge of many arts, Mādhava has become exceedingly exalted on earth, a lord of the goddess of splendid fame

(Lines 25-31) Hail! he who possesses all titles of honour such as "he who is adorned with all positive virtues, illustrious in the office of High Minister, exalted in dignity, endowed with the three powers of lord, counsel, and enterprise, gracious to sages, a charming Brahma in appreciation of sentiments of skilful poetry, a lion to the great elephants proud foemen, a full moon of the autumnal season to the ocean of his kindred, a jewel-mine of nobility, a bee to the lotus-feet of Bhavāni's Lord [Śiva], lofty in valour," the High Minister, Controller of the achchu-pannāya, (and) General Mādhava-Bhaṭṭa—

(Lines 31-33) Hail! on Sunday, the 5th of the bright fortnight of Āshāḍha in the cyclic year Chitrabhānu, the 27th (year) of the Chālukya-Vikrama era, during a vyatipāta,²—

(Lines 33-43) The General Mādhava-Bhaṭṭa, while happily administering the achchu-pannāya, for the personal enjoyment of the god Svayambhu-Sōmēśvara (and) the god Muddēśvara of the capital city Purigere, presented to the gods, with laving of the feet of Mahēndra-sōma Pandita, prior of the local establishment, and with pouring of water, the pannāya tax (collected) wherever tenants of states selling betel-leaf within the 48,000 mattar of the lands of Purigere bring (the leaf) in loads conveyed either on shoulder-poles (?) or in head-loads, likewise the pannāya on betel-leaf sold in Purigere, likewise a total of 530 leaves on each load and 300 on each head-load sold there after deduction of the tax, together with tenants' tax and fines for offences. So the governors³ administering the pannāya shall maintain this pious endowment

B — OF THE REIGNS OF VIKRAMADITYA VI (YEAR 32) AND TAILA III (YEARS 3 & 4)

The stone bearing this inscription has suffered some damage, a considerable portion having been broken off on the proper left side, from the top down to line 15. About half of the pediment remains, and on this the only sculptures visible are a linga on a stand with a squatting bull to the proper right. The text below this is contained in three compartments, all of them about 2 ft wide. The first of these, comprising ll 1-5, is about $4\frac{1}{2}$ in high, the second, ll. 6-68, some 4 ft 3 in high, and the third, ll 69-70, about $2\frac{1}{2}$ in high. —The character is a fair Kanarese of the middle of the twelfth century, with letters varying in height from $\frac{1}{8}$ in to $\frac{7}{8}$ in. —Apart from the Sanskrit stanzas Nos 1, 2, 15, and 26, the language is Old Kanarese. The ancient l has been changed to r in kirtt= (l 10) and negarddam (l 42), and elsewhere to l. The upadhmāniya appears in -payahpūra- (l 25) and Vāchahpati (l 54). P is changed to h only in the names Tailaha (ll 22, 32, 48, 56, 58) and Hānūngall= (ll 65-6, elsewhere Pānūngallu). Among the words of lexical interest we may notice Chalukū (l 5), jagadalu (l 6), nūrvādhe (l 15), kamdarisu (l 27), kannmayisu (l 27), ullēkha in the sense of "high-flashing" (l 57), gadduge (l 58),¹ and kandarane, "carving" (l 70).

The record chronicles three endowments, and was redacted in its present form on the occasion of the last of these. The first part, after a prelude (vv 1-4), opens with a series of stanzas (ll 6-10) praising in succession Permādi-Rā[ja], by whom Vikramāditya VI seems to be meant (v 5), Tailapa (i.e. Āhavamalla Nūrmadi Taila II), Satyāśraya, and Vikrama, i.e. Vikramāditya VI (v 6), and Vikramāditya's successes over the Chōlas, Nēpalas, and Gūrjaras are glorified (v 7). Then comes the formula referring the grant to Vikramāditya's reign (ll 10-12), followed by verses giving the lineage of his feudatory the Kādamba Mahā-Mandalēśvara Taila [II] or Tailaha-dēvarasa of Hāngal (ll 12-17). He was the son of Śānta (Śāntivarman) and Śrīyā-dēvi, and Śānta had four brothers, named Taila [I], Māvulī, Chōkī, and Bikkī (i.e. Vikrama).² After this comes a prose passage giving to Tailaha all the standing titles of his family and referring the grant to his reign (ll 17-24). Then we have some verses in praise of the town of Purikara, i.e. Lakshmīśvar (ll 24-26), its sanctuary of Mahā-svayambhu-Sōmanātha, or Dakshina Sōma, "the Sōmnāth of the South" (ll 26-28), and the prior of that establishment, Mahēndrasōma Pandita-dēva³ (ll 28-30), and then comes an interesting prose paragraph (ll 30-34) relating how the latter paid a visit to the Mahā-Mandalēśvara Tailaha-dēva (the above-mentioned Kādamba Taila II) at Pānūngallu, and gave him his blessing and gift of the Śaiva eucharist, in return for which he received from Tailaha the gift of the town of Kallavana for the maintenance of his temple (ll 34-38). A formal ending of the usual kind then brings the first section to a conclusion (ll 38-40).

The second part then opens with a verse in praise of the Chālukya Taila II, who in allusion to his title Nūrmadi-Taila, "a hundred times a Taila," is here called Irmadi-padīrmadi nūrmadi-Taila, "twice, twelve times, a hundred times a Taila" (ll 41-42), and it then formally refers itself to his reign (ll 42-44). We are then introduced in three verses to another Kādamba prince, Māvulī-Taila, also called Tailaha-dēva and simply Taila, a grandson of the above-mentioned Tailaha II, he was reigning at Nareyangallu (ll 44-48), and was a worshipper of Sōmanātha (ll 48-49). He had a feudatory, the Mahā-Mandalēśvara Vira Pāndya,⁴ who at the time was holding the mannēya or seignior of the Puligere nād (ll 49-51), while the General Mahādēvarasa was governing the same district and the Banavāse country in the office of

² On this pedigree see Dyn. Kanar. Distr., pp 559 sqq.

³ Among other titles he is described as Daśavarmanraja nyuktā (l 29), "employed in the raja of Daśavarman." Properly raja means a cattle stall, here perhaps it signifies a royal court. Who Daśavarman was is a mystery.

mēl-āṭke (ll. 51-52), and the Generals Biddarasa and Attirāja (or Attiparāja) were administering the Puligere nāḍ under the orders of Mahādēvarasa (ll 52-55) The record then relates in prose that Māvuli-Tailaha after a visit to the temple at Puligere confirmed his grandfather's gift of Kallavana, with some further provisions, the trustee being Jñānasōma Pandita-dēva (ll 56-64)

The final section (ll 64-70) records a supplementary grant, by which Dēkarasa, general in command of the Hānūngallu Five-hundred, in concert with the controllers of the treasury, assigned one paṇa from every town and village in his district for the supply of lamps in the same temple, and brings the inscription to an end by a series of verses from which we learn that Jñānasōma, the prior of the temple, was the son of the above-mentioned Mahēndrasōma and Māhiyakka, and that the engraver was Rājōja, son of Jinnōja and younger brother of Chāva.

The date of the first grant is given on ll 34-35 as the 32nd year of the Chālukya-Vikrama era, Sarvajit; Pushya sūddha 13, Sunday, the uttarāyana-samkrānti, a vyatipāta These details are discrepant The tithi mentioned corresponded to Sunday, 28 December, A.D. 1107, and ended about 18 h 37 m after mean sunrise (for Ujjain), but the uttarāyana-samkrānti of that year took place about 6 50 A.M. on Wednesday, 25 December Mr Sewell informs me that according to the Siddhānta-śrōmaṇi the tithi was 29 December, but the uttarāyana-samkrānti occurred on Tuesday, 24 December, at 1 h 5 m 20 s after mean sunrise

The second grant is dated on ll 59-60 as the 3rd year of Trailōkyamalla, Angaras, Pushya sūddha 8, Monday, the uttarāyana-samkrānti, a vyatipāta This is quite irregular. The tithi in question corresponded to Saturday, 6 December, A.D. 1152, ending about 10 h 38 m after mean sunrise On the other hand, the uttarāyana-samkrānti occurred on Wednesday, 24 December.

The third grant bears as date the 4th year of Trailōkyamalla, Śrīmukha, Chaitra amāvāsyā, a Monday (ll. 64-65) This again is wrong, for the given tithi was current on Thursday, 26 March, A.D. 1153, ending about 21 h 24 m after mean sunrise

The geographical names mentioned are Purikara town (ll 3, 26) and province (l 51), and their synonyms, Puligere town (l 57) and province (ll 50, 52), the Chōlas, Nēpālas, and Gūr-jaras (l 9), Banavāsī town (ll 12, 17), and its synonym Jayanti¹ (ll. 13, 18, 45), Banavāse province (l 51), the Pānūngallu or Hānūngallu Five-hundred (ll 22, 35, 63, 65-6), the nele viḍu or standing camp of Pānūngallu (ll. 23, 32), the Kundavura Thirty (l 36), Kallavana (ll 36, 59, 61), the tirthas (l 39), and the nele-viḍu of Nareyangallu (ll 46, 63) On Purikara or Puligere see above, p 31. Pānūngallu or Hānūngallu is now Hāngal, and Nareyangallu Nerēgal Kundavura is possibly the same as Kundār, the modern Narēndra, on which see above, Vol XII, p 298 Kallavana I am unable to identify

TRANSLATION.

(Verse 1) Victorious ever is he who is composed of accumulated bliss, of knowledge, and of power, from whose mere will arise all the worlds

(Verse 2 identical with verse 1 of inscr. A. above)

(Verse 3) May [the god Sōmanātha of] the South, who is known as Abhava [Śiva], embellishing the fortune of the blest city Purikara, causing weal in both spheres of existence, [bless] the worshippers of his feet

(Verse 4) Nandi, the Mountain's Daughter, the diadem moon, the tall pile of braided locks, all this the excellent Svayambhu [bestowed upon] the noble (scions) of the Chalukī lineage¹

(Verse 5) An ornament of the blest Chalukya lineage, a jagadala against hostile kings, an embellishment of the whole earth, incomparable in majesty, is king Permādi

(Verse 6) Like the ocean perfectly protecting numbers of families of kubhrit [kings, or mountains] who came to him for refuge, king Tailapa ruled the earth, then king Sityāśraya, [then] the blest king Vikrama most lofty in dignity, a frontal decoration of the lady [the Chalukya] lineage

(Verse 7) Swiftly (?) by his boldness having driven to flight the Chōla, by his strokes the incomparable king Vikramāditya overwhelmingly crushed the Nēpāla monarch, burned the Gūrjara sovereign's brilliant city [so that it was] lustreless (?) smoke, in indignation tore up and flung away the roots of banded sovereigns

(Lines 10-12) While the [victorious] reign of king Tribhuvanamalla was advancing in a course of successively increasing prosperity, (to endure) as long as moon, sun, and stars —One who finds sustenance at his lotus feet—

(Verse 8) [Ruler of the city (?) of] Banavāsī, devoted to the worship of the universally adored lotus feet of Madhukēśa the lord of the faultless city of Jayantī, eager for mighty battle, is Taila

(Verse 9) His father was king Śānta, skilled in shattering , his mother forsooth was the latter's chief queen Śrīyā-dēvi, perfect in righteousness, the group of princes consisting of king Taila, Māvuli, Chōka, and Bikkī are rich in fame what righteousness is that of the blest prince Taila, who has worthy uncles and father^{1 3}

(Verse 10) Reigning undisturbedly like Balī over his country, being known as a true hero, one who is stained with the red hue of the bright minium lying thick upon the temples of the elephants of the sky-quarters, mighty of splendour, the Kādamba lion who shatters proud foes has made the circle of earth free from obstruction, so that many praise him

(Lines 17-24) Hail! the Mahā-Mandalēśvara who has obtained the five great musical sounds, who has all the titles of honour such as 'lord of Banavāsī best of cities, receiving the grace of boons from the god Madhukēśvara of Jayantī, naturally scented with musk, ornament of the race of the Kādamba emperor the great king Mayūravarmā, which is sprung from the Three-eyed [Śiva] and Earth, presides over eighty-four towns, is consecrated in the consecratory rites of eighteen world-renowned horse sacrifices to the (God of the) Frontal Eye [Śiva] and the Four armed [Vishnu], binds its furious elephants to great crystal pillars crowning the massive peaks of the lord of mountains Himavat, and is delightful in its great majesty; he who is attended by the noise of permatti drums and

³ [Kaniya janakar is 'uncles,' not 'uncles and father'—H K S]

(other) musical instruments, brilliant with a banner (having the device) of a great ape, having as crest a lion lofty in pride, bestowing gold on the needy, causing victory in strife, ornament of the Kadambas, man of might against adversaries," the Mahā-Mandalēśvara Tailahadēvarasa, while loyally controlling with the internal authority of the *tribhūga*¹ the Five-hundred of Pānūngallu so as to suppress the wicked and protect the superior, being in the enjoyment of pleasant conversations at the standing camp of Pānūngallu.—

(Verse 11) To speak of all the hillocks, the crowd of temples, all the lines of valleys, the lotus-pools in the waters filling the multitude of brilliant ponds, likewise all the earth adorned therewith, the bright parks of sandal-trees—verily the aspect of Purikara town is a charming sight for the world.²

(Line 26) There, moreover —

(Verse 12) In the joyous offering of consecrated rice-grains one after another a *koḷaga*³ is filled up⁴, hence I know not how to celebrate (fittingly) the magnitude of the famous eminence of the Phallus of Śiva

(Verse 13) The Self-born assumed a unique natural form made without turning of the lathe, without graving, without separation, without craftsmanship, Sōma of the South there condescended to burst forth out of the ground

(Lines 28-29) The Prior of the establishment of the god Mahā-svayambhu-Sōmanātha, who has thus been described —

(Verse 14) There flourished a seat of pious observances, a tree of desire to the lineage of all great ascetics, a servant in Daśavarman's court (?)⁵, the cleric Mahēndrasōma Pandita-dēva

(Lines 30-38) So Mahēndrasōma Pandita-dēva, most reverend in devotion to calmness, self-control, the major and the minor disciplines, having taken unguents of saffron and bland sandal and fragrant scents prepared for [that decorated—H K S] the worship of the divinely blest fest of the most noble god Sōmanātha, and likewise rice-grains left over from his sacred meal [grace,—H. K. S], went to Pānūngallu and pronounced a blessing upon the Mahā-Mandalēśvara king Tailaha, who, realising with extreme joy the singular qualities of both the establishment and the deity, said "Let us give to the god Sōmanātha for his personal enjoyment a town in our province," and having thus reflected, in concert with the treasurers, ministers, and generals, on a holy lunar day on which Sunday, the 13th of the bright fortnight of Pushya in the cyclic year Sarvajit, the 32nd of the Chālukya-Vikrama era, occurred together with the uttarāyana-samkrānti and a vyatipāta, laved the feet of Mahēndrasōma Pandita and with pouring of water granted as an imperial gift, together with a copper-plate charter, the town Kallavana in the Kundavura Thirty, a county of the Five-hundred of Pānūngallu, for the personal enjoyment of the god Sōmanātha, in perpetuity for as long as moon and sun endure, on sarva-namasya tenure with immunity from all conflicting claims.

(Verse 15 : a common Sanskrit formula)

(Verse 16 : a similar Kanarese stanza)

(Line 40) For them that preserve (this foundation), fruit of endless merit.

(Verse 17) There has become eminent a brilliant sun bringing to bloom the lotuses of the fair Chalukya lineage, a lord of the whole circle of earth, king Irmadi-Padirmadi-Nūrmadi-Taila,¹ on whose broad breast appears the lady Fortune, on whose arm (appears) the noble lady Victory, to whom the lady Earth is an amorous leman

(Lines 42-45) While the victorious reign of ² king Trailōkyamalla was advancing in a course of successively increasing prosperity, (to endure) as long as moon, sun, and star —One who finds sustenance at his lotus-feet—

(Verse 18) Māvuli-Taila, the Viceroy beloved of Earth, whose origin derives from the Kādamba race, (and) to whom arises grace of boons from the god Madhukēśvara of Jayanti,

(Verse 19) thinking of (his) possession, to wit the standing camp of Nareyangal, (his) subjects, the band of (his) friends, the elders, the senior treasurers, the excellent ministers has been solicitous to strengthen (them)

(Verse 20) Standing in the line of succession and holding the royal rank, devoted to righteousness, king Taila has sought for unending bliss in the next world—oh, what a design!—and become a vessel of holiness³

(Lines 48-49) So after having for several years adorned the fortunes of that realm, the Kādamba lion king Tailaha, being in the glory of the festival of visitation of the god Sōmanātha —

(Verse 21) The lady Victory, accomplishing the vow of the sword-edge,⁴ and the goddess of Speech, surpassing the point of unarion,⁵ have come and displayed themselves (respectively) upon the aim and in the mouth of king Vira-Pāndya

(Lines 50-51) While this Mahā-Mandalēśvara was royally administering the seigniorship of the Puligere county —

(Verse 22) The General Mahādēvarasa, most irresistible in valour, was administering the land of Purikara and the land of most beautiful Banavāse in perpetual superior control

(Lines 52-53) Under the command of this august General, the General Biddarasa and the noble High Minister Attirāja were administering the county of Puligere As regards their dignity—

C—OF THE REIGN OF JAGADEKAMALLA II THE 10TH YEAR

beside °gama; hēriḡa (l 21), a form throwing some light upon the meaning of the official title hēri sandhi ugrahī, which hence would seem to mean a minister in charge of the secret intelligence-department of foreign policy (cf Kittel, s.v. hēriḡa), and kandarane, "carving" (l 64)

The record, after invocation of Śiva, begins with a short metrical genealogy of the Western Chālukyas from Tailapa (ie Taila II) to the reigning sovereign, Jagadēkamalla [II], whom it duly glorifies (ll 2-15). It then refers itself in formal prose to the latter's reign (ll 15-17), and devotes four stanzas (ll 18-24) to the laudation of his minister Kēsirāja, also called Kēsavadēva, Kēsīmayya and Jayakēsīdē-varasa in l 51, a distinguished general who had defeated the Chōlas, Lolas, and Gūrjaras, and who was also a minister of foreign affairs, an officer of the treasury, and an administrator of the royal seraglio, we next learn from the prose of ll 24-27 that he was at this time administering the Belvala Three-hundred, the Huligere Three-hundred, the Halasige Twelve-thousand, and the Hānumgallu Five-hundred¹. A series of 10 verses (ll 27-39) then introduces us to the following pedigree of generals —

Four further verses (ll 39-44) bring us to the province of Purikara (ie Puligere or Huligere), now being ruled by a certain Jayakēsī-dēva, of the Manala² family, and its capital, of the same name, with its sanctuary of Mahā-Svajambhu-Somanātha, of which the prior (āchārya) was Jñānasōma Pandita-dēva, the son of Mahēndrasōma,³ the son of Dēvasōma. After a verse in praise of "Kēsava the minister of king Sōmēsvara," who must be the previously mentioned general Kēsīmayya, and Jagadchamalla's father Bhūlōkamalla Sōmēsvara III (ll 44-45), and another in honour of Jñānasōma (ll 45-47), we learn from two stanzas (ll 47-49) that Mēcharasa set up a golden final (kalasa) upon this temple, and gave for this purpose 100 matka of land in Kunduravalli. The details and date of this gift, for which Jñānasōma was trustee, are then specified in prose (ll 49-61), and another verse adds some further details (ll 61-62). The words Kurnnāḡa-suhavi-mukhya-panditara (l 64), which I have translated as "of an eminent scholar among Kanarese master-poets" may equally be taken as a proper name, the nom de plume of the author of the inscription. The engraver was Chāvōja, son of Jinnōja of Puligere (ib), on whom see above, inscription B, l 70.

The date is given on ll 56-57 as the 10th year of the reign of Jagadchamalla, the cyclic year Prabhava, Āshādha śuddha 12, Thursday, the dukshināyana-samkrānti, a vyatipāta. This is irregular. The given tithi corresponded actually to Thursday, 12 June, A D 1147, on which it ended 17 h after mean sunrise (for Ujjain). But the dukshināyana-samkrānti, or Karka-samkrānti, took place, according to the Ārya-siddhānta, exactly a fortnight later, on Thursday, 26 June, 15 h 51 m after mean sunrise, and Mr R Sewell has pointed out to me that by the Siddhānta-sirōmani, and probably by the Brahma-siddhānta also, it was due on Wednesday, 25 June, about 14 h after mean sunrise.

The geographical names mentioned are the Beluvala Three-hundred (ll 25-6), the Huligere Three-hundred (l 26), or Puligere nād (l 50), sanskritised as Purikara (l 39), the town of Huligere (l 53), or Puligere (l 64), or Purikara (ll 40, 45 f), the Halasige

² This is the same as the Manlāra family, on which see above, Vol VI, p 52, and Mysore Archaeol. Report, 1908-9, p 16. An ancestor of this official, also named Jayakēsī, figures in a Hulgūr inscription of Śāla 960.

Twelve-thousand (I 26), the Hānūngallu Five-hundred (I 26), Kuntala (I 39), Ekkalavāda (I 49), Kunduravalli (II 49, 51-53), Ittago (II 51, 58 f), Nittār (II 53, 60), Kāntariko (I 59), Bonakana kola, "Bonakana Lake" (I 60), the Itthas (I 63); and various nations (II 7, 18, 22-3). Beluvala (Belvala) and Huligere are well known, and Huligere town is the modern Lakshmīśwari. Halasiga is Halai. Hānūngallu is the modern Hargal. Ekkalavāda is the name of the district in which lay Kunduravalli, and the latter may be identified with the village styled "Kunderhalli" in the Postal Directory, "Kōnduravallie" on the Indian Atlas, sheet 41, and "Kudravali" on the Bombay Survey, sheet 334, which lies in lat 15° 8', long 75° 36', about 5½ miles ENE from Lakshmīśwari. Nittār ("Nittor" on the Indian Atlas) lies in lat 15° 04', long 75° 31½'.

TRANSLATION.

(Verse 1 - identical with v 1 of inscr A)

(Verse 2) There flourished a morning-sun to the lotus-lake the blest beauteous Chalukya lineage, a grim elephant to the coppices of young plantains (consisting of) countless froward enemy kings, a lord of earth whose pair of lotus-feet was rubbed by the gems of august obeisant monarchs' diadems, an eager wooer of the goddess of universal victory, Tailapa

(Verse 3) His son was Satyāśraya, embellishment of the Chālukyas A son of the latter monarch's younger brother was king Vikrama, (likewise) the excellent Ayyana (and) Jayasimha the wooer of the goddess of glory The last-named king's son was Āhavamalla, victor in battle, mainstay of empire, that king's son was the lord of earth Sōmēśvara

(Verse 4) That king's younger brother, the valiant king Permādi, a consuming fire to the forest of the faces of the Chōlas, breaking down the acacias in the marshes of the Gūrjara kings, ruled this land

(Verse 5) Haughty with his might of arm, king Vikramāditya reduced his foes to the condition of a village of Bhūllas, giving them severally splendours with drums consisting of skipping crickets, with bands of bright singers consisting of thickets of reeds, with royal stools consisting of the ground, with lamps composed of gems in the hoods of serpents, with gay robes of snakes' sloughs

(Verse 6) This sovereign's son Bhūlōkamalla became distinguished, acquiring the a role of space, having a radiance of glory like moonbeams, unfathomable of majesty, wrestler against the proud

(Verse 7) His son is a storm-blast upon the lamps hostile kings, a lion to the furious elephants hostile princes - who are there that do not thus speak of the Emperor Jagadēkamalla?

(Verse 8) The pain of the Tortoise's hard carapace has stopped; the load on the Serpent king's splendidly jewelled head has diminished, the burden on the neck of the elephants of the sky-quarters has abated - this is because Jagadēkamalla bears without labour the realm of earth upon the puissant place of firmness, his own arm.

(Lines 15-17.) While the victorious reign of ² the majestic Emperor king Jagadēkamalla was advancing in a course of successively increasing prosperity, (to endure) as long as moon, sun, and stars, —

(Verse 9) A bee to his lotus-feet, righteous in conduct, having counsels skilful in shattering the Chōla, Lāla, and Gūrjara monarchs, a true hero is the General Kēsirāja.

(Verse 10) Having auspicious characteristics [or, characteristics of a high-bred elephant] in constant embellishment, born of a noble family [or, herd], abundant in bounty [or, rut-chor],

winning high fame through receiving the embraces of the beloved elephant-cow of Lakshmi, he is a bull-elephant of victory for the exalted Jagadēkamalla: through this high distinction the General Kēsirāja of the Elephants has gotten this appropriate name

(Verse 11) Kēsavadēva is (in charge) of rut-raging elephants, of squadrons of horse, of the high office of (the ministry of) peace and war for the secret service (?)¹ and Lālas, (and) of the treasury, a controller of the prosperous seraglio

(Verse 12) "This forsooth is a troop of noble horses sent by the Māḷava"—"(this is) a column of fiery elephants sent by the king of Kalinga"—"(this is) a diadem of various gems sent as tribute in terror by the Chōḷikas' monarch"² as each of them with these words brought (these things) and laid them down before him, Kēsava overspread with his glory earth, ocean, mountains, and sky

(Lines 24-27) Hail! while he who possesses all titles of honour, high minister, master of the stables of elephants and horses, treasurer, general supervisor, minister for peace and war for the secret service (?) and the Lālas, favourite, head of the army, the great august General Kēsamayya, was reigning³ in government of the Beluvala Three-hundred, the Huligere Three-hundred, the Halasige Twelve-thousand, and the Hānumgallu Five-hundred so as to suppress the wicked and protect the cultured —

(Line 28) As regards the dignity of this noble man's lineage.—

(Verse 14) His maternal grandfather was the illustrious General Mēlamayya, renowned for virtues, he was a modern Celestial Tree on earth, praised throughout the world

(Line 30) His paternal grandfather —

(Verse 15) Āditya Bhatta, abounding in the lore of the excellent books of the Vēdas, pulverising sin, rose (to honour) amidst the applause of the earth, so as to be served by the goddess of Fortune (dwelling) in the lotus of his own race

(Verse 16) To Āditya, who had all the virtues, there was a son Drōṇschārya, a master of the bow known as being like Gāṇḍivī [Arjuna], as if he had been born to Pon⁴ and the renowned Sun-god

(Verse 17) This noble man's high-born wife Chāmala-dēvi, who was known as a peer of the lady Fortune, a peer of Arundhati in virtue, a peer of the lady Speech, adorned her race, amidst the praises of the world

(Verse 18) Their sons were the General Āchirāja, the General Mēcha, and the General Kañcha of the Spear, a tree of desire to sages.

(Verse 19) Are there in the present or the past any mortals that are equal to the moonlight to his race, Ācharasa,⁵ when he is compared with other men on this circle of earth girdled by the four oceans?

(Verse 20) The line of glittering crests of the fire of doom, the tongue of great Rāhu, the fangs of the Destroyer, the hiss of the black cobra, is the spear of the General Kañcha of the Spear

³ For arasu applied to civil administration by officers of the Crown see above, pannāyaman=ālv=arasugalu, p. 35, note 3.

⁵ There seems to be some irregularity in the text Ācharasanan= must be genitive, but if so, it has a superfluous syllable na

(Verse 21) As truly he is called a brother to public women bright with the glances from their white eye-corners, one who honours worthy master-poets and sages, a son of Śiva, one with the form of the Love-god, a son to others' wives, a friend to the lotus pool¹ of his own race, who can equal Mēchi, the right eastern face² on the floor of the edifice of the religion of Śiva

(Verse 22) Vennala-dēvi and Laliya-dēvi, the good wives of that treasure of courtesy the General Mēchi, have flourished on earth, renowned in the world, as digits of the moon to the fresh water-lilies of their race

(Verse 23) In the realm of Bharata the land of Kuntala shews itself in beauty. In it appears forsooth the province of Purikara, the capital city radiant within that district is Purikara town

(Verse 24) The seignior of this county, the world renowned Jayakēśidēva, has become eminent by his glory, being known as a seat of Fortune, an ornament of the Manala race, a thunderbolt shattering the Maināka his foes

(Verse 25) There has arisen amidst joy the god Sōmanātha of the South, with whom are seen (the sacred bull) Nandi, the ornament of snakes, the Gauges, the high-braided hair, the Mountain's Daughter, and the half-moon

(Lines 42-43) As regards the line of priors of the establishment of this god Mahā-Svayambhu-Sōmanātha —

(Verse 26) Of the world-revered ascetic Dēvasōma (there was a son) sprung from the family of great ascetics, exalted in all virtues, of this ascetic Mahēndrasōma (there was) a son, Jñānasōma-Pandita-dēva

(Verse 27) Kēśava, minister of king Sōmēśvara, has verily maintained the merit of desiring not others' wives, of abiding not in falsehood, of being known as an incarnation of righteousness, so that the earth praises him

(Verse 28) The incomparable Jñānasōma, lord of ascetics, has so distinguished himself that men say "Is it the Love-god who has assumed a brilliant abounding mass of high-braided locks? is it the Tree of Des're that joyfully has settled permanently in happiness at the establishment of Sōmēśvara in Purikara under the guise of an ascetic? is it the Ocean that displays its profundity in the form of a Yōgi?"

(Line 47) While this continuous sequence of the succession of sons of great ascetics was flourishing —

(Verse 29) On the temple of Sōmēśa of the South, which is, as one may say, a massive finial of gold on the crest of the Golden Mountain, the incomparable Mēcharasa has set a solid finial of gold

(Verse 30) The ornament of his lineage, having purchased for payment of gold a hundred nivartanas at Kunduravalli, within (the district of) Ekkalavāda, for (defraying the expenses of) the golden finial, presented it under the name Kalasāda-hālu

(Lines 49-55) Hail! He who possesses all titles of honour, the high minister, son to others' wives, brother to public women, son of Śiva, restorer of the four churches,³ controller of the county of Puligere, the General Mēcharasa, having presented money to the thousand retainers of the Mahā-Mandalēśvara Jayakēśi-dēvarasa and to Maddirāja, mayor of Kunduravalli, Sōvimayya, and Kēsīmayya, and having (thereby) purchased with washing of feet and

(Lines 58-61) As regards the bounds of this hundred-mattar field of endowment-land—the north-eastern bound is a stone (with the figure) of a Kinnari at the northern side of the waste lands of Ittage As to the eastern bound, the limit is the running stream in the lands of Ittage As to the south-eastern bound, the limit is a stone (with the figure) of a Kinnari on the river-bank to the east of the waste of Kāntarike As to the south-western bound, the limit is a stone (with the figure) of a Kinnari at the south of Benaka's Lake The north-western bound is a fixed boundary-stone (with the figure) of a Kinnari on the south of the lands of Nittūr Thus the four bounds are concluded

(Verse 31) Out of the hundred mattar (assigned) for the finial, this general Mēchana, who is indeed adorned with glory, world-famed, crowned with Śiva's feet has granted excellent land six mattar for the well of Nandi, six for the well of Gaurale faultless in virtue, thus (amounting to) twelve mattar

NO 9—TWO JAIN INSCRIPTIONS OF MULGUND AND LAKSHMESHVAR

By LIONEL D. BARNETT

The following two inscriptions have been edited from ink-impressions prepared for the late Dr. Fleet, and bequeathed by him to the British Museum, where they now are Though they relate to different foundations, they refer to the same lineage of Jain Gurus, and have two important verses in common, and this fact, together with their mention of the standard grammars of their day, gives them a more than ordinary interest

¹ On this term see Ind Ant, Vol XXX, pp 107, 267, Ep Carn, Vol X pt 1, Mb 172 f, 259, CB 9, Bg. 72 Ct 1, 11 It is a remission of $\frac{1}{10}$ of the revenue, under varying conditions (e.g. as compensation for some public work, such as digging and maintaining wells)

² The meaning of kanda here is not clear There may be some connection with the Tamil kandu, 'cornfield,' or with the Marathi usage in the sense of 'contract'

³ A yōga on which the declination of sun and moon is the same

A—MULGUND INSCRIPTION OF THE REIGN OF SOMESVARA I SAKA 975

Regarding the site and name of Mulgund, whence this inscription comes, it suffices to refer to Dr Fleet's remarks above, Vol XIII, p 190. The present record was found on a slab in the local Jain bastī or temple. The stone is surmounted by a rounded pediment with truncated top, which contains some sculptures, viz in the centre a squatting Jina in a niche or lōshtha-pañjara, on the proper right a figure, perhaps representing a worshipper, over it the sun, to the proper left of the Jina, a cow with sucking calf, and above it the moon. Below this is the inscribed area, in two compartments, with a width of about 2 ft 4½ in, the upper one, containing lines 1-2 is about 3½ in high, and the lower one, containing the rest of the record, is some 4 ft in height. A transcription is given in the Elliot Collection, Vol 1, fol 76b of the Royal Asiatic Society's copy, but it is very incorrect, and omits a considerable part of the text. The stone is very much worn, and in many places the writing is almost illegible. The character is an elegant monumental type of Kanarese of the period, with graceful upright letters varying in height from ½ in to ⅞ in. The language is Old Kannese, with the exception of three Sanskrit stanzas, viz verses 1, 7, and 10. It preserves the archaic l, in negalḍam (ll 11, 18), pogalḍe (l 16), and ēlpatt- (l 20). On the word sivata (l 22) cf above, Vol XV, p 105. For moggu (l 25) see note in loco.

The record, after invoking the blessing of the Jina Chandraprabha (ll 1-2), refers itself to the reign of Trailōkyamalla, i.e. Sōmēśvara I (ll 3-5), and states that at the time the Three-Hundreds of Belvola and Purigere were under the administration of his son, the Mahā-Mandalēśvara Sōmēśvara [II], who bears among many other titles that of "lord of Vēngī best of cities" and "furious elephant of Amma" (ll 5-10). It then introduces a pious and eminent Jain sandhi-vigrah-ādīśkārī, or officer of peace and war, named Beldēva, he and his two younger brothers Baladēva and Śāntivarma were the sons of Aggaladēva and Gojjikabbe (ll 10-17). Beldēva was a "servant" or "soldier" (bamtū) of Kēśirāja, and a disciple of Nayasēna Sūri (ll 17-19). Then come two verses extolling Kañcharasa, a local prince of the Sinda family,¹ who was induced by Beldēva to make a grant out of his own sivata (ll 19-22). Next comes the spiritual pedigree of Nayasēna, and a eulogy of the latter's learning in the Sēna or Chandrakavāta anvaya of the Mūla Sangha there was an eminent divine named Ajitasēna Bhattāraka, whose disciple was Kanakasēna Bhattāraka, whose pupil was the eminent grammarian Nārēndrasēna, who was the teacher of the incomparable grammarian Nayasēna (ll 22-28). An estate, duly specified, and apparently in the sivata of Kañcharasa, was made over by Beldēva to Nayasēna as trustee for the supply of food to the local bastī (ll 28 ff).

The above-mentioned Ajitasēna may very possibly be the famous Jain divine of that name, who was the prior of the Bankāpūr monastery, and who was the spiritual guide of the Western Ganga king Mārasimha II (who piously starved himself to death at Ajitasēna's feet) and of the minister Chāmundarāya² (Ep I, Vol V, pp 152, 171, 180, Ep Carn, Inscr Sravana Belgola, Nos 38 and 67, and introduction, pp 20 and 34, Ep Carn, Vol VI, Kp No 3, and introduction, p 11). He appears to have been a teacher of a Kanakasēna, entitled Vādī-rājan, who is mentioned in several inscriptions as a disciple of Akalanka and teacher of the Ganga king Rāchamalla (Ep Carn, Vol VIII ii, Nr, Nos 35-7, 39, TI, No 192). This Ajitasēna must be distinguished from the scholar of the same name, styled Vādībhasinī, Śābdachaturmukha, and Tārīka chakravartin, who was a later scion of the same spiritual lineage,

and who flourished in the first half of the twelfth century A D (see E I, Vol III, p 188, Ep Carn, Inscr Sravana Belgola, No 54, Ep Carn, Vol VIII n, N₁, Nos 35-7, 3^a, Tl 192) It is not clear which of these two Aptasēnas was the author of the *Alanlāri-chintā-mani*¹ and Mani-prakāśikā (a supercommentary on the grammar of Śākaṭyana) mentioned by Mr Rice in his introduction to the Karnātaka Śabdānusāsana, p 35 We find a similar duplication of Kanakasēnas, for the one mentioned in our record can hardly be the same as Kanakasēna the disciple of Vinayasēna (E I, Vol X, pp 57, 69), or Kanakasēna the disciple of Virasēna, circa A D 880 (ibid, Vol XIII, pp 191, 193 f), while a tradition records yet another as preceptor of Jinasēna the teacher of Mallishēpa

The grammarian Narēndrasēna of our record seems to be the same as Narēndrasēna, the author of a work on logic styled Pramāna-pramēya-kalikā (see S R Bhandarkar, Catalogue of MSS in Deccan College, p 327, A V Kathavate, Report for 1891-5, p 76, Kashinath Kunte, Statement showing old and rare MSS in Gujranwala and Delhi Districts, 1881-2, p 11, Peterson, First Report, p 126) But our inscription B will introduce us to a second Narēndrasēna, a disciple of Nayasēna, who may also have some claim to this distinction

The date of our record is given on l 23 as Śaka 875 (lapsed), the year Vijaya the uttarāyana-samkrānti This ought to correspond to Friday, 24 December, A D 1053, when the samkrānti occurred about 1 h 35 m after mean sunrise, according to the *Ārya-siddhānta*²

The only geographical names mentioned are the Belvola Three-Hundred (l 9), the Puligere Three-Hundred (ib), Mulgunda (l 21), Kīrugere, or 'Little Tank' (l 31), and Asagagere (l 33) On the first two see above, Vol XIII, p 178 f, and XIV, p 188 The Chandrakavāt-ānvaya (l 23) preserves the name of Chandrakavāta, on which see above, Vol XIII, pp 192-4

TRANSLATION.

(Verse 1.) May the radiant Jina Chandraprabha, whose blest pair of lotus-feet is licked by the mass of lustre from priceless gems in the coronets of gods bowing (to him) in intensity of devotion, who overthrows the pride of the Love-god, who is brilliant with glory pervading the belly of the three worlds, fully preserve from harm the congregation of the godly (so that it be) undisturbed

(Lines 3-5) While the victorious reign of—hail!—the asylum of the whole world, favourite of Fortune and Earth, great Emperor, supreme Lord, supreme Master, ornament of Satyāśraya's race, embellishment of the Chālukyas, Trailōkyamalla-dēva, was advancing in a course of successively increasing prosperity, (to endure) as long as moon, sun, and stars —

(Lines 5-10) While his son, the Mahā-Maṇḍalēśvara who has obtained the five great musical sounds, lord of Vēngī best of cities, terrible in battle, a sun among princes, checking the fury of foemen's elephants, a fiery elephant to Amma, a treasure to his household, a Kāṇina [Karna] in bounty, a king of the Vatsas with horses,² a Cupid in beauty, a shaft in the heart of hostile kings, unique athlete of the world, head-jewel of feudatory princes, crest-jewel of the Chālukyas, a destruction to foes, a rampart to the camp, a bee to the lotus-feet of Trailōkyamalla-dēva, Sōmēśvara-dēva, was governing the Belvola Three-Hundred and the Puligere Three-Hundred with enjoyment of pleasant conversations —

(Line 10) One that finds sustenance at his lotus-feet—

(Verse 2) As a foundation of courtesy, a resort of loyalty, a dwelling-place of discernment of truth, a native house of prosperity, a treasure of constant unstinted bounty, a home of dignity was Beldēva renowned, adorned with goodly speech, world-famed, filling the circle of space with glory bright as the rising moon

(Verse 3) "Merit is the merit of giving, conduct is loyalty to one's lord, wealth is designed to be a dwelling for beneficence, principles are the principles of the sin-destroying Jinas" as this true conception came and established itself in them, accordingly Beldēva and the excellent Baladēva and the eminent Sāntivarma fulfilled their religious duties with glory

(Lines 14-17.) Thus of these three brethren, who were famed as exalted in the series of all virtues stainless in the religion of the Jinas, unceasing in beneficence to all people, homes of the creeping-plant of lofty fame, dear sons of Aggaladēva, and cloths tightly swathing the slender belly of Gojjikāmbikā,³ the eldest, a Minister of Peace and War—

(Verse 4) A bee to the Jinas' lotus-feet, like the Love-god, a jewel-mine of fitting thoughts, following the course of Manu, an ocean of courtesy, dissipating the defilement of the Kali Age,

³ [The translation of the phrase Gojjikāmbikā-kṛis ōdara-nibāda-nibaddha-pattarum= as an adjunct to the three brothers Beldēva etc would be more intelligible if rendered "whose fillet (of greatness) was firmly tied (even while they were) in the slender belly of Gojjikāmbikā"—H K S] a henchman of Kēsīrāja, having moreover a mind fervent in adoration of Nayasēna Sūri's lotus-feet, lofty, . . . discernment, he was renowned in the land

(Line 19) As this noble man revealed his spirit in his eminent practice of religion —

(Verse 5) A . . . of the Sindas, one whose form gave delight to women, a seat of peerless courage, son of the Sinda king, having fame like the radiant moonbeams, beloved of lovely women,

(Verse 6) stainless in the religion of the Jinas, a treasure of truthfulness, . . . unstinted bounty, is Kaūcharasa, resembling the (God of the) Five Arrows [Kāma], an ornament to the Sindas' land of Mulgunda

(Lines 21-22) He who, receiving from Kaūcharasa, (i.e. Beldēva) a seat of such greatness and fame, being inspired to religion, made a grant out of his own *stuvata*¹ with presentation of gold —

(Verse 7) There has arisen the Sēna lineage, a seat of radiant gems, jewels consisting of great men, in the ocean of the blest Mūla Sangha

(Lines 23-24) Ajitasēna Bhattāraka, worthiest of the Chandrakavāta lineage—his disciple Kanakasēna Bhattāraka—his disciple—

(Verse 8) The Chāndia (grammar), the Kātānta, the Jainendra (grammar), the Śabdānuśāsana, Pāṇini, and the Andra (grammar) were to the great Muni Narēndrasēna a single letter, to what other man are they possible?²

(Lines 25-26) Thus world-renowned was his disciple—

(Verse 9) What shall I say of thee? As it may be said, "How now, is the great sage Śākrīyāna himself equal (to Nayasēna) in the Śabdānuśāsana, Pāṇini in the Pāṇiniya, Chandra in the Chāndra, that Jinendra in the Jainendra, that Kumāra forsooth in the Kumāra?", there are no others equal to Nayasēna-Pandita on the ocean-girt earth

(Lines 28-33) Having loved the feet of Nayasēna Pandita-dēva, who is thus a consummate master of all grammatical lore, at the uttarāyana-samkrānti of the cyclic year Vijaya, the nine hundred and seventy-fifth (year) of the Śaka era, he³ with the cognisance of the Mahājanas of the town and the establishment of the Five Mathas measured out by the pole of the Nagarēśvara's gaḍimba-standard and granted for the purpose of supplying food to the temple of the sacred demesne, in pious memory of his mother Gojūkabbe, a field of twelve mallar in the field of Kīrugege, with immunity from all conflicting claims. The bounds⁴ of this field are on the north-east a stone (with the figure) of a cow, on the south-east a stone (with the figure) of the sun, on the south-west a stone (with the figure) of the moon, on the north-west a stone (with the figure) of Padmāvati,⁵ to the south of Asagagere a garden of a thousand creeping-plants

² Moggu, meaning "possible," "able," "ability," etc, is not given in Kittel's Dictionary. Rao Bahadur R. Narasimhachar, to whose kindness I owe the interpretation of this passage, has called my attention to its use in Pampa bhārata, XII, 16, Pampa's Ādi-purāna, VI, 29, Abhinava Pampa's Rāmāyana, I, 39, Nāgararma's Kāvyāvalōkana 517, and Āndayya's Kabbigara Kāra 156

³ Namely Beldēva

B.—LAKSHMESHVAR INSCRIPTION OF THE REIGN OF VIKRAMADITYA VI: A.D. 1081.

On the site of Lakshmēshwar (the ancient Puligere, Purigere, or Purikara) I may refer to what I have written above, Vol XIV, p 188. The inscription is on a slab which was in the local Kachēra when the ink-impression was made, whence it originally came I do not know. The stone has a rounded pediment with some sculptures, namely a squatting Jina in the centre, with a cow and sucking calf on the proper left, surmounted by the sun (to right) and moon (to left), a figure or figures has apparently been effaced on the proper right. The inscribed area below this is about 3 ft 2 in broad and 3 ft 6 in high—The character is a fairly regular Kanarese type of the period, slightly angular and sloping. The letters vary from about $\frac{1}{4}$ in to $\frac{1}{2}$ in, in height, and in places are somewhat worn. The cursive v occurs in avar, l 30—The language is Old Kanarese, the only Sanskrit is verse 1 and a short quotation in verse 7. The archaic ḷ is preserved in pogaḷtegam, l 9, negalṭegam, l 9, ḷḍuv, l 15, negalḍara, l 16, ḷḍ, ll 18, 24, negalḍa, l 43, negalḍan, l 44, it appears as r in kirttu, l 3, negartte, l 46, and as l in Noḷamba, ll 8 ff, 23, pogalal, ll 17, 26, negalḍar, l 36, pēḷvaḍe, l 39, pogalalk, l 42, and it is falsely substituted for r in peḷchutt-ire, l 18. It will be noted that in negalḍara, l 16, negalḍa, l 43, and negalḍan, l 44, the second syllable is short metrically, while in negartte, l 46, it is scanned as long (cf above, Vol XIII, p 327), hence it seems likely that negalḍar, l 36, where it is also short, is a scribe's error for negalḍar. Lexically interesting are avasura, l 14 (apparently meaning asura cf avakriṣe, avaguna, etc), uddān, l 18 (cf above, Vol XIII, p 327), bhuvana-bumbhuka, l 19 (ib pp 298, 327), prābda, l 26, pabb[e]*, l 26, arttiga in the sense of "lover," l 38, and gōja with the meaning of "moon," l 39 (cf abja).

The record, opening with the stock stanza Śrīmat-parama-gambhīra° (l. 1), refers itself in prose and verse to the reign of Tribhuvanamalla, or Vikramāditya [VI] (ll 2-5), and then introduces his younger brother Jayasimha III, the Yuvarāja or Heir-apparent, to whom, besides many complimentary titles, it gives the full set of names found in some other records, Trailōkyamalla Vira-Nolamba Pallava-Permānadi Jayasimha-dēva (ll 5-8)¹. After two verses of florid compliments to him (ll 8-10) and a statement in prose that he was at the time governing the "Two Three-hundreds" (namely Belvola and Puligere), the Banavāse Twelve-thousand, the Sāntalige Thousand, and the Kandūr Thousand (ll 10-11), it brings in one of his subordinate barons, the Mahāsāmāntādhipati Eṛemayya (also called below Eṛakapa and Eṛega), a high minister, steward of the royal household, and general (ll 11-13), dwelling in verse upon his virtues and informing us that at the time he was administering the Puligere Three-hundred (ll 13-19). Six verses follow (ll 19-26), which expatiate on the equally surprising merits of Eṛemayya's younger brother Dōna, who also held high office in the government, and then comes a series of seven stanzas (ll 26-34) announcing that on a given date Dōna assigned a grant for the Jain cult in Purikara (the modern Lakshmēshwar) to the trusteeship of Narēndrasēna [II], of the Sēna Gaṇa in the Mūla Sangha, the senior disciple of Nayasēna Sūri, who in his turn was the senior disciple of Narēndrasēna [I]. We have already made the acquaintance of Narēndrasēna I and Nayasēna in the preceding record, the present record, which quotes stanzas 8-9 of A, now carries the succession one generation further on. Our author next brings on the scene in vv 23-34 (ll 34-46) a distinguished family of pious Jains, namely Dinakara (ll 34-36), his sons Rājumayya (or Rāja) and Dūdama (ll 36-42), Dūdama's wife Ēchikabbe and their daughter Hammikabbe (ll 42-43), Hammikabbe's husband Arasimayya or Arasayya (ll 43-44), their son the physician Kannapa or Kanna (ll 44-45), and Kannapa's sons Indapa, Īśvara, Rāji, Kalidēva, Ādinātha, Sānti, and Pārsva (ll 45-46). Here the record breaks off, apparently it was never finished But it would seem that one of the last members of this pedigree was in some way concerned in the grant, perhaps as having petitioned Dōna for it

Of Dūdama certain exploits are reported (ll 39-42) which are rather obscure, owing to the loose and vague language used by the poet The words seem to mean "At the stern command of the sovereign he took captive the Lord of the Eighty-four he in his turn took captive

Sōbhana, who in wrath had seized, bound, and cast into prison king Inda By his might of arm he took captive him who had cast his master into confinement, and made him release him" The data given by the record are too scanty to enable us to identify these persons Very possibly the "Lord of the Eighty-four" may be a Kadamba king, whose dynasty is regularly described in its titles as chaturāṣṭi-nagar-ādhiśthita, "presiding over eighty-four cities" An inscription of Śaka 907 at Hūli (Elliot Collection, Royal Asiatic Society's copy, Vol II, fol 336a) mentions a person named Sōbhānaya, whose pergade made a raid upon Hūli in that year, but it is unsafe to connect him with the Sōbhana of our record

The date is given on l 26 as the sixth year of the Vikrama era, Daimati, Pushya kṛishna 6, a Friday, the yōga vyatipāta, the uttarāyana samkrānti This is regular The tithi mentioned was current on Friday, 24 December, A D 1081, when it ended about 9 h 47 m after mean sunrise (for Ujjain) The uttarāyana-samkrānti occurred on the same day 7 h 25 m after mean sunrise, while the tithi kṛ 6 was still current

The places mentioned are the "Two Three hundreds" (i.e. those of Belvola and Puligere), l 10, the Banavāse Twelve-thousand, l 10, the Sāntalige Thousand, l 11, the Kandūr Thousand, l 11, the Puligere Three hundred, l 18, and the town of Purikara (i.e. Puligere), l 29

TRANSLATION.

(Verse 1) Victorious be the commandment of the Lords of the Three Worlds, enjoined by the Jinās, bearing for token the blest supremely profound doctrine of (different) possibilities of predication

(Lines 2-3) Hail ' the refuge of the whole world, favourite of Fortune and Earth, great Emperor, supreme Lord, supreme Master, ornament of Satyāśraya's race, embellishment of the Chālukyas, Tribhuvanamallā dēva—

(Verse 2) What emperors have completely torn up the roots of froward monarchs, scattered them with hurtling fling into the waters, stood up in the fore front, and cleared the earth of thorns, right up to the (surrounding) ocean? A gem of emperors, the exceedingly puissant Vikramāditya, has cleared the earth of thorns and constantly protected it

(Lines 4-5) So, while the victorious reign of Tribhuvanamallā-dēva was advancing in a course of successively increasing prosperity, (to endure) as long as moon and stars —

(Lines 5-8) His younger brother—hail ¹—he who is praised by the whole world, renowned among men, scion of the Pallavas, darling of Fortune and Earth, heir-apparent, Paramēśvara [Supreme Lord] among kings, Mahēśvara [Great Lord] among warriors, adorned with valour, minion of the goddess of victory, guardian-gem to refuge-seekers, crest-gem of the Chālukyas, Trinētra [Śiva] in the fray, purifying the Kshatriyas, a king of the Angas [Karna] to fiery elephants, a natural Love-god, plunderer of hostile kings, champion of his elder brother, Trailōkyamalla Vira-Nolamba Pallava-Permānadi Jayasimha-dēva—

(Verse 3) Nolamba, a fatal discus against foemen's dominions, following the course of the series of primitive kings such as Nala, Nahusha, and Nriga, a crest-gem to the Chālukyas, a natural Love god, whose feet are illumined by wreaths of lustre from numbers of gems adorning the heads of the crowd of bowing hostile monarchs, he whose enemies' hosts have fled—is he ordinary among kings ?

(Lines 9-10) Being known as a subject of such praise and distinction—

(Verse 4) Vira-Nolamba, in whom are embodied the royal virtues, who has no foes remaining, towards whom the people's affection waxes great, the creeping-plant of whose glory stands erect, has hosts of foes bowing before him

(Lines 10-11) While he was protecting the Two Three-hundreds,¹ the Banavāse Twelve-thousand, the Sūntalige Thousand, and the Kandūr Thousand with enjoyment of pleasing conversations —

(Lines 11-13) One who finds sustenance at his lotus-feet, the Mahāsūmantādhipati who has obtained the five great musical sounds, great august General, setting arrows on the heads of foes, gallant to the lady the art of literature, bee to the lotus-face of Sarasvatī, he whose soul is matured by remembrance of Hara's feet adored (by him), a jewel in the ear of Sarasvatī, the High Minister, Steward of the Household, (and) General, Eremayya—

(Verse 5) A Brahmā in all arts, a sun of the Brāhman race, a moon to the ocean of the Vatsa gūtra, a king Death to foes, is the General Erega a man of slight account in the series of worlds ?

(Verse 6) If the lord Erega has a resemblance (to anything) on earth, it is the earth, the ocean, (and) Indra's mountain² (to which he may be compared respectively) for weightiness, profundity, (and) solidity (But), if one considers, the earth, which became tremulous through the Demons,³ may become something different, the ocean, which had its profundity diminished by Rāma,⁴ may become something different, the celestial mountain, which became light of weight through Krishna, may become something different, if sometime the case should happen

(Verse 7) If one reflects, the distance between his merit and (other) illustrious men's merit may be said to be the distance between an elephant and a gnat, hence the sages' phrase "what envy is there for merits ?" applies well to the lord Erega

(Verse 8) The creeping plant of (his) goodly stainless glory has thus overspread the regions of space so that there is no gap, (his) valour has wrought . . . , (his) weightiness is beyond comparison, his conduct has reached a crowning degree, it has been such that they say "a son of strength⁵ has again been born". who are able to praise (adequately) Erega's eminence ?

(Verse 9) As he lives in such fame and repute, as (his) distinction, in which he is known as a sweet springtime to his land, continues to increase, as he enjoys the government of the

⁵ This phrase seems to be a version of the Vedic sahasah putra

Puligere Three-hundred while maintaining the high degree of his lord's fortune, and holds a happy course transcending even Karna in generosity (and) truthfulness—the General Erega is of the same quality as Balin and Indra

(Verse 10) His younger brother Dōna, a seat of unbounded merit, a bhūṭana-bumbhūṭa,¹ enjoying the fortunes of the Lord of the Gods [Indra], peerless in strength of arm, a (God of the) Flowery Arrows [Kāma] to the multitude of enemies' wives, has become eminent

(Verse 11) Erega's younger brother is in valour the younger brother of him who shattered the troop of the Kuru race [Arjuna], in incomparable beauty the younger brother of Baladēva [Kṛishna], in might of arm the younger brother of Yama's son [Bhīma]

(Verse 12.) When enemy kings are bowing at the base of Erega's feet it is Dōna who makes them bow, so that their cry is "I cannot but bow", he bears the burden of his lord's business, while the covetous and their like stoop (before him)

(Verse 13) As there appears no grudging in (his) generosity, nor shortcoming in his worthy conduct, nor shame in his behaviour, are any other men in the world of mortals equal to Dōna, who is a (God of the) Flowery Arrows to women, a preserver of a multitude of agreeable cultured men, an expert in all arts equal to the Lotus-horn [Brahman]

(Verse 14) His deity is Paśupati, a supremely helpful lord, Nolamba, conqueror of hosts of foes, has cherished and supported him, his father is Tikka, eminent for a series of brightest virtues, his mother is Kalvāmbike, adorned with brilliant conduct, his elder brother is the renowned Erakapa, a gem of the company of generals thus Dōna is a dwelling-place for glory

(Verse 15) In this Iron Age, this time of stress, there has been an outcry² at the rise of an ocean of righteousness, so that it would seem as if the people of the earth altogether with one voice in their delight were joyously uttering praises, saying "after a long time it has become visible, thus righteousness is coming to hand!"

(Verse 16) Whilst Pushya of the year Durmati, the sixth in the series³ of the years of Vikrama delightful in their course, the dark fortnight, and Friday and the sixth (lunar) day were in progress, while with these coincided a mahā-yōga consisting of *vyatipāta*⁴ and the great uttarāyana-samkrānti, the excellent man Dōna, brilliant of fame, preserver of wide righteousness, here with generosity—

(Verses 17-18) Having laved in this Purikara, a divine city, the feet of Narēndrasēna Traividyā,⁵ who is a moon to the ocean of the supreme Jinās' Church and a lotuses' friend [sun] in the sky of the Sēna Gana, that mine of lustre sprung from the Mūla Sangha, who is a bridegroom of the goddess of white fame, a chief of worthy ascetics, one to whom monarchs bow down, a man without fault—

(Verse 21) "He has cherished Sarasvatī with delight of spirit, me he has despised, I do not exist while she is present—fit⁶ to cohabit with a rival wife is hard!"—uttering these harsh words, swiftly mounting the elephant of the sky-quarter, Fame herself enviously reviles the worthy ascetic Nayasēna Sūri⁶

² Or, possibly, "elation"

³ Properly tatī śhatka means a series of six

⁴ The yōga when the declination of sun and moon is equal

the triple lore, something ordinary—he whose pair of lotus-feet is beaten by diadems of stooping sovereigns, he who is renowned, he who is a sun in peerless lustre, a mirror to the lotus-face of the lady Fame who is renowned (as being bright as) stars, pearl-strings, Hara's laughter,¹ ether, and frost, he who is an ocean of scriptural lore?

(Verse 23) Because of the magnificence of (his) extraordinary sun-like character² owing to the presence of the majesty³ of conquered foes (appropriated by him), because of (his) firm mind devoted to the grand and brilliant Jain religion, because of (his) peculiar quality of superlative splendour by which he is known as a sun in the sky of the Brāhmaṇ race, because of (his) supremacy in peerless might, because of (his) peculiar eminence in bounty, and because of (his) truthfulness, Dinakara (was) a mine of exceeding lustre, a heap of godliness

(Verse 24) As on the rise of the sun all darkness flees away, so with the rise of Dinakara the darkness of error flees away from the park of his race and is dissipated what a wonder!

(Verse 25) His sons Rājamayya and Dūdama are illustrious over the whole earth as being renowned among men, bees to the Jinās' lotus feet, possessed of culture

(Verse 26) All learned folk everlastingly praise lovingly with affection of spirit Rāja,⁴ who is stainless and bright in brilliance, as being a bee to the Jinās' lotus-feet, gladdener of good men's souls renowned over the whole earth, radiant with lustrous fame mounting to the tusks of the elephants of the sky-quarters, a tree of desire to cultured and agreeable men, exceeding in bounty to worthy recipients

(Verse 27) The world in unison always without cease rightly extols with gladness (?) of spirit (and) with affection Rāja, who is brilliant as the sun, a moon in golden hue,⁵ a tree of desire to clients, calling him a lover of the worship of the Jinās according to the rules of the saint Maṇu's course, bountiful, peerless in brilliance pure, full of kindness

(Line 39) If one would describe the measure of his beloved younger brother's valour—

(Verse 28) At the stern command of the sovereign he took captive the Lord of the Eighty-four; in his boldness he clasped not his hands (in submission), he in his turn took captive in a most marvellous manner that same Sōbhana who in wrath had seized, bound, and cast into prison king Inda is this singular degree of Dūda's valour an ordinary thing?

(Verse 29) "By his might of arm he took captive him who had cast his master into confinement, and made him release him" thus this triple world lauds the valiant Dudama, scion of worthy Brāhmans

(Verse 30) The excellent lady of Dūda, who has thus been described, far surpassed in beauty the Mind-born One's mistress [Ratī] despite this praise, men do not withal fully comprehend in any way Ēchikabbe's beauty

(Verse 31) So there was born to them Hammikabbe, comparable to a goddess, having locks of hair like troops of gadding bees, brilliantly distinguished, a wishing-gem to sages, a jewel of women

(Verse 32) This illustrious Hammikabbe's completely beloved husband, Arasamayya, comely as the Mind-born One, was distinguished in the world like Kāṇina [Karna] here in respect of bounty

(Verse 33) The lady Hammikabbe, who was adorned with the ornaments of the merits of peerless bounty and virtue, and the most generous lord Arasayya had a son, the physician

² There is perhaps a play on saurya and saurya, "valour" The name Dinakara means literally "sun"

⁴ Rāja means "moon", hence the following epithet.

⁵ Gāṇa, lit. "milk-born," may mean "moon," though I have never found it used in this derivative sense. Were it not for the context, I should be inclined to suggest pasuḡe gōpanan, "shepherd to his flock"

Kannapa, who was refined, a mine of excellence, skilled in the healing art, pre-eminent among good men in view of this, as he was godly in his works, who has such righteousness accounted to him as Kanna ?

(Verse 34) Their sons are Indapa, a bee to the Jinās' lotus-feet, Īśvara, an ocean of noble virtue, Rāji, brilliant in refinement, the worthy Kalidēva, Ādinātha, an accumulator of incalculable merit, the exceedingly pure Śānti, (and) the distinguished Pārśva: hence who has such righteousness accounted to him as Kanna ?

NO 10—TWO KADAMBA INSCRIPTIONS OF NIRALGI.

By LIONEL D BARNETT

The village of Nirālgi, whence these records come, lies in the Hāngal tālukā of Dhārwar District, in lat 14° 52' and long 75° 18', about 11½ miles to the north east of Hāngal town. As our inscriptions shew, it was formerly called Nirālī. The ink-impressions on which the texts of the following inscriptions are based were prepared for the late Dr Fleet, and are now in the British Museum.

A—OF THE REIGN OF SOMESVARA I. SAKA 974.

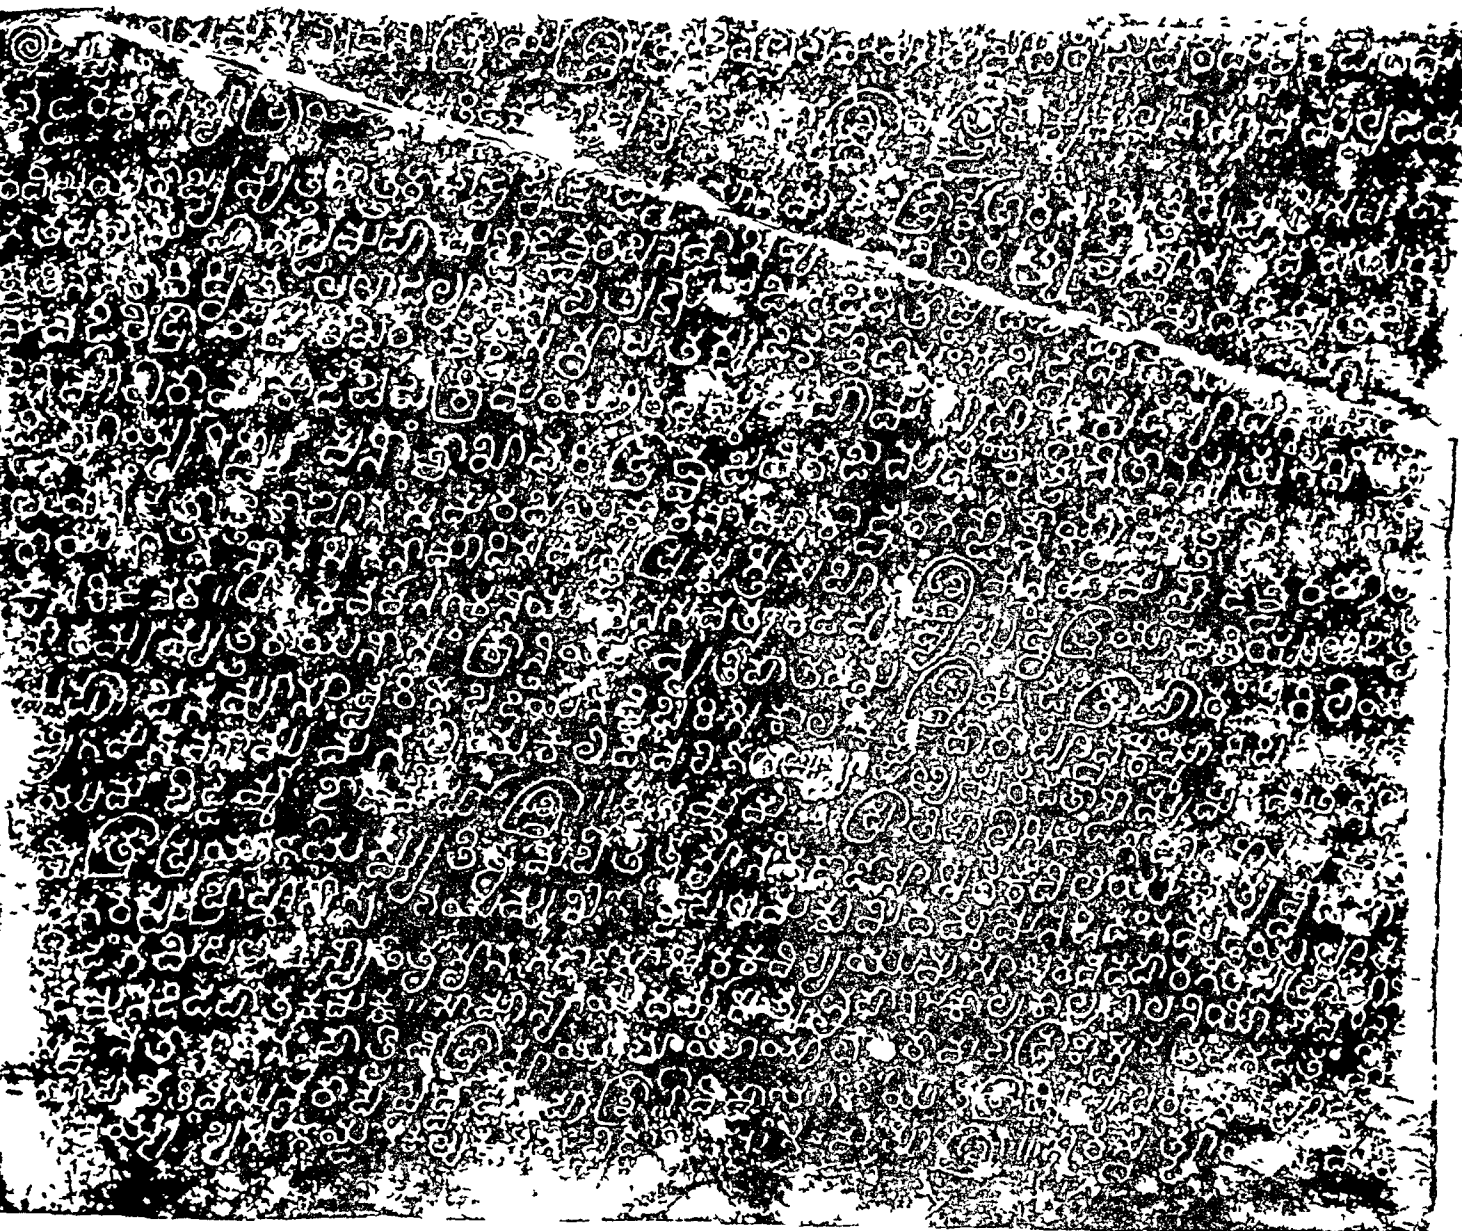

As to the exact site where this record was found and the character of the stone I have no information. The inscribed area is about 2 ft high and 2 ft 5½ in broad.—The character is fairly good Kanarese of the period, with letters ½-¾ in high. The palatal and the guttural nasals both occur hāñchanam (l 9), =mmangala (l 15).—The language, except in the formal Sanskrit verses and final formulæ and the phrase Sarasatyāya namaḥ (an error for Sarasatyāya namaḥ) in l 22, is Old Kanarese prose. The l is preserved in =ggaḷdeyumaṃ (l 14) and pēḷa (l 18), it is changed to l in baḷiyan (l 13), and ali (l 17, 19). On the phrase baḷiyan=atṭi see Dr Fleet's remarks above, Vol XI, p. 3.

The record begins by referring itself to the reign of Trailōkyamalla-Āhavamalla, i.e. Sōmēsvara I (ll 1-3), and then informs us that on a certain date the Kādamba Mahā-Mandalōśvaraḥ Harikēśarin formally made over by deputy certain estates to the Three-Hundred Mahājānas of Nirālī for the maintenance of the Piriya Kere or Great Tank and the cult of the god Kalī (ll 3-15). The document was drafted by the town-clerk Jōgivaṃṣya, and engraved by Chittōja (ll 21-22). Harikēśarin is the prince, also named Arikēśarin and Hariga, who figures in the Bankāpū inscription of Śaka 977 published by me above, Vol XIII, p 168,¹ with titles almost the same as those given in the present record. I there stated (p 169) that the year Śaka 977 marked the earliest known connection of the Kādambas with the Banavāsī province, we are now able to trace it back to a date three years earlier.

The date is given in ll 11-12 as Śaka 974 (expired), the cyclic year Nandana, Pushya śuddha 13, Sunday, the uttarāyana-samkrānti, i.e. vyatipāta. This is irregular. In Nandana there was an intercalated Pushya. If we take the given tithi as belonging to the latter, it corresponded to Tuesday, 5 January, A D 1053, ending at 12 h 19 m after mean sunrise. Mr R Sewell, who has kindly checked my calculations in this paper, points out that the tithi śuddha 13 in Nija-Pushya of the same year was expunged at mean sunrise or Wednesday, 3 February, A D 1053, the current tithi was śuddha 12, and at the same moment on the following Thursday the current tithi was śuddha 14. Furthermore, the uttarāyana-samkrānti took place on Wednesday, 24 December, A D 1052, at 19 h 23 m after mean sunrise.

Nirālgi Inscription of the reign of Somesvara I Saka 974.

The only places mentioned are Banavāsī (l 4), the Agrahāra of Nirali, i.e. Niralgi (l 12), the Piriya Kere or Great Tank (ll 13-14), and the tirthas (ll 15-16).

TRANSLATION

(Lines 1-3) While the victorious reign of—hail!—the asylum of the whole world, favourite of Fortune and Earth, great Emperor, supreme Lord, supreme Master, ornament of Satyāśraya's race, embellishment of the Chālukyas, king Trailōkyamalla-Āhavamalla, was advancing in a course of successively increasing prosperity, (to endure) as long as moon, sun, and stars —

(Lines 3-11) Hail! The Mahā-Mandalēśvara who has obtained the five great musical sounds, who bears all titles of honour such as "lord of Banavāsī best of cities, ornament of the race of the Kādamba emperor the great king Mayūravarmā, which is sprung from the Three-eyed [Śiva] and Earth, presides over eighty-four cities, is consecrated in eighteen world-famous horse-sacrifices to (the god of) the Frontal Eye [Śiva] and the Four-armed [Viṣṇu], has established its might upon the massive summits of the great Mount Himavat, binds its fiery elephants to columns of crystal, and is charming with great majesty,—he who is (attended) with the noise of permatṭi drums and (other) musical instruments, who is resplendent with a banner (bearing the device) of a great ape, is canopied in glory, and has for crest a stately lion; giver of gold to the needy, cause of victory in the fray, man of might to adversaries, sun of valour, a Nārāyaṇa of the gallant, a lion for his elder brother"—the Mahā-Mandalēśvara Harikēśari-dēva,—

(Lines 11-12) On Sunday, the thirteenth of the bright fortnight of Pushya in the cyclic year Nandana, the 974th (year) of the Śaka era, at the uttarāyana samkrānti, in a vyatipāta,¹—

(Lines 12-15) Having sent a summoner to the Three-hundred Mahājanas of the Agrahāra of Nīrili, convened them, and laved their feet, made over with pouring of water the house-tax to the Great Tank, and a garden of six-hundred trees and a field of one maṭṭa to the god Kālī of that place Happiness! great fortune!

(Lines 15-19 a prose commonitory formula of the usual type)

(Verses 1-2 two common Sanskrit verses)

B—OF THE REIGN OF SOMESVARA II SAKA 996-7

In the case of this epigraph also I have been unable to trace the site whence it comes, or to find any details as to the stone. The inscribed area, which is much worn by weather, comprises an upper compartment, on which are lines 1-2, and a lower one containing all the rest, it is nearly 4 ft high and 2 ft 7½ in wide.—The character is Kanarese, rather straggling and clumsy, and resembling the Peggūr inscription of A.D. 978 (no. 4 of "Coorg Inscriptions," revised edition). The cursive forms of m, y, and v (above, Vol. XII, p. 335) are all found here—m in °balamam and (?) brīdyatvamam, l. 22, mandalika°, l. 24, śrīman°, l. 33, dharma°, ll. 37, 39, lavileyumam, ll. 39-40, °pāṭaham, l. 40, Rāma°, l. 41, y in °samkrāntiyamdum, ll. 31-32, Umchagēriya, l. 32, and v in nerevare, l. 23. The ñ is written in pamñcha°, ll. 30, 38, 40. The height of the letters varies from ⅔ in to ⅞ in.—The language is Old Kanarese, except in the Sanskrit verses on ll 40-42 and the barbarous concluding formula. The archaic l occurs once, in pēḷḷa, l 39, it is replaced by l in baḷi°, ll 10, 33, baḷiya, l 36, ali°, ll 39-40, and by r in mēl-ārḷeyya, l 13 (a blunder for °ālkeya) and ērppattara, l 32. In regard to lexicography, we may notice baḷiyan=atti, l 10, and baḷiy-atti, l 33 (see above, inscri A), mānp=, l 22, (?) tott=, l 22, (?) brīdyatva, l 22, poli-um, l 23 (perhaps connected with pole, "to shine" or "to be swung about". should we then read here polepum ?), and avamgumte, l 28 (in Kittel's Dictionary avangōta).

The record is twofold, comprising two endowments, and probably was engraved at the time when the record was granted. The first (ll 1-13) opens by referring itself to the reign of a Chālukya king whose name is here lost, but that it was Bhuvanaikamalla (Sōmēśvara II) is proved by the reference to him and the date in l 8. It then mentions (ll 3-5) the Mahā-Mandalēśvara Vikramāditya-dēva (possibly the king's younger brother, afterwards Vikramāditya VI), and likewise (ll 5-7) a noble of the Pallava lineage named Bhuvanaikamalla-Pallava-Paṇmānadi Vi[shnuvardhana-Vi]jayāditya,¹ and bearing among his other titles that of "lord of Kāñchī best of cities", and it states that, when Vikramāditya and Vishnuvardhana-Vijayāditya were at Bankāpura in the course of a tour of state in the service of king Bhuvanaikamalla, in Śaka 996, they granted the village of Basalūr, in the Elambī Twenty, to the 300 Mahājānas of Nīrali for the maintenance of the cult of Rāmcēśvara (a well-known form of Śiva) at Pomballī (ll 7-13).

Then comes the second record (ll 13-43). It begins by introducing, in prose, with the usual titles of his lineage and some others, the Kādamba Mahā-Mandalēśvara Śāntivarman, "lord of Banavāsī best of cities" (ll 13-21), and extols his valour and glory in four verses (ll 21-30). After this comes the formal statement that in Śaka 997, when at Uñchagēri, he, in concert with two other high officers of state, renewed the grant of the first record (ll 30-42).² Bichchara Gangayya made the fair copy, and Sūdōja engraved it (ll 42-43).

There are two dates. The first is given on ll 8-9 as Śaka 996, Ānanda, the full-moon of Āśvayuja, an eclipse of the moon. This seems to be regular. The tithi mentioned was current at sunrise on Tuesday, 7 October, A D 1074, and ended about 20 h 3 m after mean sunrise (for Ujjain). On that day there was a lunar eclipse, in which total obscuration began 19 h 30 m after mean sunrise, while the above tithi was still current.

The second date is given on ll 31-32 as Śaka 997, Rākshasa, Pushya sūddha 1, Sunday, the uttarāyana-samkrānti. This is quite wrong. Pushya sūddha 1 of given year corresponded to Friday, 11 December, A D 1075, on which it ended about 11 h 15 m after mean sunrise. The uttarāyana-samkrānti, on the other hand, occurred on Thursday, 24 December, about 18 h after mean sunrise, so that Friday was reckoned as the first day of Makara.

The places mentioned are Kāñchī (ll 6, 7), the nale-vidu of Bankāpura (l 8), Pomballī (ll 10, 35), the Pānungal Five-hundred (l 12), the Elambī Twenty (ll 12, 36), Basalūr (ib.), Banavāsī (ll 18, 30), the nale vidu of Uñchagēri (l 32), and the tīrthas (l 37), besides a rather obscure phrase nād=ēippattara (l 32), which is perhaps a mistake for nād=irppattara, "the Twenty of the county," viz Elambī. Pomballī is the modern Hombli, lying 3½ miles nearly south of Nirālgi, in lat 14° 49½' and long 75° 17½'. One is tempted to identify Uñchagēri with the modern Wunchigēri, near Kumtā, but the distance from Nirālgi is considerable. Kāñchī (Conjeevaram), Bankāpura (Bankāpūr), and Pānungal (Hāngal) are well known. Elambī and Basalūr do not seem to be traceable.

(Lines 1-3) Fortune! While the reign of—hail!—the asylum of the whole world, [favourite] of Fortune and Earth, [great Emperor, supreme Lord, supreme Master, ornament] of Satyāśraya's [race, embellishment of the Chālukyas, king Bhuvanaikamalla,] was advancing [in a course of successively increasing prosperity, (to endure) as long as moon, sun, and stars] —

(Lines 3-5) When he who finds sustenance at his lotus feet,—hail!—the Mahā-Mandalēśvara who has obtained the five great musical sounds, having all titles of honour such as “incarnation of Gauṛī and Gaṇēśa (?), beloved of Pārvatī, protection ” the Mahā-mandalēśvara Vikramāditya-dēva,—

(Lines 5-8) Likewise—hail!—the scion of the heroic Pallava race illustrious over the whole world, favourite of Fortune and Earth, of the Pallavas, unfailing in speech, lord of Kāñchi best of cities, Bhuvanaikamalla-Pallava-Permānadi Viṣṇuvardhana (?)-Vijayāditya, in concert (with him), having made a tour of state for king Bhuvanaikamalla, at the standing camp¹ of Bankāpura,—

(Lines 8-13) On the full-moon day of Āśvayuja in the cyclic year Ānanda, the 998th (year) of the Śaka era, during an eclipse of the moon, having sent a summoner and convened the Three-hundred Mahījanas of the Agrahāna of Nīrī and laved their feet, made over with pouring of water Basalūr, a town belonging to the Elambi Twenty, a county of the Pānungal Five-hundred, with full internal authority of higher administration, for the baths and oblations of the god Rāmēśvara of the sanctuary of Pomballi, for scents and incense, for perpetual lamps, for the learned men of (the cult of) Śiva resident in the monastery, for the Brāhmins, and for the chariv-hall

(Lines 13-21) Hail! The Mahā-Mandalēśvara Śāntivarma-dēva, who bears all titles of honour such as “he whose puissance of great might is established upon the massive summits of the great Mount Himavat mighty of majesty, the emperor of all central mountains, a magnificent sun in the sky of the Kādamba race, he whose awful rod-like arm is adorned by the residence of heroes' Fortune won by the victories of his arms uplifted on the occasion of many a fray, a fire of Doom to potent foemen's races, inspired with majesty and wrath, sprung from the lineage consecrated in the consecratory rites of eighteen world-renowned horse-sacrifices to (the God of) the Frontal Eye, presiding over eighty-four cities, lord of that best of cities the peculiarly excellent Banavāsī, lion of the Kādambas, ornament of the race of the Kādamba Emperor, the great king Mayūravarma, he who is (saluted) with the noise of permatu drums and (other) musical instruments, who is resplendent with a banner (bearing the device) of a great ape, who has for crest a lion stately in pride, giver of gold to the needy, man of might to adversaries, sun in battle, cause of victory in the fray, furious elephant for his elder brother” —

(Verse 1) When puissant hostile monarchs come bowing at his feet for refuge,² in fear and terror of his irresistible might of arm yearning for the word “stop,” they confess their shame at once, aha! as they swell in pride, put forth effort, become arrested, bend, contract themselves, boil in rage, strike in resistance, confronting (thee)³ will they be able to contend in the fray, O Rudra of the Kādambas?

(Verse 2) O king Śānta, thou Death-spirit of cosmic dissolution to warriors of puissant enemy princes, ornament of princes, Bhairava to princes, Tripētra [Śiva] to princes, grindstone to princes, thou whose footstool is rubbed by princess' crests, thou frontal diadem of princes, what princes on earth are like to thee?

(Verse 3) When, confronting foes with the fire of his puissant wrath, aha! he is slaying them, when by the might of his arm, hurrah! he terrifies the Guardians of the Spaces, moves great mountains, shakes the whole earth, brings dread upon the elephants of the spaces, dries up the ocean, what high spirit! Say, ho! is not the Rudra of the Kādambas instantly effective in his wrath?

(Verse 4) In thy pride, O king, thou hast, with not a single one of them lacking, (Śiva's) brandished sword, pike, skulls, parasol, khatāṅga-club, trident, gleaming frontal eye, elephant-hide, high mass of hair on the head, troops of fearful goblins as votaries, black throat, Gauri, occupying half of (Śita's) body, and (hair dressed in the shape of) a dovecot on the top of wondrous matted tresses radiant with the lustre of the half-moon who has obtained eminence

(Lines 30-33) Hail! the Mahā-Maṇḍalēśvara who has obtained the five great musical sounds, lord of Banavāsi best of cities, the Mahā-Maṇḍalēśvara Śāntivarma-dēva, on Sunday, the first of the bright fortnight of Pushya in the cyclic year Rākshasa, the 997th (year) of the Śaka era, on the uttarāyana-saṅkrānti, when he was at the standing camp of Uñchagēri in the Seventy (?) of the county, having sent a summoner and convened the Three Hundred Mahājanas of Nīrali,—

(Lines 33-37) The Mahā-Maṇḍalēśvara Śāntivarma-dēva, and the high minister, senior controller, (and) general Īśvarammayya, and the high minister (and) controller Śōbhanayya in concert, having laved the feet (of the Mahājanas), made over with pouring of water Basalūr, a town belonging to the Elambi Twenty, inclusively with full internal authority, for the personal enjoyment of the god Rāmēśvara of the sanctuary of Pomballi, for the celibates and the twelve Brāhmins worshipping the god, and for the charity-hall

(Lines 37-40 . a prose formula of the usual type)

(Verses 5 6 two common Sanskrit metrical formulæ)

NO 11—THREE INSCRIPTIONS FROM HOTTUR

By LIONEL D BARNETT

Hottūr—or, to give it its ancient name, Pottiyūr—is a village in the Bankāpūr tāluka of Dhārwar District, lying in lat 14° 56' and long 75° 16', some three miles nearly due south from Shiggaon. The ink-impressions from which the following inscriptions have been edited by me were prepared for the late Dr Fleet, and are now in the possession of the Trustees of the British Museum.

A.—OF THE REIGN OF SATYASRAYA · SAKA 928.

This inscription is cut upon a rectangular block, divided into six horizontal bands, and surmounted by a stepped top, I can find no record of the site where it stands, or stood. The stone is a ciragal, with sculptures of the usual type. In the uppermost compartment, a seated god with a fan-bearer on each side, below this, lines 1-6 of the inscription, below this, the hero being carried up to heaven by deities, one on each side, below this, lines 7-12 of the inscription, below this, a battle-scene, representing in the centre the hero with a bow, facing to the proper left and shooting against two archers, while a third man is falling pierced with arrows at his feet, and six cows stand behind him; below this is the base¹ The width of the inscribed bands is about 2 ft 5 in, and their height about 6½ in They are very much worn, and parts—happily not material—are quite broken away—The character is Old Kanarese of the period, rather clumsy and irregular The height of the letters varies generally between ½ in and ¾ in The cursive y appears in °chayamgala[ñ], l 5, and °gēriya, l 12 (see above, Vol XII, p 335)—The language is Old Kanarese prose Original ȷ is preserved, and sometimes ȷ is wrongly written for ȷ The words taḷaram, l 9 (see above, Vol XVI, p 80), and eḷṭu (eḷṭam, l 10, and eḷṭige, l 11), the source of the modern eḷṭu, are deserving of notice

The record, after giving the date (l 1), describes in detail an invasion by the Chōḷa king, whom it styles Rājarāja Nitya-vinōda Rājēndra-vidyādharma Nūrmadi-Chōḷa (ll 1-3) This evidently refers to Rājarāja I, who was reigning at the time, and bore the title of Nitya-vinōda (South-Ind Inscr, Vol II, pp 151, 260 n, 301) It then relates his defeat by the Chālukya Akalankacharita-Iṣvabedanga Satyāśraya, and the latter's triumphal progress through the south (ll 3-6) While Satyāśraya in the course of this campaign was at the ghaṭṭa of Tāvare (see Dyn Kan Distr, p 433), and certain persons, whose names are lost, were acting as gāṇḍas of the nāḍu and the town of Poṭṭiyūr respectively, a raid was made by robbers upon the oxen belonging to the betel-traders, and the beadle Goṇṇiga perished in a valiant attempt to save them In recognition of his courage the betel-traders made a grant, apparently for a kal-nāḍu (ll 6-12) The stone was prepared by Māchōḷa of Indēśvaragēri (l 12).

The date is given in l 1 as Śaka 9[2]9, the cyclic year Plavamga being current What is meant is evidently A D 1007-8, with which Plavamga coincided, the words pravarttisuttum-ire, "being current," refer to Plavamga, not to Śaka 929, for Plavamga corresponded to Śaka 929 lapsed and Śaka 930 current

The places mentioned are Donavura (l 2), the ghaṭṭa of Tāvare, or "the Lotus-Ghaṭ" (l 6), the Pānuṅgal Five-hundred (ll 7-8), Poṭṭiyūr (l 9), and Indēśvaragēri (l 12) Donavura must be Donūr, in the Bāgewādi taluka of Bijāpūr District, in lat 16° 44½' and long 76° 0½' It is not clear whether the ghaṭṭa of Tāvare means a mountain-range or pass, as Dr Fleet holds (Dyn Kanar Distr, p 433), or a bank or quay Pānuṅgal is of course the modern Hāngal, and Poṭṭiyūr is Hottār I cannot locate Indēśvaragēri, but there was a sanctuary of Indrēśvara at Bankāpūr.

TRANSLATION.

(Lines 1-3) The cyclic year Plavamga, (corresponding to) the 929th (year) of the Śaka era, being current—when Rājārāja Nitya-vinōda Rājendra-vidyādhara, ornament of the Chōḷa race, Nūrmadi-Chōḷa, came accompanied by a host of nine-hundred thousand (men), halted at Donavura, and was ravaging the whole country, perpetrating murders of women, children, and Brāhmins, seizing women, and overthrowing the order of caste,—

(Lines 3-7) Hail !—the auspicious king of kings, supreme Lord, supreme Master, Akalankacharita Iṇvabedanga, ornament of the Chālukya race, slayer of Tamils, the auspicious king Sityāśraya, drove away the Chōḷa, captured his trains of baggage-waggons, and made a triumphal progress through the South,

B —OF THE REIGN OF JAYASIMHA II SAKA 959.

This record is cut upon a stone which was found somewhere in Survey No 91, the exact site I do not know. The slab has a rounded top, with sculptures in the centre a linga on a stand, on the proper right a cow (?), above it, the sun (to right) and moon (to left). The inscribed area below this is about 6 ft 1½ in high and 2 ft 11½ in wide—The character is Kanarese, of a rather irregular hand of the period. The letters vary in height from about 1 in to ½ in, they are largest at the beginning. The inscription is rather worn, and it is often quite uncertain whether the sonne is written. In the first half of the record the cursive y (above, Vol XII p 335) is more usual than the tripartite form, the cursive m appears thrice, the cursive v thrice—The language, except for the standing formulæ of verses 3 and 4, is Old Kanarese. The 1 is preserved in īda[m], l 2, īdu, l 41, negāld=, l 19, and irregularly in paḷam, l 42, it is replaced by l in pelavara, l 16, alid=, l 43, alida, l 44, and perhaps balīy=, l 37. Initial p is kept throughout. Of some lexical interest are vadda-lāgula, l 32, and vadda-lāiula, l 37 (for the more usual form vadda-rāiula), pannahēni, l 32, and chatṭa, l 24.

The record opens with a short statement of a grant made by the three controllers of taxes of the county (ll 1-3). It then refers itself to the reign of Jayasimha (II) Jagadēkamalla (ll 4-6), and states that at the time of the endowment to be chronicled Akkā-dēvi¹ (the sister of Vikramāditya V, on whom see Dyn. Kanar. Distr., pp 435, 437, 439 f) was ruling the Banavāsī Twelve-thousand (ll 6-7), the mahā mandalēśvara Mayūravarma-dēva, "lord of Banavāsī best of cities" and "a lion for Harikānta," was administering the same province and the Pānungal Five-hundred (ll 8-12), Māra Gāvunda of Pottiyūr, who is described as "a brother-in-law to the lame" (cf inscription C below, ll 16-17) and hence by reason of this service to the physically afflicted as "a tīrttha (holy place, where the sick and crippled resort for divine help) in the midst of the county, a Sōmanātha (Sōmnāth) of the south," was serving as prabhu or sheriff of the Pānungal Five-hundred (ll 13-22), the Kannada-sandhivagrāhi (minister for affairs of peace and war in the Kannada country) and general Chāvanarasa, who is described among other epithets as a chatṭa to Singa (possibly Jayasimha II), a comet (or fire) to the Konkan, an uprooter of Pannāla, a grindstone to Balejavattana, a shatterer of the pride of the fortress of Bijavādi, and a disā-patta to Dōra, was ruling the Belvala Three-hundred and the Purigere Three-hundred (ll 23-29), and the pergade Akalimayya was controlling the taxation of Belvala and Purigere (ll 29-32). Then follows the specification of the endowment (ll 32-42), by which certain high revenue officials arranged for the division of the tolls on betel-leaves between the various taxation-departments and assigned a proportion for the upkeep of the Kemgere, or "Red Tank," presumably in or near Pottiyūr. The record ends with a moral verse written by the town-clerk Dāsīmayya or Dāsiga.

It is worthy of note that the Banavāsī province was at this time under the rule of both Akkā-dēvi and Mayūravarma. The fact suggests that there was some close connection between the two, such as that of husband and wife, and this inference is supported by the inscription C below, which shews that Akkā-dēvi's son, the Kādamba mahā-mandalēśvara Tōyima-dēva, possessed titles very similar to those borne in the present record by Mayūravarma. Both were "lords of Banavāsī best of cities", Mayūravarma is Harikāntana singa (B., l 10), Tōyima-dēva is Harigana singa (C, l 13). It seems therefore reasonable to infer that Mayūravarma was married to Akkā-dēvi, and that Tōyima-dēva was their son. Mayūravarma's title Harikāntana singa, "lion of Harikānta," seems to point to some services rendered to a king of that name, who may have been a predecessor (perhaps the grandfather) of the Kādamba Harikēśara or Hariga of Bankāpūr, see above, Vol. XIII, p 168 ff, and below, inscr C.

The date² is specified on l 34 as Śaka 959, Īśvara, Mārgaśīra śuddha 11, a Monday. This is regular: the given tithi corresponded to Monday, 21 November, A.D. 1037, on which day it ended at 11 h, 50 m after mean sunrise (for Ujjain).

The places mentioned are Pottiyūr, i.e. Hottūr (ll 19, 34), the Banavāsī Twelve-thousand (ll 7, 12, 32, spelt Vanavāse on l 7), the town of Banavāsī (l 8), Sōmanātha (l 17), the Pānungal Five-hundred (ll 12, 22, 32, 38), the Konkan (l 26), Pannāla (l 26), Balejavattana (l 26), Bijavādi (l 27), Dōra (l 27), the Belvala Three-hundred (l 28), the

² I have to thank Mr R. Sewell for his kindness in verifying my calculations in this and the next inscription.

Purigere or Puligere Three-hundred (Il, 28, 39), the Six-hundred composed of Belvala and Puligere (Il 31, 39), Mūlavallī (I 36), Kallavana (I 36), the Ninety-six (I 40), the Kemgere or "Red Tank" (Il 41, 42), and Bānarāsi, i.e. Benares (I 43). Sōmanātha is of course the famous sanctuary of Sōmnāth in Junāgarh State, and Pānungal is now Hāngal. Pannāla, elsewhere termed also Pannāleya-kōṭe, Pannāle-durga, Pranālaka-durga, and Padmanāla-durga, is now Panhālā, about 12 miles NW of Kōlhāpūr (see Dyn Kanar Distr, p 546) Baleyayattana is mentioned again in Ep Carn, Vol II (Inscr of Śratana Belgoḷa), No 56 (cf ibid, introd, p 41, and Dyn Kanar Distr, p 496) I venture to identify it with the modern Balaipattam (more correctly written Valapattanam), lying in lat. 11° 55' and long 75° 22' in the Chirakkal tāluka of Malabar District, a few miles NW of Cannanore. Balaipattam was a place of considerable importance in early times, it is the Balaipatna (wrongly written in some editions as Baltipatna) of Ptolemy's Geography, VII 1 § 6, and apparently the Palaiapatna of the Perplus (cf McCrindle, Ancient India as described by Ptolemy, p 45, and id, Commerce and Navigation of the Erythrean Sea, pp 127, 129, Lassen, Alterthümer, III, pp 181, 183), and there is much likelihood in Kern's view that Ptolemy's Balaipatna is the Baladevapatana mentioned in Varāha-mihira's Brhat-samhitā, xiv 16 Bijavādi is uncertain it may conceivably be the modern village of Bijwādgi near Hungund Dōra, if it is a geographical name, may possibly be the same as Dōrasamudra On Belvala see above, Vol XIII, p 40, on Puligere or Purigere, ib, Vol XIII, pp 179, 188 Mūlavallī is possibly Munavallī, a village about 4½ miles SSE from Shiggion, 1½ miles SE from Hottūr, and ¾ mile NW from Bankāpūr (Lines 1-3) . The three controllers of taxes of the county in assembly, inspired by piety, graciously assigned in addition to the six loads previously in usage (for the income of the sanctuary) 1 load more, altogether 7 loads. He who fails to make the grant shall incur the guilt of the five deadly sins, as though he destroyed cows and Brāhmins.

(Lines 13-18) While one who finds sustenance at his lotus-feet, the bearer of all titles such as—hail!—"adorned by a series of many virtues, remote from others' wives, purifying his gōtra, friend to sages, an Āñjanēya [Hanumān] in purity, a Rādhēya [Karna] in truthfulness, votary of the Sun, ill-disposed to the evil, delighting in making friendship, strong in glad giving, foundation of sages, embodiment of culture, associating with the refined, exalted in renowned firmness of character, free of desire to dependents, wishing-gem to kinsfolk, crest-jewel of bounty, a Mahēśvara of the Kali Age, a brother-in-law to the lame, servant of Sōmēśvara [Śiva], brilliant in culture, a site of salvation in the centre of the county, a southern Sōmanātha," the fortunate—

(Verse 1) Māra of Pottiyūr, illustrious for his pre-eminence in the goodly qualities of bounty, philanthropy, knowledge, devotion to Śiva, (and) truthfulness, is rich in esteem, noble —

(Verse 2) Of Māra Gāvunda it may be said that he knows the meaning of fame, that he is praised by sages, truthful, politic, gracious, comely of person, observant of the courses of Manu, eminent in virtue, a gem of his gōtra, (than who) what higher thing is there on the whole earth?—

(Lines 29-32) While one who finds sustenance at his lotus-feet,—hail!—he who possesses all titles such as "illustrious in the office of high minister appointed for the administration of the whole kingdom, exalted in dignity, having the three powers of lordship, counsel, and enterprise, teacher of weal for his master, immovable in firmness, a man of valour in accordance with the name," the superintendent Akalimayya, was administering the taxation of the two (provinces of Belvala and Puligere forming) a Six-hundred,⁴—

(Lines 32-34) Sangavayya, controller of the taxes of the pannakēni radda-lāguḷa,⁵ and Chāvundamayya, controller of the taxes of the Banavāsī Twelve-thousand, and Dūdiyamma,

² Or, fire

³ Kittel's Dictionary explains disā-pāṭa as "causing (his enemies) to be scattered in all directions"

⁴ See Dr Floet's note on the Soratūr inscription, above, Vol. XIII, p. 178

controller of the taxes of the seignories of the Pānungal Five-hundred, being together in assembly,—

(Lines 34-42) On Monday, the eleventh day of the bright fortnight of Mārgaśīra in the cyclic year Īśvara, the 959th (year) of the Śaka era, gave to the Thirty, headed by Māra Gāvunda of Pottiyūr, Gakaruva Surimayya, Poleyamma Gētimayya, the superintendent Būhimayya, and the town-clerk Dāsımayya, and to the four towns, namely the towns of Mūlavalli and Kallavana, an edictal regulation of the following tenour granting on each load of betel-leaf eighteen (leaves), and excepting the loads of baḷi-betel,¹ the controllers of the taxes of the iadda-lāṇula shall draw ten iṣa on each load, the main-tax of the Pānungal Five-hundred and the seigniorial tax thereof jointly shall draw twelve iṣa on each load regularly, the controllers of the main-tax of the two (provinces of Behala and Puligere forming) a Six-hundred shall draw fifteen iṣa on each load, the controllers of taxes of the seignories in the Puligere county shall draw five iṣa on each load, the controllers of taxes of the seignories of the Ninety-six shall draw one iṣa on each load regularly. The above tax-officers in assembly shall assign to this Kemgere the tax of six loads as annual income. The Thousand of betel-traders granted to this Kemgere one iṣa on each load.

(Lines 42-44) So to him who guards this pious foundation, not suffering it to be injured, there shall be the same fruit as if he performed a horse-sacrifice, to him who violates it there shall be the guilt of the five deadly sins, as though he destroyed at Benares a thousand kine and a thousand Brāhmanys versed in the Four Vēdas.

(Verse 5) be not defeated, on the stage of battle bend not, take not back what has been given duly, take now no bribe. There is a sevenfold² hell for men. Thus verily saith Dāsiga.

This is upon a slab found by the honda or tank in the village. The stone has a rounded top divided vertically into three compartments containing sculptures. In the central one is a linga on a stand, in that on the proper right is a seated votary facing full front, with the sun and moon above, in that on the left, a cow and sucking calf. The inscribed area below this is 3 ft 10½ in high and 3 ft 6 in wide. The characters are good Kanarese of the period, but considerably worn, so that it is often difficult to arrive at certainty in the reading of details such as the sonṇe. The letters are from ½ in to ¾ in high. The cursive y (above, Vol XII, p 335) is used in Pottiyūr (l 5). The language is Old Kanarese, except for the formal Sanskrit verses on ll 40-42. The ḷ appears in vḷḍa, for ṛḷḍa or ṛḷḍa (l 15), negalḍan (l 18), nālḷ (l 22), ṛḷḍu (ll 22, 32), it is changed to ḷ in Chōḷa (l 4), pelaiamge (l 17), aliḷ (l 39), and to r in bērkurē (l 17). Initial p is preserved, except in the name Handiyūr (l 6). The upadhmāṇīya is found in the Sanskrit bhāgīnah=p° (l 41). Words of lexical interest are kuttumbittu (l 6), garuḷi (l 12. Kittel has garuḍi), baṃgāra (l 13. apparently to be distinguished from baṃgāra), baruḷi (l 23. for Sanskrit barhi), sote (l 32. possibly connected with Sanskrit sudhā), poge-voge (l 34), pada-bara (l 35), bojanga (l 37), ugura (l 37). On the nominatively used genitive Kēsi Gāvundana in l 32 see J R A S, 1918, p 105.

The record first refers itself in ll 1-3 to the reign of Trailōkyamalla-Āhavamalla (Sōmēśvara I), and then mentions one of his feudatories, the Mahā-Mandalēśvara Jēmarasa, as ruling over Pottiyūr, Elavattī, Nittasingi, Handiyūr, and many other towns and kuttumbittā as an anugu-jūta or "love-fief" (ll 3-6) Jēmarasa among other titles is described as "a submarine fire to the ocean of the Chōla's hosts" (see Dyn Kanar Distr, p 436) and as "a flame of doom to Bhōja," namely the Paramāra Bhōja of Mālwa (ibid) The record then introduces Jēmarasa's son, the Mahāsāmanta Jōyiyarasa, as governing Pottiyūr as a lumāravittā or "prince's fief" (ll 6-8), and then gives at great length the titles and dignities of the Kādamba Mahā Mandalēśvara Tōyima-dēva, "lord of Banāvāsī best of towns," "warrior for Mēruḡa," "hon of Hariga," etc, who at this time was administering the Banāvāsī Twelve-thousand and the Pānungal Five-hundred (ll 8-14) Of this Tōyima-dēva we have already spoken (see above, inscr B, and Dyn Kan Distr, pp 435, 564) His title "hon of Hariga" seems to indicate services rendered to his kinsman the Kādamba Hariga or Harikēsarīn of Bankāpūr, whose record of Śaka 977 has been published by me above, Vol XIII, p 168 ff

² This is also the Jain number. Manu speaks of 21.

Our inscription now introduces Gōduvara Māra Gāvunda of Pottiyūr (ll 15-18) Māra's acquaintance we have already made in inscription B, we here learn the reason for the title "brother-in-law to the lame," which is given to him there (l 16), for here we are told that to many footless men who came to seek his favour he gave feet What precisely is meant by this is not clear It may be that Māra furnished them with wooden legs, it may be that he supplied them with medical treatment (or perhaps even faith-healing)¹ Be this as it may, he gained a great reputation, and was called "a southern Sōmanātha" (as in inscr B) We next learn that his son Chālukya-Gaṅga-Vermādī Kēśava (Kēśarāja or Kēśi) Gāvunda was at the time serving as Gāvunda of Pottiyūr (ll 18-22) Kēśi obtained from the Kādamba king Hariga (Harikēsarīn of Bankāpūr, to whom we have referred in the last paragraph) all the emblems of royalty (ll 23-24), and received similar honours from king Chālukya-Gaṅga-Vermādī (Vikramāditya VI of the Bankāpūr inscription, l 10, above, Vol XIII, p 170), who, regarding him as a son, gave him his own name (ll 24-26) Besides making various bountiful gifts to men of eminence (ll 27-28), Kēśi constructed a temple of Śiva with the title of Kēśavēśvara (ll 28-30) For this temple an endowment was granted by Jōyiyarasa, Tōyima-dēva, and Mailala-dēvi (ll 30-35) Who this Mailala-dēvi was does not appear, possibly she was Tōyima-dēva's wife As a supplement to this endowment, Tōyima-dēva's mother Akkā-dēvi (on whom see above, inscr B) assigned to the monastery the fee due to her on the occasion of "laving the feet," formally transferring it to the nun Gangakabbe (ll 35-37) It is interesting to find a woman holding such a representative position in a community of Śiva ascetics Finally we learn that the inscription was composed by the poet Rājavallabha, and was corrected and amplified by Chandra Bhatta (see J R A S, 1920, p 377 n) and Balabhadra-dēva, the mason was Dāsōja (ll 43-44)

The date is specified on ll 30-31 as Śaka 988, the cyclic year Parābhava, the full-moon of Paushya, Sunday, the nakṣatra Hastā, the uttarāyana-samkrānti, a vyatipāta This is grievously incorrect, if we reckon according to the Southern cycle The full-moon of Paushya in the given year accordingly fell on Wednesday, 3 January, A D 1067, on which day the full-moon tithi ended 11 h 16 m after mean sunrise This tithi corresponded to the nakṣatra Pushyā, not Hastā, and the uttarāyana-samkrānti occurred on Sunday, 24 December, A D 1066, when the nakṣatra was Pūrva-Phalgunī On the other hand, if we calculate by the Northern cycle, the tithi would correspond to Sunday, 26 December, A D 1064, on which day it ended about 12 h 24 m after mean sunrise, but the uttarāyana-samkrānti of that year took place 21 h 53 m after mean sunrise on Thursday, 23 December, and the nakṣatra at mean sunrise on the full-moon day of Pausya was Punarvasu Calculation by mean longitudes and motions will not remove these discrepancies, for it gives as tithi and week-day the same date (Sunday, 26 December, A D 1064), with Friday, 24 December, for the uttarāyana-samkrānti, and Punarvasu as nakṣatra

The places mentioned are Pottiyūr (l 5, 8, 15, 22, 30, 32 f), Elavatti (l 6), Nittasingi (l 6), Handiyūr (l 6), the Male or Highlands (l 11), Banavāsī (l 11), the Banavāsī Twelve-thousand (l 14), the Pānungal Five-hundred (l 14), and Kōvagere (l 33 f) Elavatti is the village called Yelawati in the Bombay Postal Directory and Yalvatti in the Bombay Survey, it lies in Hāngal tāluka, in lat 14° 51½' and long 75° 10½' Nittasingi is now Nidsingi (Nidsangi in the Bombay Survey), in the same tāluka, in lat 14° 52' and long 75° 10½' Handiyūr I cannot locate, unless (which I doubt) it is to be identified with "Handihāl" of the Survey, a village 4½ miles nearly west of Hāngal town, in lat. 14° 45½' and long 75° 5½'

TRANSLATION

(Lines 1-3) When the victorious reign of—hail!—the asylum of the whole world, favourite of Fortune and Earth, great Emperor, supreme Lord, supreme Master, ornament of Satyāśraya's race, embellishment of the Chālukyas, king Trailōkyamalla-Āhavamalla, was advancing in a course of successively increasing prosperity, (to endure) as long as moon, sun, and stars —

(Lines 3-6) While one who finds sustenance at his lotus-feet, the Mahā-Mandalēśvara who has obtained the five great musical sounds, possessing all titles of honour such as “a Mahāśvara in the fray, a lion in valour, a Bhairava on the stage of battle, a wishing-gem to servants, a head-jewel of men of valour, a Rādhēya [Karna] in truthfulness, an Āñjanēya in purity, delightful to the world, mighty in boldness, an armour to his lord, giving bounty² to sages, a submarine fire to the ocean of the Chōla's host, a flame of doom to Bhōja, a teacher of both forces,³ having the firmness of Mandara, the tiger of king Āhavamalla,” the Mahā-Mandalēśvara Jēmarasa, was ruling over many towns,—beginning with Pottiyūr, Elavatti, Nittasingi, and Handiyūr,—and kuttumbitti, as a love-fief⁴ .—

(Lines 6-8) While his son, the Mahāsāmanta who has obtained the five great musical sounds, bearing all titles such as “beloved of warriors' Fortune, wrestler of earth, shaft in foemen's hearts, his father's rutting elephant, causing destruction of enemies, a Nārasinga [Vishnu-Krishna] to princely Naras,” the Mahāsāmanta Jōyiyarasa, was ruling Pottiyūr as a prince's fief —

(Lines 8-14) While he who is an ornament of the Kādamba race [which is descended] from the hero of the bright frontal eye [Trailōchana Kādamba] who sprang from the grace of the supreme Lord Hara, whose lotus-feet are praised by the peoples of all the world, and of the lady Earth, which (race) has established its might on the massive peaks of the King of Mountains⁵, which (race) has performed eighteen horse-sacrifices by the manifest quality of its arms, which is resplendent with three fluttering white parasols, which has its pure chivalry illuminated by many royal attributes of empire such as dignity, etc —he who is (saluted) with the noise of perimatti drums and (other) musical instruments, the Mahā-Mandalēśvara who has obtained the five great musical sounds, lord of Banavāsī best of cities, bearing all titles of honour such as “man of might to adversaries, sun to the Highlands, ever active in truth, Āñjanēya in purity, Brahman in assemblies, Shanmukha in the front of battle, Thousand-armed [Kārtavīrya] with balls,⁶ Rāhu in the fray, Paraśu-Rāma to the resorts of foes, of titles, bearing the royal stamp (?) of a Bhīma, banigāra of title-bearers, warrior to Mēruḡa, exalted in high spirit, lion of Hariga,” the Mahā-Mandalēśvara Tōyima-dēva, was reigning in the government of the Vanavāsī Twelve-thousand and the Pānungal Five-hundred with enjoyment of pleasant conversations —

(Verse 1) This Pottiyūr is a general *ghatikā-sthāna*¹ in the county, in it Māra, composed of mind, a treasure of becoming speech, has dwelt happily in the office of Gāvunda

(Verse 2) The wealthy, when entreated, may give abundant substance to the needy, (but) they do not give in this wise anything unique and unprecedented in this world, whereas, when footless men came with entreaties, Māra Gāvunda by his own power gave feet to many Hence is it needful to tell in this and that wise the high degree of the quality of his goodness?

(Verse 3) As the earth spoke of him as a peer of Manu in virtue and power, as a southern Sōmanātha² because of his giving feet to the lame, Māra in truth was illustrious, a noble man

(Line 18) While Gōduvara Māra Gāvunda, thus combining philanthropy with worldly success, was acting as Gāvunda, —his son,—

(Verse 4) As the moon is born from the ocean, the sun from the Eastern Mountain, Kēsī, a worthy son arising in the goodly family of the Gōduvas, won fame as an ornament of his race

(Lines 19-22) While he who bears all titles of honour such as “basis of the series of many virtues praised by all the world, remote from others’ wives, a king Vatsa with horses,³ a Cupid to public women, a discus of justice to the troop of Māra,⁴ an ocean of the essence of order, a unique Rudra in warfare, a warrior of the bodyguard, an incarnation of Vira [Virabhadra], a mighty man of valour in courage, a *bhērunda*⁵ to foes, a Pārtha [Arjuna] to hostile armies, a site of salvation in the centre of the country, a wishing-gem of bounty, a protective gem to sages, servant of Sōmēśvara, brilliant in culture, a Nārāyana to foes,” Chālukya-Ganga-Vermādī Kēsava Gāvunda, was acting as Gāvunda over Pottiyūr in the county-shrivalty —

(Verse 5) He received from king Hariga, the head of the Kādamba race, many tokens of royalty, to wit, a number of yak-tail fans, a flag, a palace,⁶ drums, conches, parasols of many peacock-feathers, and a white parasol, (so that he became) radiant with manifested intense lustre for this reason, oh bravo! thus was the brilliance of Kēsī’s distinction in the abode of this world

(Verse 6) The king Chālukya-Ganga-Vermādī [Vikramāditya], pleased with Kēsī and loving him, said “this man is to me a son, Chālukya-Ganga-Vermādī,” and gave him that name.

(Verse 7) With supreme generosity the blest king Vikramāditya gave the various royal emblems of the Gangas and Chālukyās, to wit, the honour of the excellent white parasol, a pair of golden yak-tail fans, a flag, warriors’ drums, a parasol of peacocks’ feathers this distinction comes to the lord Kēsīrāja, does it come to any other man?

(Verse 8) By the merits of gifts of water and a quantity of gold and food, by gifts of kine, by gifts of land, by gifts of herds of oxen, by gifts of divers kinds of knowledge, by constant gifts, by gifts of excellent sesam, by gifts of all (kinds of) maidens Kēsava has gratified distinguished men truly he possesses a right mind.

NO 12—THE JAMBUKESVARAM GRANT OF VIJAYARANGA CHOKKANATHA NAYAKA SAKA 1630

By S V VISWANATHA, M A, TRICHINOPOLY.

This inscription is on a single copper-plate bored at the top It was kindly given for examination by the Śamkarāchārya of the Kumbhakṣam matha I edit the inscription from inked impressions of the plate prepared by me

The plate has a semi-circular curvature at the top, including which it measures 10 in in height and 6.3 in in breadth It is in good preservation It contains 46 lines in all, including the signature at the bottom and Śrī-Chandramaulīśvara-sūmi at the top of the first side The inscription, which runs across the breadth of the plate, is legible and is in prose The semi-circular portion of the plate at the top is worth notice It contains an illustration which may be taken to convey to us the traditional history regarding the origin of the god Jambukēśvara in Trichinopoly. The illustration itself includes the figures of the sun and the moon, a tree supposed to take its root from the head of a devotee seated below with folded hands (añjali) in the vīrāsana posture, a linga placed on a pedestal underneath the tree, an elephant with its trunk raised over the linga, a spider-like creature flying above the linga and a goddess standing on the right. The figures of the sun and the moon are perhaps indicative of the overlordship of the Vijayanagara house over the Nāyakas of the south, the sun and the moon being found on the seal and coins of the Vijayanagara kings¹. There is a belief, as recorded in the Sthala-purāṇa of Jambukēśvaram, that the place was called after Jambūka Muni, from whose head the jambūka tree had its origin. The elephant and the spider, it is believed, worshipped the linga representing the God Jambukēśvara and attained salvation. The linga on the pedestal is the god of Jambukēśvaram, and the goddess represented as standing on the right side is probably Akhilāndēśvari.

The language of the inscription is Telugu and Sanskrit combined. Lines 1-3, which contain the epithets of the donee, are in Sanskrit. Lines 4-35 are in Telugu, and lines 35-44 are in Sanskrit, containing the admonitory verses at the end of the plate. The characters of the inscription are Telugu.

There are a few orthographical peculiarities worth noticing. There is an unnecessary reduplication of consonants in °mamddu (l 15), °nadipimchcha° and °ājñāpimchchi° (l 18), °maṅgalamllō (l 22), °puramllō (l 23), Jembukēśvaram (l 28), °vrāyimchchi (l 33) and anubhavamchchu (l 34). Instances of dravidianised forms of Sanskrit words are seen in °tāmra° for °tāmra° (l 21), °sāmbrajyam instead of °sāmrājyam (l 9) and ubhaya in the place of ubhaya (30-1).

The inscription records the grant of lands in certain villages in the Trichinopoly district and some lands on both sides of the Kāvēri river for the conduct of worship, offerings and charities in the Śamkarāchārya matha at Jambukēśvaram (Tiruvānaikāval), where even now the head of the Kumbhakōṣam matha has his residence for a portion of the year. The grant was made by Vijayaranga Chokkanātha Nāyaka at the instance of the then presiding guru of the matha. The name of the latter is not explicitly given in the grant. He is styled Lōhaguru Śrīmad Śamkarāchārya Svāmularāru.

The objects for which the grant was made were annadāna kattala (endowment for gift of food) and the navēdya which was to be offered to the god. For the former purpose certain lands were granted. These were situated in Mahēndramangalam, Krishnāpuram, Kāraikkādu, Kondayam, ēttai, Mangamāmbāpuram, Ariyūru and Ariyamangalam. For the navēdya, which was to include four measures (paḍi) of cooked rice, dōsa, atirasa, sugūya and dīpam chamaru (oil for lights),² it was ordered that certain tolls collected should also be assigned.

Vijayaranga Chokkanātha and his line are said to belong to the Dakṣiṇa-simhāsana, styling themselves Dakṣiṇa-simhāsan-ādhyakṣāḥ ('Lords of the southern throne'). They were viceroys in the south, acting under the kings of Vijayanagara. They were lords of the regions of the Pāndyas, comprising Madura and Tinnevely districts. The circumstances under which the Nāyakas became rulers of the south are recorded thus³. In 1558 "the then Chōla ruler invaded the Madura country and dispossessed the Pāndya king. Whereupon the latter appealed to the Court of Vijayanagar, and an expedition under a certain Nāgama Nāyakkan was accordingly sent to his aid. Nāgama easily suppressed the Chola king and possessed himself of Madura, but he then suddenly threw off his allegiance and, declining to help the Pāndya, assumed the position of an independent ruler. The Vijayanagar emperor was furious at his defection, summoned a council, laid the matter before his most faithful officers, and cried out to the assemblage, 'Where amongst you all is he who will bring me that rebel's head?' Visvanātha, the son of Nāgama, promised this, captured his father in battle and placed him in confinement, only to be released later on. The Pāndya king nominally held sway over Madura, but the new Nāyaka régime "developed first into a governorship, which became hereditary, and then into what was practically a hereditary monarchy." The Nāyakas "were content with the position of lieutenants under Vijayanagar, but in essentials their sway was practically absolute and the Pāndyas disappear in effect henceforth from history."

The general character of the administration of the Nāyaka kingdom of Madura is thus dwelt on by Caldwell¹:—"Their reigns record little more than a disgraceful catalogue of debaucheries, treacheries, plunderings, oppressions, murders and civil commotions, relieved only by the factitious splendour of gifts to temples, idols and priests, by means of which they apparently succeeded in getting the Brahmans and poets to speak well of them, and thus in keeping the mass of the people patient under their misrule."

The genealogy of the Nāyaka dynasty of Madura, so far as known, may be given thus² —

1	Nāgama
2	Viśvanātha I	1559—1563
3	Kumara Krishnappa	1563—1573
4	Krishnappa alias Periya	} 1573—1595
5	Virappa and Viśvanātha II
6	Lingayya alias Kumāra Krishnappa	Viśvanātha III
7	Muttu Krishnappa	1595—1602
8	Muttu Virappa	1602—1609
9	Tirumala	1609—1623
10	Muttu Alakādra alias Muttu Virappa	1623—1659
11	Chokkanātha alias Chokkalinga	1659—1662
12	Ranga Krishna Muttu Virappa	1662—1682
13	Mangammāl	1682—1689
14	Vijayaranga Chokkanātha	1689—1704
15	Minākshi	1704—1731
		1731—1736

Our record states the genealogy from Chokkanātha (No. 11 of the above list) downwards, and Vijayaranga Chokkanātha is styled a descendant of Viśvanātha (probably I), the real founder of the Nāyaka kingdom of Madura. He was the son of Ranga Krishna Muttu Virappa Nāyaka, and in his early years from 1689—1704 Mangammāl, his grandmother, acted as regent. She was an able and charitable woman, and under her "Madura apparently all but regained the proud position it had held in the days of Tirumal." Vijayaranga Chokkanātha took charge of the administration from 1704 and ruled till 1731. He was a weak ruler, "was vain and weak-minded and unfit to govern himself or others. His reign was distinguished by the ill-regulated and extraordinary munificence of his gifts to Brahmans and religious institutions. The injustice of his rule caused a serious riot in Madura, the mutiny of the whole of his troops and incessant internal commotions."³

³ Madura District Gazetteer, Vol. I, p. 56.

In 1725 he entered into a war with Tanjore over the question of succession to the throne of Ramnad, in which the Raja of Tanjore obtained a decisive victory. He died in 1731, and was succeeded by an adopted son Minākshī, his queen, acted as regent. It was during her time that a quarrel broke out between her and Vangāra Tirumala, the father of the adopted son. It was at this time that the Nawab of Arcot sent two of his generals to collect tribute from Madura. The kingdom divided in itself, fell an easy prey to the invader, and from 1736 the Nāyaka kingdom of Madura ceased to exist as such.

We are told in the inscription that Vijayaranga Chokkanātha Nāyaka was ruling in the south when a certain Venkata-dēva Mahārāja, his overlord, was the rājā of Vijayanagara, ruling from his capital Ghanagiri. He is styled Rājādhirāja and Virapratapa and is said to have his seat at Ghanagiri, which has been identified with Penukonda.

The genealogy of the third Vijayanagara dynasty, as made out from inscriptions, runs as follows¹ —

According to the above table Venkata alias Venkata V has been assigned by Mr Sowell the dates 1706—1716. He is fourth in the line from Ranga VI (1644 A D). The date of the present grant is 1630 Śaka=1708 A D,² which falls within the dates of Venkata V. Thus the Venkata-dēva Mahārāja of our inscription, who is mentioned as the overlord of Vijayaranga

¹ See Epigraphia Indica, Vol III, p 238, and Sewell's A Forgotten Empire, Ch XVII, pp 222 f

Chokkanātha Nāyaka, is according to the above table Venkata V, who ruled, with Penukonda as his capital, over the domains of the Vijayanagara house

The grant does not mention explicitly the name of the donee. It is merely stated that it was made to the matha at the instance of the then head, who is styled Lōkaguru Śrīmad-Śamkarāchārya-svāmula-vāru

We find, however, at the top of the first side of the plate, below the figures on the arch, the inscription Śrī-Chandramaulīśvara-Svāmi. It may also be noted that there is some blank space between ll 3 and 4 and a short space between two horizontal strokes in l 19. Chandramaulīśvara is the name by which the god of the Kumbhakōṇam matha is known, and the line at the top may possibly refer to the deity. We are not in a position to account for the blank spaces between ll 3 and 4 and in l 19. It will be seen that it would be appropriate if the name is taken as that of the Śamkarāchārya and is inserted between the blank spaces. This is reasonable, as out of respect for the teacher the name of the latter may not be directly mentioned by the disciple or devotee.

The tradition as regards the names of the Achāryas of the Kumbhakōṇam matha leads one to hold the above view. It is to the effect that for over two centuries the Śamkarāchāryas of the Conjeeveram branch have borne alternately the names Mahādēva and Chandrachūda or Chandramauli. Hence it is quite likely that the Śamkarāchārya mentioned in our inscription should have had one of these two names.

The Melupāka grant, dated 1608 Śaka,¹ of Mahādēvēndra Sarasvatī, the disciple of Chandrasekhara Sarasvatī, records the fact of the grant of lands in the village of Melupāka by the former to a certain Rāma Śāstrin. The present grant is dated Śaka 1632, and it is probable that the Śamkarāchārya of 1632 Śaka was the one who succeeded him of 1608 Śaka.

On the foregoing grounds I hold that the name of the head of the matha at the time of the present grant was Chandramaulīśvara, which name is inserted on the top of the first side.

The plate records a grant of land to the Śamkara matha at Tiruvānaikāval, and the details of the grant run as follow —

Locality	Amount	REMARKS
1 Mahēndramangalam in Tottiyam śima	4½ half- mās and 1 tāru ² (?)	Originally भट्टार्जुन (?)
2 Gōpāla svāmin's garden	Probably refers to the garden of the god Venugōpāla svāmin,
3 Kṛṣṇāpuram . . .	4½ half mās and 2 tāru
4. Kārakkādu . . .	4½ mās and 2 tāru
5 Kondayampēta . . .	2 seys of wet land
6. Mangamāmbāpuram in Tiruchchendōru śima	8 seys of wet land .	The village takes its name probably after Mangammāl, the famous queen
7 Ariyūr in Tinnam śima	16 seys of wet land
8 Ariyamangalam in the South Kō-nādu śima	6 seys of wet land

The plate records also the grant of 1 sey of land on both banks of the Kāvēri for certain offerings to the God, and the right of collection of certain tolls for the same.

² 14½ sq ft = 1 kuḷi; 100 kuḷi = 1 mā. Tāru may mean either a tree or a grove,

The places mentioned in the grant are Gajāranya-kshētram, Ponvāsikondān street, Mahēndramangalam in Tottiyam sīma, Krishnāpuram, Kārakkādu, Kondayampēta, Mangamāmbāpuram, Ariyūr and Ariyamangalam in the South Kō-nādu sīma. Of these places the following may be identified —

Gajāranya-kshētram is the same as Jambukēśvaram. The tradition of the place runs to the effect that an elephant attained bliss by worshipping the god of the place.

Ponvāsikondān street cannot be identified with any of the present day. It is connected with some of the Śaiva saints, Appar and Sambandha for instance. It was apparently a locality famous as the seat of Śaivism in Jambukēśvaram.

Tottiyam sīma is the district round the village of Tottiyam in Musiri Tāluk, Trichinopoly district. The place appears to take its name from the Tottiyans, one of the sub sects of the Kanarese-speaking Śūdra castes of the Coimbatore district.

Mahēndramangalam is a village near Lālappēttai, a railway station on the South Indian Railway between Erode and Trichinopoly. The matha of Kumbhakōnam has still some lands there. Near this village is a temple dedicated to Vēnugōpāla svāmin, which with the surrounding lands is now owned by the Kumbhakōnam matha.

Gōpāla svāmin's garden probably refers to the garden of the above temple.

Krishnāpuram is a small village near Mahēndramangalam.

Kārakkādu is a hamlet some 5 or 6 miles from Mahēndramangalam.

Kondayampēta is the village Kondayampēttai near Jambukēśvaram.

Tiruchchendōru is the village Tiruchchendurai 5 miles from Trichinopoly.

Ariyamangalam is also a village near Trichinopoly. It is said to have been situated in the South Kō-nādu district which is probably identical with the Pudukkōttai State.

In lines 15-19 of the plate it is said that the Śamkarāchārya of Conjeeveram had his own matha in Ponvāsikondān street from olden times. The insertion of 'own' (ॐ) and 'from olden times' (पूर्वभित्तुकोनि) looks purposeful and curious, and it leads one to the suspicion whether the matha may have been originally owned by the Śamkarāchārya of the Kāmakōti pītha, or not. It has been already noted that Ponvāsikondān was a Śaiva place of resort in Jambukēśvaram. Tamil records actually engraved on the walls of the matha at Tiruvānaikāval, which according to the Epigraphist may be assigned to the 13th century,¹ state that the matha was originally built by a certain Śōlakōn and was called the Nārpattēnnāyiravan-madam, its priests being the descendants of Namaśśivāya-dēvar of the lineage of Tiruchchattimurattu-Mudaliyār. These records lead us to two inferences: first, that the Śamkarāchārya of Kumbhakōnam may have come into possession of the matha at the earliest only after the 13th century; secondly, that the matha was originally built by a Śaiva devotee for his sect and must have been in the possession of the Śaiva saints at least as late as the 13th century. It is possible that a descendant of the family of Tiruchchattimurattu-Mudaliyār made a gift of the matha to the Śamkarāchārya of Conjeeveram, or it may be that the latter occupied the matha when Śaivism had declined in the locality and the matha was left in a ruined state. In any case the records on the walls of the matha show that it was not the Śamkarāchārya's ॐ but was originally in the occupation of the Śaiva community and the ॐ could refer at the earliest to the 13th century A.C.² It cannot be known when the matha actually came into the possession of the present holder. It must have been occupied by the latter somewhere between the 13th century and the year 1710 A.C., the date of the present record.

We are enabled in a way to determine the relative antiquity of the two mathas at Kumbhakōnam and Tiruvānaikāval. Of the two the former has been the more favoured, being the seat of the Kāmakōṭi pīṭha for about two centuries past. The Kāmakōṭi pīṭha of Kumbhakōṇam must at the time of our grant have been situated at Kāñchi. The migration of the Śamkarāchārya from Conjeeveram to the Kumbhakōṇam maṭha must have occurred later than 1710 A C. The tradition current in the Kumbhakōṇam maṭha is to the effect that Rājā Śarabhōji of Tanjore built it for the Chandramaulīśvara Swāmin, the deity worshipped at the maṭha. This is corroborated by a stone inscription in the maṭha of the year 1743 Śaka=1821 A C. Thus from the evidence available it would appear that the Kumbhakōṇam maṭha was in existence only from the 19th century,¹ while that at Tiruvānakāval must have continued in the possession of the Swāmin at least from between the 13th century and 1710 A C, as the present epigraph shows.

² The earliest copper plate grant of the Conjeeveram matha is that of Vijayagandagōpāla, dated 1291 A.C. (Edited in the Ep. Ind. by Mr. S. Y. Venkateswara, Vol. XIII, p. 196.)

No 13—THE INSCRIPTIONS ON THE BIMARAN VASE

By F E PARGITER

This vase was found by Masson in the village of Bimarān in the course of his excavations in Afghanistan during the years 1834-7. When excavating "Tope no 2" he found in its centre a small apartment containing relics. "They consisted of a good-sized globular vase, of alabaster or steatite, with a carved cover or lid, both of which were encircled with lines of inscriptions scratched with a stylet or other sharp-pointed instrument. The characters were Bactro-Pali. On removing the cover the vase was found to contain a small quantity of fine mould, in which were mingled a number of small burnt pearls, beads of sapphire, crystal, etc. In the centre was standing a casket of pure gold, . . ."—that is, apparently, not inside the vase, but in the centre of the small apartment¹. Bimarān appears to be in the neighbourhood of Jallalabad. The vase is now in the British Museum.

Two early attempts to decipher the inscriptions were made,² and Dowson reconsidered them in 1863.³ M. Senart published some notes upon them.⁴ Dr Fleet had three photographs taken of the vase and its inscriptions, satisfactory ink-impressions being hardly possible, because the letters are scratched in the stone and the vase has suffered sundry scratches besides, which tend to interfere with the appearance of the letters. The photographs are reproduced in the annexed plate. Fig. III shows the inscription on the cover, and figs. I and II give side views of the vase and together display the whole of the side inscription, which runs a little more than three-quarters round it. I have inspected the vase and compared the photographs carefully with the original inscriptions.

The vase is carved out of brownish-grey stone. Its height is 5.3 inches (15.7 cm), and its greatest width 5.4 inches (15.9 cm). It consists of a body and a separate lid or cover. In the underside of its base an oblong mortice has been cut, 1 inch (26 mm) long, $\frac{3}{8}$ inch (16 mm) wide and $\frac{1}{2}$ inch (5 mm) deep, which was evidently meant to receive a tenon to hold the vase. In the mortice are remains of vermilion colour.

The two inscriptions are in Kharoshthi characters, which are not well made because the scratching tool seems to have slipped in places and distorted some of them. I call the inscription on the lid (fig. III) inscription A, and that around the vase B. The latter begins at the extreme right of fig. I and is continued into fig. II, where the first two letters are a repetition of the last two in fig. I.

The main feature that requires notice is the sign for subscript r, a rightward stroke or curve at the bottom of the main letter. It is applied to g in bhagarata in A and B, but is not a real r. It is also applied to t, not only in putasa in A and B, but also in rachhitasā in A and B, and bhagarata in B (though not apparently in A), and in these two words there can be no tr. Further, it is applied to r itself in rachhitasā in B, where of course it is impossible. It is clear therefore that the stroke or curve has no significance as a letter in these two inscriptions, and is a mere peculiarity or flourish. Hence it means nothing when applied to t in nyatide in B.

B — Around the vase

The head of gifts of Śivarachhita, son of Mumjavada, is bestowed, with relics of the Lord, for the veneration of all Buddhas

NOTES.

The father's name is written differently in the two inscriptions N in A seems to be a v with the top omitted, and the proper form would seem to be Muñjavanda

Niyatide The last letter is not well formed, but seems to be de This word plainly agrees with dana-muhe, and its termination therefore should also be e Niyatide no doubt = niyatite, i.e. niyyātītē, "bestowed" Niyyātita = Sanskrit niryātita,¹ which occurs in the Divyāradāna and appears in Pali in the verb niyyādēti

Dana-muhe This is clearly a nominative, and the question that arises is, what does muhe represent and mean? I have had the great benefit of discussing this expression with Dr F W Thomas and Professor Macdonell, and offer the following explanations of it

As regards its form, h in Prakrit is often a degenerate kh, kh may represent either an original Sanskrit kh or a weakened Prakrit kh, and Prakrit kh may represent Sanskrit h and Sanskrit kh Pischel gives instances of the full change from h to kh in his Prakrit Grammar, § 323, but none, so far as I have seen, of that from kh to h The want may be due to the fact that the latter process is much rarer than the former, still analogy would indicate that there would be no difficulty in the modifications kh > kh > kh > h, and Dr Thomas agrees in this view Hence muha might represent *mukha*² or mukhya, and dana-muha would = dāna-mukha or dāna-mukhya

Dana-muhe is obviously a substantive and not an adjective, and so must be a tatpurusha compound and not a bahuvrīhi Hence the question for decision is, what is the meaning of dāna-mukha and dāna-mukhya as tatpurushas, that is, what meanings have mukha and mukhya as the final members of a tatpurusha

M Senart discussed dāna-mukha with reference to the inscriptions in which it occurs and, while rendering it "moyen, objet d'aumône," doubted whether it had any difference in meaning from simple dāna Dr. Thomas also discussed the word (J. R. A. S., 1915, pp 97 sqq.) in connexion with some instances of the words mukha and mukhya at the end of compounds in the Kautiliya-Arthasāstra, where mukha means "head, heading, sum" in administrative arrangements and accounts, and came to the conclusion—"Hence it seems best to accept it [dāna-mukha] as a mere synonym for dāna, a misapplication of a technical term, 'gift department,' 'gift heading,' 'gift account,' under which the donation would be recorded in the accounts of the institution benefited Or is it, after all, the inscription itself?"

SCALE FIVE-SIXTHS

It is well however to consider also more popular illustrations of the use of mukha and mukhya final, and here the language of the Purāṇas, which corresponds better than other Sanskrit compositions to that of Prākṛit inscriptions, throws fresh light, for both words occur abundantly there as the last member of a compound

I will deal with mukhya first, citing instances out of the many that occur

(1) 'Chief, foremost,' and so implying the meaning of ādī thus—Sūry-ēndu-Marīci-mukhyāḥ, of whom the sun, the moon and Marīci were chief, "the sun, the moon, Marīci and others" (Matsya-P, 245, 20) Vṛiddha-Kausika-mukhyāḥ, "with Vṛiddha-Kausika and others" (Brahma-P, 170, 58)

(2) "Chief, pre-eminent (in)" thus—caṇḍa-mukhyāḥ, "pre-eminent men in the family" (Matsya-P, 201, 10) devyēbhyo Vēda-mukhyēbhyah, "to brahmins pre-eminent in (knowledge of) the Vēda" (Brahma-P, 1218, 18').

(3) "Chief (of or among)" thus—Brahmanā dēva-mukhyēna, "by Brahman chief of the gods" (Matsya-P, 104, 1)

(4) Then virtually an adjective qualifying the preceding noun, "chief, foremost, pre-eminent" thus—rishi-mukhya, "foremost among rishis," and so "a pre-eminent rishi" (Brahma-P, 73, 23, 25, 127, 6) cipra-mukhya, "a pre-eminent brahmin" (Brahma-P, 220, 126, Padma-P, vi, 268, 77, 80) tīrtha-mukhya, "a very distinguished tīrtha" (Brahma-P, 122, 9) This use is very common

(5) And so virtually coming to mean "choice, superfine," as qualifying the noun to which it is added thus—turaga-mukhya, "a very fine horse" (Padma-P, iv, 112, Purāṇa Rāmāyana, 6) rathu-mukhya, "a specially fine chariot" (Vāyu-P, 90, 14, 93, 19 Brahma-P, 216, 55) sara-mukhya, "a choice arrow" (Padma-P, vi, 269, 166) Accordingly dāna-mukhya would mean "a choice gift"

As regards mukha, it is used similarly to mukhya in the first sense, "the chief, the foremost," thus—sarva-dēvatāḥ, | Mad-Bhava-mukhāḥ, "all the gods having me (Brahmā) and Śiva as their chiefs" (Padma-P, vi, 203, 37) Rākshasāḥ Kumhākarna-mukhāḥ, "the Rākshasas, of whom Kumhākarna was the chief" (Padma-P, iv, 112, 204) So it virtually implies the meaning of ādī, thus—dēva-daitya-mukhān sarvān, "gods, Daityas and all others" (Linga-P, i, 58, 1) Vishnu-mukhair dēvāḥ, "by Vishnu and the other gods, all except Brahmā" (Padma-P, v, 10, 31) Puruhūta-mukhāḥ .. vijitāḥ, "Indra and the other gods were conquered" (ibid, 32)

Of the other meanings I have found no definite instances, yet possibly Vārāhas in prādhikāya *mukhaḥ prādurbhāvo*¹ might be taken to yield the second meaning, and śāstrīya-mukha might give the fourth meaning

³ Brahma-P, 110, 17

Dana-mukhe then, if it represents dāna-mukhya, would certainly mean "a choice gift." If it represents dāna-mukha, that meaning cannot definitely be given to it. I cannot but think that dāna-mukha denotes something more particular than simple dāna. It can be a tatparusha compound, for mukha occurs as the final member of such compounds, as in the word āyā-mukha, that Dr. Thomas cites from the Kautiliya-Arthashastra, and also in the words ditara-mukha, ritu-mukha, and yajña-mukha. Since mukha means "beginning, commencement," in these three expressions, and has also the meaning "the chief, principal, best," as well as "head, heading," dāna-mukha can literally mean "the commencement of gifts" (implying perhaps that it was the first gift made), or "the chief or best of gifts"¹ (implying perhaps that it was the best gift made), or again what Dr. Thomas has suggested, as already noticed. At present its exact sense is uncertain, and it may be best to render it provisionally by some general expression that combines the above meanings without attempting precision, and so I have translated it as "the head of gifts."

NO 14—THE FIRST ĀRYA-SIDDHĀNTA

THE ĀRYABHATĪYA, OR "LAGHU-ĀRYA-SIDDHĀNTA" OF ĀRIABHATA, A.D. 499

WORKING TABLES FOR CALCULATION BY THE TRUE, OR APPARENT, MOTIONS OF SUN AND MOON

BY ROBERT SIMPSON (I.C.S., RETIRED)

286 My last article (Epig. Ind., Vol. XV pp. 159-245) provided working Tables for verifying dates according to the requirements of the Siddhānta-sirāmāṇī, the present one provides similar Tables for the First Ārya-Siddhānta. These Tables are framed so as to correspond to those published in the Indian Calendar, which, for lun-solar computation, generally followed the Sūrya-Siddhānta.

Since amongst the ancient historical records yet discovered in India by far the larger number comes from Southern India, where the Ārya-Siddhānta has retained its place in popular favour throughout the centuries, it is plainly necessary to provide Epigraphists with information which will allow them to test with scientific accuracy, and according to the requirements of that authority alone, the details of documentary dates. It is probable, as I have already more than once insisted, that a number of records whose dates might have been found correct had they been computed by the Ārya-Siddhānta have been set aside as irregular or of doubtful accuracy because their examination was conducted solely by Sūrya-Siddhānta Tables.

No pains have been spared to render the information that follows scientifically correct. But we do not yet know how far, or in what tracts or in what periods, the by-gone framers of local almanacs adhered strictly to rule, or used other sets of Tables for their guidance, or worked by whole numbers alone, discarding fractions, or made their calculations in true or apparent time instead of, as in these Tables, in mean or clock time. We have, moreover, as yet no definite information as to at how late a date calculations were made by the sun's and moon's mean movements as opposed to their true or apparent movements, nor do we know with any certainty the boundaries of the tracts within which the different rules governing the civil beginnings of solar months were adhered to (Ind Calendar, § 28) These remarks apply, of course, to all Tables or ephemeris yet, or to be, published, which can only confine themselves to the actual requirements of the Siddhānta concerned Such matters are problems of the future, only to be solved after protracted enquiry and investigation Dewan Bahadur L D Swamikannu Pillai gives it as his opinion (Indian Chronology, p 70, § 169) that, while the Ārya-Siddhānta was used for solar computation, the authors of South-Indian prāñchāṅga in some cases carried out their lunar calculations, for the tithi, nakshatra, etc., by Sūrya-Siddhānta rule Thus remains to be proved

287 It is easy to understand how dates of documents, the details of which dates depend on the position of sun and moon must often differ when calculated by different authorities Taking only the Ārya and Sūrya Siddhāntas into consideration, it will be seen by Table A below that in 114 years out of the 850 with which the main Table LXI is concerned there were radical differences In 66 of these years the samvatsara cycle-name of the whole year was different, in 33 years the intercalation and suppression of lunar months were different, and the day on which the luni-solar year began was different in 15 years

Consider the year A D 1418-19, for instance, or Śaka 1340 expired This year was, according to the northern system of nomenclature, called 'Viśāvasu' by the followers of the Ārya, but "Krēdhin" by those of the Sūrya-Siddhānta In the same year there was, by the Ārya-Siddhānta a suppression of the lunar month Māgha and an intercalation of Phālguna, while by the Sūrya-Siddhānta there was none such, so that a date correctly expressed in Ārya-Siddhānta reckoning in that year would seem entirely inaccurate when tested by Sūrya-Siddhānta Tables

ARRANGEMENTS OF THE TABLES

288 The principal working-Tables for computation of dates expressed in First Ārya-Siddhānta reckoning are Tables LXI to LXXI below Tables LXI to LXX are disposed so as to correspond in rotation with Tables I to X of the "Indian Calendar," and have been framed in similar manner This arrangement is adopted for the convenience of those who, during the last twenty years, have become accustomed to the processes of that publication.

" LXIII A	"	"	"	III, Part I, " "
" LXIII B	"	"	"	" Part II, " "

[This Table is framed in a similar manner to Table XVIII A, "Indian Chronography," which it is intended to supersede]

Table LXIV corresponds to Table IV, "Indian Calendar"

" LXV	"	"	"	V, " "
" LXVI	"	"	"	VI, " "
" LXVII	"	"	"	VII, " "

[Tables LXVI A, LXVII A give closer details than do Tables LXVI, LXVII, and are to be used for very accurate calculation in doubtful cases]

Table LXVIII corresponds to Table VIII, "Indian Calendar"

" LXIX	"	"	"	IX, " "
" LXX	"	"	"	X, " "

¹ Because of this intentional correspondence the years of Indian eras quoted in cols 1 to 4 are concurrent years, as in the "Indian Calendar"

Table LXXI is taken from Tables XLI A and B, "Indian Chronography" (pp. 176, 177). It enables the week-day corresponding to the Hindu date under examination to be determined according to European computation

Then follow three Tables by which the details given in the main Table LXI have been calculated. These are Table LXXII, which gives the values of a , b , c (mean distance of moon from sun, moon's mean anom., sun's mean anom.) at the beginning of the centuries concerned, Table LXXIII which gives the same information for the beginnings of odd years of centuries, and Table LXXIV, which provides in combination with Tables LXXII and LXXIII, an easy method of arriving at the values of a , b , c , or the mean positions of sun and moon at mean sunrise on the first civil day of each lun-solar year. The system of work is the same as that of Prof. Jacobi.

Full particulars of the moon's equation of the centre will be found in the last Table LXXV.

ELEMENTS OF THE FIRST ĀRYA SIDDHĀNTA

289 This work was composed by Āryabhaṭa at Kusumapura in A.D. 499, or the year 3600 (expired) of the Kaliyuga. About A.D. 638 a treatise called the Dhī-triddhī-dā was written by Lalla, who introduced a bijā, or correction, affecting three of the principal elements of the Siddhānta. He seems to have reduced by about 10' in a century the moon's increase in her mean distance from mean sun (our " a "), and he added about 36' in a century to the moon's mean anomaly (our " b ") his third correction had reference to the planet Jupiter, with which at present we are not concerned. He did not make any change in the sun's mean anomaly (our " c "). The Karāṇa-prakāśa, of date A.D. 1092, an authority largely used in Southern India is based on Āryabhaṭa's Siddhānta as amended by Lalla.

The Tables given below, which deal with the period A.D. 899-900 (K.Y. 4000-expired) to A.D. 1750-51 (K.Y. 4851 expired) include Lalla's corrections.

290 (i) The length of the sidereal solar year, according to the Ārya-Siddhānta, is 365 2586805 days, or 365^d 6^h 12^m 30^s.

(ii) Sines of angles are the same as those of the Sūrya-Siddhānta, based on a radius of (sin 90° =) 3438'. The 24 base sines and equations of the sun's centre are given in my Table XLVII, Vol. XIV above. Those of the moon's centre in Table LXXV below.

(iii) For the sun's mean motion per day, hour, minute and second, see Table XLIV, Vol. XIV.

(iv) The circumference of the sun's epicycle is 13° 30', that of the moon 31° 30'. There is no contraction of the epicycle in either case. (Jacobi, Vol. I above, p. 441.)

(v) There is no shift of the sun's apsis. The longitude of his perigee-point is always 258° apogee 78°. In ten-thousandths of the circle the perigee is 7166.6.

(vi) The sun's equation of the centre at the moment of true Mēsha-samkrānti in every year, i.e. the moment when the true sun reaches celestial longitude 0°, is, according to Dr. Schram's calculation, 2° 6' 57" 323494885 or, in ten-thousandths of circle 58 775644170¹, the sun's mean longitude at the same moment being 357° 53' 2" 676505115, or, in ten-thousandths of circle, 9941 224355830, and his mean anomaly 99° 53' 2" 676505115, or, in ten-thousandths of circle, 2774 557689163.

(vii) For the sun's mean and true long for every consecutive 24-hour period measured from the same moment (true Mēsha-samkrānti) readers are referred to Table XLVIII A (Vol XIV above)

(viii) The sun's equation of the centre (see above, Vol XIV, Table XLVII) is obtained by the formula $\frac{3}{80} \sin a$. For sin. eqn = $\frac{\text{minutes in epicycle}}{\text{minutes in orbit}} \times \sin a$,¹ where a is the sun's mean anom., and here the minutes in the epicycle are 810', the circumference being 13° 30', and those of the orbit are 21600' (360°). Hence sin eqn = $\frac{810}{21600} \sin a$, or $\frac{3}{80} \sin a$. In all equations of the sun's centre, the angle being less than 3° 45', the eqn is the same as the sin eqn (below, § 294 ii)

(ix) The moon's equation of the centre (below, Table LXXV) is obtained by a similar proportion. The circumference of the epicycle being 31° 30' or 1890', the working formula is sin eqn = $\frac{1890'}{21600'} \sin a$, or $\frac{7}{80} \sin a$, but in this case, the sin eqn for all angles in the quadrant lying between 3° 45' and 7° 30', the equation does not equal the sin eqn. The process for obtaining the former from the latter is fully set forth in § 294 below

(x) The śodhya, or time-equivalent of the equation of the centre—in other words the interval of time between the moments of the true sun reaching long 0° (true Mēsha samkrānti) and mean sun reaching the same point (mean Mēsha samkrānti)—is calculated by Dr Schram as 2 146831 days, or 2^d 3^h 31^m 26^s 1984. This differs a little from the accepted Hindu valuation 2^d 3^h 32^m 30^s. As the latter is believed to have been always taken in India as the śodhya value according to the First Ārya-Siddhānta, it is the value adopted in the present work

(xi) According to this Siddhānta the Kaliyuga era began, or in other words K Y 0 expired or K Y 1 current began, with a conjunction at celestial longitude 0° of mean moon, mean sun, and the principal planets at the moment of mean sunrise at Lanka on Friday, 18 February, B C 3102. That was the moment of mean Mēsha-samkrānti in that year. It was 0^h 0^m Lanka time on that morning

(xii) At that moment, and the same in every succeeding year, the sun's apsis (perigee being at long 258°, his mean anom. (our "c") is (360°—258°) 102°, or, in thousandths of circle (our notation), 283 3.

(xiii) The moon's mean anom. (our "b") was 90°, or, in thousandths of circle, 250

(xiv) Since mean moon and mean sun were at that moment in conjunction, the distance between them was nil. This is represented in ten-thousandths of circle by the completed circle 10,000. From this, in order to arrive at the exact value of our "a," must be deducted the sum of the greatest equations of ☾ and ☉. These are deducted for convenience of calculation, the respective quantities being added to "eqn b" and "eqn c," so that the working values may always be additive. The sum of these greatest equations I estimate at 199 115048361, in ten-thousandths of circle (below, § 296) 10,000 less this quantity = 9800 884951639. Hence at the beginning of the Kaliyuga—

$$b = 250$$

$$c = 283\ 3$$

CONSTRUCTION OF THE TABLES

291 No special remarks are necessary except with reference to Tables LXIII B (lengths of solar months), LXVI A and LXVII A (Detailed "Equation b" and "Equation c"), LXVIII (Indices of tithis, etc), and the three Tables LXXII, LXXIII, LXIV. The remainder are only duplicates of the similar Tables in the "Indian Calendar" (See "Arrangement of Tables," above, § 288.)

Table LXIII B—Lengths of the true solar months

292 M. Louis de Ries has been repeatedly quoted in these pages as a most careful calculator. Several years ago he kindly worked out for me an estimate of the lengths of the true solar months according to the First Ārya-Siddhānta, but did not inform me of the process by which he obtained his results. An entirely independent calculation has now been carried out, based on my own Table of the sun's true longitude for each 24-hour period of the solar year (above, Vol. XIV, Table XLVIII A)—a Table, let it be understood, prepared some years subsequent to M. de Ries' communication and to which he has never had access¹. Comparison of results proves the accuracy of M. de Ries' figures, and these have been adopted without alteration in my Table. The complete agreement of our respective fixtures is really remarkable.

For example, M. de Ries found that the true sun, according to Āryabhaṭa as corrected by Lalla reaches 180° of celestial long., the moment of the Tulā-samkrānti, 186^d 21^h 37^m 82^s after the moment of true Mēsha-samkrānti, the astronomical beginning of the true solar year.

My own work for solution of this problem is as follows.—It will be seen from Table XLVIII A (above, Vol. XIV) that on that 186th day, i.e. after 186 periods of 24 hours each from the moment of true Mēsha-samkrānti, the true sun has to travel (180°—179° 6' 55" 21") 53' 47" 79 before reaching the Tulā samkrānti point, 180°. Calculating by his actual velocity on day 186 (Table XLIX, Vol. XIV), the time required for him to accomplish this journey (using his true, not mean, velocity in minutes and seconds as well as in hours²) is found to be 21^h 21^m 37^s 82,—precisely M. de Ries' fixture. All the details given by M. de Ries have been similarly examined, and found correct.

Dewan Bahadur L. D. Swamikannu Pillai's estimate of the lengths of these months (Indian Chronology, Table II) differs somewhat from ours, the sun according to him arriving at each samkrānti always a little later than it does by our determination. The greatest difference between us is at the Tulā-samkrānti, which his Table shews to occur 3^m 34^s 18 later than the time yielded by our Table. Adding together the lengths of the twelve solar months as given by him, the length of the Ārya-Siddhānta year appears to be 365^d 6^h 12^m 37^s, or 7 seconds longer than its accepted length.

Tables LXVI A, LXVII A—"Equation b" and "Equation c"

293 In order to obtain the correct working equations of \odot and \ominus from their respective mean anomalies it is only necessary in ordinary cases to use Tables LXVI, LXVII, which give the values of "eqn b" and "eqn c" roughly in whole numbers. For very close calculation, however, Tables LXVI A and LXVII A are provided, which give the exact equations with four decimal places for a large number of anomaly angles. For an explanation as to the construction of these Tables see my paper on the Siddhānta-sirōmanī (above, Vol XV, § 275)

² That is to say, dividing up the velocity per hour (Table XLIX) on that day into minutes and seconds, and not using Table L—which only states the sun's mean velocity.

294 It is advisable to explain clearly my reason for differing from Prof Jacobi as to the amount of the greatest equation of the moon, which he values, in ten-thousandths of the circle, at 139 0 as against my 139 4

"Eqn b" The general formula (§ 290, ix) for the equation of the moon's centre is, a being the angle of mean anom, $\sin \text{eqn} = \frac{7}{80} \sin a$. To obtain the equation from the sine of the equation-angle the proportion $\text{eqn} : \sin \text{eqn} :: \text{diff in angle} : \text{diff in sine}$ is used. The Hindu astronomers always worked by sections of anomaly-arc, each measuring $3^\circ 45'$, or $225'$. Reference to the Equation-Table LXXV will shew that in the case of the first group anom 0° to $3^\circ 45'$ the diff in anom is $225'$ and the diff in sine is also $225'$. Hence, in the case of all anom angles between 0° and $3^\circ 45'$ $\text{eqn} = \sin \text{eqn}$. But in the case of all anom angles between $3^\circ 45'$ and $7^\circ 30'$ —and no equation angle of the moon's anom exceeds the latter quantity—the diff in angle is $225'$ and the diff in sine is $224'$, so that the formula to be used for all angles coming into this second group is $\text{eqn} = \frac{225'}{224'} \sin \text{eqn}$. This applies only to the excess in the angle over $3^\circ 45'$. The working rule, therefore, for finding the equation of angles lying between $3^\circ 45'$ and $7^\circ 30'$ is as follows —

With the formula $\frac{7}{80} \sin a$, find the $\sin \text{eqn}$. From the $\sin \text{eqn}$ deduct $225'$. Multiply the remainder by $225'$ and divide the product by $224'$. Add $225'$ to the result.

Or, a little more simply,—From the $\sin \text{eqn}$ deduct $225'$. Divide the remainder by $224'$. Add the result + $225'$ to the $\sin \text{eqn}$.

For an example let us suppose that it is required to find the moon's eqn for anom $67^\circ 30'$. $\sin 67^\circ 30' = (\text{Table LXXV}) 3177' - \frac{7 \times 3177'}{80} = 277' 9875$, or $4^\circ 37' 59'' 25$, an angle between $3^\circ 45'$ and $7^\circ 30'$. $277' 9875 - 225' = 52' 9875$, and this divided by $224' = 0' 236551$. $52' 9875 + 0' 236551 + 225' = 278' 224051$, or $4^\circ 38' 13'' 44306$. This is the correct equation b for the given anom. It is stated by Prof Jacobi (above, Vol I, Table XXIV A) shortly as $4^\circ 38' 13''$.

Turning now to the equation of 90° , the greatest equation \mathcal{C} , and working in the same way, $\sin 90^\circ = 3438' - \frac{7 \times 3438'}{80} = 300' 825$. This less $225' = 75' 825$, and this divided by $224' = 0' 338504464$. $75' 825 + 0' 338504464 + 225' = 301' 163504464$, or $5^\circ 1' 9'' 810268$, which is the exact equation required. In ten-thousandths of circle this = 139 427548361.

295 "Eqn c" [Working similarly for the greatest equation \mathcal{O} or the equation of sun's anom 90°] The formula for finding $\sin \text{eqn}$ in this case is (§ 290, iii) $\frac{3}{80} \sin a$. $\sin 90^\circ = 3438' - \frac{3 \times 3438'}{80} = 128' 925$, or $2^\circ 8' 55'' 5$, or, in ten-thousandths of circle, 59 6875, and, because this angle is one in the first group, being less than $3^\circ 45'$, the $\text{eqn} = \sin \text{eqn}$. Hence

☉'s eqn $90^\circ = 59^\circ 68' 75''$ This is the same as Prof Jacobi's valuation, which he gives in degrees as $2^\circ 8' 56''$ and in circle measurement (my notation) as $59^\circ 7'$

296 Greatest equations ☌ and ☉ My estimate, therefore, of the sum of the greatest equations ☌ and ☉ is—

TOTAL	199 115048361

The difference between us causes a slight difference in our respective Tables of equation¹

Table LXVIII—Indices of tithis, etc

296-A In this Table the indices are given with decimal points for guidance in close cases. Otherwise they correspond exactly to those in Table VIII, "Indian Calendar" The indices of yogas (col 6) are the same as those of nakshatras (col 8).

Tables LXXII, LXXIII, LXIV

297 Prof Jacobi (above Vol I, p 450) has provided a Table, XIII, shewing for four of the Indian astronomical authorities the places of the sun and moon at the beginning of centuries² and another, XV, shewing their increases through the years of a century according to the Ārya-Siddhānta with Lalla's corrections. It is plain from Table XIII that in Prof. Jacobi's opinion Lalla did not interfere with Āryabhaṭa's fixtures previous to the year K Y 3600, the date of the latter's work but introduced his corrections for all later years.

If therefore we establish by Āryabhaṭa alone the values of a, b, c for 36 centuries of the Kaliyuga and add to these then values at the beginning of that era as given above, we shall arrive at their values (positions of sun and moon) at the beginning of K Y 3600—values, that is, recognized by Lalla, and Tables giving Lalla's estimate of the periodic changes in position of the sun and moon for centuries, years, and days will enable us to ascertain their position at any later date when computed by the Ārya-Siddhānta with the bija.

298 (1) First to find the century increase of a, b, c respectively according to Āryabhaṭa uncorrected. We work for mean sunrise values only, not for values at moments of Mēsha-samkrānti. We require that is the several increases in a common century of 36526 civil days and in a defective century of 36525 such days. In the 36 Kaliyuga centuries concerned there were 31 of the former and 5 of the latter.

(2) As regards the time-interval between the moments of mean Mēsha-samkrānti and the nearest mean sunrises at the beginning of each century, Prof Jacobi's column headed "Cor" in Table XIII states these clearly in ghāṭikās and palas. Mean Mēsha-samkrānti always occurs $2^h 3^m 32^s 30''$ after true Mēsha-samkrānti, and the moment of the latter's occurrence every year is given in hours and minutes in col 17, Table I, "Indian Calendar". There is no difference between us in this respect.

² There appears to be one misprint in Jacobi's Table XIII. Under head "Dist ☌—☉ uncorrected," in the section dealing with the Ārya-Siddhānta, against K Y century 4300, the number of minutes should be "14," not "24."

(iii) The advances in the values of a , b , c respectively during a common century of 36526 civil days according to Āryabhata uncorrected, excluding whole revolutions, are— a (mean moon's distance from mean sun) $319^{\circ} 24' 30'' 645$, b (\mathcal{C} 's mean anom) $211^{\circ} 1' 55'' 775$, c (\bigcirc 's mean anom) $0^{\circ} 7' 48'' 139$ These in circle measurement (our notation) are—

$$c = 0\ 361215706$$

(iv) Taking only the circle measurement, the respective increases for one day of 24-hours are—

$$a = 338\ 632000730$$

$$b = 36\ 291575876$$

$$c = 2\ 737785720$$

(v) Deducting one day's increase from the former fixtures, we have for a defective century of 36525 civil days—

$$a = 8533\ 826679825$$

$$b = 549\ 808867797$$

$$c = 997\ 623429986$$

We now have to work out the correct details for the first 36 centuries of the Kaliyuga, 31 common and 5 defective

299 (i) a Using the above figures, it is found that the advance of a in that period (omitting quantities of 10,000 or whole revolutions¹) was 7715 352496330, and since at the epoch of the Kaliyuga the distance between mean moon and mean sun was nil (above, § 290, xi), the same represents their relation at the beginning of K Y 3600. But for tabulation purposes we have to deduct from this the sum of the greatest equations \mathcal{C} and \bigcirc (§ 290, xiv, and 295). This sum, as already stated, I estimate at 199 115048361. Therefore the tabular a for the beginning of K.Y. 3600 is 7516 237147969. Prof Jacobi gives this figure, as I interpret him,² in our notation as 7516 6. The difference between us is due to his estimation of the greatest equations \mathcal{C} and \bigcirc as 198 7 (margin of Table quoted in footnote below) instead of 199 1. But I adhere to my figure, the reason for which has been fully explained.

(ii) b The advance of b in the first 36 centuries, omitting whole revolutions,³ was in thousandths of the circle, 918 158092848. Adding to this the value of b at K.Y. 0 (§ 290, xii), namely 250, we have for the moon's mean anom at the beginning of K Y 3600, $b = 168\ 158902848$.

(iii) Now in this matter Prof Jacobi and myself are not quite in accord. He states the value (Vol XI above, Table V B) as in his notation 6718. This in my notation, measuring from perigee instead of apogee, is 171 8. This figure corresponds to his valuation of b at that moment, in degrees, etc., as given in Vol I above, Special Table XIII, where it is fixed, for the moment of mean Mēsha-samkrānti, as $245^{\circ} 6' 0''$. The correction for mean sunrise value is the moon's change in 15 ghatikās, or $3^{\circ} 15' 58'' 5$, making the position of \mathcal{C} at mean sunrise

³ There are 1325 anomalistic revolutions of the moon in a century.

$241^{\circ} 50' 1'' 5$, which, in thousandths of circle, is 171 760416667 Not being absolutely certain in this case that my valuation is more accurate than his, I defer to him, and accept his figure as correct

(iv) In any very close case arising from the use of the Tables which follow the difference between us in the value of b , namely 36, may be deducted from the resulting b , and the date tested by my own estimate.

(v) c The change in the sun's mean anom (our c), similarly calculated for the 36 centuries,¹ was 999 314836816 Adding 283 3, the value of c at K Y 0 (§ 290, vii), we have for K Y 3600 $c=282\ 648170149$ But here again there is a minute difference between my estimate and that of Prof Jacobi He gives, for the sun's mean anom (measured from apogee) at the beginning of K Y 3600 (mean Mēsha-samkrānti), 282° —a value certainly correct To obtain mean sunrise value $14' 47''$ has to be deducted,² with the result $281^{\circ} 45' 13''$, which in thousandths of circle $=782\ 648919753$, and in my notation (measurement from pergee) $=282\ 648919753$. I let this stand.

(vi) The values, then, adopted in this work for the positions of ☉ and ☾ at mean sunrise at the beginning of K Y 3600 are—

$$c=282\ 648919753$$

300 (i) Table LXI below, however, the main working Table, starts from the year K Y, 4000, and we have to add to the above figures the respective increases of a , b , c for four centuries, these increases being assessed by Lalla's values and not by the original values of Āryabhata (§ 289)

(ii) The increases of a , b , c in one day, one year and one century according to Lalla are given in the heading of Table LXIV below The four centuries are all common ones, and, adding the necessary quantities, we have for the beginning of K Y 4000,—mean sunrise value—

$$c=284\ 093782577^3$$

These agree, mutatis mutandis, with Prof Jacobi's figures (Vol XI, Table V), which, in my notation, are $a=2988\ 0$, $b=523\ 2$, $c=284\ 1$.

(iii) Now these values are, as will be seen from the entry "1" in Jacobi's column for the week-day (w), the figures for mean sunrise on Sunday, that is to say, on Sunday, 25 March,

³ We may estimate the value of c on the Sunday at the beginning of K Y 4000 in another way The sun's mean anom at the moment of mean Mēsha samkrānti is always $283\ 3$, or 102° (§ 290, xii) In the year in question, A.D 699, true Mēsha samkrānti took place (Indian Calendar, Table I) at $13^h\ 47^m\ 30^s$ after mean sunrise on Thurs, 22 March, while the moment of mean Mēsha-samkrānti was (§ 290, x) $2^d\ 3^h\ 32^m\ 30^s$ later, or $6^h\ 40^m$ before mean sunrise on Sunday, 25 March Adding the sun's motion for $6^h\ 40^m$ from Table LXV below, viz $0\ 760495686$ to $283\ 3$, the c for mean sunrise on that Sunday is found to be $284\ 093829019$

A.D 899, mean Mēsha-samkrānti having taken place on the previous day, Saturday, at 17^h 20^m after mean sunrise. Following general practice, I work for mean sunrise on the day on which the mean samkrānti occurred, i.e. for the Saturday, and deduct one day's values from the above.

Finally then the working values for the beginning of K Y 4000 (Sat, 24 Mar, A.D 899, mean sunrise) are—

$$b = 486\ 863468853$$

$$c = 281\ 355996857$$

301 The century Table LXXII below is prepared from these details by addition of century increases. All the centuries concerned except century 42, which was defective, are common ones, each of 36526 days.

Table LXXIII gives the increases of a , b , c for each year of the century,¹ following Lalla's blja.

Table LXXIV gives the values to be added for the days intervening between that on which true Mēsha-samkrānti occurred in each year and the day of the corresponding beginning of the luni-solar year, i.e. the civil day called "Chaitra śukla 1." This Table is prepared for the purpose of assisting workers to check the main Table entries giving the values of a , b , c (Table LXXI, cols 23-25). The week-day stated in the main Table will always serve as a guide. Compare the similar Table in my article on the Siddhānta-śrōmanī (Vol XV, pp 159-245 above) where instructions for its use are given (§ 279).

THE NAKSHATRA

302 A special note must be made regarding the working of the "Indian Calendar" rule (§ 156, p 97) for obtaining approximately the index of the nakshatra.

It will be observed there that part of the process (see § 133, Ind Cal) consists of the addition to the value of c , the sun's mean long., of a constant, viz 7207, as stated in 10,000ths of circle. This is the Sūrya-Siddhānta quantity. For work by the Ārya-Siddhānta we require the Ārya-Siddhānta quantity.

The Sūrya-Siddhānta figure is made up of (i) long of sun's perigee-point (257° 15' 55" 7 =) 7146 3 and (ii) 60 4, the greatest equation of the sun's centre.

Now (i) the long of the sun's perigee-point according to the Ārya-Siddhānta is always 258°, or, in 10,000ths of circle, 7166 6 (§ 290, v, above), and (ii) the greatest equation of the sun's centre (§§ 295, 296) is 59 6875. Hence the Ārya-Siddhānta constant for calculating the nakshatra is (7166 6 + 59 6875 =) 7226 3542, and for approximate calculation is 7226, not 7207.

Thus the rules for finding the nakshatra by the Ārya-Siddhānta are as follows.—

A Roughly Find a , b , c and t in whole numbers, multiply c by 10, add 7226 to the result, from this subtract "equation c " The result is s , the sun's true longitude

B More closely Find a , b , c and t with the fractions in decimals, to the value of c multiplied by 10, or, with the decimal point one place to the right, add the constant 7226.3542, from the result deduct (including decimals) the amount of "equation c " The result is s in full detail $s+t=n$, the index of the nakshatra, with which turn to Table LXVIII for value of the nakshatra

The work is shewn in Example 7 below

EXAMPLES

Example 1 To find the a , b , c values for mean sunrise on the first civil day of the luni-solar year

Rule Add together the entries in Tables LXXII and LXXIII for the corresponding expired year of the Kaliyuga and those in Table LXXIV for the number of days' interval from true Mēsha-samkrānti (Table LXI, col 13, bracket-number) to the first civil day of the luni-solar year, called "Chaitra śukla 1" (col 19, bracket-number) Note specially the week-day of Chaitra śukla 1, and work for that day¹ Decimals need not be used except in close cases

For an example I take the year A.D. 1110-11 It corresponds (Table LXXI) to K Y 4211 expired The entries shew that true Mēsha-samkrānti occurred on Day 83 (Thursday, 24 March, A.D. 1110), and Chaitra śukla 1 on Day 82, the day previous Interval between them 1 day

These are the entries for that day in Table LXI

The same result can be obtained by first finding the a , b , c for mean sunrise of the day on which true Mēsha-samkrānti took place, and then deducting the values for the intervening

days as given in Table LXIV [The day on which true Mēsha-samkīānti took place is, in Table LXXIV, the day "Mēsha 0" (col 2)]

Computation of a date

Example 3 We will now take a suppositious Record-date, and in the following examples explain the complete method of work for proving the accuracy of all its details, and for settling some other matters

The date is "Śaka 1148 expned, K Y 1327, Vāra Saturday Bhādrapada śukla 5, Kanyā 1, Bāṇa karaṇa, nakshatra Visākhā, yōga Vaidhātī, Kanyā lagṇa "

Table LXI shews that the year corresponded to A.D. 1226-27, that in that year true Mēsha-samkrānti took place 3^h 55^m after mean sunrise on Wed. 25 March (Day 84 from 1 Jan), that the civil day Chaitra śukla 1 was Sunday, 1 March (Day 60 from 1 Jan), and that (col 8) the lunar month Āshādhā was intercalated in that year. The year was called 'Vṛjaya' in South India, "Vikṛita" in the North

The interval of days between the initial days of the solar and lun-solar year was (84-60) 24

In this example we work for the values of a , b , c and t at mean sunrise of the day Chaitra śukla 1, which is stated in Table LXI to have been (col 20) a Sunday. We work by the first process shewn above, and with full decimals. In using Table LXXIV for the interval of days—24 as already stated—it is observed that the week-day number (col 3) for that number of days' interval (col 1) is 2, and that, since the week-days obtained for the year from Tables LXXII, LXXIII are respectively 6 and 6, total 12, the addition of 2 will make total 14, or 0, or a Saturday, whereas the day we are working for was Sunday. Hence we use the figures for 23 days' interval, week-day 3, which gives us the correct a , b , c for 1 Sunday (See note to Example 1)

The above work has been thus fully carried out in order to prove the correctness of the entries in Table LXI cols 23-24-25, which are the same. This work is not required to be done in practice as the Table provides the information.

The 11th Ordinary work

*Example 4 The true tithi*¹ The given date is Bhādrapada śukla 5. Table LXIII A shews that, Āshādhā having been intercalated in the year in question and Bhādrapada being therefore the seventh, and not the sixth, lunar month of the year, it began about 177 days after the day Chaitra śukla 1, consequently Bhādr. śuk 5 was about 181 days after. Having added

¹ The mean tithi (and probably the mean nakshatra and yōga also) was used in earlier years—to how late a date is not yet known. The mean tithi is the mean moon's distance from mean sun, our a . To find it add to the ascertained value of a (as in Example 3) for the day the sum of the greatest equations of moon and sun, i.e. 199 1150. The total gives the a of the mean tithi (= t of the true tithi). Thus for the day in question the mean tithi index is (36+199) 235, or (35-5215+199 1150) 234 6365. This was its value at mean sunrise of the given day.

the values of a , b , c for 181 days to those already found for Chaitra-śukla 1, the equations of b and c are added from Tables LXVI, LXVII approximately, or from Tables LXVI A, LXVII A in very close and doubtful cases, to the resulting value of a for the day, thus t , the true tithi-index, is found

In this example we work approximately

The serial number of the day Chaitra śukla 1 (in March A D 1226) is 60 and the week-day 1, Sunday (Example 3) The a , b , c for mean sunrise have been settled in Example 3

Day 241 was (Table LXIX) August 29 Week-day 0=Saturday Reference to Table LXXI confirms this as the right week-day

The given Hindu date then is so far correct The 5th śukla tithi of Bhādrapada ended on, and gave its name to, Sat, 29 Aug, A D 1226 For historical purposes it is seldom necessary, unless the karana is mentioned, to find the time of beginning and ending of the tithi, but, if required, this is obtained approximately from Tables LXVIII, col 3, and LXIX At mean sunrise the tithi-index was 1448 It began $(1448-1333=)$ 115, or (Table LXX) 8^h 9^m before, and ended $(1667-1448=)$ 219, or 15^h 31^m after mean sunrise on that Saturday

For either equation b or equation c note the difference between the values of b or c thus found and the nearest value respectively in Table LXVI A or LXVII A, cols 2^a 2^b Multiply this difference by the group-difference (col 4) Divide the result roughly by 2 or exactly by 2 083, and add or subtract the result to or from the standard equation-value given in the Table (col 3) as necessity demands

[This is the complete process, but it almost always suffices to arrive very near to the truth merely by the exercise of common sense, using Tables LXVI A, LXVII A as Eye-Tables]

Here the moon's anom b is 783 6045, and the nearest amount of Argument b in Table LXVI A is 783 3, whose exact equation is 3 1006 (col 3) As the difference in anom is only about 0 3, viz 0 2712, and the group-difference only 0 4150, we may take 3 1006 as the required equation of the given anom Or we may work roughly by a multiplication of the first two decimals of the anom diff (0 27) by those of the group-diff (0 42) and a division of the result by 2—yielding 0 0567, which, added to 3 1006, makes "equation b " = 3 1573, or we may work completely with all four decimals, arriving at the absolutely correct result 3 1546

If, for even greater accuracy, instead of using the value of the sun's mean motion in 55^m, we had worked by his true motion on that 157th day, viz by dividing by 60 his true motion in 1 hour (Table XLIX, p 54) and multiplying the result by 55, we should have found $n = 5625\ 8092$

This method C, for finding the sun's longitude s , is believed to be absolutely accurate and should be relied on in case of doubt

[For a note on the nakshatra see the next example]

The yōga

The nakshatra (Example 7), as quoted in the given date, shews in which of the 27 sidereal divisions the moon stood at the moment in question, or the extent of the moon's journey from celestial long 0° . The yōga deals with the combined journeys of both sun and moon

To find, therefore, the index of the yōga at mean sunrise of the given day we have to add the long of the true sun to the long of the true moon at that moment. But the long of the true moon is the index n , i.e. the nakshatra-index already found. And the long of the sun is the index s , also already found (Example 7)

Hence the yōga-index (y) = $s + n$, or, since $n = s + t$ (Example 7), $y = 2s + t$. The latter formula makes it easy to find the yōga when it is unnecessary to find the nakshatra

At mean sunrise of 29 Aug. A.D. 1226 we have found that $s = 4177\ 5653$ and that $n = 5625\ 7925$, hence the yōga-index (y) = $9803\ 3578$, and (Table LXVIII) the yōga of the day was 27 Vaidhriti

The several samkrāntis

Example 9 To find the values of a , b , c and t at the moments of the several solar samkrāntis in the given year, and thereby to find whether a lunar month was common, intercalary (adhika), or suppressed (kshaya)

A samkrānti takes place when the sun touches the point of a zodiacal sign, i.e. when he reaches long 30° , 60° , etc. When, at the first of two such successive occurrences, the true moon is waning and at the second is also waning, or at the first is waxing and at the second is also waxing, the lunar month is common. If the moon is waning at the first and waxing at the second, the lunar month is repeated. It is intercalary (adhika). When the moon is waxing at the first and waning at the second, the lunar month is altogether suppressed (kshaya)

Thus it is necessary to find the a , b , c for the moment of the astronomical beginning of the solar year, the actual moment, that is, of the true Mēsha-samkrānti, and add to their values their respective increases during the several true solar months, thus obtaining the a , b , c for the moments of the true samkrāntis concerned. Adding to the value of a at the moment of a samkrānti the values of "equation b " and "equation c " (as in the former examples), we find the index of the tithi t , which shews whether the true moon was waxing or waning at the moment

The date and time of the true Mēsha-samkrānti is given in Table LXI, cols 13, 14, 17. The intervals in time to each subsequent samkrānti, and the collective intervals to each, are given in Table LXIII B, cols 8 and 3, and the corresponding increases in the values of a , b , c are given in the same Table, cols 9, 10, 11 and 4, 5, 6

We will consider the conditions for the first few samkrāntis of the same year as in Examples 3-8, viz A.D. 1226-27, K.Y. 4327, Śaka 1148

First we have to ascertain the values of a, b, c at the moment of true Mēsha-samkrānti which took place (Table LXI, cols 13, 14, 17) at 3^h 55^m after mean sunrise on Day 84, namely Wednesday, 25 March, A D 1226. The a, b, c for mean sunrise of Day 60, Sunday, 1 March, the day of Chaitra śukla 1, are given in cols 23, 24, 25 of the same Table. Interval between the two, whole days, (84-60=) 24. Taking down the a, b, c for 25 March and adding their increase for 24^d 3^h 55^m from Tables LXIV, LXV, we find the values of a, b, c at the moment of true Mēsha-samkrānti, as required.

Table LXIII B gives us the exact interval in time and the amount of increase of a, b, c , during that interval, up to the moment of every subsequent samkrānti in the year. In close cases, of course, full decimals can be used and the equation-values very carefully examined, but in general it is only necessary to use whole numbers, as in this example. Only in a doubtful case need we do more.

We desire, let us suppose, to ascertain, from the values of t at the respective Mithuna and Karka-samkrāntis, whether the moon was waxing or waning at the moments of their occurrence. The work is as follows —

Mean sunrise, Chait śuk 1 (Table LXI)	. 60	1	36	215	211
24 days' increase (Table LXIV)	. . 24	3	8127	871	66
3 hours' do (Table LXV)	. . .		42	5	0
55 minutes' do (do)	. . .		13	1	0
At moment of true Mēsha-samkrānti	. . 84	4	8218	92	277
At moment of Mithuna-samkrānti			9323	354	448 ¹
Eqn b (Table LXVI)	. . .		250
$t = 9614$

This value of t shews that at the Mithuna-samkrānti the moon had not reached the point of new moon when $t = 10,000$. She was still waning.

At moment of Mithuna-samkrānti, as above	. . 9323	354	448
Interval to Karka-samk (T LXIII B, cols 9, 10, 11)	. . 703	147	47
At moment of Karka-samkrānti	. . . 26	501	535 ¹
$t = 237$

[It is not really necessary, when it is seen that a (here 26) is greater than 0, to add the equations, because the value of a proves that the moon had begun a new synodical revolution and was waxing.]

The value of t (and a) shews that the moon was waxing at the Karka-samkrānti. Thus the lunar month Āshādhā (see cols 1, 2, Table LXIII B) was intercalated in the given year.

The place of the moon at the moments of the later samkrāntis is obtained, if required, by a continuation of similar work and the use of Table LXIII B.

Days of the solar year

Example 10 To find the day and week-day of the solar year corresponding to any given day in the luni-solar year

The moment of true Mēsha-samkrānti, as given in Table LXI, cols 13, 14, 17, marks the astronomical beginning of the solar year. In different parts of India (see Indian Calendar, § 28, p 12, and Indian Chronography, § 43, pp 18, 19) there are different rules for fixing the first day of the solar month, which is sometimes the same day, sometimes the next day, sometimes (in Bengal) the third day. In the present case we imagine the record to have come from the Tamil country and we work by the Tamil rule.

In the given year (Example 3), A D 1226, true Mēsha-samkrānti took place on Day 84 (measured from Jan 1), Wednesday, 25 Maich, at 3^h 55^m after mean sunrise, and that Wednesday was the day "1 Mēsha" since the samkrānti occurred before sunset.

The days in Mēsha follow regularly. But to find the first civil day of each successive month in the year we must establish the moment when each samkrānti took place. This information is obtained from Table LXIII B.

We have determined the given date to be (see Examples 4, 5) the serial day 241 measured from Jan 1, and the 157th day after the day on which Mēsha-samkrānti occurred, which was Day 84. Turn to Table LXIII B. Kanyā began 156 days after true Mēsha-samkrānti, so our date will be in the solar month Kanyā. Calculate the moment of occurrence of the Kanyā-samkrānti in the given year from the same Table.

	d	u-d	h	m	s
Moment of Kanyā-samkrānti .	(240)	(6)	14	19	25

By Tamil rule, since the samkrānti took place after sunset, or 12^h Lanka time, viz at 14^h 19^m 25^s after mean sunrise, the civil day "1 Kanyā" was not (6) Friday (Day 240), 28 August, the day of the samkrānti, but was Saturday (Day 241), 29 August.

And this Saturday happens to have been the very day of our record, which day was in solar-year reckoning "1 Kanyā."

[Observe that, if the record had come from Bengal, its solar date would have been the same, since the samkrānti occurred before midnight on Friday and the Saturday was therefore "1 Kanyā." Had it come from Orissa, the Saturday would have been "2 Kanyā," since the first day of the solar month is, in that country, always the day of the samkrānti, and so "1 Kanyā" was the Friday. By the Malabar Rule "1 Kanyā" was Saturday.]

The lagna

Example 11 On the day in question (Example 7) it has been established that at mean sunrise the sun's true long s, in 10,000ths of the circle, was 4177 5653. To calculate the lagna we must have s in degrees, etc., which can be calculated by Table XLV B, Vol XIV above, or by Tables XLVIII A, XLIX, L, in the same volume. We work by the latter.

The day of the record was the 157th after true Mēsha-samkrānti, which took place 3^h 55^m after mean sunrise on the day of its occurrence. Table XLVIII A (p 32) shews that at 3^h 55^m after mean sunrise 157 days later the sun's true long, s, was 150° 33' 7 84. Deduct his motion (true) for 3^h by Table XLIX (p 54), viz 7' 18" 72, and (mean) for 55^m by Table L, viz 2' 15" 22, total 9' 34' 24. Then s at mean sunrise was 150° 23' 33" 60.

The long of the point of rising of Kanyā is (Indian Chronography, Table XXII) 150°, and that sign ends at 180°. Take the ending-point and calculate the distance between it and the sun at mean sunrise, 180° - 150° 23' 33" 60 = 29° 36' 26" 40. There is no need here for great accuracy, and we take this as 29° 36' Turn this into time by multiplying the degrees by 4^m, and the minutes by 4^s Result 1^h 58^m 24^s

Thus on the given day Kanyā was lagna from very shortly before till about 1^h 58^m after mean sunrise

In examining the given date in the matter of the karana (Example 6) we found that the action referred to in the record must have taken place between mean sunrise and 3^h 41^m later or between 6 0 and 9 41 A.M. on Sat, 29 Aug, A.D 1226 The mention of the lagna still further reduces the time and shews that the action referred to must have taken place between mean sunrise and a time 1^h 58^m later, or between 6 0 and 7 58 A.M. on that day

NOTE

The above examples may, perhaps, strike the uninitiated as involving an immense amount of complicated work in order to obtain the desired result But such is by no means the case Every date can be calculated in whole numbers at first, and it is very seldom that the decimals need be resorted to They are provided for the purpose of deciding doubtful cases where very great accuracy is required.

For all the details of the given date,—and it is very seldom that so many are stated in an inscription or grant,—the following exemplifies all the work necessary to be done to put us in full possession of the facts In about a quarter of an hour we learn everything that has to be learned, and, when less details are given, their accuracy can be proved or disproved in a few minutes What follows shews the ordinary work to be done for the date given in Examples 3-10

DIFFERENCES IN THE CALENDAR BETWEEN ĀRYA AND SURYA SIDDHANTA FIXTURES

Cols 1, 2—The number of the year here given is the one generally used in records of the year A.D. noted in column 3, and is stated here so as to catch the eye readily In referring to the main Table LXXI the number of the year in columns 1, 2 therein is the present number advanced by 1, being the corresponding concurrent year

Col. 4, Class A—Different samvatsara-names given to solar and luni-solar years

Col 4, Class B—Intercalations and suppressions of different lunar months "adh"=an intercalated (adhika) months, "ksh," a suppressed (kshaya) month.

Col 4, Class C—Differences in the civil day called "Chaitra Śukla 1," the civil beginning of the luni-solar year The figure in brackets in columns 5, 6 is the number of the civil day measured from January 1st

NOTES.

Cols 1 to 4—The present Table states the concurrent years so as exactly to correspond with Table I of the "Indian Calendar" and in that respect to save trouble for those who have become accustomed to use that publication. The year usually quoted in inscriptions is the expired year, though sometimes the concurrent year is given, e g, the year A D 899-900 corresponds to the concurrent years K Y 4001, Śaka 822, but to the expired years K. Y 4000, Śaka 821.

Col 8—All the entries are of intercalated (adhika) months, except those in italics, which are suppressed (lshaya) months.

A List of instances where in important details the Ārya and Sūrya differ is given in Table A at end of text.

It has not been thought necessary to include in this Table the years between A D 499 and 899. This paper concerns computation by the true motions of sun and moon, and it is practically certain that prior, at least, to the latter date all calculations for almanacs in India were made by mean planetary motions.

(A) Moon's "Equation 6" by the first Arya-Siddhanta, from 0 to 000 (0°-180°)

TABLE LXVII A

($0^\circ-180^\circ$)

Cols 2, 4—Equation and Difference stand for either of the mean anom values in cols 2a, 2b.

"Arg c " is \odot 's mean anomaly in 1,000ths of circle

SERIAL NUMBER OF DAYS IN A YEAR A.D. FOR TWO CONSECUTIVE YEARS

N B—The numbers given are those in a common year. In Leap-years, after February 29, the day of the month must be reduced by 1. Thus Day 153, in a Leap year, is not June 2, but June 1.

CONVERSION OF TITHI-PARTS AND INDICES OF TITHIS, NAKSHATRAS AND YOGAS INTO TIME.

(Corresponding to Table X, "Indian Calendar.")

The "Argument" unit $1=4^m 25.24$ (a trifle over $4\frac{1}{4}$ minutes of time), in the case of the tithi-index (t), and $4^m 38.31$ in the case of the nakshatra-index (n)

To find the initial day of a given year A.D. take the day marked in Section A, perpendicular under the given century and horizontal opposite the given year. Note this initial day in column 2 of the heading of Section B. Find the given day of month in the body of Section B. Run up to the week day in horizontal line with the initial day in the heading. The day so found is the week day of the given day of month and year.

E.g. Wanted week day of 23rd March, A.D. 645. At junction of century 600 (perpendicular) and 45 (horizontal) in Section A is Saturday. This was the initial day of A.D. 645. The year was common. The week day noted in the heading of Section B at the junction of 23rd March (perpendicular) and of "Sa" in column 2 of heading (horizontal) is "W," Wednesday. Therefore 23rd March, A.D. 645, was a Wednesday.

In common years work with the month on left, in leap years with that on right.

N.B.—In the New Style the years 1600 and 2000 are leap years, but 1700, 1800, 1900 are common years. The initial week day of the first year of each New Style century is given above it in heading of Section A. For the initial week day of other years of the century look for the day in the junction of columns as mentioned above, e.g., A.D. 1900 began (top) on Monday. 1901 began (junction of columns) on Tuesday. 1928 begins on Sunday. 1919 began on Wednesday.

N B—The value of b , the \odot 's mean anomaly, is given as estimated by Professor Jacob. The present author estimates its value as less than the given amount by 3 6. In a very close case both valuations may be tried.

The figures for Mēsha 0 are those for mean sunrise on the day when true Mēsha-samkrānti occurred, i.e., on the day when true sun reached long 0°

The table serves equally for calculation from the day of mean Mēsha samkrānti by noting the interval of days

No 15—SRIRANGAM PLATES OF HARIHARA-RAYA UDAIYAR (III)
SAKA 1336.

BY

THE LATE T A GOPINATHA RAO, M.A., TRIVANDRAM, AND VARAKHEDI BAPU ACHARYA, B.A., MADRAS

This set of copper-plates belongs to the Śrīranganātha Temple at Śrīrangam. The temple authorities kindly allowed us a loan, for a few days, of the original copper-plates, from which ink-impressions, on which the accompanying facsimile plates are based, were taken under our supervision¹

The set consists of five plates, which are engraved on both sides and are 7" × 4½" in size. In the middle of the left margin of each plate there is a hole to take in the binding ring, which, when the plates were lent to us, was not found with the set. Most probably the binding ring has been lost. The inscription is in an excellent state of preservation. The plates are marked serially with Telugu-Kannada numerals—one to five—near the ring-holes. The alphabet is Telugu and the language Kannada. But the first five lines, which contain an invocation to Viṣṇu in his Boar incarnation, are written in Sanskrit verse, similarly, lines 92-98 contain the usual imprecatory verses in Sanskrit. The Kannada employed in the record is far from literary and is distinctly faulty; it sounds more like the dialect spoken in the Coimbatore, Salem and Trichinopoly Districts than the pure Kannada of Mysore.

A number of orthographical and graphical peculiarities are worth noting. The chief among them is the universal use of the anusvāra before a consonant in the place of nasals; it would be impossible to correct them all, and they are therefore left as found in the inscription. The necessary doubling of consonants is in many instances omitted. e.g., in kota in ll 13, 24 and 27, in grāmaṇū in l 17 [the accusative termination anū is correct, see Kittel's Kannada Grammar, p 43—H K S], in hotina in l 32, in oba in ll 40 and 77, etc. The use of vowels at the end and in the middle of words, where there ought to be sonant consonants, is also a common feature of this document. e.g., nāu for nāvu in ll 13, 18, 57 and 89, nīū for nīvu in ll 48, 58 and 87, koteu for kottevu in l 24, °dvadeseu for dvādaśiyū in l 19, māḍisuvadakkēu for māḍisuvadakkū in ll 35-6, Naṟuḷru for Naṟuvūru in ll 15, 26 and 60-1, Ohēvūrakōṭe for Ohēvūrakōṭe in l 20. The consonant nau is used in some instances for navū, e.g., pratidināu for pratidinavū in ll 28 and 67; similarly daū is used for dalō (davū—dalū) in dravyadimdaū for dravyadimdālō in ll 62 and 63. The secondary e-symbol is in many instances added at the bottom instead of the top as in other inscriptions and in modern Telugu. e.g., in lē in °halēbaraḥ in l 2, in khe in °śākheya in ll 11 and 17, lē in kālē in l 95. The consonants with secondary e are hardly distinguishable from those with the secondary e. Two different forms of the consonant va is employed, one resembling the English letter s and the other the common one. The former type occurs also in conjunctions, e.g., vo in vomdu in l 32.

The record belongs to the reign of Vīra-Harihara-Rāya Udayar (III), son of Vīra-Pratāpa-dēva-Rāya II of the first Vijayanagara Dynasty. That Vīra-Pratāpa-dēva-Rāya had a son named Vīra-Harihara-Rāya is known from a solitary record of the latter at Vijayamangalam,—No 596 of the Madras Epigraphist's collection for 1905,—dated Śaka 1334. Harihara-Rāya seems to have ruled as a viceroy over the country lying on the banks of the Bhavānī river² (that is, a portion of the Coimbatore District, as it is at present constituted). He appears to have ended his life only as a governor and never to have occupied the position of king of Vijayanagara.

² [See Arch Surv Rep for 1907 8, p 246.—Ed.]

The subject matter of the record is the grant of the village of Naruvūru, situated in Kilangu-nādu of the Rāyarāpura-vēnthēya (district), to Uttamanambi, son of Uttamanambi, of the Ranganātha temple at Śrīrangam, on Friday, the first day of the dark fortnight of the month Bhādrapada in the cyclic year Jaya, which corresponded to the Saka year 1336. The inscription further states that the same village was originally granted to one Appannangalu, son of Ichappa, by Vira-Harihara-Rāya Udayar, on Monday, the twelfth day (Śravana-Dvādaśī) of the bright fortnight of the month of Bhādrapada of the same year, i.e., four days earlier than the previous date, at Chēvūrakōte, in the presence of the god Mādhava, on the banks of the Bhavānī river, for the propitiation of the god Tiyambaka. It is also understood that Uttamanambi, who received the gift from Appannangalu, was to hold a subordinate position (idiriḍu) to the latter with reference to the grant. It is not possible to explain why in such a short period as four days the gift should have changed hands. It was perhaps that Appannangalu could not at a distance manage the charity as effectively as a native of the place, and therefore handed over the management of the same to the charge of Uttamanambi.

The deed of gift to Uttamanambi stipulated —

- 1 that the village of Naruvūru should thenceforward be designated Ranganāthapuram,
- 2 that a daily service with every detail of offerings to the god Ranganātha should be maintained,
- 3 that a flower-garden should be kept up for the special service known as Padinettāmpaḍi-Śērvai (²),
- 4 that a Sattrā, or feeding house for Brāhmanas, should be constructed within the walls of the Ranganātha temple, and twelve Brāhmanas fed daily, and
- 5 that four mā of land should be granted to each of eight Brāhmanas residing at Naruvūru, free of taxes.

The prince Harihara-Rāya Udayar expresses his desire that, since this was a charity primarily by him, it should be conducted without remissness and diminution. Who the person called Appannangalu was, is not patent from the inscription, he appears to have been a highly placed man, wielding some influence with the prince Harihara-Rāya Udayar, and to have induced the prince to grant the village with the distinct intention of giving it over to Uttamanambi. The family of the Uttamanambis is an ancient one in Śrīrangam, the Uttamanambis were very influential, and there is still a current proverb, ūr pāḍi Uttamanambi pāḍi, "the town is one-half and Uttamanambi the other half," meaning that the members of the family were as good as the whole town put together. These are Brāhmanas of the Pūrva-sikhā sect and have done very much towards the enriching of the temple of the god Ranganātha of Śrīrangam. A detailed account of these will be found in an article on the Srirangam Plates of Dēvaīra II to be edited by one of us in this journal. The Uttamanambis are one of the hereditary trustees of the temple of Ranganātha and enjoy certain rights and duties in it.

The places, etc., mentioned in this record are Rāyarāpura-vēnthē, Kelangu or Kilangu-nādu, Kāvēri, Naruvūru, Chēvūrakōte, Bhavānī and Śrīrangam. Of these the Kāvēri and the Bhavānī are two rivers, the latter a tributary of the former. Naruvūru is evidently the modern Nerūr, situated on the bank of the river Kāvēri in the Karūr tāluka of the Coimbatore District. It is famous as the place where the great Sadāsiva Paṭabrahmam, a modern Yōgin of great powers and devotion, died and is interred. Chēvūrakōte may be identified with Śēvūr in the Palladam tāluka of the same district. There are three places called Rāyarāpālayam, Rāvarāpuram and Rāyapuram, in the Erode, the Udampalpēt, and the Karūr tālukas all of them sound like Rāyarāpuram, but since Nerūr, the village granted, is in the same tāluka as Karūr, we may perhaps identify Rāyarāpura of the vēnthē of the same name with Rāyapuram in the Karūr tāluka. Whether Kilangu-nādu takes its name from Kilāngundal in the Dhārāpuram tāluka would be hard to say.

(Ll 29-33) "Two plate-offerings with necessary equipments consisting of food, waving lights, perpetual lights, sandal paste, flower-garland, incense, light (of camphor to be waved in front) and betel-leaves and nuts, together with all concomitants, are to be offered once a day,¹

(Ll 33-36) "A flower garden (of the extent) of one hundred and twenty kuḷis of land is to be cultivated (for the supply of flowers to make garlands to be worn by the image of the god) on the occasion of the service (called) padinettāmpadi (?)² in the temple of Śrīranga

(Ll 36-43) "A house being built within the enclosure of the temple of Śrīranga, to serve as a chhatra and necessary money to conduct the feeding being procured arrangements should be made to appoint a Brāhmana servant to cook for the feeding of twelve Brāhmanas daily with rice, dhāl, ghee, four vegetable curries, butter-milk, together with betel leaves and nuts.

(Ll 44-47) "Eight Brāhmanas in the village of Naṟuvūru should each be given rent-free four mā of wet land

(Ll 47-49) "And the remaining produce of the village, after meeting all these expenses he may enjoy as rent-free

(Ll 49-57) "With these objects in view he, Appanna, granted the village (to you) by the pouring of water, together with gold, as a freehold, and, having executed this deed of a charitable grant, fixed on the boundaries of this village stones bearing the sankha and the chakra (the emblems of Viṣṇu, to whom the village is granted), so that you might enjoy the village with the eight kinds of enjoyment (enumerated), all income and all taxes and conduct the charitable acts towards the god and the Brāhmanas

(Ll 57-89) "And, since this is an act of charity which We (i.e. prince Harihara) have (first) instituted, you (Uttamanambi) should conduct the charities (which are once again repeated completely, as in ll 28-56) according to the bond (edivēdu) you have given in your turn to Appannagala with your consent, (besides this), you should dig tanks, wells and canals in the village of Naṟuvūru³ either from the money given to you by Appannagala or from your own pocket, convert the land into gardens and paddy fields, improve the agricultural prospects in it and conduct the charity from the said first tithi of the dark fortnight of the month of Bhādrapada of the year Jaya

(Ll 89-93) "This is the charity deed given (to you) by Us with the firm faith that you (Uttamanambi) will conduct the charities as long as the moon and the sun exist"⁴

³ Instead of "either from or", we can translate also "both from and." See above, p 226, note 30

⁴ [The translation given does not appear to be correct. The king says that he would of his own free will agree to declare the charities (recorded in the grant) tax-free as long as the moon and sun exist —H K S]

No 16—THE SANCHI INSCRIPTION OF SVAMIN JIVADAMAN THE 13TH YEAR

By R. D. BAYERJI, M.A.

Very little is known about Svāmin Jivādāman, the father of the Kshatrapa Rudrasimha II, who ruled over Saurāshtra in the third and the fourth decades of the third century A.D. and who was very probably the ancestor of the Mahā-Kshatrapa Stāmin Rudrasēna III. No inscriptions of this period have been discovered, and one has to depend entirely on numismatics for the reconstruction of the history of this period. The line of Chāshtara seems to have come to an end with the Kshatrapa Viśvasēna son of the Mahā-Kshatrapa Bhartidāman. The latest known date of Viśvasēna is Śaka 226=304 A.D.¹ In the following year (Ś 227=305 A.D.) a prince named Rudrasimha strikes coins, therefore it is certain that the reign of the Kshatrapa Viśvasēna came to an end either in Ś 226 or in Ś 227. On this point Prof. E. J. Rapson states, 'There is, however, only the possibility of a very small error in regarding Viśvasēna's last known coin date 226, as the actual end of his reign, since his successor, the Kshatrapa Rudrasimha II issued coins in the following year, 227.'² Nothing is known about the origin of this third dynasty of Satraps of Saurāshtra. On the coins of Kshatrapa Rudrasimha II it is stated that he was the son of Svāmin Jivādāman. "With Mahākshatrapa Bhartidāman and his son, the Kshatrapa Viśvasēna, comes to an end the ruling family of Chāshtana. It is succeeded by a family which traces its descent back to a personage Stāmin Jivādāman who, like Ghasmotika, the father of Chāshtana, bears none of the titles which may be regarded as distinctly royal in character, 'rājā,' 'mahākshatrapa' or 'kshatrapa'."³ Prof. Rapson is inclined to agree with the late Pandit Bhagwan Lal Indraji in thinking that Svāmin Jivādāman was a scion of some younger branch of the family of Chāshtana, because of his title Stāmin and the suffix ādāman to his name.

A stone inscription was discovered in the village of Kānakhēda near Sāñchī in the Bhopal State, by one of the Assistants of Sir John Marshall, Director-General of Archaeology in India, two or three centuries ago. This record throws some light on the hitherto obscure personality of the ancestor of the third dynasty of the Satraps of Saurāshtra. The inscription is in a very imperfect state of preservation and consists of six lines of writing. The language of the record is Sanskrit and it is partly in prose and partly in verse. The inscribed surface measures 2 1/2 by 6 1/2" and the average length of letters is 1 1/2". The record opens with a number of adjectives and the first line ends with the name of Jivādāman. The object of the rest of the inscription is to record the excavation of a well by the Judge or General (Mahā-Dandanāyaka) Śrīdharavarman the Scythian (Śaka), who was the son of Nanda the Scythian in the kingdom-increasing year 13. The middle of the record has suffered considerably by flaking, and it is impossible to make out any sense at all. The last two lines contain two pādas of a verse in the Śārdūlavikīritā metre, which records the purpose of the inscription, viz. the excavation of a well by Śrīdharavarman. The verse is followed by two numerical symbols and by three or four syllables which are illegible. The adjectives in the first line cannot refer to Jivādāman, as they begin with the word Bhagavatah. It is probable that some comparison was made between the lord who was the commander of the heavenly hosts, whose names had never been vanquished, the lord Mihāsēna (Shanda or Kāntikēya), and Jivādāman but the fragmentary state of the first line prevents us from making any guesses. It is quite certain, however, that the line ends with the word Jivādāman, the case-ending being illegible. It is also quite certain that the word Jivādāman is a proper name, and not an adjunct of any other name. The connection between the first line and the second line cannot be made out. It begins with the word dharmma-ujjayāna, which is an adjunct of the subject Śrīdharavarmanā. It contains a phrase the exact meaning of which is not apparent.

Sia-rājy-ābhitriddhi-karē vaigayikē samvatsarē means "in the kingdom-increasing victorious year" This phrase is quite intelligible, if it is used in connection with a reigning sovereign, but its meaning becomes dubious when it is used in the case of a royal officer. In this record it is used in the case of a Mahā-Dandanūyaka, a judge or at best a commander of forces. Now what can be the kingdom of a judge or a general? Yet the prefix sia shows clearly that the adjective must refer to the subject immediately preceding it, i.e. Śrīdharavarmanā. It is quite possible that in the troublesome times which saw the end of the first dynasty of Satraps in Western India a judge or a general may have practically obtained independence, but the use of regnal years in the case of a prince who for some reason or other had refrained from openly proclaiming his royalty is very unusual. Śrīdharavarman does not claim any royal titles therefore it is extremely improbable that the year 13 mentioned in line 2 was a year of his reign. Most probably it is a regnal year of the reign of his master or suzerain who is mentioned in the previous line.

The other interesting feature of this record is the numerical symbols which have been incised after the last verse. The reason for putting the numerical figures at the end of the record without an explanatory word is not apparent. They are two in number. There is no doubt about the reading of the second symbol. It is a symbol for the unit and is used commonly in Kushan records and Western Satrap records and coins. The other symbol is less easily recognisable. It resembles to some extent the Kushan symbol for 70. But it seems that it is the Western Kshatrapa symbol for 200 written at one stroke. It is a modified form of the symbol for 100 commonly used on Kshatrapa coins, which consists of two semicircles placed horizontally side by side, with the right end produced downwards and then made to curve towards the left. The symbol for two hundred has a short horizontal line attached to middle of the right vertical limb, to its right. In the Sāñchī record we have a modified form of this symbol, which resembles the English letter Y written in the current hand. The symbol for 200, as used on the coins, has been modified in the inscription, because in this case the scribe attempted to write it, and in fact wrote it, at one stroke of the pen. Here we have two possible equivalents for the first numerical symbol, i.e. 70 and 200. We do not know what this number, 71 or 201, indicates. It is not preceded by any such word varshē or samvatsarē. Yet there is but one way of explaining the presence of the symbols, i.e. it is a date. The qualifying word seems to have been omitted through negligence. The Śaka era is almost universally used in the inscriptions and on the coins of the Western Satraps, and the prefix Svāmin and the affix ādāman indicate that the master or suzerain of the Mahā-Dandanūyaka Śrīdharavarman was descended from some younger branch of the family of Chāshtana. Therefore it is extremely probable that the date used in the Sāñchī inscription is a Śaka date. Now, considering the form of the characters used in the record, it is absolutely impossible to admit that the numerical symbols at the end stand for 71. The difference in the forms of the characters used in the Junigadh inscription of Rudradāman, which was incised shortly after the year 72 of the Śaka era, and those of this from Sāñchī is very great, and therefore it is quite certain that the Sāñchī inscription could not have been incised in the Śaka year 71. On the other hand, the alternative suggested gives a fitting explanation to all the points raised by the newly discovered inscription. The record mentions Svāmin Jivadāman in the first line. We know from coins that the Kshatrapa Rudrasimha II had acquired the country of Saurāshtra in Ś 227=305 A.D. Therefore it is quite possible that his father was alive and was ruling in Ś 201=279 A.D.

The Sāñchī inscription, therefore, furnishes us with three different items of hitherto unknown information about Svāmin Jivadāman, it furnishes us with (1) his date, (2) minimum extent of his reign, and (3) the locality of his principality.

It is now almost certain that the date of the record is Ś 201=279 A.D., and the association of Jivadāman's name with it shows that he was reigning in that year. It is also extremely probable that the kingdom-increasing and victorious reign of the Mahā-Dandanāyaka Śrīdhara-varman is really the 13th year of Jivadāman's reign. The accession of Jivadāman can therefore be placed tentatively in Ś 201—13=188=266 A D. Jivadāman could not have been the ruler of Saurāshtra in Ś 188=266 A D, because we find an almost unbroken series of dated coins of the Mahā-Kshatrapa Rudrasēna II and his sons the Mahā-Kshatrapas Viśvasimha and Bhartṛdāman from Ś 187 to Ś 201. It is therefore almost certain that Svāmīn Jivadāman had no control over Saurāshtra during this period. The conclusion is, therefore, that he had begun his career as the ruler of Mālava, in which country the first record of his reign has been discovered.

As no coins of Jivadāman have been found, we are not in a position to discuss the extent of his reign. The Sāñchī inscription proves that he had ruled over Mālava for at least thirteen years. Twenty-five years after the date of the Sāñchī inscription the line of Chāshtana came to an end. The latest coin of the Kshatrapa Viśvasēna was issued in Ś 226=304 A D. He was succeeded by the Kshatrapa Rudrasimha II, whose earliest coin was struck in the Śaka year 227=305 A D. The interval between the two reigns seems to have been exceedingly small. We do not know how the reign of the Kshatrapa Viśvasēna ended, nor do we know how Rudrasimha II, the son of Svāmīn Jivadāman, came to succeed him. Either Viśvasēna was defeated by Rudrasimha II and driven out of his ancestral dominions or he died without issue and Rudrasimha II succeeded as the next-of-kin. The text is edited from the original stone.

NO 17—THREE KSHATRAPA INSCRIPTIONS

BY RAKHALDAS BANERJEE AND VISHNU S. SUKTHANKEAR

These three Kshatrapa inscriptions, which are now exhibited in the Watson Museum of Antiquities at Rājōt, have been published before, at different times and different places, but are here re-edited in order to have them properly illustrated and render them easily accessible. A comparison of the originals with the facsimiles of the same inscriptions published in the Bhavnagar Collection of Prakrit and Sanskrit Inscriptions made us feel the special need of placing before scholars reliable facsimiles obtained by purely mechanical means. These, it is hoped, will enable even those scholars who are not in a position to examine the stones personally to reconsider the previous readings, which, in our opinion, are in many respects defective. Our transcripts, which were in the first instance prepared from ink-impressions and squeezes, were subsequently compared with the originals.

I—Gundā Inscription of the time of the Kshatrapa Rudrasīmha the year 103

The inscription was first edited, with a translation, in 1881, by Georg Buhler in Ind Ant, Vol X, pp 157 f, from an eye-copy and a transcript prepared by Pandit Vallabhāchārya Haridatta of Kāthiāwād and submitted to Buhler by Major Watson for publication. Nine years later Buhler published some corrections in Sitzungsber Wien Akad Wiss, Phil Hist Kl, Vol CXXII, No XI, p 46, note 2, which publication was unfortunately not accessible to the writers of this article. The posthumous papers of Bhagvanlal Indraji edited by Rapson in the Jour Roy As Soc (1890) contain a short note (pp 650 f) on this inscription. In 1895 the text and a translation of this epigraph were republished in the Collection of Prakrit and Sanskrit Inscriptions, Bhavnagar, pp 21 f, No 3 and Plate XVII. In 1896 appeared in the Bombay Gazetteer, Vol I, Part I, p 42, some corrections proposed by Bhagvanlal Indraji himself in his earlier readings and interpretation, Rapson, in Jour Roy As Soc, 1899, p 375, also published some fresh corrections. The Catalogue of the Coins of the Andhra Dynasty, etc (1908), of Rapson includes (p 121) a short note on this record, which gives reference to the literature on the subject and briefly summarizes the contents of the inscription. In 1912 Prof Lüders in his List of Brāhmī Inscriptions (Appendix to Epigraphia Indica, Vol X, No 963) gave a complete bibliography of the inscription, a reading of the date (it cannot be said whether from the published facsimile or directly from an impression of the stone), and a summary of its contents. And finally, in 1915, Prof D R Bhandarkar published some corrections of previous readings and interpretations in Proc Rep Arch Surv of India, W Circle, 1914-15, p 67.

The inscription was discovered in 1880 by Major Watson in an old unused well at Gundā in the Hālār District of North Kāthiāwād. It was subsequently removed to the temple of Dvārakānātha at Jāmnagar, where, apparently, it was kept until its transference to the Watson Museum of Antiquities at Rājōt.

The epigraph contains five lines of well-engraved writing, covering a space of about 2 ft 2 in in width by about 9½ in in height. The writing is, on the whole, in an excellent state of preservation, some isolated syllables here and there are, however, seriously damaged. The average size of such letters as n, m, p, and b is about $\frac{3}{8}$ "

The characters present an earlier form of the southern variety of the Gupta alphabet than that seen in the well-known inscription of Skandagupta at Junāgadh. It differs in a few minor particulars from the Junāgadh edict of the Mahā-Kshatrapa Rudradāman, to wit, in the form of y (subscript as well as uncombined), and in the marking of the medial vowel in sī (l. 3), mī and tī (l. 5). Subscript consonants, excluding j, are expressed by the ordinary full forms of the letters. No final consonants occur. Of initial vowels the record has only ā (l. 4). Medial ā has in various instances been left unmarked, evidently through the carelessness of the scribe, when engraved—it is (like ā and ō) denoted by a short horizontal line appended, generally, to the top of the consonant sign. As an exception we may mention ī(ā)ō in which the sign of ō (which is made up of the signs of ā and ē) is drawn in continuation of the middle bar of the letter. Noteworthy is the form of the medial long ī, in the only certain and clear instance of that sign in this inscription, in śīhasya (l. 3). In inscriptions of the same period and locality the long ī is generally represented by a crescent-shaped arc, with unequal arms and open at the top. In this instance, however, the free end of the shorter arm is attached to, or rather drawn in continuation of, one of the upright verticals of the mātrikā, a peculiarity which gives this letter a somewhat uncommon appearance. This mode of drawing ī is probably the origin of the spiral sign of that vowel in the southern alphabets of a later epoch. The medial u is marked either by a subscript curved line open to the right, as in su of -suddhē (l. 3), or by one open to the left, as in pu of -putrasya (l. 2), or lastly by a short horizontal stroke attached to the lower end of a long vertical as in ru of Rudra° (l. 2). Line 3 includes the numerical symbols for 100 and 3. No sign of punctuation occurs: the letters are engraved in a continuous succession without a break.

The language of the inscription is a mixed dialect, and the whole is in prose. The Prakritisms are tri-vāra- (l. 3), and bamddhāpita° (l. 5), and besides, perhaps, such irregularities of spelling as cannot be put down to the negligence of the scribe, the rest is in Sanskrit. In passing it may be observed that the Sandhi constant y which we find here inserted between tri and vāra serves very often the same purpose in Prakrit, as may be seen by reference to Pischel's Grammatik der Prakrit-Sprachen, § 353. [The construction of the genitives is in some cases in all these inscriptions irregular, e.g. mahā-kshatra[paś]ya, l. 1 of Inscription No. I—Ed.]—As regards orthography, we may notice the sporadic doubling of the consonant after r in -rūṭtī (l. 4), surū- (l. 5), in sukhāntam (l. 5) the consonant is not doubled. There is, moreover, no instance of the phonetic doubling in a ligature when r forms the second member of the conjunct. The word bamddhāpita seems to offer an instance of the doubling of the consonant following upon an anusvāra, but the reading of the ligature is not quite certain, and perhaps we have to read the word as bamddhāpita, in which case this would be an illustration of the addition of a superfluous anusvāra before a nasal of which there are instances to be met with in inscriptions of all periods.

The inscription refers itself to the reign of the king (and) Kshatrapa Lord Rudrasīha (Rudrasimha), and gives the following pedigree of the king—king and Mahā-Kshatrapa Lord Chāshtana, his son king and Kshatrapa Lord Jayadāman, his son king and Mahā-Kshatrapa Lord Rudradāman, his son king and Kshatrapa Lord Rudrasīha (Rudrasimha). This is a genealogical list and not a dynastic one, that is why the names of several princes who lived between Chāshtana and Rudrasimha, but who were not in the direct line of descent, have been left out. The record is dated on the fifth tithi of the bright fortnight of Varsākha, during the constellation of Rāhini in the year one hundred and three, which number is expressed both in words and numerical ideograms. There can be little doubt that the era to which the year in this inscription is to be referred is the Śaka era. Accordingly the inscription may be taken to be dated roughly in the year A D 181. It will be remembered that the evidence afforded by the dates and the legends on the coins of Rudrasimha lead us to infer that he ruled first as Kshatrapa in the year 102-3, then as Mahā-Kshatrapa from 103 to 110, then again as Kshatrapa from 110 to 112, and lastly as Mahā-Kshatrapa from 113 to 118 (or 119). According to this scheme the present inscription must be taken to refer to the period when he was reigning as Kshatrapa for the first time. The earliest date we have for his reign is the year 102 on a coin belonging to the Cunningham collection.

The object of the inscription was to record the digging and constructing, at the village of Rasōpadra, of a well by the general (sēnāpati) Rudrabhūti, son of the general (sēnāpati) Bāpaka, the Ābhīra.

The village of Rasōpadra, which is the only locality mentioned in this record, remains unidentified.

L 1 GB and BI rājñō mahā- and svāmi-, but in our estampage the sign of length can be made out in none of these words. L 2 Over ma in maha, to its right, is to be noticed a slanting irregular depression, the nature and significance of which is uncertain. L 3 GB dry-uttara-śatē sa 100 2, which is clearly inadmissible, BI and L tri-uttara-śatē, differing from our reading in the second syllable, which is, however, unmistakably yu and not u, on the other hand, it is uncertain whether the first syllable should be read as tri or tia. GB, BI and L -suddha for suddhē, but our estampage shows the sign of ē quite distinctly. The estampage does not show any clear trace of the sign of the long i in pamchamī—as read by GB, BI and L. The projection on the left of the sign of cha is abnormal. GB, BI and L -dhanya-, but an examination of the back of the estampage removes all doubt as to the correctness of our reading of the second syllable. Most probably we have to correct dhattya to dhanya, the former gives no sense. Mr Banerji could read ētya regarding the latter as equivalent to asyām or ētasyām, and cognate with the Pkt ētya found in Kushan inscriptions. GB Śraiana- for Rōhini-. L 5 GB padrē hradārthē, and BI padrē hradaḥ, L accepts the sense, adding hrada in brackets with a query. DRB speaks of Rasōpadriya and garta in giving the contents of the inscription. The syllable vā is quite clear in the estampage especially on the back of it, dā or dō, which are made quite differently, are out of the question, cf dā in -Jayadāma- in l 1, and -Rudradā- in l 2. The estampage will also show that the reading lra for the first doubtful syllable is utterly impossible. The anustāra in lam^o is well marked, but it is impossible to say with certainty whether we have to read °śudhā^o or °śuddhā^o; the latter seems to us more probable.

Hail ! On the [auspicious¹] fifth tithi of the bright fortnight of Vaiśākha during the auspicious period of the constellation of Rohini, in the year one hundred and three²—100 3—(during the reign) of the king, the Kshatrapa Lord Rudrasīha (Rudrasimha), the son of the king, the Mahā-Kshatrapa Lord Rudradāman (and) son's son of the king, the Kshatrapa Lord Jayadāman, (and) grandson's son of the king, the Mahā-Kshatrapa Lord Chashtana, the well was caused to be dug and embanked by the general (śēnāpati) Rudrabhāti, the son of the general (śēnāpati) Bāpaka³ the Ābhira,⁴ at the village (grāma) of Rasōpadra, for the welfare and comfort of all living beings.

II—Gadhā (Jasdan) Inscription of the time of the Mahā-Kshatrapa Rudrasēna the year 127 (or 126)

The inscription was first edited, with a translation and lithograph, prepared probably from an eye-copy, in 1868, by Dr. Bhau Daji in Jour. As. Soc., Vol. VIII, pp. 23 f., and Plate. After that it remained unnoticed till 1883, when Hoernle published a revised transcript and translation of it in Ind. Ant., Vol. XII, pp. 32 f. The posthumous papers of Bhagvanlal Indrajī, edited by Rapson in Jour. Roy. As. Soc., 1890, p. 652, contain a short note on it. In 1885 the text and a translation, based upon the editio princeps of Dr. Bhau Daji, were republished in the Collection of Prakrit and Sanskrit Inscriptions, Bhavnagar, pp. 22 f., No. 4, and Plate XVIII. The Bombay Gazetteer, Vol. I, Part I, p. 43, contains a very short note on it, originating from the pen of Bhagvanlal Indrajī. Rapson's Catalogue of the Coins of the Andhra Dynasty, etc. (p. lxi, No. 42), includes a short summary of its contents, and a reference to the literature of the subject. Prof. Luders in his List of Brahmi Inscriptions (Appendix to Epigraphia Indica, Vol. X), No. 967, gives a complete bibliography of the inscription, a reading of the date (it cannot be said whether from the published facsimiles or directly from an impression of the stone), and a summary of its contents. Prof. D. R. Bhandarkar refers to the inscription in Proc. Roy. Arch. Surv. of India, W. Circle, 1914-15, pp. 67-68, and suggests certain corrections.

The inscription is said to have been found at Gadhā, about two miles north of Jasdan, Kāthiāwād, engraved on a thick irregular slab standing upright on the margin of a lake. Subsequently the inscribed stone was transferred to the Watson Museum of Antiquities, Rajkot, where it is now exhibited⁵.

³ Bāpaka is a variant of Bappa(ka), which name occurs in a number of later inscriptions.

Junagadh Inscription of the time of the grandson of the Kshatrapa Jayadaman

SCALE ONE-HALF

The inscription contains six irregular lines of varying length and uncouth writing, covering a rhomboidal space of about 3 ft 7 in in width by about 1 ft 10 in in height. The engraving, which is shallow, is on the whole in a fair state of preservation. The average size of such letters as n, m, p, and b is about $1\frac{1}{2}$ "

The characters of the inscription are of the same general type as those of other Kshatrapa inscriptions, and the above remarks on the palaeography of the Gundā inscription are, with a few exceptions, applicable to this one also. The letters of this epigraph lack, however, all regularity and finish, they have a decidedly cursive character. Observe, for instance, the form of the uncombined m, which is sometimes denoted by the older X-shaped form of the earlier inscriptions and sometimes by a more advanced form which is met with, regularly, only in the records of the Gupta dynasty. The letter t appears to have been drawn with prongs of unequal length, both curved, one of them being slightly longer than the other. In tra the subscript r is marked by drawing the free end of the right prong to a little distance to the left, thus this ligature and the uncombined t are indistinguishable from each other when either of them is badly drawn. Of initial vowels the inscription contains i (l 5) and u (l 6). Subscript consonants, excluding r and y, are expressed by the ordinary full signs of the letters, as in the Gundā inscription described above. No final consonants appear in this record. Sporadically one notices the flattening out of the serif of the letters into a thin horizontal top line, so that in some cases it becomes extremely difficult to say whether the top-stroke is only a serif or the sign of ā, ē or ō, which is marked by a slight prolongation of the serif. The length in et (l 5) is denoted by a distinct spiral, which is a further development of the form which was met with in the Gundā inscription. To judge by the instance of bhātrabhih (for bhrātrabhih) in line 6, no distinction was made in writing between the subscript r and the medial ri. The diphthong au is marked by the addition of an upward stroke, slanting to the right, to the sign of ō. On two occasions the engraver has omitted the syllable tra in writing Kshatrapas(y)a. Lastly it may be observed that the first line of the inscription contains four numerical symbols, 100, 20, 5 and another about the reading of which there is some doubt, it may be either 6 or 7.

The language of the inscription is a mixed dialect. In this specimen the Prakritisms are slightly more numerous than in the Gundā inscription. One may notice the frequent use of sa for the termination of the genitive singular in ll 1 and 2 in addition to the verbal form uttharita[m] in l 6. The sense of the record, as it stands, is incomplete, and, to judge by the two final syllables sta[rga] in l 6, it should seem that a few syllables or words, in an additional line which is now lost, are missing. [Regarding the irregular genitives (e.g. mahā-kshat[r]apasa, l 1) see remarks on Inscription No I.—Ed.]—As regards orthography the only point worth drawing attention to is the sporadic doubling of the consonant before r in papau-[i]traśya in l 2, but it should be added that the reading of the ligature is not absolutely certain. Of words not found in dictionaries the inscription contains one, viz śatra, of which, moreover, the meaning is not known. Prof Lüders hesitatingly identifies it with the Prakrit word sata in an inscription from the Kanheri caves (Lüders' List, No 985), for which he, also doubtfully, suggests the meaning 'seat'.

The inscription refers itself to the reign of the king (and) Mahā-Kshatrapa Lord Rudrasēna and records the erection of a śatra (meaning ?) by the brothers of Khara[r]-pattha, the son of Pratāsaka of the Mānasa gōtra. Previous editors of the inscription have read in l 6 Pranāthaka instead of Pratāsaka and Khara-pautra instead of Khara[r]pattha. Our reasons for adopting the reading which we have will be found in the remarks on the transcript, below, p 238. The inscription gives the following pedigree: king and Mahā-Kshatrapa bhadra-mukha Lord Chāshtana, his son, king (and) Kshatrapa Lord Jayadāman, his son, king and Mahā-Kshatrpa bhadra-mukha Lord Rudradāman, his son, king and Mahā-Kshatrpa bhadra-mukha Lord Rudrasīha (Rudrasimha), his son, king and Mahā-Kshatrpa Lord Rudrasēna. This is the longest pedigree of the Kshatrapas of Surāshtra and Mālava contained in a single record. It will be noticed that the title bhadra-mukha, 'of gracious appearance,' is added before the names of some of the Mahā-Kshatrapas, but not before the name of the only Kshatrpa mentioned in the record, or before that of the last Mahā-Kshatrpa named here, viz. Rudrasēna, in whose reign the inscription was engraved. The reason for the omission in the last case is not apparent, it would seem, however, that the title was used with the names of Mahā-Kshatrapas only. The names of Dāmayasda I and Jivadāman, who had reigned before Rudrasēna, but who were not in the direct line of descent, are not included in this list, which is purely genealogical.

The inscription is dated in the year 127 (or 126) on the fifth tithi of the dark half of the month of Bhādrapada. The era to which the date is to be referred is undoubtedly the Śaka era, accordingly the date of the record may be taken to correspond to 127 (or 126) + 78 = A.D. 205 (or 204).

The record contains no geographical name.

Remarks on the Transcript²

L 1 The reading 7 is uncertain, it may be 6. DRB reads 5. L 2 D and H -mukhasya svāmī-. The slanting line below the sa of the first word is an abrasion and not the subscript y. L 3 D and H Jayadāma bhadra-mukhasya is continued in a slanting direction above the level of the same line. L 4 No trace remains of the r in svāmī, if it was marked at all. L 5 D and H mukhā-. DRB Śakri (for śatram), which is very doubtful. L 6 Hoernle's reading -māna[m]tu Tungōtras[y]a is out of the question, and need not be discussed here. D pranāthāa- (the previous syllable is read by him as Su-), and H Pratā[ra]thaka (for Pratīśaka), both of which are inadmissible. The second syllable may, perhaps, be mā, but the third one cannot be tha, as tha does not contain the vertical bar in the centre which our letter shows, the shallow stroke at the lower end of the letter is an accidental mark, of which the rock has many. D and H Khara-pautrasya, but the fourth syllable is clearly tīha and not tra, cf. the same ligature in a subsequent word of the same line. DRB Kharapītthasya. D and H bhātrabhūh (for bhā'rubhūh). It is doubtful if the medial r would be marked

III —Junāgadh Inscription of the time of the grandson of the Kshatrapa Jayadāman

This inscription was first edited, with a translation and a photograph, in 1876, by Buhler in Arch Surv West Ind, Vol II, pp 140 f, and Plate XX, the block is rather small and almost useless for purposes of study In 1895 Bühler's text was republished, with a few minor alterations, accompanied by a facsimile of an inked impression, and a translation of the text in the Collection of Prakrit and Sanskrit Inscriptions, Bhavnagar, p 17, No 1, and Plate XV Rapson gives an abridged bibliography of the inscription, and summarizes briefly its contents in his Catalogue of the Coins of the Andhra Dynasty, etc, p lxi, No 40 The most recent notice is by Prof Lüders in his List of Brahmi Inscriptions (Appendix to Epigraphia Indica, Vol X (1912), No 966), where we find a complete bibliography of the inscription, a reading of the date (probably from the facsimile in the Bhavnagar Collection of Prakrit and Sanskrit Inscriptions) and a summary of its contents

The inscription was discovered, during excavation, in front of one of the cells of an extensive complex of caves situated to the east of Junāgadh, close to a modern monastery known as Bāvā Pyārā's Math Regarding the mischances that fell to its lot after its discovery we have the following account by Burgess While extricating it, he writes, "the workmen damaged one end of it, but, to add to the misfortune, some one carried it off to the palace in the city, and in doing so seriously injured it at one corner When I went to photograph it, I had a difficulty in tracing it, at length, however, it was found lying in a verandah in the circle in front of the palace¹ For some time previous to its transference to the Museum the stone used to be kept in the State Printing Press at Junāgadh. The misfortunes which have fallen to the lot of this stone since its recovery did not end with those described by Burgess. As a result of some fresh accident, it is now in two halves, probably having split along the fissure which is noticeable in the facsimile published in the Bhaynagar Collection of Sanskrit and Prakrit Inscriptions, and referred to in the letterpress accompanying the facsimile.

The inscription is engraved on one of the faces of a dressed slab of soft calcareous stone about 2 feet each way and 8 inches thick. The epigraph contains four lines of writing, covering a space of about 1 ft 9 in in width by about 6 in in height. The average size of such letters as n, m, p, and b is about $\frac{1}{4}$ " Much of the writing is seriously damaged. The two middle lines are in a fair state of preservation, but the greater part of line 1 and a good bit of line 4 are illegible. Moreover the inscription is fragmentary. The slab has lost a large fraction of its length, how much it is not possible to say. Buhler assumes that lines 2-4, at their left ends, are almost intact, only a couple of syllables being necessary in each to complete them. This is, however, far from being certain. As far as we can judge, there is nothing to show how much is missing on either side of the preserved portion. We can only say that the lost portion of ll 2 and 3 must have contained, at least, the names of the son and grandson of Jayadāman as well as the year in which the record was dated, expressed possibly both in words and numerical ideograms.

The characters closely resemble those of the Gundā inscription of the time of the Kshatrapa Rudrasimha, which have already been minutely described above. It will, therefore, suffice to draw attention here only to a few outstanding features of the alphabet of this inscription. The syllable mē in l 3, it will be noticed, shows that the sign of ē in mē was attached to the constricted part of the letter. The same line offers a specimen of the numerical figure 5. The sign of the medial u in su (l 1) is seen to open towards the left, in śu (l 3), on the other hand, it opens towards the right, of the medial u marked by a short horizontal stroke appended to the long vertical of a letter this inscription contains no specimen. We have here only one initial vowel, namely i (l 3), it is denoted by three dots, of which two are placed in a vertical line on the left side of the remaining one. In s the middle bar, which is attached only at one end, is almost vertical. The letter y shows the simple bipartite form. [In regard to the language we may note the irregular genitives (e.g. kṣha[trapa]śya, l 2) as in Inscriptions Nos I and II—Ed]—As regards orthography the only point worth noting is that the inscription offers no instance of the phonetic doubling of consonants.

The inscription must belong to the reign of a Kshatrapa or Mahā-Kshatrapa who was the grandson (or rather son's son) of the king, Kshatrapa Lord Jayadāman, and great-grandson of Chāshtana, the name of the ruling prince is lost with the portion of the record which is missing. This Satrap to whose reign the record referred itself was therefore either Dāmaysada I or Rudrasimha I (the brother and successor of the former). The purport of this fragmentary inscription cannot be determined, as the portion containing the object of the record is lost. It may be added that from the occurrence of the expression kēvali-jñāna-sam[prāpta] ('who had arrived at the knowledge of the kēvalins') in l 4 it may be surmised that the inscription probably had something to do with the Jainas, since the word kēvalin occurs most frequently in Jaina literature.

The inscription is dated on the fifth (5th) day of the light half of Chaitra in a year which, like the purport of the record, cannot be ascertained, as it is lost in a lacuna of the text.

The only locality which the record mentions is the well-known Gīri-nagara, which was the ancient name of Junāgadh. and which survives in that of the adjacent hill of Gīrnār

No 18—THE PENUGULURU GRANT OF TIRUMALA I, SAKA 1493

By C R KRISHNAMACHARLU, B A., MADRAS

The subjoined inscription is engraved on seven copper-plates which were forwarded,² in 1913, by A H. A Todd, Esq., ICS, then Special Settlement Officer, Madanapalli, Chittoor district, Madras Presidency, for examination, to the Assistant Archaeological Superintendent for Epigraphy, Southern Circle It has been briefly reviewed by the latter officer in his Annual Report for 1912 13 (No 1 of Appendix A and page 24, para 61) I now edit it for the first time from a set of ink-impressions kindly placed by him at my disposal

² This is very probably the set of copper plates noticed by Mr Sewell in his Lists of Antiquities, Vol I, p 131, as being in the possession of one Pidatala Chellambhatlu in the village Penagaluru in the Pullampet taluka of the Cuddapah district The owner is evidently a descendant of the first in the list of the donees mentioned in the grant See p 258 below

giri-durga and translate the passage 'he took from him the hill-fort of Ādavanī' In agreement with this it is also clearly mentioned in the Telugu poem Rāmarājīyam, or Narapatīvijayamu, of Andugula Venkayya that Rāma crushed Kāśappudaya, who had hid himself in Ādavanī-durga¹ Ādavanī is the modern Adoni in the Bellary district Kāśappudaya² [=Kāśappa-Udayar—F W T], from whom Rāmarāja took this hill-fort, has not been identified. Rāmarāja conquered also Kamdanavōlu (modern Kurnool), and the Vasu-charitramu informs us that he had his residence at that historic town Rāmarāja had according to this latter poem three sons,³ viz Timmarāja, Konda and Śrīranga, of whom the inscription mentions only the last

Tirumala's appearance in epigraphical records ranges from about Śaka 1465 to Śaka 1493⁴ In Śaka 1465 (A D 1543) Tirumala was governing the Udayagiri-durga, perhaps as a deputy of his elder brother Rāmarāja, under the name Rāmarāja-Timmayya-dēva-Mahārāja.⁵ Subsequently too he governed the province Udayagiri-rājya till Śaka 1473 In this year it is stated that he was enjoying the nāyankaram (lordship) of this province, governing it through his agent Bayacharājayya,⁶ and that he was succeeded in that office by Timmayya-dēva-Mahārāja, son of Kōnētayya-dēva-Mahārāja⁷

From Śaka 1473 to 1477 Tirumala seems to have remained at the capital as the minister of Sadāśiva⁸ From Śaka 1477 to Śaka 1481 he filled the office of the minister⁹ It may be observed that Cæsar FredERIC states that during the regency of Rāmarāja his younger brothers, Tirumala and Venkatādrī, were respectively minister and commander in-chief In Śaka 1488 Tirumala was ruling over the Kondavidu-rājya¹⁰ After the battle of Tālikōta (25-1-1565 A D)¹¹ he became the most important person in the court and kingdom of Vijayanagara owing to the death of Rāmarāja in that battle The period Śaka 1489 to Śaka 1493 (the date of this inscription) is a rather doubtful one, for which we do not find any inscriptions which definitely describe the position of Tirumala In the first of these years Tirumala made a gift in his own name, and in the last, we are told that he was 'ruling the earth' We know also that the latest year for Sadāśiva was Śaka 1492¹² Tirumala thus could only have ruled for three years,

² Kāśappudaya could be identified with Kāchapa-Nāyaka of Ādavanī or his son Immadi Kāchapa Nāyaka mentioned in the Madras Epigraphical Collection for 1917, No 719, see also paragraphs 12 and 69 of A R on Epigraphy for 1920 21

³ Archaeological Survey Report for 1908 9, Table opposite page 200

⁵ Nellore Inscriptions, Udayagiri 30

⁸ See Archaeological Survey Report for 1911-12, p 180 Mr Sewell refers to a revolt of Tirumala and his younger brother Venkatādrī against their brother Rāmarāja, about A D 1551 (i.e. Śaka 1473, see Archaeological Survey Report, 1911 12, p 178) According to Ferishta (Brigg's Translation, Vol II, pp 104 & 105) Rāmarāja and Venkatādrī were busy with Bāhmanī affairs and so absent from the capital just about this time In the Būdhāla plates (Epigraphia Carnatica, Vol IX, p 44), dated in Śaka 1473, Tirumala assumes the titles of sovereignty

⁹ See Nellore Inscriptions, Nellore 112 and Gudur 113 Probably he was also the titular governor of the Gutti fortress at this time, since he is called Gutti-lārī Tirumalarāja in No 412 of the Madras Epigraphical Collection for 1911, dated in Śaka 1477 From this year onwards he appears under this name invariably Ferishta too calls him Yeltumraj (Brigg's Translation, Vol III, pp 128, 130, etc)

¹¹ Brigg's Translation of Ferishta, Vol III, p 414

¹² See Archaeological Survey Report, 1911 12, p 181 Rāmarāja was 96 years old in A D 1565 (Mr Sewell's Forgotten Empire, p 203) Allowing even a decade for the difference in the brothers' ages, Tirumala must then have been 85 and over 90 when he ascended the throne This fact partly explains his short rule and the scanty number of his inscriptions

from about 1-11-1571 A D to about A D 1574, since the inscriptions of his son and successor Śrīraṅga (II) begin to date from Śaka 1496¹ Tirumala appointed his four sons to the several governorships in the kingdom And in the last days of his life he sought the company of the wise and the learned, leaving the burden of government to his sons²

Tirumala was a lover of learning and even aspired to the fame of authorship He figures as the writer of a commentary called Śruti-rañjini on Jayadēva's Gīta-Gōvinda (Annual Report on Epigraphy for 1890, p. 9) From the colophon to this work we learn that Tirumala's favourite deity was Rāma Probably it was on account of this devotion that he is often praised in the present record as a repository of nectar-like devotion to Hari (Hari-bhakti-sudhā-nidhi (l 95) and Hari-gōchāra-mānasa (l 82)).

The object of the inscription is to register the grant of the village Penugulūru (l 115) (called also Penalūr, perhaps by mistake for Pengalūr in l 130) alias Yellama-rāja-samudram (Ellama-rājendra-samudram, ll 113, 130, and Yellamarājasamudra, l 274), together with the two hamlets Yelammāpādu-Chennapalli and Kondūru-Chennapalli, made by king Tirumala at the request (vyñāpti) of the Matla chief Timmarāja, to a number of Brahmins Penugulūru is said to be situated on the eastern bank of the river Mahābāhu in Pottapa-nādu,³ a division of the Siddhavara-sīmā. The entire village was divided into 128 vrittis (l 129) and given to (115) Brāhmanas who were highly learned in the śāstras and were masters of the Vēdānta But the actual number of vrittis granted comes to 128½ Among the beneficiaries two were poets Besides these, one vritti was granted for the study (?) of the Rig-Vēda, one for that of the Yajur-Vēda, and one each to the local shrines of Viṣṇu and Hara (l 273) Penugulūru is the modern Penagalūru in the Pullampet tāluka of the Cuddapah district in the Madras Presidency Of the villages Pottapi, Śrīvaram, Kondūru, Sinkamāla, Tirumalarāju-pēta and Indalū, mentioned among the boundaries of Penugulūru, the first, second, fifth and the sixth are identical with the modern Pottapi, Śrīvaram, Indlūru and Tirumalarāzupēta in the same tāluka The river Mahābāhu is the Telugu Cheyyēru, which separates Penagalūru from Pottapi The village Kondūru-Chennapalli of the inscription is identical with Kondūru-Chennarāya-samudram, about 2 miles north-east of Penagalūru. Yelammāpādu-Chennapalli seems to have changed its name subsequently and to have been attached to Singanamāla (Sinkamāla of our inscription), being now called Singanamāla-Chennarāya-samudram My thanks are due to E. A. Davis, Esq, Acting Collector of Cuddapah (1914), who very kindly obliged me by furnishing a tracing showing the localities mentioned in the inscription.

Timmarāja, who made to king Tirumala the request for the grant, belonged to the family of Matlas⁴ They were of the Sūrya-vamśa (l 119), the Kāśyapa gōtra (l 120) and the Chōla lineage (l 122) The family was known also as the Dēva-Chōda family⁵ It must have taken

³ The actual form used in the inscription is Chita-Pottapa nādu Evidently Pottapa-nādu is a mistake for Pottapi nādu The division Siddhavara sīmā, in which Penugulūru was situated, could not have been called after the village Siddhavaram in the Pullampet tāluka only 2 miles from Penagalūru, but must be identified with Siddhavata-sīmā in which according to No 436 of the Madras Epigraphical Collection for 1911 Pottapi nādu was situated According to the same inscription Siddhavata sīmā was a subdivision of the Udayagiri rājya

its name from Matli, a village in the Rāyachōṭi tāluka of the Cuddapah district. This family seems to have been in power during the time of the second and third Vijayanagara dynasties. Inscriptions relating to the chiefs of the family,¹ found in the Madras Epigraphical Reports, show that they were in power till the end of the 17th century A D. Ananta, the younger brother of Timmarāja, was the author of the well-known Telugu poem Kāhustha-vijayamu.² The genealogy given in the prologue to this work mentions a Bomma as the founder of the family. Varadarāja, the great-grandson of Bomma, is said to have been the son-in-law of the great Vijayanagara emperor Krishna-Rāya Tirumala (I) is stated to have granted the country of Pottapī-nāḍu as amāra-nāyaka to this Varadarāja (called Varadayya-Dēvachōḍa-Mahārāja). The Matli chiefs were dependants and adherents of Tirumala from the time of his local governorship and ministry. An unpublished Telugu inscription³ in the huge tower of the Gōvindarāja-Peṇumāl temple at Lower Tirupati (Chittoor district, Madras Presidency) states that the tower was built by the Mahāmandalēśvara Matla Anantarājayya-Dēvachōḍa-Mahārāja, son of Tirūvengalanātharājayya-Dēvachōḍa-Mahārāja. This Anantarāja must evidently be a grandson of the poet Ananta, since from No 564 of the Madras Epigraphical Collection, 1915, we learn that the poet had a son called Tiruvengalanātha.

The members of the Matla family must have been staunch Vaishnavas. The poet Ananta, in the prologue to his work, invokes the blessings of the god (Vishnu) of Tirupati and his symbols. In the colophon to this same work Ananta calls himself a disciple of the Vaishnava teacher Tirumala Tōlappa-āchārya.⁴

The grant was composed by the poet (kaṭi) Svayambhū, the son of Sabhāpatī. The latter was a poet at the court of Achyuta-Rāya and composed his Ūnamāñjērī grant.⁵ Likewise Ganapaya-āchārya was the engraver of our inscription, while his father Virana incised the Ūnamāñjērī plates. The offices of composer and engraver seem to have gone by heredity in the Vijayanagara court.

The grant was made in the presence of (the god) Rāmachandra, evidently the god of that name in a temple at Penugouda. It is to be observed that, though the grant was made in the presence of Rāma and on that account one would expect the sign-manual of the king to consist of the name of that deity, we nevertheless find both in these and in the Tumkur plates⁶ of this king that the sign-manual continues to be Śrī-Virūpāksha, the name of the tutelary deity of the earlier Vijayanagara kings. In the grants of Śrīranga (II), the son and successor of Tirumala, the same sign-manual still continues. But subsequent to him 'Śrī-Virūpāksha' gives place to 'Śrī-Venkatēsa'.⁷ This marks a transition in the devotion and creed of the later Vijayanagara kings.

⁴ This family of Vaishnava teachers is one of the well known āchārya pīthas (priestly families) of the Vādāgalai sect. Its descendants are now at Lower Tirupati and are related to the well known family of Kōṭikanṣakādāśam Tātāchāryas of Conjeeveram, an ancestor of whom was the spiritual preceptor to the Karnāṭa king Venkata I.

ABRIDGED TRANSLATION

Line 1 Prostration to the blessed Ganādhīpati (i.e. Ganapati).

Verses 1-3¹ Invocations to Śambhu (i.e. Śiva), Varāha (the Boar incarnation of Viṣṇu) and Ganapati

Vv 4-6² The ancestors of the family, viz the Moon, his son, Budha, his son, Purūravas, his son, Āyuh, his son, Nahusha, his son, Yayāti, his son, Pūra, in his family, Bharata, in his family, Śantanu, fourth from him, Vijaya (i.e. Arjuna), his son, Abhimanyu, his son, Parikshit, eighth from him, Nanda³, ninth from him, Chalukka, seventh from him, Rājanarēndra, tenth from him, Bijjalēndra, third from him, Vira-Hēmmālī-Rāya, the lord of Māyāpuri

Vv 7-21⁴ Fourth from him (i.e. Vira-Hēmmālī-Rāya) was Tāta-Pinnama, his son, Sōmi-dēva, who captured seven forts in a day, his son, Rāghava-dēvarāt (i.e. Rāghavēndra?); his son, Pinnama, the lord of Āravīdu⁵, his son, Bukka, who helped Śāluva Nṛsiṃha in putting his rule on a firm basis, and married Ballāmbikā or Ballamā, his son, Rāma-Rāja (I), who captured the hill-fort of Ādavanī from Sapāda after having driven away from it the chief Kāsappudaya (Kāsappa-Udayar) and took the fort of Kamdanavōlu. His wife was Lakkāmbikā, and their son was Śrīrangarāja (I), who married Tirumalāmbikā, his three sons were Rāma-Rāja (II), Tirumala-Rāya (I) and Venkatādrī

V 22 When the sun of whose proud valour, that dispels the darkness, viz (his) enemies, has risen, his white parasol looks like the full-blown lotus (growing) in the milk-ocean of his fame, the golden knob (kalasa) at its centre shines like the pericarp (of that lotus), and the pair of fly-whisks like a couple of swans in its vicinity

V 23 Deserting the serpent-king for the reason that he moves with crookedness, though famed for being possessed of happiness (or serpent's body), the tortoise (for the reason) that he takes shelter in laziness (or water), though brilliantly well-behaved (or perfectly round), the elephants of the quarters that they are dull (in walking), though they possess charity (or rut), and the mountains (supporting the earth) that they are cruel (i.e. hard), though they are high-minded (or lofty), the earth seeks earnestly with delight this (king), who is the sole repository of the collection of the good qualities of every one of them

V 24 Who, having completely weeded out the thorns (i.e. destroyed the enemies), having well ploughed and prepared the entire field, the earth (i.e. improved it by good deeds), having filled it with profuse waters of (i.e. poured during) his liberal gifts, and having raised thereon the collection of crops, (his) spotless fame, bears with splendour, on the field-watch-scaffold (kāyamāna) of his shoulder, the lady, viz the goddess of victory, to guard this (field of fame)

V 25 Who practically exhibits, on earth, the parts of the lords of the different quarters (of which he is made up) by possessing conquering capacity (the characteristic of Indra), purity (nature of fire), by adopting equal treatment of all people (the quality of Samavartin, i.e.

² These verses are the same as in the Kūṇyūr plates of Venkata II (Epigraphia Indica, Vol III, p 241)

the God of death¹) and conduct pleasing to righteous people (like that of Nirṛti pleasing to the purva-janas, demons), reputed as a broad-minded one (or Prachētas, i.e. Varuna), having acquired the art of making gifts (or 'of touching and wandering,' as the god of wind), being the lord of wealth (or Dhanapati, i.e. Kubēra), and distinguished by the quality of the Omniscient (or Sarvajña, i.e. Śiva)²

V 26 Who having sacrificed in the fire of (his) valour the fried grain (lāja) of (his) enemies' reputation, in accordance with the incantations of counsel, marries with pleasure the bride (of) Fame, who increases the pleasure of the good (or is brilliant with her marriage wrist-band), taking her through the seven steps (sapta-pada) of the seven worlds and helping her to ascend the stone of the Mēru (mountain), and victoriously occupies the throne, receiving the blessings of holy Brahmins³

V 27 Desiring to achieve equality with whose fame of (making) perpetual charities the celestial trees are performing penance on the bank of the river of the heaven⁴ (i.e. the Ganges), having assumed the ochre robe (of their red) tendrils, and the plaited hair (of their) hanging roots

V 28 [This is the same as verse 24 in the Hampi inscription of Krishna-Rāya, except that श्रीगङ्गाधर⁵ and श्रीवल्कीर्ण⁶ of the latter are replaced in our inscription by श्रीगङ्गाधर and वल्कीर्ण⁷]

V 29 [This is the same as verse 34 of the Kūṇiyūr plates of Venkaṭa II and verse 35 of the Mārṇḍapalle grant of Ranga II⁸]

V 30 (The) destroyer of (his) enemies, a (very) celestial tree to supplicants, the chastizer of chiefs who take new titles (hosa-bīrudara-gaṇḍa), the excellent cavalier of kings (rāya-rāhutta-miṇḍa), happy in (his) honoured deeds (maḥita-charita-dhanya), whose wealth of titles consists of Manniyam-sāma, etc., and who has destroyed (his) enemies

V. 31 The grandfather of the two (opposing) armies (ubhaya-dala-pitāmaha),⁹ one that is (ever) ready in giving protection to surrendering enemies and whose glory is praised by all people, in the words 'this is the crusher of the prestige of Avahalu-Rāya'¹⁰

V 32 Whose prosperity dances (in mirth), who, being the lord of title-bearing chiefs, possesses a powerful army and is surrounded by heroes expert in the conquest of the king of Utkala (i.e. Orissa), who is fierce (in battle), who chastizes the hosts of enemies with the strength of (his) arm, and who is possessed of lofty and respectable titles like gandara-gūḥ and manya-pul,¹¹

² The idea seems to be based upon the saying

अष्टाभिः सुरेन्द्राणां सावाभिर्निर्मितो नृप ।

³ The reference is to a ceremony observed in Brahmanical marriages. In this the bride is led by the bridegroom by the hand round the sacrificial fire, treading seven steps, and finally her right big toe is placed by him upon a stone which is called Mēru. The poet here draws a comparison between the king's heroic career and glorious coronation on the one hand and the scene of a marriage performed according to Vedic rites, where lāja hūma, sapta pad, etc., are important ceremonies

⁴ The Ganges is called Tripatha gā for the reason that she flows in the Heaven, on the earth, and in the nether regions

⁵ Epigraphia Indica, Vol XI, p. 333

⁷ This expression must be taken to signify 'the lord of Avahalu'. Avahalu-Rāya is not known to be a proper name. Avahalu is perhaps the modern 'Aihole'.

V 33 The charming lord of the town of Āravīdu,¹ shining with the goddess of heroism and assuming the position of the Boar in raising the earth of the feudatory chiefs (dharanī-varāha), and having shoulders as huge as the lord of serpents

V 34 Vēngi-Tribhuvanīmalla,² a (very) Arjuna in the art of (fighting on) the battle-field, the Sultan (Suratrāna) of Uṅgōla (i.e. Orugallu),³ who sees Hari (in his) heart, the best of kings famed as a (very) Rāmabhadra (i.e. Rāma) in the front of the battle, who possesses the title 'the lord of the illustrious chiefs of several classes,'

V 35 The foremost of those born in the Ātrēya gōtra, of great fame among kings and possessing a cavalry of horses bearing high titles (atī-biruda-turaga-dhatta), who is high-minded and holds a position respected by the Āratta and the Magadha (kings),

V 36 Possessed of the righteous conduct of the Enemy of Śalya (i.e. Yudhishtira), the lord of Kalyānapura, an expert in (all) arts, the Chālikka (i.e. Chālukya) emperor, glorious in (his) lofty crown of gems,

Vv 37-40 Who possesses the glory (conveyed by) the epithet 'ē-biruda-rāya-rāhuta-vēśy-arka-bhujanga,'⁴ whose fame is rendered more magnificent by the proclamation of the title Oḍḍiya-rāya-dāsā patta,⁵ who is a lord comparable to the moon, who has surpassed even Him of the odd number of arrows⁶ (i.e. Manmatha, the God of Love) by his pleasing form, who is the chastizer of the kings that fail to keep their word (of allegiance), under whose protection the nine divisions of the earth feel happy, who is the glorious suzerain of kings (rājādhirāja), the illustrious Paramēśvara among kings (rāja-paramēśvara), is entitled the 'lord of the three kings (mūru-rāyara-gaṇḍa),'⁷ one whose great fame strides across (even) the Mēru (mountain), who turns away his face from the wives of others, who is a terror to hostile kings, one given to supporting the good, the destroyer of the tigers, viz. the wicked (men), (the monster-bird) gaṇḍa-bīḇrunda to the elephants, viz. (his) enemies, and the repository of the nectar of devotion to Hari,

Vv 41-42 Who is constantly praised with titles such as these by crowds of bards (vaṇḍi) that proclaim with clasped hands 'Be victorious,' 'Live (long),' and whose praise is loudly sung by the kings of Kāmb(h)ōja, Bhōja, Kālinga, Karabāta, etc., who have assumed the position of door-keepers to him,

No 19—TWO KADAMBA GRANTS FROM SIRSI

By V S SUTTHANKAR, PH D, POONA.

The copper-plates bearing the subjoined inscriptions, which are now edited for the first time, belong to Mr Subbaya Nagappa Hegde of Ajjibal in the Sirsi Taluka of the North Kanara District. They have been in the possession of Mr Hegde's family for a very long time, so long, in fact, that nothing is now known as to when and under what circumstances the plates came into the possession of the family. I obtained them on loan through the good offices of Mr Shankarrao Karnad, High Court Pleader, Bombay, who, at my request, kindly induced his colleague Mr V G Hegde, B A, LL B, Sirsi (a son-in-law of the owner), to send the plates to me for inspection and to allow me to take impressions from them. I am thus editing the grants from the original plates, which were on loan with me for about six months during 1918, and from a set of inked impressions prepared from them in the office of the Superintendent, Archaeological Survey, Western Circle. The annexed facsimiles were subsequently prepared under the supervision of the Government Epigraphist from the impressions supplied by me. The transcript given below has been carefully compared (in manuscript) with the originals before the latter were returned to the owner. My sincere thanks are due to Messrs Karnad and Hegde for this opportunity of offering here a description of these interesting records of the reigns of the Kadamba kings Ravivarman and Krishnavarman of Vajjayanti (Banavāsi). Their chief claim to our attention lies in the regnal years in which they are dated. The grant of Ravivarman was made (if my reading of the date is correct) in the thirty-fifth year of his reign, and that of Krishnavarman in the nineteenth year.

A—PLATES OF RAVIVARMAN · THE [3]5TH YEAR.

These are three copper-plates, the first and last of which are inscribed on one side only, and each of which measures roughly 5½" long by 3" broad. They are quite smooth, their edges being neither fashioned thicker nor raised as rims. Although the plates are fairly thin, the engraving, not being very deep, does not show through on the reverse sides. The letters show evident traces of the working of the engraver's tool. The entire inscribed surface of the first plate is more or less corroded, but only at a few places has the engraving thereby been so far affected as to have become quite illegible. The second plate is, in a sense, in a worse condition, as three of its edges are eaten away, and with them the greater part of l 6, about a third of l 17, and some syllables in ll 11 and 16 are completely lost. The third plate is fortunately quite untouched, and the engraving on it is in an almost perfect state of preservation. The most deplorable part of the havoc wrought on these plates by the destructive agency is that in line 11 some of the letters comprising the words expressing the date are damaged in such a manner that the reading of the date (which is by far the most important element of the record) has to be based on a conjectural restoration from which the element of uncertainty cannot entirely be eliminated. Of no great consequence is, on the other hand, the damage to line 6, for from the preserved fragments of letters we may, I think, safely conclude that the line contained nothing more than a eulogistic phrase or two, which, even if restored, would have added nothing of importance to our stock of knowledge concerning the history of the Kadambas. The plates are pierced by a circular hole so as to receive the ring and seal which are attached. The weight, including the ring and seal, is 38½ tolas. The ends of the ring are securely soldered on to the back of the seal. About an eighth of an inch of the edge of the latter is raised, so as to form a rim, the recessed space, which is oblong in shape, is devoid of legend or emblematic design.

The characters, which show great uniformity throughout, belong to the southern variety, and have close affinities with those of other grants of the Kadamba kings, especially with the

Halsi¹ plates of the Kadamba Ravivarman, published by the late Dr Fleet. The letters t and n, alike whether used singly or in conjunction with other consonants, are devoid of loops nevertheless they are clearly distinguishable from each other. For in n the right limb of the letter is regularly drawn in continuation of the slanting (or vertical) stroke, whereas in t the upright stroke is much shorter and distinct from the lower part of the letter, which forms a horse-shoe (sometimes with unequal arms), and to which the short vertical stroke is attached at the top. It may be added that owing to this characteristic even the upper half of the letter t is sharply distinguished from the corresponding portion of v, in which the vertical stroke is regularly drawn in continuation of the right limb (as in n), a fact whose importance will be apparent when we shall turn our attention to the subject of the reading of the date of the record. The difference between the forms of t and v may be studied in the following examples: *Hārītī*² and *pratikrīti*³ in line 3, pati-pratimā l 7, tithau l 12, raṁshat l 19, bhavati l 20, and *vinaya*⁴ l 1, *vipula*⁵ l 8, and *vinaya*⁶ and visāda l 9. In ll 7 and 10 occurs an initial a, in ll 10, 12 ā, in l 20 u, in l 19 final k, in l 14 final t, and in ll 17, 21 final m. For final consonants, as is usual in these records, the full forms are used in reduced size, written on a slightly lower level than the rest of the letters of the line. The medial vowel in nā is written by bending back the last downward stroke in an upward direction, e.g. in lines 2, 3, etc. — The language of the inscription is Sanskrit, and, with the exception of the imprecatory and admonitory verses at the end (ll 20-23), the text is in prose. The document, it may be added, begins and ends somewhat abruptly. The grant proper is couched in very terse language. The preamble does not mention any of Ravivarman's ancestors, and the epithets coupled with the name of Ravivarman himself, which are of the stereotyped form, are, relatively speaking, few in number. They contain no new historical information regarding the royal donor. In its brevity the record resembles closely the Nilambūr⁷ plates of the Kadamba king of the same name — The orthography does not call for any particular remarks.

The inscription is one of the Dharma-Mahārāja Ravivarman of the Kadamba family. We have already the Halsi and Nilambūr plates of a Kadamba Ravivarman. The highest regnal year recorded in these grants is the eleventh. The present grant records (ll 10-19) that on the fifth tithi of the bright half of the month of Kārttika in a specified regnal year (the reading of which is uncertain and will be discussed later on) Ravivarman granted to the Mahādēvī temple of his beloved physician, the dēs-āmātya Nilakantha,⁸ four niwātanās of land in the village of Sārē (or Sāra), of which further specifications will be found in the appended translation. In this portion of the record (ll 16, 17) there is a lacuna, in which some further details of the donation are lost.

The genealogy of Ravivarman is not given. But, as the writing of the present record does not differ in any essential points from that of the Halsi and Nilambūr grants of the Kadamba king of the same name, we may on palæographic grounds tentatively identify him with Ravivarman, the son of Mrigēśavarman and grandson of Śāntivarman.

The reading of the regnal year is, as stated above, uncertain. The year is expressed in words only (as in all the records of this dynasty that have come under my notice), which I read as pañcha-[tri]śat[tamē], 'in the thirty-fifth'. The compound indubitably contains the element pañcha-, which is clear, and another word, expressing a multiple of ten, which is obliterated. The second syllable of this partly defaced word contains again unquestionably a ś. The choice, therefore, lies between -vimśē and -vimśatitāmē, or -trimsē and -trimsattamē. As, moreover, the sign of ē does not appear to have been added to ś, the intended akshara must be taken to be śa. This circumstance further reduces the possible alternatives at our disposal to -vimśatitāmē.

and -trimsattamē. Further, the remnant of the akshara after sa appears most to resemble a deformed t, very faint, indeed, but still distinguishable on the plate, a conclusion which is in harmony with the above supposition that the longer form of the ordinal (vimsatitama or trimsattama) has been used here, and not the shorter (vimsa, trimsa). Let us now turn our attention to the syllable preceding sa. The preserved portion appears to consist of the medial t and a short vertical stroke added at the top of a mutilated horse-shoe. Therefore, from what I have said above regarding the shapes of t and l, it follows that this defaced akshara can only represent a vt and not tl. This result also fits in with our former observation that the third missing syllable is a deformed tu (and not tl), for an initial t requires the restoration -trimsattamē (containing tu in the third syllable), while an initial v would necessitate the reconstruction, -vimsatitamē (with tl in the third syllable). I have, therefore, for my part, no hesitation in reading the preserved portion of the first damaged akshara as tl, and supplementing the lost subscript r under it. The second syllable is, as already remarked, sa beyond doubt. Then I read t[tl]a, after which there is just sufficient space for the inclusion of mē, which syllable, however, is completely obliterated. The complete restored regnal year would, therefore, be pañcha-trimsattamē,¹ 'in the thirty-fifth year'. It may be added that, if the reading proposed by me is not accepted, the only possible alternative is pañcha-vimsatitamē, which in my opinion is extremely doubtful.

The village Sārē (or Sāra), which is the object of the grant and which is mentioned without any specification of its whereabouts, remains unidentified.

³ The lower portion of all the remaining letters of this line are more or less defaced. Of the bracketed syllables, the preserved portion of the first, I am fully persuaded, can be nothing but ti (see above, pp 265 C), the next syllable, ta, is quite distinct and unmistakable, both on the plate and in the impression, furthermore, I believe, it is possible to discern on the plate very faint, but unmistakable traces of a diminutive t (which must be a part of a ligature) and somewhat uncertain traces of m. I have, therefore, no hesitation in supplying the missing subscript r below the ti, and I may say that I look upon the reading trimsa as more or less certain. For the bracketed ita compare the form of this ligature in =dattavān= in l 16 below.

B—PLATES OF KRISHNAVARMAN II THE 19TH YEAR

These plates, which are in a much better state of preservation than the foregoing, are also three in number. They measure roughly $6\frac{1}{2}$ " long by $2\frac{3}{8}$ " broad. They are quite smooth, their edges being neither fashioned thicker nor raised into rims. The plates are thin, but the engraving being shallow, though otherwise quite good, the letters do not show through on the reverse sides at all. The letters show the characteristic marks of the working

¹ Here used as a title. Its literal meaning is the Mahārāja who is devoted to the performance of duty (dharma).

² I have adopted Kielhorn's rendering of the difficult phrase pratīkrīti^o, and I may refer the reader to his note on the subject, Ep Ind, Vol VI, p. 15, note 3.

³ The rest of the sentence is lost.

⁴ Compare the epithet Kadamba sēnānī bṛhād-antaya vy[ō]ma chandramāh ('the full moon in the firmament of the great lineage of the Kadamba leader of armies'), applied to Kākusthavarman in the Tālagunda pillar inscription of Kākusthavarman, ed. Kielhorn, Ep Ind, Vol VIII, p. 31.

⁵ I suppose we have to supplement here some such words as there.

⁷ I propose to amend the text and read ana[pā]y=ānupūrvyā*. The uninterrupted succession refers naturally to the King's regnal years. I have not come across the phrase elsewhere, but the emendation gives, in my opinion, quite a satisfactory sense.

⁸ There is a lacuna in the text here.

¹⁰ Dēś-āmātya literally means 'the minister of the country (or province)', but it may have a more specific meaning here. Cf. with this expression the modern surnames Deshmukh, Deshpande, which are undoubtedly derived from original titles of functionaries. Or should we take Nīlakantha as the name of a country?

of the engraver's tool. The grant is engraved on the inner sides of the first and last plates, and on both sides of the middle one. The plates are pierced by a circular hole in order to receive the ring and seal, which are attached. The ends of the ring are, as in the case of the plates of Ravivarman, soldered on to the back of a seal, which, in this instance, is oval in shape and bears a device. The seal has a raised rim, and inside this there is shown in low relief the figure of a quadruped (perhaps a horse) facing left. The weight of the plates, including the ring and seal, is 52 tolas. Each engraved side contains four lines of writing, there are thus sixteen lines in all. Excepting isolated letters which are worn away and now become partly illegible, the record is in a perfect state of preservation, and can be deciphered without any uncertainty.

The characters belong to the southern variety, and have close affinities with those of other grants of the Kadamba kings. They differ palpably from the characters of the grant of Ravivarman described above and appear to belong to a later palæographic epoch. The vowel ā in nā is written by bending back the last downward stroke in an upward direction, e.g. in ll 2, 3, etc. One notices the tendency of the vertical lines to slope, a feature which later develops into the spiral formation of Hala-Kannada letters. Noteworthy is also the doubling of the left limb of g (ll 1, 2, 6, 8, etc.) and ś (ll 4, 7, etc.). This record contains the earliest specimen hitherto known, in a southern alphabet, of the initial ri (l 8). Initial a occurs in l 5, initial ā in ll 4, 6, initial u in ll 11, 13, initial ē in l 7, the sign of final t in l 7, and final n in l 11. One ligature, with the word containing it, has remained undeciphered in l 10, I have never come across the sign anywhere before and can suggest no reading for it.—The language of the inscription is Sanskrit, and, with the exception of the imprecatory and admonitory stanzas at the end, the text is in prose. The main part of the text (ll 1-11) forms a single sentence and states, like the foregoing grant of Ravivarman, without much circumlocution the object of the record. The attributes qualifying the donor are of the stereotyped form. In its brevity this record resembles the grant of Ravivarman described above.

The inscription is one of the Dharma-Mahārāja Krishnavarman of the Kadamba family. The hitherto known records of the Kadamba dynasty have revealed the existence of two Krishnavarmans in the family. And, as the present record neither gives the genealogy of this king nor mentions any circumstance which would help to establish his identity, it is difficult to affirm with certainty whether he is to be identified with either the one or the other Krishnavarman already known, or whether he is a new king altogether, but on palæographic considerations this king may tentatively be identified with the second Kadamba king of that name, whose Bannahalli (now Halēbid) grant,¹ dated in the seventh year of his reign, has already been published. The grant proper records (ll 6-11) that on the full moon day in the month of Kārttika, in the nineteenth year of his reign, Krishnavarman granted Kamakapalli in the Girigada village (grāma) of the Karvannāda district (vishaya) to a Brāhmana of the Vārāhi gōtra, named Sōma-svāmin, who was a student of the R̥g-vēda, and a performer of the Soma sacrifice, making the village free from all taxes and dues.

To the proposed identification of the Krishnavarman of our record with the Krishnavarman of the Bannahalli grant it may be objected that the title Dharma-Mahārāja, which is here used along with the name of the donor, is not found coupled with the name of Krishnavarman II in any other record, thus, for instance, in the Bannahalli grant itself, which is dated in the seventh year of the reign, only the shorter title Mahārāja is prefixed to Krishnavarman's name. On the other hand, the earlier Krishnavarman is invariably styled Dharma-Mahārāja in the preambles of the later Kadamba grants. The objection is not valid, for it should be noted that Krishnavarman I was, according to all accounts, performer of a horse sacrifice. If our Krishnavarman is to be identified with this king, how are we to explain the silence of the record regarding the sacrifice said to have been performed by him? On the other hand the expression asva-mēdh-ābhishukta, herein applied to the Kadambas as a class shows that in the time of our Krishnavarman the epithet asva-mēdhayajin had become a hereditary title of the Kadamba family, a fact which can be explained only on the assumption that some prolonged interval of time separates the actual performer of the sacrifice from our Krishnavarman. Moreover, there is at least one other instance of the indiscriminate use of the titles Mahārāja and Dharma-Mahārāja, namely, in the case of Mṛigēśavarman. Both titles are found used in connection with this king in his epigraphic records.¹

A word may be added regarding the localities mentioned in the record. The object of the grant is stated to be Kamakapalli, situated in the Girigada village (grāma) of the Karvan-nāḍga district (viśaya). None of these places can be identified with certainty. Mr Hegde, owing to whose good offices the plates were made available for publication, is a resident of Sirsi and has favoured me with the following topographical details, which throw some light on the question. He writes: 'Sirsi tālulā (which used to be called Sundā tālulā) was formerly divided into a number of māḡane, each of which consisted of a number of villages. One of such māḡane went by the name of Karūi māḡane, deriving its name from Karūr, a village included in the māḡane. Another such village was called Girigadde. Both these villages still bear the same names.' The proximity of Girigadde to Sirsi favours the identification of the former with the Girigada of the plates, which, as stated above, come from Sirsi itself. Also, in regard to the great and often inexplicable changes which many place-names have undergone, the identification of Karvan-nāḍga with Karūi is not an impossible proposition.

BA K N DIKSHIT, M A, CALCUTTA

These plates were found in a tank near the village of Garra, to the south-east of Chhatarpur, capital of the Indian state of the same name in Bundelkhand, and were subsequently sent to me for decipherment and publication through the kindness of Pandit Shukdeo Bihari Misra, B A, Dewan, Chhatarpur State. Being considerably corroded when first received by me, the plates were thoroughly cleaned, and impressions were taken from them, which are published in the accompanying plate. They are now exhibited on loan in the Provincial Museum, Lucknow.

The plates are two in number. Each is a complete record by itself, engraved on only one side. They measure $13\frac{1}{4}$ " by $8\frac{1}{4}$ " and $12\frac{3}{4}$ " by $7\frac{1}{8}$ " respectively. A small hole (dia $\frac{3}{8}$ ") at the top shows that at one time a ring must have been attached to the plates. Below the ring-hole, and dividing the first four lines of the inscription just in the centre of each plate, is engraved a seated figure of the goddess Lakshmi, with four arms, the upper two holding lotuses. On both the copper-plates the writing has been protected by means of copper bands, $\frac{3}{8}$ " in breadth and from $\frac{1}{8}$ " to $\frac{3}{16}$ " in thickness, rivetted along the edges. The letters are generally well preserved, but here and there a few letters are concealed by the protecting band, and at the bottom of plate II a portion has been damaged and lost, though the lacunæ can be easily supplied. The plates weigh 124 and 122 tālās respectively.

The alphabet is Nāgarī, regular for the period and locality to which the record belongs. The sharp angular forms of letters found in many inscriptions of the twelfth century, give place here to more rounded ones. The identity of the signs for ra and ba, the similarity of the forms of ra, cha, dha and ra and similar palæographical peculiarities have been noticed before in documents of this period (cf. Senura plates of Paramadī-dēva, Ep Ind, IV, 153 ff.)²

The language is Sanskrit. Both the inscriptions are in prose throughout, excepting a verse each at the beginning and the end. Regarding orthography there is little to note. The influence of the vulgar pronunciation is reflected in the promiscuous use of sa and sa, ra and ba. Most of the consonants following r are doubled. Rules of Samdhā are often violated, and a final consonant is not marked with the virāma, as t in samat (I 9 f.)

The records belong to the well-known Chandella dynasty of Bundelkhand, called Chandrā-trēya in the inscriptions. Opening with a panegyric of the family, they next refer to Jayaśakti and Vijayaśakti, two early heroes of the family, and proceed to describe the grant of two villages by the Parama-bhatṭāraka Mahārāj-ādhirāja Paramēśvara, the glorious Trailōkya-varma-dēva, who meditated on the feet of the P M P Paramardī-dēva, who meditated on the feet of the P M P Madanavarma-dēva. Encamped at a place called Vadavāda, the king Trailōkyavarma-dēva granted the village of Kādōhā in the Pāmulī territory (śhaya) on Friday the second (tithi) of the bright fortnight of Vaiśākha in Samvat 1261 by the first copper-plate and the village of Lōhasihānī in the Vikraunī¹ territory (śhaya) on Friday the second (tithi) of the dark fortnight of Vaiśākha in Samvat 1261 by the second copper-plate. In both grants the donee was the Rāūta Sāmanta or Sāvanta of the Bhāradvāja gōtra, son of Rāūta Pāpē, who was killed at Kakadādaha in a battle with the Turushka (Turks), grandson of Rāūta Sahanapāla and great-grandson of Rāūta Ranapāla. The object of the grants is unusually interesting, being the bestowal of villages 'by way of maintenance for death,' unquestionably that of the father of the donee, on the field of battle.

(1) Samvat 1261, Vaiśākha Sudi 2, Śukra

Northern Vikrama current Tuesday, 15th April, 1203

Northern Vikrama expired Saturday, 3rd April, 1204

Southern Vikrama expired Friday, 22nd April, 1205

(2) Samvat 1261, Vaiśākha Vadi 2, Śukra

Northern Vikrama current —

Paurṇimānta Monday, 31st March, 1203

Amānta Tuesday, 29th April, 1203

Northern Vikrama expired —

Paurṇimānta Friday, 19th March, 1204,

Amānta Sunday, 18th April, 1204

Southern Vikrama expired —

Paurṇimānta Tuesday, 7th April, 1205

Amānta Friday, 6th May, 1205.

The first date is thus Friday, 22nd April, 1205 A D, the second may be either Friday, 19th March 1204, or Friday, 6th May, 1205. But, as all our evidence points to the fact that the two grants must have been recorded almost simultaneously, we are justified in believing that the former solution must be rejected and Friday, 6th May, 1205 A D, must be the true equivalent of the second date. We thus have here instances (which are comparatively rare) of North Indian epigraphical dates calculated as southern expired Vikrama years, with amānta months (vide Ind Ant, Vol XIX, pp 181-2).

The present records give us the earliest known dates for Trailōkyavarman, the only certain inscription of his so far known being dated eight or nine years later². On the other hand, our dates bring us within two years of the date of the death of Paramardī, Trailōkyavarman's predecessor, and the fall of Kālanjar and Mahoba (April 1203 A D). Let us see whether the present records throw any light on the fortunes of the Chandellas after the disaster which overtook them in 1203.

Mr Vincent Smith observes in his paper on the History and Coinage of the Chandel Dynasty (Ind Ant, 1908, p 146) that the history of the Chandel dynasty, as one of the powers of

² Cunningham, A S Reports, Vol XXI, p 50

Northern India, ends in 1203 A.D., and that Trailōkyavarman succeeded his father as a mere local chieftain, holding the eastern part of the ancestral kingdom of Jējaka-bhukti. As we gather from the present inscription, however, Trailōkyavarman must shortly after the catastrophe at Kālanjar have mustered his forces, followed the Muhammadans into the western part of Bundelkhand, fought with and possibly defeated them there, re-established his power in at least the western and central parts of his dominions, and probably recovered his ancestral stronghold of Kālanjara (as appears from his assumption of the epithet Kālanjar-ādhipati, l. 5). It is possible that the latter epithet is merely an empty claim to the lost fortress, similar in nature to the same title as held by Viṣṇu, Kalachuri king of Kalyāṇi, or to the title Diārāṭi-pura-tar-ādhiśvara, as assumed by the Yādavas of Dēvagiri. But in the present case it is rather significant that a claim should be asserted over the place within two years of its loss. Besides, as General Cunningham remarks,¹ we know for certain that Trailōkyavarman recovered Kālanjara some time before 1233 A.D. Nothing prevents us, therefore, from assuming that he did so just at the outset of his career. Other inscriptions tell us that he was in possession of Ajaygarh Fort in 1212 A.D. that he was the paramount ruler in Bāghelkhand in 1240-41 A.D., and that he was eulogized in his successor's time² as 'a very creator in providing strong places' and as 'a veritable Vishnu in lifting up the earth, immersed in the ocean formed by the stream of Turushkas'. All this evidence warrants us in assuming that Trailōkyavarman was not a mere local chief, that he retrieved the waning fortunes of his dynasty to a considerable extent by stemming the tide of the Moslem invasion, and that during his pretty long reign of nearly forty years he succeeded in establishing his sovereignty over most—if not all—of his paternal domain.

Of the localities mentioned in the records the following can be identified. Vadavāda, the place of encampment, is most probably the same as Vadavāri of another Chandella inscription,³ to be identified with Bedwādā in the Lalitpur subdivision of the Jhansi district, the 'Berwara' of the maps in N. L. 24° 30' and E. L. 78° 41'. Kakadādaha, the scene of the battle with the Turk, must in all probability be the Kakarādaha mentioned elsewhere⁴ as situated in the Vadavāri region, and as such I propose to identify it with Kakadwā, a little to the south-east of Bedwādā, the 'Kukurcoa' of the maps in N. L. 24° 28' and E. L. 78° 42'. The Vikrauni territory of these plates is probably the same as the Vikaura territory of the Semra plates,⁵ which was identified by Dr. Cartellieri with Bikaur in Saugor district, the Beekore of our maps, in N. L. 24° 13' and E. L. 78° 41'. Lōhasihāni in the Vikrauni territory may be the same as Lohāni in the Bijāwar State, situated in N. L. 24° 23' and E. L. 79° 12'. Kādōhā, one of the villages granted, must be identical with Kādoā in the Chhatarpur State, situated in N. L. 24° 48' and E. L. 79° 52', just south of Garra, the place where the plates were discovered. Pāniuli might possibly be identified with Panna, capital of the Indian state, of the same name, in N. L. 24° 43' and E. L. 80° 16'.

I.

Ll 1-2 Om Hail! Victorious is the lineage of the Chandrātrēya sovereigns, refulgent as the moon, by reason of its gladdening the universe, and its being held on the head (i.e. respected) by the rulers of the world (just as the moon is held on the head by the Lord of the Universe, i.e. the god Śiva)

Ll 2-5 In that (family), resplendent with the birth of heroes like Jayaśakti, Vijayaśakti and others, shining with ever-increasing victory over (their) foes, (was born) the illustrious king Trailōkyavarmman, victorious, overlord of Kālāñjara, great devotee of the supreme god (Śiva), Supreme Lord, great king of kings, meditating on the feet of the illustrious Paramarddi-dēva, Supreme Lord, etc., who meditated on the feet of the illustrious Madanavarmma-dēva, Supreme Lord, etc

Ll 5-7 He, here, having overcome all hostile families by his unbearable valour, protecting the earth without any disturbance, as if (it were the) young bride of a (noble) family, with his intellect purified owing to his unobstructed discrimination, informs and instructs the headmen and so forth of the village of Kādōhā, situated in the territory (vishaya) of Pāñitūli

Ll 7-11 Let it be known to you that this above-mentioned village with (its) land and water, movable and immovable (objects), overhead and underground, circumscribed within its boundaries, with its whole produce—past, present and future,—with access to it prohibited for chātas and others,—has been graciously granted by us together with a charter (for the same) by way of maintenance for (the heirs of one who suffered) death (on the battlefield), issued from (our) camp at the village of Vadavāda, on Friday, the second (day) of the bright half of Vaiśākha in the year 1261 to Rāuta Sāmanta of the Bharadvāja gōtra, son of Rāuta Pāpē, who was killed at Kakadādaha in a fight with the Turushkas, grandson of Rāuta Sahanapāla, and great-grandson of Rāuta Ranapāla.

Ll 12-14 Knowing this, you should be intent on obeying (these) instructions, and present him all his dues, such as the claim to a portion (of the agricultural produce), etc. So, also, no one should obstruct him in the enjoyment of this village, with its houses and surrounding walls, with its ingress and egress, with its trees (and plants), such as sugarcane, cotton, kusum, hemp, mango, madhūka, etc., with its forests, quarries and hidden treasures and mines of iron, etc., and other sources of wealth within and without its boundaries.

Ll 15-16 Here also, the kings and officers of the kings should forego all their respective rights. Future monarchs should likewise protect this grant of ours, considering that it ought not to be wrested or seized. "The conch, the throne, the umbrella, the fine horses and the stately elephants (in fact, all the insignia of royalty) are (but) the blossoms of (the merit accruing from) the grant of land, its fruit is (the attainment of) heaven, O Puramdara." This is the handwriting of the king.

II

Almost identical with the above, except that the persons who are called upon to obey the instructions in lines 7-8 are Brahmans and other respectable dignitaries and householders, as kāyasthas, dūtas (carriers of messages), physicians, and mahattaras (headmen), even down to mēdas (a low-caste people of Bundelkhand) and chāndālas. The last line (17) contains the signature of king Trailōkyavarmma-dēva in his own handwriting.

No 21 —SOME MINOR RASHTRAKUTA INSCRIPTIONS

By LIONEL D. BARNETT

The inscriptions contained in this series have been edited from ink-impressions originally prepared for the late Dr. Fleet, and now preserved in the Department of Oriental Printed Books and Manuscripts in the British Museum.

1. KUNIMELLIHALLI INSCRIPTION OF SAKA 818

The village of Kunimellihalli lies in lat 14° 52' and long 75° 22', about 11 miles S E from Shiggaon, in the Bankāpūr tāluka of Dhārwar District, and is marked on the Bombay Survey sheet 309 as "Kum Milihalli" and on the Indian Atlas sheet 42 as "Koonce Mehleeullee." The word Kum distinguishes it from a neighbouring "Milihalli" or "Mehleeullee." Whether it is identical with the village of Dautavūr or Dautavura mentioned in the present record is a matter for conjecture. The inscription was found on a stone in front of the local temple of Hanumān, in Survey No 41. The inscribed area is about 1 ft 10½ in wide and 2 ft 4½ in high.—The character is fair Kanarese of the period, with letters varying in height from ¾ in to 1 in, rather inclined to be upright and rounded, and generally somewhat archaic.

in style The ı (in ıdan, l. 16) is of the old style, two curves with two dots beneath, as described by Dr Fleet above, Vol XI, p 7 The ē and ō are written in both the earlier and the later manner The k is of the old knife-shaped type, but somewhat broad¹ The j, b, and y approach the later types, the b has a large rounded top In nri of Annigana (l. 12) there is a somewhat unusual variety of  The l sometimes has the archaic inward curl, and sometimes appears to be without it, in the later fashion The ñ occurs in pañcha (l. 5) and paññcha (l. 18)—The language is Old Kanarese prose, but not of the most archaic type The word bidiśidoṃ (l. 15) is worth noting, cf. above, Vol XI, p 6, l 17

The record opens by giving its date (ll. 1-4), and then refers itself to the reign of the Mahāsāmantādhipati Kannara-vallaha (ll. 4-6), who seems to be the Rāshtrakūta Krishna II Akalavarsha The title Mahāsāmantādhipati however raises some difficulty, for already in the Batgere inscription of A.D. 828, eight years previous to our record (see above, Vol XIII, p 189), Kannara is given the full regal titles², and it would hence seem that, as he had for some years before his accession reigned as Yuva-rāja, or Heir Presumptive, jointly with his father,³ and had then borne the title of Mahāsāmantādhipati, he was still locally described as such The alternative inference is that this Kannara-vallaha is an otherwise unknown viceroy of the same family; but the predicate "reigning over the earth" practically bars this possibility

The inscription then states that at this time the Banavāsī Twelve-thousand was under the government of Lōkade (ll. 6-7) This Lōkade is the same as Lōkāditya, of the Chellakētana or Sellakētana family, on whom see Dr Fleet's notes in Ind. Ant., Vol. XXXII, pp. 221-26, and Dynast. Kanar. Distr., p. 411 and n. 3 Next it mentions Ōmkāra-Śiva-bhatāra, of the temple of Dindēśvara, as administrator of Palasūr, and, as it would seem, two or three persons as county-sheriffs of "Anniga's Hundred of Pānungal" (ll. 7-12) This last-named district must be a part of the Pānungal (Hāngal) Five-hundred, and it would be interesting to know who Anniga was from whom it took its name, possibly he is the Pallava or Nolamba-Pallava Anniga of the records (above, Vol. IV, p. 289, V, p. 191, X, pp. 58, 63 n, Dynast. Kanar. Distr., p. 420) Finally in ll. 12-15 the inscription mentions two other local officials and a person who induced Ōmkāra-Śiva-bhatāra to grant remission to Dautavūr or Dautavura. This seems to mean that the village was granted some liberty or immunity from payment of taxes to Palasūr; perhaps Palasūr was a church-property, administered together with some neighbouring villages for the benefit of a local Śaiva temple, and by the present act Dautavūr became released from this service

The date is specified in ll. 1-4 as Śaka 818 current, the cyclo year Bānu (sic!); Jyaishtṥa śu. 13, the nakshatra Uttare This is altogether irregular Śaka 818 current corresponded to Rākshasa in all systems, and in that year the tithi mentioned was connected, according to the Sūrya-siddhānta, with Saturday, 10 May, A.D. 895, ending about 14 h. 44 m. after mean sunrise (for Ujjain), and corresponding to the nakshatra Svātī (or Viśākhā according to Garga on the Brāhma-siddhānta) What nakshatra our inscription means by "Uttare" is obscure⁴ Nor is the difficulty solved by assuming that Śaka 818 expired was intended, for Mr R. Sewell, who with his usual kindness has investigated the dates in this paper, has pointed out to me that in accordance with the Sūrya-siddhānta the date would be

³ See Dynast. Kanar. Distr., p. 411

⁴ [In Tamil the nakshatra Uttaram corresponds to the Sanskrit Uttara-Phalgunī.—H. K. S.]

Friday, 28 May, A.D 896, corresponding to the nakshatra Anurādhā by all systems, while according to the Brāhma-siddhānta the nakshatra would be Svāti and according to the equal-space system and Garga it would be Chitrā. If on the other hand we reject the Śaka date as wrong and accept "Bānu," i.e. Bhānu, as being the same as Subhānu (as is sometimes the case in Northern Calendars), we must fix the year of our inscription as either 786 or 846 Śaka, but in neither case can we obtain a nakshatra with Uttarā in its name, and hence this alternative may be discarded.

The only place-names mentioned are the Banavāsī Twelve-thousand (l 7), Palasūr (l 9), "Anṇiga's Hundred of Pānungal" (ll 11-12), and Dautavūr or Dautavura (ll 14-15). Palasūr is now Halsūr, in lat 14° 51' and long 75° 21', nearly a mile S W of Kunimellihalli. Of "Anṇiga's Hundred of Pānungal" I have already spoken. Dautavūr is very possibly the ancient name of Kunimellihalli, if not, it must have been a village in the immediate neighbourhood.

2 KYASANUR INSCRIPTIONS OF SAKA 868, etc.

The village of Kyāsanūr ("Kyāsūr" on the Bombay Survey sheet 310, "Kasnoor" on the Indian Atlas sheet 42) lies in the Hāngal taluka of Dhārwār District, in $14^{\circ} 39\frac{1}{2}'$ lat and $75^{\circ} 7\frac{1}{2}'$ long Its ancient name, as is shown in the inscription C below, l 6, was Kēsālūr, whence is derived the modern name, by change of ē to yā (a very common modification in vulgar Kanarese) and of l to n The epigraphs here published were found in different parts of the village, but with the exception of A, which is known to have been found in a row of stones in a road to the north of it, their exact location is not on record, as far as I am aware An incorrect and imperfect transcript of A is given in the Elliot Collection, Vol II, fol 335a of the Royal Asiatic Society's copy

This epigraph is on a rectangular stone surmounted by sculptures which are described by Elliot's copyist as representing respectively the Sun, Īśvara (Śiva), Halāyudha (sic !), and the Moon The inscribed area is about 1 ft $10\frac{1}{2}$ in high and 1 ft 2 in broad —The character is Kanarese, somewhat irregular and cramped in style, with letters varying in height from $\frac{1}{2}$ in to 1 in The vowels ē and ō are written in both the earlier and the later manner The b and j are of the later types, but the l is somewhat archaic, except in Edevoḷal, l 6, and āgal, l 13, where it is almost modern We find the guttural nasal in ll 3, 7, 10, and the palatal nasal in l 4 (twice) The cursive m appears in the last syllable of Angiravāramum, l 10, and Gāmundiganol, l 12, and there is an interesting form of y, in two lobes, in -entaneya, l 8, and Poravayyan, l 11 —The language is Old Kanarese, with the exception of the formal Sanskrit verse at the end, as in the rest of this series, it belongs to the second period of the archaic dialect We may note the form mattal for the commoner mattar (see above, Vol XIII, p 168) and bidiṣi (see above, Vol XI, p 6, l 17)

The record opens by referring itself in ll 1-3 to the reign of king Kannara (the Rāshtrakūṭa Kṛṣṇa III Akālavarsha, on whom see Dynast Kanar Distr, pp 418 ff), and then states that while the Mahāsāmantakali-Viṭṭa of the Chellakētana lineage was governing the Banavāsī province (ll 3-4) and Gāmundiga was serving as nīl-gāmundu or sheriff of the Edevoḷal nīdu, on a given date, the revenue of a field was transferred by Gāmundiga, at the request of Poravayya, to a special account for the upkeep of a local tank The history of the Chellakētana or Sellakētana family, of which Kali-Viṭṭa is the latest representative on record, has been examined in Ind Ant, Vol XXXII, pp 221 ff, by Dr Fleet, who has noticed this inscription and the next on p 226 We have found an earlier representative of the same family in the Kuṇimellihalli inscription above

The date of the donation is given in ll, 7-10 as Śaka 868 current, Viśvāvasu, the bright fortnight, Thursday, the nakṣatra Uttara¹, but with peculiar negligence the draftsman or the

mason has omitted the month and lunar day Śaka 868 current coincided with Viśvāvasu of the Southern Cycle in A D 945-6

The place-names mentioned are the Banavāsī nāḍu (l 5) and the Edevolal nāḍu (l 6) Edevolal, the county including Kyāsanūr, was a seventy district, and was usually reckoned as forming part of the Banavāsī province

The vowel ē is written in both ancient and later style, the ē in the later, and the general type of the letters is that of the transitional period. We find the guttural nasal in ll 11 and 13, the palatal nasal in l 5 and apparently in l 12. —The language is Old Kannarese. Poravayyanna (read Poravayyana) in l 12 seems to be a genitive used for nominative (cf. J R A S, 1918, p. 105).

The record refers itself in ll 1-9 to the reign of Kannara (Kṛṣṇa III) and the administration of Kalī-Vitta and Gāmundiga in almost the same words as inscription A, and then in ll 10-13 announces a charity or public service performed in the same year, viz Śaka 888 Viśvāvasu, corresponding to A D 945-6.

The places mentioned are the Banavāsī nādu (l 7), Edevolal (l 8), and a village with a doubtful name (l 12).

This fragment is contained on a stone of which the inscribed area is about 1 ft 10 in high and 1 ft 7½ in wide —The character is a fine upright Kanarese with letters varying in height from ½ in to 1½ in, and with a tendency to make the l very large. The vowels ē and ō are usually written in the older fashion, but the later style is used in -l=ē, l 8, -r=ō, l 7, -ro-, l 8, and -do-, l 11. The palatal nasal occurs in pañcha-, l 4. The l is rather archaic in type, but the y and b are of a rather later style, and the general character is that of the transitional period —The language is Old Kanarese. The words naliga (l 7) and mattal, for the commoner mattar (ll 10, 11 cf. above, A text line ll f), are of some lexical interest.

The purport of the inscription, so far as it is preserved, is to record the grant of some land for the maintenance of a temple. It prefaces this by referring itself to the reign of Kandara-vallabha, i.e. Kannara or Krishna III (ll 1-3), while the Mahāsāmantādhīpati Śankaraganda was governing Banavāsī (ll 4-6) and Gāmundiga was county-sheriff of Edevoḷal (ll 6-9).

The places mentioned are the Banavāsī nādu (l 6), the Edevoḷal Seventy (l 8) the Puhl-kere, a local tank (l 9), and the Buda-kanda, some local field or the like (l 11).

This record is on a stone with inscribed area 2 ft 6 in high and 1 ft 7½ in broad. The character is a fine upright Kanarese hand, with letters varying from ½ in to 1 in in height. The style is somewhat archaic, with features of the transitional period. The ś is written in both the earlier and the later fashion, the ṣ only in the later. An ṛ of rather archaic type is used in l 13. A cursive m of the peculiar kind mentioned above appears twice in l 15, and the y is composed of two parts, not, as is usual, of three.—The language is Old Kanarese, except for the formal Sanskrit verse in ll 11-13. Some words are lexically interesting, as mattal for mattar, ll 6-7 (cf. above, remarks under A and C), damma, ll 7-8, ūdīgal, l 7, (²) gam-bonnu, l 8, vasa, l 9.

The record refers itself in ll 1-3 to the reign of Nityavarsha-Amōghavarsha, with the usual epithets of royalty. This is peculiar, for these two birudas are not elsewhere borne by a single king. As the inscription seems to be perfectly genuine, we must conclude either that the draftsman made the mistake of combining the birudas of two different kings, which seems rather improbable, or that they were actually borne together by some sovereign. Who this sovereign could have been is a matter of conjecture, but, as our epigraph mentions as his viceroy Śankaraganda, whom we have already met in inscription C, and as nāl-gāmunḍa, Gāmundiga, who figures in A.-C, it seems at any rate possible that Nityavarsha-Amōghavarsha is the same as Nityavarsha-Khottiga, the son of Amōghavarsha-Vaddiga and the younger brother and successor of Kṛṣṇa III (Kannara) Akālavarsha, so that the date of the inscription would be about A. D. 970.

After mention of the reigning king the record states that at the time the Banavāsī province was under the governorship of Śankaraganda, while Gāmundiga was nāl-gāmunḍa of Edevoḷa (ll 4-6), and then sets forth a standing order in connection with the levy of the king's taxes on land and houses in Kēsalūr and some cognate matters.

The places mentioned are the Banavāsī nādu (l 4), the Edevoḷa. Seventy (l 5), and Kēsalūr, i.e. the modern Kyāsanūr (l 6).

TRANSLATION.

(Lines 1-11) Hail¹ while Nityavarsha, darling of Fortune and Earth, great Emperor, supreme Lord, supreme Master, Amōghavarsha, was reigning over the earth —while Śankaraganda was governing the province of Banavāsī:—while Gāmundiga was holding the county-shrievalty over the Edevoḷal Seventy —an arrangement was laid down for Kēsalūr (as follows) for a mattal (the tax is to be) four damma,⁴ for an ūḍigal three, for a house two, the damma on houses (is to be) one gold, when the thirty-two Crown-officials⁵ hold the survey, they shall provide rice for one year, the county-sheriffs there shall provide (st) thence

[NOTE—ūḍigalge may have to be corrected into ūḍigalge (ūḷigalke?) in the sense “for services”, gam may be taken with the word ondu which precedes it and explained as a conjunction corresponding to kam. Evidently 10 dammas equalled 32 pon. In the phrase ondu tasada lūlan=skkuge I would insert dī before vasada and translate “the king, whoever it may be, should provide rice for one day”. In the collection of taxes in former times, the bill collector used to be fed at the expense of the debtor, cf e.g. my remarks on remission of vottachchu, A R on Epigraphy (Madras) for 1911, page 77—H K S]

This small fragment occupies an area of about 8½ in in height and 1 ft 5½ in in width. The character is a fair Kanarese of cursive sloped type, with letters varying from ½ in to ¾ in. The ē is written in both the earlier and the later style, the ō only in the later. The guttural nasal occurs in l 5, the palatal nasal in l 1. The ordinary cursive form of m is used in s[ā]mantanādhipatī (sic!), l 1, śrīmat, l 2, -chāsīraman, l 3, and -g[ā*]mundu, l 5. The language is Old Kanarese. The l is wrongly written for r in pannil-, ll 2-3.

As to matter, the fragment is part of the official preamble of some document, and reports that at a certain date the Banavāsī Twelve-thousand was under the government of the Mahāsāmantādhipatī Kannayya, while the county-sheriff of the Edevoḷal Seventy was Polega and the town-sheriff Singa. On epigraphic grounds it may be assigned to a date a few years later than the preceding record.

3. DEVIHOSUR INSCRIPTION OF SAKA 884

Dēvihosūr, literally “New Town of the Goddess” (probably because of some temple of Dēvī, serving to distinguish it from other towns called Hosūr), is a village in the Karajgi taluka of Dhārwar District, the Bombay Survey sheet No 309 places it in lat 14° 47½' and long 75° 22½', about 4½ miles west of Hāvērī. In l 9 of the present inscription, which was found at the local temple of Bhōgēśvara, it is called by its ancient name, Posavūr, whence is derived hosūr, the second element of the modern name. The stone is rounded at the upper corners, and in a band on the top are sculptures of the sun (proper right) and moon (left). Below this is an inscribed area about 2 ft 3½ in high and 17 in broad. It is somewhat damaged on the proper right side, from the top downwards to 1 5.—The character is a bold Kanarese hand of the period, somewhat affectedly angular in ll. 1-5, the letters vary in height from ¾ in to 1½ in, and belong to the transitional type. The vowels ē and ō are written in the later manner, except in trayōdasi (l 7), janakke (l 9), and bēlva (l 10).—The language is Old Kanarese, but not of the more archaic type.

The record opens by referring itself in ll 1-4 to the reign of Akālavārsha Kannara-dēva (the Rāshtrakūta Krishna III, on whom see Dynast Kanar Distr., pp 418-422), while his subordinate Garvīndara was governing the Banavāsī nāḍu¹ (ll 4-5). It then states that on a given date in Śaka 884 an impost of 55 gadyānas was required of the Mahājanas of Poṣavūr, from the interest of which certain Brāhmanas were to be fed at the samkrānti in the house of Binaga,² son of Mālakka (ll 6-13), and it concludes with a pious prayer that religion may increase for all time (ll 13-14).

The date is specified on ll 6-9 as Śaka 884, Dundubhi, Pausha śu 13, Sunday; the uttarāyana-samkrānti. There is a slight irregularity here. The Śaka year intended is the current year, corresponding to Dundubhi of the Northern Cycle, the tithi Pausha śu 13 was connected in that year with Sunday, 22 December, A D 961, ending 18 h 8 m after mean sunrise (for Ujjain). The uttarāyana-samkrānti occurred on the following Monday, 23 December, at 6 h 25 m after mean sunrise. Thus the tithi ended at 08 A M and the samkrānti occurred at 12 25 A M on the same day, Monday. These calculations are by true tithis, but if we reckon with mean tithis and months the result is rather different, for thus śu 13 corresponds to Monday, 23 December (being current during 20 h 36 m of the preceding Sunday, and ending 3 h 24 m after mean sunrise on the Monday), while the samkrānti occurred 16 h 54 m 22 s after mean sunrise on the Monday.³ It is thus impossible to say whether the date in the inscription was calculated by true or by mean tithis.

No 22 —PADMANERI GRANT OF VENKATA I SAKA-SAMVAT 1520

By V NATESA AIYAR, B A, M R A S, PESHAWAR

The subjoined grant is published with the aid of an excellent inked estampage, kindly supplied to me by Rao Sahib H Krishna Sastri, Government Epigraphist for India. It is noted as No 14 of Appendix A in the Annual Report on Epigraphy for 1905-6

The copper-plates on which the grant is incised are seven in number as can be judged from the Telugu numerals at the right-hand corner, and they are bored at the top for the insertion of a ring and seal, which, unfortunately, are no longer to be found¹. Of these plates the first and the last are carved only on the inner side, and the remaining five on both sides. The space covered by the writing measures $7\frac{1}{4}'' \times 7\frac{1}{8}''$ on each plate, while the size of the individual letters varies from $\frac{3}{16}''$ to $\frac{1}{4}''$. The alphabet is Nandināgarī, with the exception of the 'sign-manual' at the end which is in the Kannada-Telugu script.

Among the orthographical peculiarities and errors which occur in the grant may be mentioned (1) the doubling of consonants when preceded by r, as in °turyyō (l 7), °tārttiyikō (l 10), °sauryyēna (l 21), °durgga° (l 35), °r=ddadāt (l 149), (2) the doubling of d when preceded by an anusvāra or followed by y, as in °rumddhat° (l 29), °maddhyē (l 46), °saimddhata° (l 70), °siddhya° (l 117), (3) the use of anusvāra instead of nasal, as in °yāpāntē (l 46), °Vemgalāmbā (l 54), °komḍaiḍu° (l 56), °śaśayam (l 100), °brahmāmdam (l 136), °iṇḍrān (l 269), (4) the omission of visarga before conjunct sibilants, as in °kāmniṇiṣa° (l 15), °rāja kṣhītau (l 38), °d anuja vī (l 62), °dhē śrī° (l 122), °prayataṣṣi° (l 164), (5) the use of dental n for cerebral n as in °raṇita° (l 88), °svarna° (l 228), (6) the use of yi for i and ye for e and ice versā as in °yētā° (l 33), °yiti° (l 88), °māṭita° (l 94), and (7) non-adherence to Sandhi rules, as in °m=abhūt=śilā (l 2), °śrīmat=cha° (l 170), °y=ōtbbhūta° (l 191).

The inscription consists of 159 Sanskrit verses and opens with an invocation to the god Śrī Venkatēśa in prose. The peculiar Sanskrit words and the royal brūdas used in this epigraph are the same as in the other published records of this king and of his successors Venkata II and Ranga VI².

The genealogy of the king (vv 3-28), both mythological and historical, agrees precisely with that given in the inscriptions already referred to, while the description of his virtues and exploits (vv 29-45) adds nothing to what is contained in the Vilāpaka grant³.

Verses 46-47 give the date of the grant, which was the twelfth tithi of the bright fortnight of the month of Śrāvana in the Śaka year reckoned by the sky, the eyes, the arrows and the moon (i.e. 1520), the cyclic year being Vilāmbin. This date corresponds with A.D. 1598.

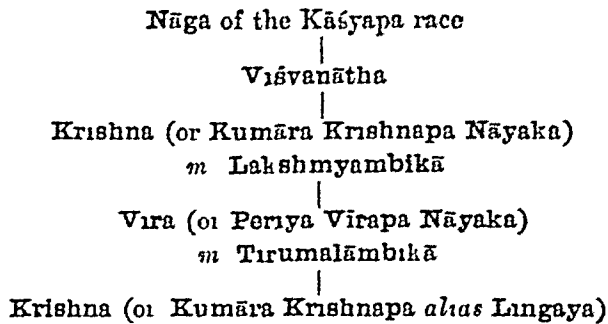

The grant was made in the presence of the god Venkatēśa, evidently on the Tirumala hill, and at the request of Krishna, the Nāyaka king of Madhuvā. The latter's pedigree, as shown in the present record (vv 58-78), tallies exactly with what Mr Sewell has given,¹ but is not included in the Kūṁiyū Plates of Venkata II.² This pedigree can be shown as follows.—

³ Ep Ind, Vol IV, pp 269 ff.

As to the martial exploits and public charities of these Nāyaka kings, the record says that Viśvanātha, son of Nāga, defeated the Tiruvadi king and the great Pāṇḍya Vāṇāda-rāya³ and his allies in battle and established his sway over the kingdom of Madhurā (v 59), that his grandson Virāpa Nāyaka constructed a sculptured mandapa in front of the shrine of Sundarēśa, the presiding deity of Madura, gave the goddess Minākshī a golden latacha set with gems, instituted pūjās, performed the ceremonies and made the gifts hēma-āśta, hēma-garbhā, kanaka-manī-tulā-pūruṣa, etc (vv 63-64), that Virāpa Nāyaka's son Krishna obtained the grace of Raṅgapatī (i.e. the god of Śrīrangam) by gifts of jewelled katāchas, silk garments, and rich ornaments, such as diadems, ear-rings, and waistband, by the endowment of villages, gardens and orchards, by the celebration of car-festivals and by the due performance of daily rituals in his temple (v 69), and that he also founded agrahāras for the exclusive use of Brahmins well-versed in sāstras, and bestowed villages on them in perpetuity.

The object of the grant was the village of Padmanērī (ll 107 sqq), surnamed Tirumalāmbāpuram, presumably after Krishna-Nāyaka's mother, and belonging to the Tiruvadi-rājya,⁴ in Vāṇava-nādu, and in Pachchāttuppōkku (Tamil Pachchāṟṟupōkku), evidently so called because it was irrigated by the Pachchāṟṟu river. The village was situated to the east of Kottākudī-Marugāl and the Bhinnāśman, to the south of the (boundary) stone of Vēṭṭekāraṅkulam and Modavankulam, to the west of the bridge (i.e. anicut) of Dēvanallūr⁵ alias Sōmanāthakshētra and to the north and west of the river Śyāma-nadī⁶. The village enjoyed a regular supply of water from the Śyāma-nadī anicut and possessed the ownership of the two dams across the mountain streams between Chōlagiri and Valligiri, as also the numerous canals. The village of Padmanērī may be identified with its namesake 2½ miles east of Nāngunērī in the Tinnevely district. Mr Sewell (Lists of Antiquities, Vol I, p 315) says that there is here a large temple with inscriptions in Tamil, Telugu, Grantha and Malayalam characters.

The terms of the grant are the same as those used in similar records of this dynasty and embrace every kind of proprietary right, including immunity from all taxes and unhampered powers of enjoyment and alienation in perpetuity.

³ [For the identification of Tiruvadi and of Vāṇāda rāya see the Annual Report on Epigraphy for 1906, p 85, paragraph 60—H K S.]

⁴ This name occurs also in the Kūṁivūr Plates of Venkata II (vide Ep Ind, Vol III, p 240)

⁶ Śyāma nadī is apparently the Sanskrit rendering of Pachchāṟṟu

The village was divided by king Kṛṣṇa into 83 shares and bestowed on a number of Brahmans of different gōtras and sūtras (v 81) The following is the list of the donees and their shares —

Some of these donees, it may be noted, seem to have come from distant provinces. Thus, Akkala-Bhatta is stated to be the son of Peru-Bhatta of Vodya or Orissa (v 86), Tirumala-Nambikonda, the son of Pina-Mādhava of Madavāda or Marwar (v 88), Bhūmā-Bhatta, the son of Nāgā-Bhatta of Mahamkāli, or Mahākāli or Ujjain (?) (v 92), and Nārāyana, the son of Yallam Bhatta of Huggi or Hotgi (v 115). It is also worthy of note that the donees belong to various Brahmanical sects and to different śākhās, gōtras and sūtras, from which it is apparent that the king was very tolerant in matters of religion and confined his munificence to no particular sect or class¹

In v 81 it is said that the village of Padmanāri was divided into 83 shares, and the actual number of shares distributed among the donees comes to that number

The inscription was composed by Kṛṣṇnakavi-Kāmakōti,² grandson of Sabhāpati, and engraved by Virana-Mahāchārya, son of Ganapaya³

² The composer of the Vilāpāka, Kondyāta and the Kalakursi grants of Venk. I, Venkata II, and Ranga VI was Rāma, son of Kāmakōti and grandson of Sabhāpati. This being the case, the name Kṛṣṇnakavi Kāmakōti in the present record may be taken to mean Kṛṣṇnakavi, son of Kāmakōti and brother, presumably, of Rāma

³ The engraver of the Vilāpāka grant of Venkata I was Kāmaya, and that of the Kūmyūr and Kondyāta grants, Achyutārya, both sons of Ganapaya or Ganapārya. It is, therefore, apparent that Virana-Mahāchārya of our inscription was the brother of Kāmaya and Achyutārya

Vv 24-25 The conquests of Kondavidu, Vinikonda and other fortresses by Śrīranga-Rāya (II), son of Tirumala-Rāya and Vengalāmbā, while staying at Uddagiri (Udayagiri) and at his capital Penukonda.

Vv 27-28 Venkatapati-dēva-Rāya succeeds his brother Śrīranga-Rāya on the latter's death

V 29 Venkatapati-Rāya's coronation performed by his preceptor Tātayārya and his conquest of the Yavanas (Muhammadans)

V 30 His queens were Venkatāmbā, Rāghavāmbā, Pedōbamāmbā and Krishna-māmbā

V 31 The defeat of Mahamanda-sāhu (i.e. Muhammad Shah), son of Malik-ibharāma (i.e. Malik Ibrāhīm)

Vv 32-45 His numerous birudas and praise

Vv 46-48 In the Śaka year vyōma-nētra-halamb-ēndu (i.e. 1520), in the cyclic year Vilambin, in the month of Śrāvana, in the bright fortnight, on the dvādaśī day, in the presence of god Venkatēśa, the grant was made to Brahmans of various śākhās, names, gōtras and sūtras, most of whom were well-versed in the Vēdas

Vv 49-57 The object of the grant was the village of Padmanērī, in the Tiruvadi-rājya, Vānava-nāḍu and the Pachchācuppōkku, of which the boundaries are set forth in detail The terms of the grant

Vv 58-59 The genealogy of the [Nāyaka] kings of Madhurā—Nāga and Viśvanātha. The latter conquered Vānadarāya, the great Pāndya and the Tiruvadi kings

Vv 60-61 Praises of Viśvanātha's son Krishna, the Nāyaka of the south and his wife Lakshmyambikā.

Vv 62-64 Praises of their son Vira and his gifts to the temples of Sundara-Nāyaka and Minākshi (at Madura) and the numerous religious rites which he performed

Vv 65-66 Praises of Tirumalāmbikā, wife of Vira

Vv 67-77 Praises of Krishna (Nāyaka), son of Vira, his gifts to the god of Ranga (i.e. Śrīrangam) and his birudas 'lord of the Southern Ocean' and 'the conqueror of the army of Pañchar-Tiruvadi'

Vv 78-80 The gift of the said village of Padmanērī was made by king Venkatapati-Rāya at the request of Krishna (Nāyaka) of Madura

V 81 The village was divided into 83 parts

No 23 —VELLANGUDI PLATES OF VENKATAPATI-DEVA-MAHARAYA I. SAKA-SAMVAT 1520

By THE LATE T A GOPINATHA RAO, M A, TRIVANDRAM

The inscription edited below is engraved on a set of seventeen copper-plates¹. There have the shape common to all inscribed plates bearing the deeds of grants made by the kings of the Vijayanagara dynasty of the period to which this set belongs. In the curved upper part of each of these plates is a round hole through which the binding ring is meant to pass; to the proper left of this hole and on the first side of each plate is marked the number of the plate in Telugu-Kannada numerals. The rims are raised to protect the writing from damage. When the set came to me for examination, there was no ring. The first plate is engraved on the second side, and the last one on its first side only. Plates 7, 13 and 14 are lost, since these belong to that part of the document which enumerates the names of donees, the historically important portion of the record is intact. The preservation of the inscription is very good. From impressions taken under my supervision, as also from the originals, I now edit the inscription.

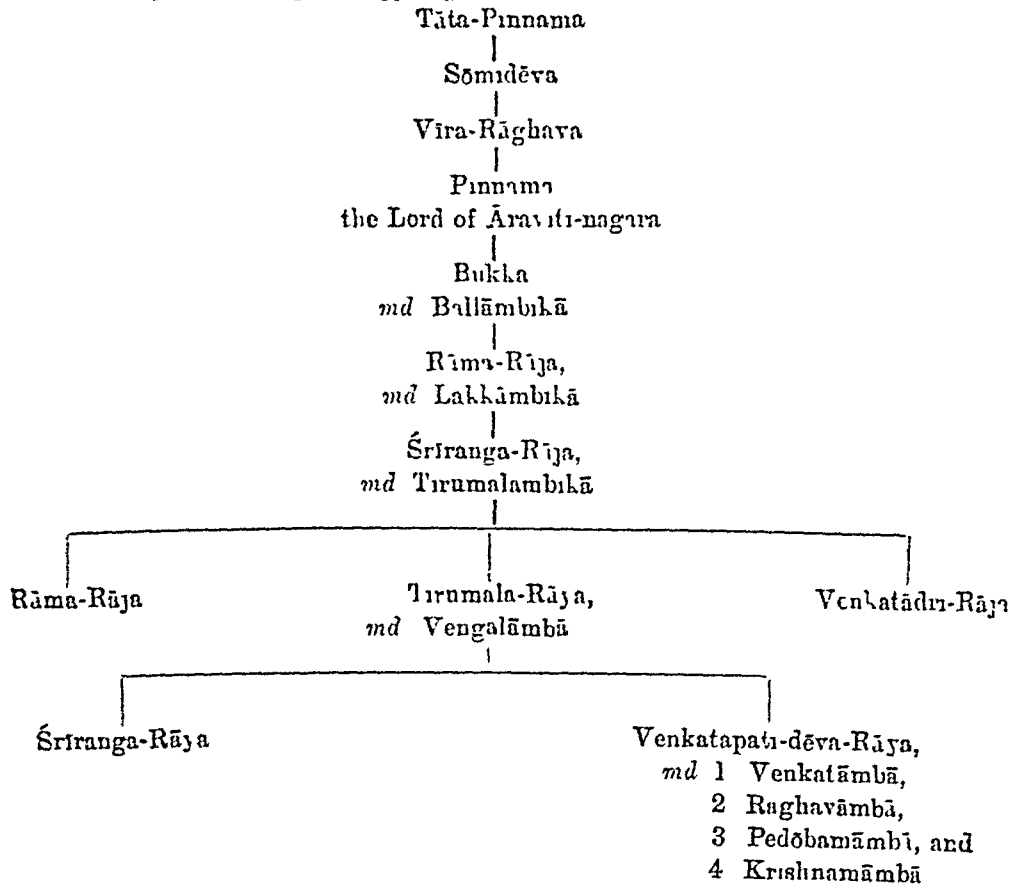

The alphabet of the record is Nandināgarī; the sign-manual of the king, the word Śrī-Venkaṭeśa, is in the Telugu alphabet. There is nothing peculiar in the orthography of the inscription demanding special comment. All the faults usual in the other documents of the Vijayanagara kings are also found in this, for example, the use of the anuvāra for the varga-pañchama, sa for śa, etc.

The historical part of the genealogy begins from this lāta Pinnama and is as follows —

The doings of each of these kings are given in the document in some detail. Sōmidēva is represented as having taken seven forts from his enemies in a single day (v 7). Pinnama is described as the lord of Āravīṭu, and his son is reported to have established Sāluva Nrisimha firmly on the throne (v 8). His son Rāma-Rāja was a staunch devotee of Vishnu, and through His grace he got over the effects of poison administered to him by his jñātis in the fort of Kandanavōlu durgam, which he had just then taken after defeating Sapāda at the head of an army consisting of 70,000 horses and taking from him the Avanigiri durgam,¹ driving off with him Kāsapp-Udaya (vv 11 and 12).

Rāma-Rāja, the son of Śrīranga-Rāja, ruled the country justly, after destroying the enemies of the world (the Musalmans), and was a veritable kalpaka-vriksha in his munificence. Of the three sons of Śrīranga-Rāja, the middle one, Tirumala-Mahārāja, having routed his enemies in battles, was anointed to the throne and like Vishṇu, the middle member of the Hindu Trinity,² protected the kingdom. This king performed again and again all the mahādānas such as the svarna-tulā-purusha and the upadānas in such holy places as Kāñchi, Śrīrangam, etc., and in all important places of pilgrimage and holy tirthas (vv 20 and 27). His son Śrīranga-Rāja, being stationed in Uddagiri, conquered the forts of Kondavīdu, Vinikondapura, etc., and began to reign in Penugonda. He had emblems, such as the makara, as signs of royalty. The great gifts which this king made on the occasion of his coronation permanently removed poverty from poor people (vv 29 and 30). After him succeeded to the throne his brother Venkatapati-dēva Mahārāja, also born to the same mother, Vengalāmbā. Just as Rāma was anointed by Vasishtha, his family priest, Venkatapati-dēva-rāya's coronation was performed by the learned Tātāyāya his guru. Having conquered the Yavanas, he ruled the earth. He defeated Mahammenda Śāhu, the son of Malikibharāma, in battle, and during the continuance of the war the latter used to return home day by day after losing his elephants, horses, weapons and umbrella. Venkatapati-dēva-Mahārāya was extolled by the kings of the Kāmbhōja, Bhōja, Kālinga, Kōrahāta and other countries, waiting at the entrance of his palace. He bore the brūdas, Chaurāsi-durg-aika-vibhāla-varya, Hosabirudara-ganda, Itāya rāhutta-minda, Avahala-rāya mīna-mardīn, Birudu-manniyara-ganda, Uttal āndra-jaya-pandita-vīra, Manniyānsāmūl, Gandara-gūli, Manya-puli, Mandalika-dharanī-īrāka, Vēnga-tribhuvanī malla, Tirigōla suratiāna, Ranamukha-kāmabhadra, Mandalika-ganda, Āratṭa-Magadha mānya-pada, Chālilka-chahavartin, Ebiruda-rāya-rāhuta-īēy-aika-bhujanga, Kalyāna pur-ādhipa, Oddiya-rāya-divāpatta, Bhāshege-tappura-rāyara-ganda and Mūru-rāyara-ganda.

Having obtained the throne of the Karnāta kingdom by the prowess of his arms, and defeating his enemies, Venkatapati-deva-Rāya ruled the earth from the Himālayas to Sītu (Kāmcāvaram).

The genealogy as given in this grant agrees as far as Tirumala-Rāya with those given in the Kōṇḍiyāta, the Kallakurūsi, the Kūṇḍūr and the Vilāppākkam grants and entirely with that found in the Dalavāy-Agrahāram Plates of this king. This grant like the last mentioned, omits the names of Rāma III and Raghunātha among the sons of Tirumala-Rāya and gives only those of Śrīhaṅga Rāya (Ranga II) and Venkatapati I.

The historical importance of the events narrated in relation to the individual kings, the ancestors of Venkatapati I, as also about Tātāyāya, his family priest, has been discussed already in my article on the Dalavāy-Agrahāram Plates of Venkatapati-dēva-Mahārāya (Ep Ind, Vol. XII, pp. 159-187), and the afore need not be repeated here.

The present grant is dated the Śaka Samvat 1520, computed by the moon (indru), the arrows (kalamba), the eyes (nētra) and the sky (vyōma), which corresponded with the cyclic year Vilambin. On the dvādāsī tithi of the bright half of the month Śrāvana the king Vira Venkatapati-Mahārāya granted as an agrahāra to a large number of Brāhmanas the village of Vellingolli together with Kīyāttānkurichchi, Uppu-vāṇḍan-puttūr and Mānāmangalam in Perumpattu,—all clubbed together under the name of Virabhūpa-samudrām, at the request of prince Krishna-Bhūpati of Madura. The villages granted were in the Mulh-nādu, which formed part of the sub division Añjarākkarō of the Tiruvadi-dēśa. Their boundaries are stated in vv. 56-66.

The prince Krishna Bhūpati, at whose request the grant was made, was the then Nāyaka of Madura. His pedigree is traced thus.—In the Kāśyapa gōtra was born Nāga, a devotee of the god Viśvēśvara (evidently of Kāśi or Bānārasi). His son was Viśvanātha. This prince conquered the Tiruvadi, the great Pāndya, the Vānādarāya and other kings in pitched battles and took from them their kingdoms solely by the prowess of his arms and became the lord of the Mādhurā country. Krishna, the lord of the south, possessed of valour, justice, intelligence and courage, was born to Viśvanātha. The queen of Krishna was Lakshmyambikā. To these was born Vira-Bhūpati, of charming manners. This last mentioned prince constructed a mandapa, containing several beautifully sculptured pillars, in front of the shrine of the god Sundara-nāyaka (that is, Sundarēśvara of the famous Śiva temple at Madura) and presented to the goddess Minākshī a golden covering (kavucha) set with gems. He is described as having performed the gifts called hēma āśva, hēma-garbha, tulā-pūruṣa (weighing against gold and precious stones), visva-chakra, brahm-ānda, gō-sahasra, elephant chariot and kāma-dhēnu made of gold, sapt-ān bhōdhi, horse chariot made of gold, rahābhūta-ghata, svarna-kṣimā and ratna-dhēnu. Tirumalāmbikā was the wife of Vira-Bhūpati. To them was born Krishna-Mahāpati. This prince, who was well read in all sorts of niti-sāstras, was daily engaged in the performance of one or other of the sixteen mahādānas. He presented to the god Ranga (of the temple at Śīrangam) a covering (karacha), studded with gems of different kinds, a head-dress (ushnīsha), yellow silk garments, necklaces, krīṭas (diadems), kuṇḍalas (ear-ornaments) and gudḍas, he granted to the same deity several villages and lands, celebrated the car-festival and in various other ways served Him and obtained His grace. Again, to the lord Saundara-nāyaka (of Madura) he presented several lamp stands (making provision to burn lights in them) made arrangements for the celebration of the abhīśhēkas (holy batas) of milk and the car-festival and presented the deity with several rich ornaments. He is said to have set up a manu-stambha before this deity. He performed the tulā-purusha and the haranya-garbha Mahādānas, and on that occasion made valuable presents to Brāhmanas, allusion is made to the Mahādānas kalpaka-irīsha, samudra (sapt āmbhōdhi) and kīma-dhēnu. Prince Krishna-Mahipati granted enough money to the Brāhmanas of other kingdoms to redeem their lands, which they lost to their kings owing to their inability to pay the taxes thereon. By this statement we are to understand that the government of other kings was so oppressive even in the case of Brāhmanas, and consequently much more so in the case of other castes, that the former had, on account of their inability to make good the heavy taxes imposed upon their lands, to abandon them, whereas the government of Krishna-Mahipati was so good as to attract Brāhmanas even from other countries to seek the benefit of his munificence. The statement is not a mere boast, as will be seen from the list of villages from which came the Brāhmana donees of this grant, I shall revert to this matter later on. Krishna-Mahipati is further stated to have been praised by the Pāndya, Chēra and Chōla kings. He was styled "the lord of the southern ocean". Lastly, he is reported to have wrested from the Pāñcha-Tiruvadis¹ their kingdom. The genealogy of the Nāyakas of Madura, as obtained from this record, may be represented conveniently thus —

Brāhmanas and, curiously enough, to some Brāhmana ladies also, it is a very rare thing to meet with the allotment of shares to women in the agrahāras which are conferred on Brāhmanas. It is stated that the agrahāra was divided into two hundred and sixty-one vrittis and that each vritti was further divided into five amsas, thus making a total of 1,305 amsas, and the gift to each donee is made in terms of the amsas. We learn that each vritti was sufficient to meet the needs of five persons, it appears that the shares were granted, perhaps, proportionate to the number of members in the family of a donee. In the existing plates of the set a total of one hundred and eighty-two vrittis and one amsa are accounted for, and the plates seven, thirteen and fourteen, which are lost, should have contained an account of the distribution of the remaining seventy-eight vrittis and four amsas. The list of the donees, with the names of their fathers, their native villages, their sākhās and gōtras and the number of amsas they received, is given in the 'abstract of contents' at the end.

From that list it would seem that most of the donees were residents of the Telugu country and had either already migrated into the Tamil country or had come down south at the invitation of the donor. Anyhow the record is of more than ordinary importance in that it accounts, like a few others,¹ for the existence of a large number of Telugu Brāhmana families in the Tinnevely District. Themselves Telugas by birth and possessing strong liking for the men of their own country, speaking their own language, the Nāyakas of Madura would have imported large colonies of Telugu Brāhmanas from the north and settled them down in Madura and Tinnevely Districts. At present there are numbers of Telugu Brāhmana families in several villages in the Tinnevely District as, for instance, Tenkāsi, Śermādēvi, Pāvār, Vellangudi, Pēttai, Nālāttimpatiūr, Kōyilpatti, Tinneveli and Elavelangāl and in many villages in the Madura District. A parallel to this tendency to import their own countrymen, speaking their own tongue, is to be found in the Marāṭhā Rājas of Tanjore, who planted a considerable colony of Marāṭhā and Gurjara Brāhmanas in the Tanjore kingdom, some of which families are now found scattered over the whole of the Madras Presidency, having at one time occupied the highest positions both in the British Government and in the Native States.

The present record is of great importance for the history of the Nāyakas of Madura, which is not very clearly known. The late Mr. Nelson had attempted a continuous and fairly full history of this dynasty of princes in his Madura Manual, from all available sources, such as Indian chronicles, traditions and manuscripts and a few inscriptions, as also the valuable records of the Jesuits of the Madura Mission. Attempts have been made quite recently by some others with the help of the same materials to reconstruct the history of this country and of this period, with, to my mind, no whit better success than that achieved by the pioneer, Mr. Nelson. All attempts at tracing Indian History merely from the sources referred to above have proved incomplete, if not always incorrect. It must be constructed mainly on the strength of inscriptions, supplemented largely from literary and other sources, wherever the latter do not militate against the statements made in inscriptions. Some amount of new information regarding the Nāyakas of Madura has been brought to light in my articles on the Krishnāpuram Plates of Sadāśiva dēva Mahāīyā, the Dalavay-Agrahāram Plates of Venkatapati-dēva-Mahāīyā and other records. The first of these deals with the reign of Krishnappa Nāyaka I, son of Viśvanātha-Nāyaka, and the second with that of his son Vira-Bhūpati, Virappa-Nāyaka or Periya or Pedavirappa-Nāyaka, the copper-plate grant under consideration belongs to the reign of the latter's son Kṛṣṇa Mahipati or Krishnappa-Nāyaka II. Thus the three records belong to three consecutive reigns, and the last is of greater historical importance than the others. It is necessary therefore to discuss here the historical information contained in this inscription in the light of other epigraphical records.

In the Kṛṣṇnāpuram Plates,¹ Nāgama Nāyaka² is said to have been a devotee of the god Viśvanātha and to have borne the brudas, Kāñchī-pura-var-ādhiśvara, Mōkālīpaṭṭa vardhana, Samaya-dīdhara-ganda, Samaya-kālāhala, Alāvali-pura-var-ādhiśvara, Pāndya-kula-sthāpan-āchārya and Dal-shina-samudr-ādhiśvara and to have taken the kingdom of Tiruvadi. An old Tamil work called Trippuṇi-mālai quoted by me already in my article on the Dalavāy-Agraharam inscript on also describes Viśvanātha and Virappa as Kachchī-nāyakaṇ Viśuvanāthan and Kachchī vāl Krishna-Virappan. Evidently the Nāyakas of Madura will have been originally residents of Kāñchīpura and hence must have borne the title Kāñchī-pura-var-ādhiśvara.

The reading of the Vellangudi inscription, where it deals with Viśvanātha-Nāyaka, is defective and therefore unintelligible. The Padmanēn grant of Venkata I,³ dated also Ś 1520 gives the correct reading, which runs as follows —

From this passage we learn that Viśvanātha, after having conquered in battles the Tiruvadi, the Mubā Pandyā, the Vanāda-Rāya and other kings, and having taken possession of their kingdoms by the fine prowess of his arms, became the lord of the Madhurā-rājya and was ruling. What were the circumstances under which Viśvanātha conquered the kings named above and who the Vānāda Rāyas were and how they happened to be in the south are questions which require a clear answer. Let us now try to explain briefly the points raised above. Tiruvadi is the name applied in inscriptions, as well as in literature, to the king of Travancore. The Tiruvadi of the time of Achyuta-dēva Rāya needed chastisement, since he had harboured the enemies of the Vijayanagara emperor and had refused to acknowledge his suzerainty. Achyuta-dēva Rāya himself led the expedition as far as Śrīrangam, but at his own request Salaka-Trumala-Rāya, the king's brother-in-law, was put in command of the army to subdue the Tiruvadi. Salaka-Trumala-Rāya defeated the Tiruvadi and his confederates on the bank of the Tāmraparni and made him surrender all the territories usurped by him from the Pāndya. Nāgama-Nāyaka evidently held then the military command over the Tondai mandalam and lived in Conjeevaram, and would therefore, on account of his familiarity with the people and their languages, have been taken by the king with him as one of the Vijayanagara generals in his expedition against the Tiruvadi. The Pandya king Śrīvallabha, who applied to the emperor for help, must have been put in possession of his lost kingdom after the defeat of the Tiruvadi, and in remembrance of this event Achyuta-dēva Rāya, Śrīvallabha Pāndya and Nāgama-Nāyaka severally called themselves Pāndya-rājya-sthāpan-āchāryas.⁴ The Tiruvadi king then ruling must, according to the inscriptions in my collection, have been Bhūtalavira Udayamārttāḍa-varman of the Trippāppūr branch.

It is doubtful whether Viśvanātha also formed one of the party which proceeded against the Tiruvadi at the time of Achyuta-dēva-Rāya. It looks more than certain that Viśvanātha distinguished himself in the southern regions on a subsequent occasion and not during the reign of Achyuta-dēva-Rāya. No 140 of the Madras Epigraphist's Collection for 1895 states that the Vijayanagara general Vitthala-dēva-Mahārāya conducted an expedition against the Tīruvadi in the reign of Sadāsiva-dēva-Rāya, some time before Ś 1466 (=A D 1544 45), and that a Brāhmana of Tīruvidaimarudūr, named Tiruchchirāmbala-Bhattan, "joined Vitthala's army and continued to fight on his side from 'Anantaśayanam in the south to Mudugal in the north'" Viśvanātha must have been one of the military officers who accompanied Vitthala, for, No 17 of the Madras Epigraphist's Collection for 1912 distinctly affirms that Viśvanātha obtained from Rāmarājarayan (i.e. Aliya Rāmarāja), the powerful minister of Sadāsiva, the Tīruvadi-dēśa as amara-nāyaka, and his son Krishnappa-Nāyaka granted seven villages in this province to the god of the Krishnāpuram temple, which he had newly built. Trouble cropped up evidently once again in the Tīruvadi rājyam during the reign of Sadāsiva-dēva-Rāya, and a punitive expedition against the king of that country was necessary, and it was accordingly despatched under Vitthala. From one of the inscriptions in my collection we find that in the Kollam year 722 (=A D 1547), Bhūtalavīra Rāmavarman, of the Jayatunga nādu branch, who calls himself the vēlaikkāran of (the god ?) Śankaranārāyanamūrti (probably of Nāvāykkulam, near Ātingal), made arrangements for the (monthly ?) celebration, in the Viṣṇu shrine at Śūchindram, of the day of Rōhinī, the natal star of Vitthalaśvara-Mahārāyar. The Tīruvadi must have lost a large portion of his territory on this occasion, and what was taken away from him appears to have been bestowed upon Viśvanātha as an amara-nāyaka. The Tīruvadi was ruling, very probably, over what remained, as a vassal of the Vijayanagara king.

The kingdom of the Pāndya king was situated on the way to the Tīruvadi rājyam, and had necessarily to be passed through. If the Pāndya, as stated in the document had also to lose his kingdom, it must surely be that he had offered resistance to the passage of the Vijayanagara army through his territories or offended Vitthala in some other way. Anyhow the Pāndya does not appear to have been deprived altogether of his kingdom, but was subjugated and suffered to rule as a subordinate of the Vijayanagara Emperor.

The princes called Vānāda-Rāyars were the lineal descendants of the Bāna kings, who, in the earlier period of South Indian History, were the vassals of the Pallavas and ruled over the North Arcot District and portions of the Mysore Province, then kingdom was known as Bānappādi or Perumbānappādi. When the Pallavas were subverted by the Chōlas, they became subordinates of the Chōlas, and the Vānāda-Rāyars continued faithful to the latter till the reign of Kulōttunga III. Rājarāja Vānakōvarayan, alias Ponparappiṇṇāṇ Magadaipperi-māl, one of the vassals of Kulōttunga III, rebelled against his suzerain and entered into political compacts with some southern petty princes. He drifted on to the south and appears eventually to have joined the Pāndyas, who were then growing in power and were soon to subvert the Chōla supremacy during the reign of Rājarāja III and his son Rājendra-Chōla III. The Vānāda-Rāyars continued to be friends and subordinates of the Pāndyas till the Musalman invasion of Madura under Malīk Kifūr. When the Pāndya king was taken prisoner and carried away by the Muhammadans, the Vānāda-Rāyars took service under the Vijayanagara kings and ruled over the Madura country. They were Vaishnavas in religion, and they gave donations, as may be seen from their inscriptions, to the Viṣṇu temples at Alagarkōyil, Tiruppullanī and Śrīvilliputtūr. Viśvanātha-Nāyaka had evidently ousted the Vānāda-Rāyars from Madura and made it the capital of a kingdom which he formed from the districts of Madura and Tinnevely and portions of the Travancore State.

In fact, Viśvanātha was the founder of the Nāyaka dynasty at Madura, and that in the reign of Sadāsiva-dēva-Rāya. It is difficult to say how far credence can be given to the tradition that Viśvanātha fought against Nāgama-Nāyaka, his own father, to regain for the Emperor of Vijayanagara the Madura country said to have been usurped by him. Unless it be presumed that he joined in a confederacy with the Vānāda-Rāyar, the Pāndya and the Tīruvadi and asserted independence, the tradition cannot be upheld.

The Śrīrangam-Kōyil-olugu informs us that Viśvanātha Nāyaka made to the god Ranganātha gifts of several golden vessels, costly ornaments and lands—all to the extent of three lakhs of pon at the instance of Vādhūla-kula-Dūsika Kumāra Narasimhachāya, and the date assigned in that work is Ś 1420

The Tiruppari-mālai states that Viśvanātha-Nāyaka presented a valuable necklace and pendant to the god Sundarēśvara of Madura and also granted to the same deity the villages of Ādanū, Tirukkinappūr and Ilamai-nallūr. He also covered afresh the old Indira vimāram (a vehicle to place the image on and to take it in procession) with gold. This work also states that Viśvanātha defeated Tiruvadi in battle and compelled him to pay tribute, but saved the Pāndya.¹

Mr Nelson states that Āiya Nāyaka Mudali was the minister of Viśvanātha and did much to improve the condition of the province of Madura.² He is referred to in our inscription as the Periya Nainū Mudali (1553), and as believed by Nelson, he seems to have lived also in the reigns of Krishnappa-Nāyaka I and his son Virappa. He is called Āiya Nayinā Mudali in the Tiruppari-mālai, which states that he built the mandapa for the sixty-three Śaiva saints in the Sundarēśvara temple, a mandapa for an arachchālai (alms house), set up an image of Subrahmanya under a tanni tree and presented a silver throne to the god Sundarēśvara.³ He conquered portions of Ceylon for his master, a stone bearing an inscription of his is preserved in the Colombo Museum. It is a significant fact that the Rājas of Kaṇḍi were also Nāyakas and were related to the Nāyakas of Madura.

The Vellangolli grant passes over the reign of Krishnappa-Nāyaka I without supplying any historical information. We know from the Krishnāpuram grant that Krishnappa constructed with beautifully sculptured mandapas, etc., the Vishnu temple in the village of Krishnāpuram, and endowed it with lands and provided the necessary ornaments for the deity set up by him in the temple. Nelson thinks that Krishnappa-Nāyaka must "have been a brave and politic ruler", he also states, on the authority of certain manuscripts, that Krishnappa-Nāyaka defeated the refractory pālayakāra chief Tumbichechi Nāyakan and invaded Ceylon and took Kandī. The inscriptions hitherto discovered are, however, silent about the defeat of

Tumbichechi-Nāyaka by Kṛishnappa The Tiruppani-mālai enumerates the donations of this prince to the Madura temple,¹ whereof details have already been given in Ep Ind, Vol XII, p 161

The Śrīrangam-Kōyil-ōḷugu states that Kṛishnappa Nāyakkar gave a number of valuable ornaments to the god Ranganātha and built a landing place and a mandapa on the bank of the Kāvēri, south of Śrīrangam

Kṛishnappa-Nāyaka's son was Virappa-Nāyaka The Vellangudi inscription describes his donations and services to the temple of Minākshi Sundarēśvara at Madura The acts of devotion attributed to him by the Tiruppani-mālai have already been given by me (Ep Ind,² Vol XII, p 161), and I now quote the verses in a foot-note below³ Neither the Vellangudi inscription nor the Śrīrangam-Kōyil-ōḷugu mentions any donations made by him to the temple of the god Ranganātha of Śrīrangam

The son and successor of Virappa-Nāyaka was Kumāra Kṛishnappa-Nāyaka II The Vellangudi inscription is rather profuse in its praise of the munificence of this prince. The statements made in this record are also corroborated by other documents The Tiruppani-mālai states that he built in Madura the temples of Viṣṇuśvara, Kṛishnēśvara and Ayyangāiśvara, as also the north and west mandapas in the second pīṭhāra of the temple of Minākshi⁴ The Śrīrangam-Kōyil-ōḷugu informs us that, through the influence of Narasiṃha Dēśika already mentioned, Kumāra Kṛishnappa-Nāyaka II presented the god Ranganātha with a coat set with gems, a kuṭita studded with precious stones and other ornaments worth a lakh and a half pons

Mr Nelson, on the authority of certain manuscripts, states that on the death of Kumāra Kṛishnappa I (son of Viśvanātha) his two sons, Kṛishnappa or Periya Virappa and Viśvanātha II, ruled jointly at Madura, and similarly on the death of Kṛishnappa or Periya Virappa his two sons, Lingayya or Kumāra Kṛishnappa and Viśvanātha III (or Viśvappa), ruled jointly, but that Viśvanātha III died very soon The hitherto discovered copper-plate inscriptions dealing with the Nāyakas of Madura do not appear to corroborate the statements of the manuscripts Mr Sewell, following Nelson, gives in Vol II of his Lists of Antiquities of Madras brief notice of the reigns of the Nāyakas of Madura

The Vellangudi plates mention that Kṛṣṇappa II set up a manu-stambha in the temple at Madura. It is not quite easy to find out what is meant by a manu-stambha. The Tiruppani-māla seems to throw some light on the matter, a pillar in the temple of Minākshī was plated with gold by one Mallappa. In course of time the gold plating was worn out and Kṛṣṇa Virappa (that is, Virappa, son of Kṛṣṇappa I) regilded the pillar.¹ It is perhaps this act which is attributed to the father of Kṛṣṇappa II in the Tiruppani mālai, that is alluded to as having been performed by the son.

Another fact which is not quite clear about Kṛṣṇappa II is that he conquered the kingdom of the Pañcha-Tiruvadis.² Who these five Tiruvadis were it is not possible to say in the present state of our knowledge of the history of the Tiruvadi kingdom. We may however, provisionally assume that the term Pañcha-Tiruvadi refers to the members of the various branches of the Tiruvadi line, such as the Tiruppāppār śarūpani, the Śrīraṅgī śarūpani, the Jayatunga-nādu śarūpani, etc., which were ruling simultaneously over portions of the Tiruvadi rājyam.

The following is an alphabetically arranged list of the names of places which occur in the inscription (ll 123-140), with their identifications with modern villages and towns —

fourth from him was Tāta-Pinnama To Tāta-Pinnama was born Sōmi-dēva, who took from his enemies in the course of a single day seven forts To Sōmi-dēva was born Vira-Rāghava-dēva, and to the latter, Pinnama

(V 8) The son of Pinnama, the lord of Ārayiti-nagara, was Bukka-Rāja, he consolidated the kingdom of Sāluva-Nṛsiṃha

(V 9-10) Bukka-Rāja was married to Ballāmbikā; to these was born a son named Rāma-Rāja

(V 11-14) This prince Rāma-Rāja conquered the army of Sapāda, consisting of seventy-thousand horses, and took from him the fort of Avanigiri durga,¹ driving away Kāsapp-Odeya This king, who was a great devotee of Viṣṇu, took the fort of Kāṇḍanavōli durga by the prowess of his arms, here he was poisoned by his relations, which did no harm to him He had a queen named Lakṣmībikā A son named Śrīranga-Rāja was born to them

(V 15-16) The name of the queen of Śrīranga-Rāja was Tirumalāmbikā By her he had sons Rāma-Rāja, Tirumala-Rāja and Venkatādra in the order in which they are mentioned

(V 17-18) Rāma-Rāja ruled the earth with justice, after having destroyed his enemies, who were a pest to the world He surpassed even the wishing tree of the goas in his gifts

(V 19) Venkatādra-Rāja was also distinguished in the world as a warrior

(V 20) Tirumala-Mahārāja, the middle one among the three sons of Śrīranga-Rāja, having defeated his enemies and being anointed king, protects the earth like Viṣṇu among the Trimūrtis

(V 21-26) Praises of Tirumala-Mahārāja

(V 27) This king performed frequently all the dānas mentioned in the āgamas, such as the kanaka-tulā-pūruṣa and the upadānas, in the temples at Kāñchi, Śrīranga, etc, and at the sacred tīrthas

(V 28-30) Then was born to him by Vēṅgalāmbā, Śrīranga-Rāja, who, residing at Uddagiri, conquered the forts of Kondavidu, Vinikonda-pura and other forts and, making Penugonda his capital, ruled in splendour with all insignia of royalty, such as the makara, etc By the gifts made by this king at the time of his coronation poverty was completely wiped out for good men

(V 31-35) After Śrīranga-Rāja had reached the region of Viṣṇu (i.e. died), his brother Venkatapati-dēva-Rāja, born of the same mother, ascended the throne and ruled the earth with justice Just as Rāma was crowned by Vasishtha, conquered the rākshasas and governed the world, this king was anointed by the learned Tātayāya, defeated the Yavanas (Musalmans) and ruled the earth He had four wives, named Vēṅkatāmbā, Rāghavāmbā, Pedōbamāmbā and Kṛṣṇnamāmbā Māhamanda-sāhu, the son of Malukībhārāma, being defeated repeatedly by the army of this king, used daily to return dejected from the battle-field after being deprived of his elephants, horses, arms and umbrella

(V 36) Description of Venkatapati-dēva-Rāja's reign

(V 51) The kings of the Kāmbōja, Bhōja, Kālinga, Karahāta, etc, countries used to stand at the gate of this king and praise him

(V 52) Having made, by the power of arms, the throne of Kārṇāta his own and after conquering all his enemies living in the region between Sētu and the Himādra, Venkatapati-dēva-Rāja ruled the kingdom in joy

(V 53-98) In the Śaka year 1520 (counted by indr=1, kalamba=5, nētra=2 and vyōma=0), which corresponded to the (cyclic) year Vilambin, on the dvādaśī tithi of the bright half of the month Śrāvana, in the holy presence of the god Śrī-Venkatēśa, the villages of Vellangolli, Kariyottānkuruchi, Uppu-vānyam-puttūr and Mēnāmaṅgala in the Perumbatt-ulkade, being clubbed together under the name of Virabhūpa-samudra, were granted, together with all the eight kinds of enjoyments, to a number of learned Brāhmanas of various śākhās, names, gōtras and sūtras, with privileges of free disposal, mortgage and sale, at the request of Krishnabhūpa, whose genealogy is given as follows :—

In the Kāśyapa gōtra was born Nāga-Prithvipati (=Nāgama-Nāyaka). To him was born king Viśvanātha, who, having conquered in battle the Tiruvadi, the great Pāṇḍya, the Vānāda-rāya and other kings, and having annexed their territories, became the master of the kingdom of Madhurā. To him was born the prince Krishna who acquired the 'overlordship of the south' (Dakṣiṇa-Nāyakaṭram), Krishna's wife was Lakshmyambikā. To these was born Vira-Bhūpati. He built in front of the shrine of Saundara-Nāyaka¹ a maṇḍapa having pillars of rare workmanship, he also presented the goddess Minākṣī² with a kaṭacha (body cover) made of gold and set with rare gems. He made the sixteen mahādānas, beginning with hēma-śva. His queen was Tirumalāmbikā. Their son was Krishna-Mahipati. He gave to the god Ranga-pati³ a kavacha studded with precious stones, a similarly bejewelled ushnīsha, yellow silk garments, necklaces, līṛita (crown), kundalas (ear-rings), kaṭi sūtra (waist zones), and presented him further with villages and gardens, and made arrangements for the celebration of rath-ōtsavas (car-festivals) and the daily services. He set up a number of lights in the presence of the god Saundara-Nāyaka, made arrangements for bathing the image of the god in milk and for the car-festival, gave ornaments (?), and set up a large maṇi-stambha. He performed the ceremony of weighing himself against gold and the mahādānas of hēmagarbha, śaṇ-dhēnu, [sapt] āmbudhī and kalpa-sākhin. His praises, he founded agrahārās for Brāhmanas and protected them, he paid to Brāhmanas enough money to enable them thereby to redeem their lands situated in the countries of other kings, which were mortgaged for the purposes of paying taxes, the Pāṇḍya, the Chēra and the Chōla kings served him as his māgadhas. He possessed the viruddās 'dakṣiṇa-samudr-ēśa' and 'the taker of the kingdoms of the Pañcha-Tiruvadis'.⁴

The villages granted were situated in the Tiruvadi-dēsa, in the Mulli-nādu sub-division of Añjarakkare, and they belonged to the eastern portion of Kallanaikkurichi. The boundaries were —

- on the south-east, the tank called Kailāsanātha tatāka on the boundary of Virava-nallūr ;
- on the north, the boundary stone of Attala-nallūr,
- on the east, Kottālakurichi, the channel of the village of Kottālakurichi, the high-road called Śankara-mahāpatha on the boundary of Aricha-nallūr, and the way leading to Virava-nallūr,
- on the south, the boundary stone of Kurungudi, the watercourse of that village called Pādaryōda, the Kannadiyankāl-ārācchi (channel), the boundary stone of Kallanekurichi, the eastern ridge of the sixth kannāru (from the Tāmraparnī evidently) and boundary stone of the seventh kannāru flowing into Tadichēri; and
- on the west, the river Tāmraparnī, flowing northwards, and the channel of Ponnadikulyā, of the village of Tadchēr. The stone on the boundary of the eighth kannāru of this Tadchēr village, the mound Iluppayadi-ttadar, and the garden called Kudireyōdi.

No 24 —HULGUR INSCRIPTION OF THE REIGN OF VIKRAMADITYA VI . SAKA 999

By LIONEL D BARNETT

Hulgūr, anciently named Hullungūr, is a village in the Bankāpūr Division of Dhārwar District, and is situate in lat 15° 5' and long 75° 19½', some eight miles to the north-east from Shiggaon. It contains several inscriptions, among them is the present record, which was found on a stone standing against, or fixed in, the wall on the south side of the local temple of Siddha-linga. An ink-impression of it was made for the late Dr Fleet, who bequeathed it with others to the British Museum. From it I now edit the text. The stone is surmounted by a rounded top, on which are sculptures. In the centre is a linga, and to the proper right of this are a cow and a calf, there were some other figures also, but they are now worn away. Below this is an inscribed area 2 ft 7½ in high and 1 ft 4 in wide. The character is Kanarese, of a somewhat crabbed and angular type of the period, the letters are from $\frac{3}{4}$ in to $\frac{1}{2}$ in high. The language is Old Kanarese, except for three formal Sanskrit verses. The archaic l is replaced by r in nār-ggarunda (l 14) and parttiya (l 21 see Kittel, s v palṭi), elsewhere it has become l . Initial p is retained. The upadhmānīya appears in bhāginah=p° (l 31). The words talubōgi (l 17), ekkarattige (l 19), partti (l 21, the later patti, hatti), maluve (l 21), Koylāl (l 22), and putṭavālu (l 25) are of some lexical interest.

The record refers itself in ll 2-6 to the reign of Tribhuvanamalla [Vikramāditya VI], and then in ll 6-11 introduces as regent of the Belvala Three-hundred and Puligere Three-hundred the prince Trailōkyamalla Nolamba-Pallava Permādi Jayasingha, of the Pallava lineage, i.e. Vikramāditya's younger brother Jayasimha III,⁷ on whom see Dyn Kanar Distr, p 453. We are further informed in ll 11-14 that the nāl-gavunda was the Mahāsāmantā Jayakēsiyarasa, of the Manaleyara lineage, whose device was a lion and who bore the title "lord of Puligere best of cities". This family appears also above, Vol VI, p 52, and Ann Report Mysore Arch Dept, 1908-9, p 16. Then follow, after the date, the specifications of endowments granted by some fiscal officers and others to a local Śaiva temple, under the trusteeship of Īśānasīngi Jiyar (ll 14 ff).

The date is given on ll 14-16 as Śaka 999 expired, the cyclic year Pingala, Āshādha śu 2, Sunday, a samkrānti. This is quite regular. The tithi mentioned corresponded to Sunday, 25 June, A D 1077, it was current at sunrise of that day, and ended about 3 h 37 m after mean sunrise (for Ujjain). On the same day, about 13 h 16 m after mean sunrise, occurred the Karka-samkrānti, the following Monday being reckoned as the first day of Karka.

The only places mentioned are the two Three-hundreds of Belvala and Puligere (l 9) and the town of Puligere (l 12), on which see above, Vol XIII, pp 178, 328.

NO 25 —HULGUR INSCRIPTION OF THE REIGNS OF JAYASIMHA II (SAKA 960) AND THE YADAVA KANHARA

By LIONEL D BARNETT

The site of Hulgūr has been discussed by me above, p 329, in treating of the inscription of Śaka 999 From the second part of the present record, l 32, we learn further that it was a *Banañju-vattana*⁵ or market-town of the Banañjus or Vira-Valañjīyas, an important corporation of traders whose centre was at Aiyāvole (the modern Aihole), the seat of their Five-hundred Svāmis, and whose organisation seems to have spread over the greater part of Southern India They claimed to have originally come from Ahichchhatra, and some of their records are couched in a tone of regal pomposity⁶ The present inscription was found at the temple of Kalamēśvara in Hulgūr, and an ink-impression, from which the text is now edited, was prepared for the late Dr Fleet and bequeathed by him with others to the British

⁴ See Ind Ant, Vol 30, pp 107, 267, Ep Carn X 1 (Kolar), Mb 172 f, 259, CB 9, Bg 71, Ct 1, 14, Kāṣanvār Glossary, p 92

⁶ On these see Mysore Inscr, pp 73, 120, 123, Epigr Carn, VII 1, Sk 94, 118-19, Madras Epigr. Report, 1905 06, pp 11, 17, 1912-13, pp 98-102, 1914-15, p. 102, above, Vol XIII, pp 21, 26.

Museum. The stone is broken at the top, on the proper right, so that a considerable part of the text of ll. 1-7 is lost, otherwise it is in fairly good condition. Of the inscribed area the maximum height is 2 ft 9½ in, its width being 2 ft 4½ in. It contains two distinct records. The first of these, dated Śaka 960, and covering ll. 1-26, is in a fair sloping Kanarese script of the period, with letters varying from 7⁄8 in to 1½ in. The cursive m (above, Vol XII, p 335) occurs here only once, in mūnūrum, l. 7, the other cursives are not found. The second record, comprised in ll. 27-35, belongs to A.D. 1255, and is in the somewhat crabbed upright rounded Kanarese hand typical of that period, it shews a free use of all the cursives, m appearing in that form 10 times, y 4 times, and v 9 times, and it marks the aspiration in dh and ph by writing d and p with a curl underneath them very like a subscript t—The language of the first record, which (so far as it is preserved) is entirely in prose, is Old Kanarese. It changes l to r in ērpattam (l. 15). The second record contains four introductory verses and one final verse in Sanskrit, the rest is in Kanarese prose, of the mediæval dialect. We may note the spelling yū for ā (l. 31), initial h for p (hammruvaru, l. 32), mixture of l and n (Vāralāsiyalu, l. 33, beside Vāranāsiyalu, l. 34), and l from original l (alī, ll. 34, 35). The word dana-bala (l. 33) is of some lexical interest, it seems to mean literally "cattle-section" (of land cf. above, Vol XIII, p 179 and n).

The first record, so far as it is preserved, begins with the statement that at the time of the donation the Three-hundreds of Belvala and Purigere² were under the administration of the General Vāvanarasa, an officer of Jagadēkamalla (Jayasimha II), who among many other titles is described as "a comet (portending woe) to the Konkan" (ll. 1-8). Then we are told that there was a nāl-gāvunda or county-sheriff of the Purigere Three-hundred, the Mahāsāmanta Irivabedanga Mārasinga-dēva,¹ of the Minala or Manalēra family,² who among his many other titles bore that of "lord of Purigere best of cities" (ll. 8-12). Then is introduced, in anacoluthic style, a certain Nidugundara Būta Gāvunda (ll. 12-13), and after this a somewhat obscure episode of previous history is narrated (ll. 13-16), to the effect that after king Satyaśraya had gone away after taking possession of the Bennegere Seventy³ there was a lack of roast meal for the festival shows of Nidugunda (no doubt in consequence of the requisitions made by the royal army), and accordingly the above-mentioned Mārasinga-dēva and his mother supplied the need. It seems that this event took place when Mārasinga-dēva was serving as nāl-gāvunda of Purigere, some years previous to the present record. Reverting now to contemporary history, our record details its present business (ll. 16-26), stating that the nāl-gāvunda of the Purigere Three-hundred is now Jayakēsi, also of the Manalēra family, entitled "lord of Purigere best of cities" and bearing the device of a lion, and that in the Śaka year 960 the above-mentioned Būta Gāvunda obtained from him some land and granted it to a temple.

The second record opens with four Sanskrit verses (ll. 27-29), of which nos. 1 and 2 are devotional and nos. 3 and 4 complimentary addresses to the protagonist, the High Minister Tippa or Tipparasa. The following prose (ll. 29-33) reports a donation by Tipparasa and (his wife?) Gona-mādēvi in the 9th year of the reign of the Yādava Kanhara.⁴ Concluding formulæ of the usual type follow.

The date of the first record is specified on ll 24-25 as Śaka 960, Bahudhānya, the uttarāyana-samkrānti, Sunday, the day of new-moon. This is not quite regular. The Makara-samkrānti for the given year occurred on Sunday, 24 December, A.D. 1038, at 4 h 28 m. after mean sunrise. But that day, according to the Sūrya-siddhānta, corresponded to the tithi Pausa kṛṣṇa 10, which ended about 2 h 7 m. after mean sunrise, and not to the full-moon. Practically the same result is obtained if we reckon by the Ārya-siddhānta, by the former the tithi-index at mean sunrise was 8301, by the latter 8295, so that the difference is negligible¹.

The date of the second record is given on ll 30-31 as the 9th year of the reign of the Yādava Kanhara (Kanhara), Ānanda, the full-moon of Phālguna, Monday, the yōga Vyatipāta, a samkrānti. This is fairly regular. The tithi corresponded to Monday, 22 February, A.D. 1255, ending about 21 h 54 m. after mean sunrise. The Mina-samkrānti, according to the Ārya-siddhānta, took place 7 h 50 m. after mean sunrise on the following day, viz. Tuesday, 23 February, only about 10 hours after the moment of full-moon².

The geographical names that occur are the Konkan (l. 5), the Belvala Three-hundred (l. 6), the Purigere Three-hundred (ll 6, 11 f, 23 f), Purigere city (ll 9, 17), the Bennegere Seventy (l. 15), Nidugunda (l. 15 f), Hulungūr (l. 32), and Benares (l. 33 f). Purigere town is the modern Lakshmēshwar (see above, Vol. XIII, p. 179, XIV, p. 188). Bennegere seems to be Bengeri ("Bhingerree" of the Indian Atlas sheet 41 of 1852), situate in lat 15° 21½' and long 75° 12½', about 1½ miles north of New Hubli. Nidugunda is perhaps Nidgundi, in lat 14° 56½' and long 75° 14½', nearly 4 miles S S W. from Shiggaon. Hulungūr is the modern Hulgūr.

No. 26 —TILVALLI INSCRIPTION OF THE REIGN OF SOMESVARA I

By LIONEL D BARNETT

Tilvallī is a village in the Kōd tāluka of Dhārwar district, situated 'in about lat 14° 37½' and long 75° 17'. The name is spelt in the Indian Atlas sheet 42 as "Teelowly," and in the Bombay Survey sheet 310 as "Tilvallī." The present record was transcribed for the Elliot Collection, Vol I, fol 75a of the Royal Asiatic Society's copy. The copyist there states that it was found in the temple of Sankōj Basappa in front of the Turchi Math, but a note which I have found among the papers of the late Dr Fleet reports that in his time it was on a slab standing in the temple of Virabhadra near the Charchi Math. An ink-impression of it was made for Dr Fleet, and bequeathed by him to the British Museum. The slab is a mere fragment besides a strip along the left-hand side, the whole of the latter part is missing. What remains is 2 ft 5½ in broad, and 2 ft 3 in high. It is surmounted by some sculptures, namely, a linga on stand in the centre, with officiant priest by the side, to the proper right

of this, a cow with calf, to the left of it, a bull, above it, the sun, to the proper left, the moon —The character is fair Kanārese of the period, angular and slanting, with letters varying in height from $\frac{3}{4}$ in to $\frac{7}{8}$ in. The cursive m (above, Vol XII, p 335) occurs in rājyam (l 5), -samāne (l 6), and śrīma[t*]- (l 7) —The language is Old Kanārese. The l is preserved, scil in negald-īlāda (l 19). The l is doubled before y in kallyān- (l 6), cf Pāṇini, VIII, iv 47, and Siddhānta-kaumudī, 48, and the upadhmāntiya appears in -āmtahpura- (l 7). We may note the instrument -śrīye in ll 1-2, on which cf above, Vol XIV, p 127, n 9. The words kēnikāra and atthāna (l 12) are of some lexical interest. The first of these occurs in an inscription of Kōlūr, in the phrase vadda-rāvulada kēnikāra, so it denotes some fiscal officer, and atthāna may be from Skt āsthāna.

The record opens (ll 1-2) with a kanda verse which may be thus rendered —“By Fortune's blessed benediction (is won) the realm of bliss of glory (and) of bliss of victory, in the primal summit by Fortune's blessed benediction may Abhava [Śiva], (who is) the realm of bliss of glory (and) of bliss of victory, be won.” Then, after an ungrammatical salutation to Śiva (l 2), it refers itself to the reign of Trailōkyamalla [Sōmēśvara I] (ll 3-6), and announces that at the time his senior queen Mailala-dēvi was administering the Banavāsī Twelve-thousand (ll 6-9)¹. Next it proceeds to give the names and titles of certain high fiscal officers who apparently made an endowment for the cult of Śiva (ll 9 ff), and breaks off before giving the details of their arrangements. These officers are the high minister and vadda-rāvulada pergade Sōvanāthayya, by whose instructions the endowment was made, Nāgavarmayya, Śivanāgayya, and Singayya, the presidents of the kēnikāras of the atthān-āntaras (Privy Courts?) of ppatūr and Pānungal, and the high minister and perjūnkada pergade Chattamayya or Chatta.

The date is not certain. It depends upon the authority of Elliot's copyist, who read a few fragmentary words after the portion attested by the ink-impression, among them the word 975neya (see below). If we accept this statement, we must assign the record to Śaka 975; this year, if taken as current, corresponded to A D 1052-53, and, if lapsed, to A D 1053-54.

B. L. A. CAMMIADE, B. A., B. L., BAR-AT-LAW, AND THE LATE T. A. GOPINATHA RAO, M. A.

The copper-plate, the inscription on which is edited below, was discovered years ago by one of us at Tirunelli, and from the impressions then taken we edit the record below

The copper-plate measures $8\frac{1}{4}$ " by $2\frac{1}{2}$ ", is engraved on both sides, and contains a complete document. Very near the left margin of the plate is a ring-hole, but, when the plate came to us for examination, there was no ring strung to it. The preservation of the inscription is good. The alphabet employed in the record is Vaṭṭeluttu of about the tenth or eleventh century A.D. A few Sanskrit words and letters which occur in the record are written in the Grantha characters, e.g. Svas'ī Śrī occurring in l. 1, sapta in pañchamāsapta in l. 13, sa in Vāsudēva in l. 15, Śrī and śhna in Śrīnāishṇava in l. 19, and gō-prāhmanān'ci svasti? in l. 25. At the end of the inscription occurs ōm namō Nārāyaṇāya namaḥ written in the Nāgarī alphabet of the type employed in the Mahābālipuram and the Conjeeveram inscriptions.

the early Pallava kings¹ The language of the record is Tamil. The words pandiradi (ll 4 and 10), ari (l 11), paraiññu (l 19 f), varichchu (l 20), vaippichchu (l 21), Kuññi^o (ll 21 and 26), mannala (l 22), etc may be cited as instances of Malayalam words and therefore the language of the document might be called Malayalam, but against this contention it may be stated that these words are pure Tamil, with here and there a slight change in the pronunciation, an alteration which is also common to the Tamil language and is, therefore, no special feature of Malayalam. It is from about the period of this record that we begin to meet with the slight changes in the Tamil language which go to make its ancient dialect pass for the supposed separate language, viz. Malayalam. For example, the retention of the words which have become obsolete in the spoken Tamil language, the abolition of the gender suffixes at a comparatively recent period and a few similar peculiarities produce an impression of difference between the two languages, Tamil and Malayalam. It is, however, easy to establish the identity of the two languages in so far as the vocabulary and the grammar are concerned, a rough and ready proof of their identity is offered by the fact that a man from the Tamil country is able to make himself understood by the Malayali and vice versa, which is however not possible between the Tamil and the Telugu and the Malayali and the Telugu. One peculiarity of the present document worth noticing is that it omits in many cases the final m in the conjunctive particle um, e.g. in ūru (l 7), Kuññiyu (l 23 f), Ayyanu (l 23), etc. The final m in such words as muttiklum (l 20) is also omitted.

The most important feature of this inscription of king Bhāskara Ravivarman is the mention of a complete set of astronomical details necessary for the determination of the age of the king. The grant recorded in the document was made in the sixth year opposite to the thirty-fifth, which was opposite the second year, that is, the forty-third year of the reign of the king. In this year, at the time when the grant was made, Jupiter stood in the Tulā-rāśi, the sun in the Mīna-rāśi, the date of the solar month being the eighth expired, the day a Wednesday and the nakshatra Uttāra-Phalgunī. Regarding this date the Hon Dewan Bahadur L. D. Swamikannu Pillai writes as follows —

"I took the period from A.D. 949 to 1329 (380 years) and found only one year in which the 9th Mīna was a Wednesday, when Jupiter was in Tulā and the moon in Uttāra-Phalgunī (ettu-senra is, I believe, 9th and not the 8th)

"The year in question is A.D. 1020-21, when 9th Mīna was Wednesday, 1st March 1021 A.D., on which day Jupiter was in Tulā (longitude about 186°=Tulā), and the moon was in nakshatra Uttāra-Phalgunī, whose ending moment was 57½ ghatikās after mean-sunrise

"In A.D. 1115-16, the next most likely year, the 8th Mīna was Monday, 29th February A.D. 1116, and the 9th Mīna was Tuesday, 1st March A.D. 1116. I do not find any other year in the period of four centuries examined (A.D. 950 to 1350) when the 8th or 9th Mīna was a Wednesday and when Jupiter stood in the Tulā-rāśi and the moon in the nakshatra Uttāra-Phalgunī

"For the present we may rest satisfied that your Tirunelli grant was dated on Wednesday, 1st March A.D. 1021, and that Bhāskara Ravivarman who made a grant to the Jew, Rabbi Joseph (Cochin Plates, Ind. Ant., Vol. XX), began to reign somewhere about A.D. 984

"Dates when, Jupiter being in the Tulā-rāśi, the moon was in Uttara-Phalgunī and the sun in the Mīna-rāśi and the day of the month 8th or 9th of Mīna, a Wednesday, could occur only once in 95 years, e.g. A D 1020-21, 1115-16, 1210-11 and 1305 06, but only A D 1020-21 satisfies all the conditions"

In the collection of Travancore inscriptions there are some belonging to the reign of Bhāskara Ravivarman which contain more or less astronomical details which enable us now to verify the date deduced from the Tirunelli plate under notice. The date portions of these are extracted below in chronological order, together with the notes kindly supplied to us by Mr Swamikannu Pillai.

I " Kō-pākkaran-Iravarmmar Tiruvadikku-chchellānīṇṇa āṛām-āndaikk-ediṛ-ēlām-āndu Idabattul Viyāḷan-ṇiṇṇa Tulā-ṇāyirru . . . " 'In the seventh year which was current and which was opposite to the sixth (of the reign) of the king Pākkaran-Iravarmmar Tiruvadī, when Jupiter stood in the Rīshabha-rāśi and the sun in the Tulā-rāśi'

"No 89 of 1086 M E of the Travancore Collection 13th year Jupiter in Rīshabha and Tulā month. Of the years A D 990, 991 and 992, which correspond to the 13th, 14th and 15th years in this series, only A D 992, Tulā month, answers the description 'Jupiter in Rīshabha', and I suspect that 'irandām-āndaikk-ediṛ', which is present in all the other Bhāskara Ravivarman dates, has been left out in this case and that the regnal year is really the 15th.'—L D S

II " . . . Kō-Pākkaran-Iravarmma Tiruvadikku-chchellānīṇṇa yāṇṇu irandām-āndaikk-ediṛ-irubatt-ōṛām-āndu Makarattil viyāḷan-ṇiṇṇa Mīrichchigā ṇāyirru ēlu senṇa nāl . . . "

"In the twenty-first year (current) opposite the second (of the reign) of the king Pākkaran-Iravarmma Tiruvadī, when Jupiter stood in Makara (rāśi), on the seventh day (expired) of the (solar) month of Mīrichchigam (Vriśchika) "

"No 102 of 1084 (of the Travancore collection) 23rd year Jupiter in Makara, Vriśchika month—8th day (ēlu senṇa) A D 1007 (Oct-Nov)

"NB—Had the week-day or the nakshatra been given, the year could have been verified with certainty"—L D S

III "Kō-nōy-inmaikondān Kō-chchiri Pākkaran-Iravarma Tiruvadikku-chchellānīṇṇa yāṇṇu irandām-āndaikk-ediṛ muppattārām[ā]ndu¹ . . . Idabattil viyāḷan-ṇiṇṇa rav-āṇṇu Idabankalṇi²"

"In the thirty-sixth¹ year (current) opposite the second of (the reign of) the king Pākkaran-Iravarma, who possessed the quality of diseaselessness, when Jupiter stood in Idaba (rīshabha-rāśi) and at the end of the (solar month) Idabam² (rīshabha)

"No 84 of 1086 (of the Travancore collection) 38th year Jupiter in Rīshabha, Rīshabha month April-May

"NB—It follows from the date of the Tirunelli inscription under notice and II given above that the reign must have commenced in or before October and after April in other words that the regnal years changed numbers in this interval, so that, if April 1016 was at the end of the 38th year and March 1021 was at the end of the 43rd year, October 1021 may have been in the beginning of the 44th year, and, deducting 21 from either side, we have October 1000 A D beginning of the 23rd year"

From the various dates noticed above it is now quite certain that the reign of Bhāskara Ravivarmān began, as already stated, some time after October A. D. 984.

The inscription records that Kuñjikkutta-varman alias Adigal Vira-Kurumburaiyār Tiruvadi, who was governing the Mūtta-kūru of the Kurumburai nādu, granted a piece of land known as Kilkāttiy-pōlachchērikkāl (i.e. the chērikkāl, or mountainous tract, Pōlachchēriykkāl of Kilkādu), for a rice-offering at the pandiradi time of the day and for a perpetual lamp to be burnt before the god of the temple at Tirunelli. This charity was placed under the management of the members of the family of the donor, the yōgins (who were perhaps residing in or near the temple) and the Śrīvaishnavas, the community or assembly known as the 'seven hundred' of the Mūtta-kūru, the villagers and the Vellālas who are the major land-lords of the village—all these, without entertaining among themselves any difference of opinion on the matter of this charity, were obliged to arrange for the supply of the rice for the offering and for the burning of the perpetual lamp. Kuñjikkutta-varman also gave to the temple a silver pot, a silver parāgar, and a silver sword, and a pearl neck-lace to the god of the temple at Tirunelli.

There are a few words occurring in the document which are still current in the Malayālam language and which require a few words of explanation. The word pandiradi is a technical term commonly employed for the service which is conducted at a time when the sun stands at such a height in the sky as to cast the shadow of a man which measures twelve feet reckoned by his own foot. Assuming the height of a man to be about seven feet measured by his own foot,¹ the time when the shadow measures twelve feet would be about eight o'clock in the morning. Mūtta kūru occurring in ll 5 and 26 may mean either the portion of the country ruled over by the elder branch of the family to which Kuñjikkutta-varman belonged or the larger of the two sections into which the Kurumburai nādu was divided and one of which was governed by the members of the family to which the donor belonged, while the other was governed by some other person. Again 'elunūrruvar', occurring in l 7, is employed here evidently to denote a community consisting of seven hundred members, this term may be compared with advantage with the mūvāyiravar of Tiruchchengunūr, occurring in the Nāḷayira-prabandham,² the *nārpatt ennāyiravar*³ of Kanyakūmār, the munūrruvar of Nanṇūlai nādu⁴ occurring in some of the inscriptions of Tiruvānandūr, etc. It will become patent from the references given above that the phrase mūtta-kūru elunūrruvar cannot mean the seven hundred members of the elder branch of the family governing the Kurumburai nādu, but that it refers to a community of men living in the Mūtta-kūru of the said nādu. Idavagai is another word employed in a particular sense in Malayālam and means the property belonging to an important personage or a very rich landlord, for example, we hear of the Pūññāyru idavaga, the estate belonging to the Pūññāyru Rāja, or Chief, in Travancore. Nammālvār, the great Vaishnava saint, also uses this term in the same sense.⁵ Nīrāṭṭu-palli is used to mean the bathing of the image of the god with water or the place where such a bath takes place¹ The words paḍi-pāda-mūlattār, prakṛitīyār, adigāri, etc occur in several other documents and have been explained by those who have edited those inscriptions

The names of places that occur in the record are Tirunelli, Kurumburāi nādu and Kikkāttiy-pPōlachchērikkāl Of these, the first two are the names of a town and of a district respectively in the Wydad and the third is the name of a plot of land, which is not possible to be identified

No 28 —SRIRANGAM PLATES OF MALLIKARJUNA SAKA-SAMVAT 1384

BY THE LATE T A GOPINATHA RAO, M A, TRIVANDRUM

The inscription edited below is engraved upon a set of three copper-plates (size 9½ in high, 6½ in broad), of which the first and the last have writing on one side only, namely the

¹ The word agattu used with pandiradī is the tadbhava form in Tamil of the Sanskrit aḥar or ahah, a day. The phrase agattu pandiradī literally means 'when the day was (at) twelve feet'. The word agattu is found also in the compound attāḷam, which is a corruption of agattāḷam=agattu + tāḷa, 'when the day was down,' that is after sunset. The Malayāḷam language has created the word muttāḷam, meaning the early morning, in opposition to attāḷam, which is as meaningless as the introduction of an l in the English word could, which is formed in imitation of the word should. [Agattu in agattu-pandiradī cannot be considered to be a tadbhava of the Sanskrit word aḥar agattu means "within or before". The full expression of which "agattu-pandiradī" is a shortened form is "uchchē agattu pandiradī", which means "twelve feet (time) before (the sun gets to) zenith" and this term is opposed to "uchchē tiruṇṇu pandiradī", meaning "twelve feet (time) after zenith". A given shadow length will occur twice daily, once before the sun reaches the zenith and once after it. Thus, agattu pandiradī = 8 A.M. and its antonym tiruṇṇu pandiradī = 3 47 P.M. I may note that "agattu-irubattariyadī" and "uchchē tiruṇṇu irubattariyadī" occur in an inscription of Mūḷikkalam in the Travancore State —K V S]

² [Munnānāḷiyāl arunāḷi means "six nālīs (as measured by) the munṇānāḷi" and not "three times four nālīs", as has been rendered. Munnānāḷi might, however, mean "three times four nālīs", and in this case "munṇānāḷiyāl arunāḷi" would be equivalent to seventy-two nālīs —K V S]

³ [This must be altered into 'Tirunārāyanan' of Tirunelli" —K V S]

second side of the first and the first side of the third, or last, plate, and the plates are numbered 1, 2, and 3 on their written sides, the number 2 being marked on the first side of the second plate. The writing is very well preserved. The inscription is in Nandi-nāgarī characters, and the language is partly Sanskrit and partly Kannada, the Kannada portion occupies only a few lines at the end, that is, ll 68-73. The chief peculiarity of this document is that the varga is omitted in a very large number of instances where it is required and, as in all Vijayanagara grants, the anusūtra serves as a substitute for the varga-pāñchamas.

The grant was made by Mallikārjuna, who is also called Immadi Dēva-Rāya and Immadi Praudha-bhūpati¹ in the record. His genealogy is given as follows —

Mallikārjuna alias Immadi Dēva-Rāya

In the Śaka year 1384, expressed by bhū=1, guna=3, ashṭa=8 and vēda=4, which corresponded to the cyclic year Chitrabhānu, on the full moon tithi of the bright half of the month Vaiśākha, at the sacred moment of a vyatipāta, the king Mallikārjuna alias Immadi Dēva-Rāya or Immadi Praudha-bhūpati made the grant to the god Śrī-Ranganātha of the village of Uttamachēri-kilyūr, in the presence of the god Chandramaali — the object of the grant being that by its virtue it should secure for the king victory, long life and success in the conquest of the four quarters. It was made at the request of Chammatī Sōmaya, who bore the birudus Antembara-ganda and Manne-gajapati. From the income of the village the following items of expenditure had to be met for each parivāna daily, viz — rice, 10 mānālas, ghee, 3 mānālas, plantain fruits, 10, coconuts, 2, green gram, $\frac{1}{2}$ ludupa, and fruits and vegetables.

At the above rate six (complete) dishes of food should be daily offered to the god together with a hundred and twenty apūpa cakes. A water-shed should be maintained perpetually in front of the temple. Again, areca nuts, 50, betel leaves, 100 and chinnāni, ghanasāra (pachchai-karpūram), 10 panas in weight, lastūri (musk), 2 panas in weight, sandal, 6 ṭālas, costing 5 panas, kuntuma (-lēśara=saffron) and camphor (= pachchai-karpūram) 5 ṭālas in value, and hima-jalam (Tamil, Pani-nīr=rose-water) with lastūri (mixed in it) costing 3 panas, should be used for daily offerings to the god Ranganātha. Besides these arrangements were made for three grand feedings, one in the month of Phālguna and the other two in Dhanuṣ — the following articles were to be used on those occasions — rice 5 ṭāras, green gram) 1 drōṇa, ghee, 1 ādhalā; and fruits and vegetables.

Again, the king ordered that sixty Vaiṣṇavas should be fed daily in the Rāmānuja-kūṭa, and the amount required for this item of expenditure was also to be derived from the village granted. The village Uttamachēri-kilyūr belonged, it is stated to the Chirichitām-palli (a very corrupt form of Tiruchchirāppalli) rājya.

The last plate contains the statement that the deed was engraved by Vīraṇa¹ the son of Muddan-āchārya, for whom one share was allotted, at the end are the usual admonitory and imprecatory verses and the sign-manual, Śrī-Virūpākṣha, of the king

The articles kastūrī, kunkuma, pachchai-karpūram and sandal form to this day very important objects in the toilet of the image of Ranganātha. The paste of kastūrī is applied as a tilaka, or forehead-mark, every day to the image, and pachchai-karpūram, kunkuma and sandal are applied to the body. The word hama-jala, or rose water, is the literal translation of the Tamil word pan-nīr (which is the same as the vulgar pannēr), this article does not appear to be employed in the temple of Ranganātha at the present time. The term arasara employed in the document needs a few words of explanation, in every temple there are three to six different times, beginning from the early morning and ending at midnight, during which pūjās are performed and offerings made, the pūjās are of different degrees of elaborateness, and the offerings are also of various kinds of preparations, such as rice, sugared rice, cakes, etc. Each of these different times of pūjā and offerings is called an arasara in the Śrīrangam temple and, in imitation thereof, in other Vaiṣṇava temples also. I have not heard the term employed in Śiva temples. The king Mallikārjuna had made by this grant arrangements for the performance of one such pūjā every day with the offerings evidently of pongal (a kind of cooked rice mixed with green gram, salt, ghee, cumin seeds and pepper) and dōśais (a kind of cake made of rice and black gram ground together with water, salt and cumin seeds) or appam (a sweet cake) and with vegetable curries. Rāmānuja-kūta is the name of buildings set apart for the accommodation and boarding of Śrīvaiṣṇavas, and any Vaiṣṇava town which lays claim to importance will generally have a Rāmānuja-kūta. The inscription mentions the names of different measures, such as khārī, drōṇa, ādhaka or āth(?)aka prasuti and ludupa, which are measures of cubic contents, pana and pala are measures of weight. In the Trichinopoly District oil and ghee are measured in terms of the standard called ādam even to this day.

The ājñapti in this instance is Chammattī Sōmāya, of whom no particulars are given in the inscription, nor am I able to find any from other sources. He may have been an official administering the portion of the country surrounding Trichinopoly, there is a village called Sōmāśampittu five miles to the west of Trichinopoly, which may possibly have been named after Chammattī Sōmāya.

The following names of places occur in the inscription —Chirichitāmpalli, Uttamachēri-Kiliyūr and Śrīrangam, of these Chirichitāmpalli is a corrupt form of Tiruchchirāpalli, whose modern vulgar form is Trichinopoly, it is the head-quarters of the district of the same name in the Madras Presidency. Śrīrangam is three miles north of Trichinopoly and contains the famous temple of Ranganātha, which attracts daily hundreds of pilgrims from all parts of India. It is the centre of Śrīvaiṣṇavism and was the head-quarters of the great Śrīvaiṣṇava āchāryas, beginning from Yāmuna-ārya, down to Manavāla-māmuni and others. Uttamachēri is a village situated in the island of Śrīrangam and is at a distance of 8 miles due east of Śrīrangam.

nadan karattâr parı pporpurav inattı nökku malai mada kkalırrıy seyya malar adı sennı vaıppâm

Vv 3 4 In the race of Yadu there was a good king named Sangama. He enabled the goddess of prosperity (Lakshmi) of the Karnāta kingdom to wear the ear-ornament (tātanku) permanently (i.e. did not allow her to remain without a lord reigning over it) ¹

V 5 To this king was born the famous Bukka-Rāya, who destroyed his enemies with his sword

V 6 King Harihara was born to Bukka-Rāya, he made other kings bow down to his mandates

V 7 Dēva-Rāya [I], who possessed a pair of arms which crushed the hostile kings, [was born to Harihara

V 8 From him came Vijaya-Rāya, the abode of learning

V 9 Dēva-Rāya [II], who appeared to be a copy of the King of Gods (Indra), was born to Vijaya-Rāya

Vv 10-11 He was not only as skilled in the use of the bow as Arjuna himself, but also possessed wealth to be counted by lakhs. His further praise

V 12 To Dēva-Rāya was born Mallikārjuna, who outshone his father in prowess, etc and who was praised also as Immadi Dēva-Rāya

Vv 13-15 His praises

Vv 16-37 This king, Immadi Prandha-Bhūpati, the lover of charitable deeds, having taken his bath in the holy waters brought for that purpose, and wearing two silk cloths, garland, white akshatas, having come to the dharma-sthāna (place where charities are given) with a band of Brāhmanas of good character, in the year 1384 of the Śalivāhana Śaka (era), which corresponded with the cyclic year Chetrahānu, on the Paurṇamāsī tithi of the month Vaiśākha, on the auspicious occasion of a Vyatiṭpāta, made a gift of the village of Uttamachēri-Kilyūru or Uttamachēri-Kilyūru in the Chirichitāmpalli (Tiruchchirāppalli) rājya or chāvadi, with all the eight kinds of enjoyment such as nadhi, malshēpa, etc, at the request of Chammata Sōmaya, in the presence of the god Chandramauli, for the offerings, etc of the god Ranganātha of Śrīrangam, to ensure himself (thereby) victory (over his enemies), protection (from their violence) and for long life

Half of the income from the village was required to be used for the avasara, etc, of the god Ranganātha, and the other half was meant for feeding sixty Vaishnavas

Ll 37 ff An offering of six parivānas, together with a hundred and twenty apūpa cakes, in a separate parivāna was to be offered daily (to the god Ranganātha) The scale of offerings fixed for each parivāna is —rice, 10 mānakas,² ghee, 3 mānakas, plantain fruits, 10 (in number), coconuts, 2 (in number), green gram, $\frac{1}{2}$ ludupa, along with fruits and vegetables

The tāmbūla consisted of —50 areca nuts, 100 betel leaves, chunām, ghanasāra (pachchārikarpūram) of 10 panas, and 2 panas of kastūrī (musk) The sandal must consist of 6 palas of sandal, costing 5 panas, with 5 panas in value of hunkuma (-lēśara) and ghanasāra, kastūrī (musk) of 3 panas, and of 3 panas of huma-jala (pannir)

All these are to be offered to the god daily

Ll 47 ff One mahōpahāra (a grand feeding) should be performed in the month Phālguna, and two others in the month of Dhanus, thus there should be three mahōpahāras in a year.

The articles required for each mahōpahāra are —5 *lhāris*¹ of rice, 1 drōnaka of green gram, 1 ādhaḷa of ghee, along with fruits and vegetables

The above are to be measured by māna and ādhaḷa as fixed by Manu

Ll 53 ff The water-shed kept in front of the temple should always be full of water, and every day sixty Vaiṣṇavas should be fed in the Rāmānuja-kūta

V 38 The document was engraved by Virana, son of Muddan-āchārya. He received one share in the village

No. 23.—TWO BANAWASI INSCRIPTIONS OF THE KADAMBA KIRTIVARMA DEVA

By LIONEL D BARNETT

Banavāsi, formerly a seat of splendid royalty, and now a decayed village, lies in the Sira taluka of North Kanara District, in lat $14^{\circ} 32\frac{1}{2}'$ and long $75^{\circ} 41'$. It still contains a temple of Madhukēśvara, the ancient tutelary deity of the Kādamba princes who once bore rule there, and in that building were found the two records which are here presented, from impressions which were prepared for the late Dr Fleet, and are now in the British Museum

A —OF THE REIGN OF SOMESVARA I SAKA 980

This fragment is contained on a slab found in the Madhukēśvara temple. It has been briefly described by Dr Fleet in Ind Ant, Vol IV, p 206, No 3, and translated in Mysore Inscr, p 320, No 170 (cf above, Vol VII, App, No 173). A transcript is given in the Elliot Collection (Royal Asiatic Society's copy, Vol I, fol 106 b). At the head of the stone are sculptures, viz., in the centre a linga, to the proper right, a cow and calf, over these, the sun, to the proper left of the linga, a lion, over the latter, the moon. The inscribed area below this is about 2 ft 1 in wide and 4 ft high, but a great part of it on the lower left side has been lost.—The character is Kanarese of the period, the script is somewhat angular and slanting, with letters between $\frac{3}{4}$ in. and $\frac{7}{8}$ in.—The language is Old Kanarese, with the usual concluding formulæ in Sanskrit.

The record opens by referring itself to the reign of Trailōkyamalla-dēva, i.e. Sōmēśvara I (ll 1-3), and then states that at the time the Banavāsi Twelve-thousand was under the government of the Kādamba Mahāmaṇḍalēśvara Kirtivarman-dēva, whose name is precluded by a long series of titles, among them being those of "lord of Banavāsi best of cities," "warrior for his elder brother," and "hon for Taila" (ll 3-16). This last title probably refers to Kirtivarman's exploits in the service of his father Taila, of whom we shall hear more in inscription B². Then comes the date (ll 16-17), followed by fragments of twelve more lines or which it is impossible to make out much consecutive sense, except that they record a grant to the talla dēgulaḍa dēvar or "god of the Stone Temple". They conclude with the usual formulæ for the maintenance of the foundation, and the mention of a grant to the stone-cutter Mallōja.

The date is given on ll 16-17 as Śaka 990,¹ Kilaka, Chaitra śuddha 13 This tithi corresponded to Wednesday, 19 March, A.D 1068, when it ended about 14 h 2 m after mean sunrise²

The only places mentioned are the city of Banavāsī (l 6) and the Banavāsī Twelve-thousand (ll 15-16)

Mount Himavat, which has the dignity of being the emperor of the whole group of central mountains, he whose two lotus-feet are rubbed by the diadems of hostile kings, lord of Banavāsī, best of cities; having the banner (with the device) of a great ape; having for crest a lion attended by the noise of permatti drums, sprung from the race which presides over eighty-four towns and is consecrated in eighteen world-famed horse-sacrifices to (the god of) the Frontal Eye [Śiva], jewel-mine of truthfulness, receiving the grace of boons from the goddess Ajjā, fragrant as the lotus, a Bhairava for opponent arrows, attended by peals of bells for victory in battle, lion of the Kādambas; warrior for his elder brother, unencumbered by foes, lion for Taila; exalted in valiant enterprise, adamant chamber to refuge-seekers, shatterer of foemen's arrogance, a Sarvajña (?)¹ among men of distinction, unique man of valour in the world, sun of the fray, Rudra with the attributes of a king, lion of the Highlands, thrice gambler of warriors,² was governing the Vanavāsī Twelve-thousand under the shadow of his single parasol —

B — OF THE REIGN OF VIKRAMADITYA VI.

This record was found on a stone in the south-eastern corner of the temple of Madhukēśvara. A transcript of the greater part, viz lines 1 to 37, is given in the Elliot Collection (Vol II, fol 302 b of the Royal Asiatic Society's copy), and the copyist there, after coming to the end of the paragraph on l 37, has added untruthfully that the rest of the inscription is wanting. The inscribed area of the slab is 2 ft. 4 in. wide, and comprises two compartments the upper one, containing lines 1-7, is 8½ in high, and the lower one, containing the rest of the record, so far as it is preserved, is 3 ft 8 in high. The inscription is unfortunately incomplete, breaking off about the middle — The character is a very good Kanarese of the period the letters in ll 1-7 are from ½ in to ⅞ in high, while those of ll 8 ff are from ⅞ in to ½ in high — The language is Old Kanarese, except for the introductory Sanskrit stanza. For the archaic l is substituted l (balikkav, l 8, balikkam, l 9, negal°, ll 11, 16, 23, 33, 47, ēlu, l 12, galap°, l 14, ēl°, l 14, ēlge, ll 22, 40, pogal, ll 23, 43, pēl, l 40, nelalg°, l 42), and r (ērpatt°, l 12), on the other hand, l is wrongly written for r in alaḷḍu (l 5) and kalaḷḍu (l 9). Initial p has been changed to h in hadavala (l 38), elsewhere it is preserved, e.g. in pada[va]la (l 46). As to words of lexical interest, we may note lomchu, l 41.

The record, after the usual prelude Namas=tuṅga°, and a verse invoking blessings upon Kirttiḡa, i.e. the Kādamba Kirtti-dēva of Hāṅgal (ll 1-4), traces in three stanzas the descent of the Chālukyas from the mind-born sons of Brahman (ll 4-7), and then devotes two verses (ll 8-11) to the glorification of the reigning Chālukya monarch, Permādi-dēva or Vikramāditya-dēva [VI]. It then turns, still in verse, to the history of his feudatories, the Kādambas of Hāṅgal,³ beginning with Chattuga or Chatta, who received the title kafakada gōva ("Guardian of the Highland" or "of the Camp") from king Jayasimha (the Chālukya Jayasimha II) for his success in repelling the Mālavas and penetrating to the river Gautama-Gange (i.e. the Godāvarī; cf above, Vol IV, p 358) (ll 11-16). Chatta's son was the valiant Jayasimha (ll 16-17), who had five sons, Māvuli, Taila or Tailapa, Śāntaya-dēva, Jōki-dēva, and Vikramāṅka (ll 17-21). Tailapa, who was extraordinarily brave, wise, and glorious, begot by Chāvundala-dēvi, Kirtti (the same as the Kirttivarma-dēva of the previous inscription), who is marvellously comely and famous (ll 21-28). Next comes a prose prastā, giving the usual Kādamba titles of this same Kirtti-dēvarasa, and stating that at the time he was ruling the Banavāsī Twelve-thousand (ll 28-37). It is followed by five verses (ll 37-47), which dwell on the warlike exploits of a certain Kirtti or Kirttiga, a haḍavala or "bearer of the betel-leaf" at the court of Kirtti-dēvarasa, who seems to have had a wife named Kālikabbe (l. 46). After these comes a series of titles of the Haḍavala in prose, in the midst of which the inscription breaks off.

The only geographical names mentioned are the Gautama-Gaṅge river, i.e., the Gōdavarī, l. 14, Benavāsī, l. 29, the Binavāse Twelve-thousand, l. 36, the Sētu, i.e. Adam's Bridge l. 12, and Himavat, ll. 13, 31.

I may add here that together with the ink-impression of this record there are impressions of two small inscriptions, apparently from the same site, and in similar script, which seem to have been taken from the bases of columns or something of the kind. One of these is as follows —

॥ Haḍavala Kirttiyannana Muttabbe ॐ

This shews that the Haḍavala's ordinary name was Kirttiyanna and that he had a wife (or daughter?) named Muttabbe. The second inscription is only a fragment consisting of the śaṅkha symbol followed by the words Saḥaṭi-jagan-nutuv=ene negalā Ku, which may perhaps refer to the Kādamba family.

TRANSLATION

(Verse 1) Homage to Śambhū, lovely with the yak-tail fan that is the moon kissing his lofty head, who is the foundation-column of the city of the triple world

(Verse 2) May Mrida, the god giving blessing of glory, whose pair of lotus-feet is adored by kings of the celestials, whose mass of high hair-coil is adorned with Ganges' lofty breaking waves and the temulous young moon, whose half-body is occupied by the Mountain's Daughter, grant fortune of fame and fortune of victory to thee, O Kīrttiṅga.

³ Pao Bahadur R. Narasimhachar, who has kindly favoured me with his views upon this verse, proposes to fill the gap at the end of l. 40 by reading idirechchī and that between ll. 42 and 43 by reading ōbalam=umfe. In my translation below I have accepted the former suggestion, but conjecture for the second passage ōbalat=avtu (or avtu), and translate accordingly

(Verse 3) The lotus of his face is radiant in bloom, so that one may say "What a surprising thing it is, when one considers ¹ a lotus-bed has blossomed forth in the midst of the flower of the golden lotus (issuing) from the radiant belly of Fortune's Lover ¹!"

(Verse 4) In the mind of that God arose first that God (himself), afterwards bringers of blessing, they who covered with radiant splendour the circle of space, seats of series of stainless virtues ²

(Verse 5) Many monarchs descended from these mind-born (Patriarchs), exalted in majesty, stainless jewel-lamps of the Chalukya race, ³ unequalled, have ruled this earth

(Verse 6) After these (there has been) a home of excellence, a mine of valour, a crest-jewel of monarchs, one delighting in bounty, a prince lustrous-white with heroism, Permādi-dēva, a dēva [god, or king] of the brave

(Verse 7) Inasmuch as, after he has threatened and plundered unbending monarchs, the solid gold (of their treasures), when piled together, becomes solidified into a Mountain of Gold, look you ⁴—inasmuch as thereupon Jambū-dvīpa has verily become a Golden Chersonese, alike to the suitor for riches and to the suitor who approves not riches⁴—king Vikramāditya, lauded by the learned, has created for himself and sent abroad a mass of glory

(Verse 8) While king Vikramāditya, thus renowned, was protecting the whole earth in the enjoyment of pleasant conversations, in the goodly Kadamba lineage which is praised by the folk of the earth—

(Verse 9) There was king Chaṭṭuga, an abode of greatness, a Mēru of kings, exalted in the Kādamba race, among the sovereigns of the world beginning with the monarch who was a khātāṅga-club to kings, who, being sprung from the goddess Earth and Īśvara, have borne sway for seventy-seven reigns over this earth here with its bounds at Sētu (on the south) and there with Himavat (on the north)

(Verse 10) Was the title "Guardian of the Highland" ⁵ an idle phrase, when the seven hosts⁶ were there? When he drove into flight the Mālava confronting him on the Highland and drank water in conspicuous wise from the Gautama-Gange, verily the title of "Guardian of the Highland" accrued to king Chatta in the camp of the sovereign Jayasimha ⁷

(Verse 11) To this Mēru of kings, in the same wise as is born on the ridge of Mēru a lion, there was born the monarch Jayasimha, stout of arm, shatterer of squadrons of foemen's elephants

(Verse 12) To the lord of earth Jayasimha, as though power, ability, knowledge, greatness, (and) glory were born to him, there were born five august (sons), Māvulī, an ornament of kings, the monarch Taila, Śāntaya-dēva, Jōki-dēva, who delighted in the spirit of battle, (and) Vikramāṅka—endowed with present majesty, embodiments of authority, sincere, administering the seven elements (of the state), ⁸ lofty in generosity

² The meaning is that Brahman first meditated upon himself to create the cosmos (Manu samhitā = I. 12), and then gave birth to his mind-born sons the Patriarchs (ib., I. 34 f.)

⁵ Kataka may mean both "highland" and "camp"

⁷ On the grammatical construction of this sentence cf. Kittel's Grammar, § 361, p. 420

⁸ The seven angas are the kingship, ministry, allies, territories, fortresses, treasures, and armies.

(Verse 13) Looking with admiration at the five princes, men reflect, saying: "were the Five Pāṇḍavas (really) ten, or have the five of them now come back and been born (again)?"

(Line 21) Among them—

(Verse 15) To the valiant king Taila, awful in majesty, gallant against foes, and to Chāvundala-dēvi was born king Kīrtti, who has unbroken glory for the victories of his arm.

(Verse 16) The Love-god, seeing the form of the Love-god of the Kadambas, has forthwith gone into hiding and lets not his form become visible. Yon moon surely, as it shines, has waned and wasted away at the sight of him who is a moon of kings. Must not the Thousand-eyed [Indra] be thousand-eyed¹ as he gazes (on him), saying "Verily a Dēvēndra of princes' and what a seat of virtues!"?

(Verse 17) The fame of the king who is the unique warrior of the world increases like the growth of all the lotuses that the waters produce, as all extol him to the utmost degree²

(Lines 28-37) Hail! When the Mahāmandalēśvara possessing the five great musical sounds, the lord of Banavāsī best of cities, who bears all titles of honour such as "he who receives the grace of boons from the god Madhukēśvara of Jayantī, fragrant as the lotus, scion of the (race born of the) Three-eyed [Śiva] and the Earth, Love-god of kings, ornament of the race of the great king Mayūravarman, which presides over eighty-four towns and is consecrated in the consecratory rites of eighteen world-famed horse-sacrifices to (the god of) the Frontal Eye [Śiva] and the Four-armed [Vishnu], which is regarded with the sidelong glances of the lady Victory, which is splendid in virtues revealed by the puissance of the might of its lineage being established on the massive summits of the great Mount Himavat, which is charming by the great majesty of furious elephants tethered to crystal columns,³ who is an ornament to the race (born of) the great king Mayūravarman, he who is attended with the noise of permaṭṭi drums and (other) musical instruments, splendid with the banner (bearing the device) of a great ape, having for crest a lion lofty in pride, giving unlimited gold to suitors, ornament of the Kadamba race, cause of victory in battle, sun of majesty, terrible in the fray, gallant against adversaries, unique warrior of the world," the Mahāmandalēśvara Kīrtti-dēvarasa, was protecting the Banavāsī Twelve-thousand so as to suppress the wicked and preserve the cultured—one who finds sustenance at his lotus-feet—

(Verse 18) A lord of Fortune, a lord of the fortune of victory, a lord of the fortune of fame lustrous (?) as the moon, devoted to the exercise of religion, is the illustrious Kīrtti, a diamond among bearers of the betel-bag

(Verse 19) Saying, "Where now is there not found one who has been burned up in flight?" as the fire of his wrath flaming wreaks ruin—saying, "whom now has he hurled into Yama's mouth, so that the black gore drips down, whom now has he cast away in his blows sneak ?"—everlastingly indeed quaking,¹ the circle of foemen's lands feels terror and dread at Kirttiga's greatness

(Verse 20) Put away the dream of confronting (him) in battle! Aha! when (the pursuer's) speed of foot harasses a herd of timid deer, when terror, penetrating and overwhelming them at the plucking of a thorn bush, drives them straightway to crowd trembling into the shadow, is (their) dismay equal to (that of) the armies of foemen who confront Kirttiga in battle ?

(Verse 21) Are one or two mouths, O Kirttiga, able to extol fitly the majesty of thine arm ? Even the ten million mouths of the abundantly shrieking, wailing, sighing, (and heavily) breathing women of hostile kings with ten million burdens, are not able (to do so) : hence who are competent to tell (thy) glory ?

(Lines 17-50) Illustrious as thus described, possessing all merits, gracious . . . , a moon raising the tide of the ocean of Kirtti-dēva's kingdom, [a sun to] the lotuses his kinsmen, a thunderbolt to . . . of Devendra like feudatories, an adamant rampart to seekers of protection a Virikōlara [Bhīma] to . . . like Kichaka, [a brother to] others' [wives]

² The text of this verse is imperfect, and hence the translation in part is very uncertain (see note on text above). I follow Rao Bahadur Narasimhachar's ingenious conjecture idirechi for the first lacuna, and for the last I conjecture baḥal-āyṭu or uṇṇu, translating accordingly. Chumchut seems to be for churchhut, and offudan for offudan.

³ [It is not unlikely that Kālikabbe here referred to was the mother of Kirtti, as is indicated by the word maganam in l. 45.—H. K. S.]
